'74 Prowler Baseball Statistics Announced

Final 1974 year end Lincoln high school baseball team statistics were announced Thursday by Prowler head coach Ralph Skay.

A rain hampered spring season found Thief River Falls playing only 11 regular season games. The Prowlers completed the regular season with a dismal 4-7 record, but strong post season tournament play lifted that mark to 8-8 before the year was done.

Thief River Falls' tournament success found the Prowlers beating Alvarado 12-0, Red Lake Falls 10-5 and Warren 15-5 enroute to the district 31 championship. Thief River Falls edged Bagley 7-6 in a first round region eight game before the Prowlers fell to powerful Bemidji 4-1 in the region title game.

During the regular season the Lincoln ball club beat Newfolden 18-4, Fergus Falls 4-0, Crookston 14-2 and Red Lake Falls 19-4. Prowler regular season losses were suffered at the hands of Warroad 7-6, Roseau 11-9, Bemidji 7-1 and 11-1, Fergus Falls 5-2, Crookston 10-9 and Red Lake Falls 7-6.

"I think we improved tremendously when we went into the tournaments," commented veteran Prowler head coach Ralph Skay who announced his retirement after 22 years at the Thief River Falls helm. "I was very happy with the way we played during the tournaments. I'm glad we were able to play as well as we did against Bemidji even though we lost. Bemidji has a very fine ball club."

The wet spring weather caused havoc with game and practice schedules pointed out Skay who said the weather was a major contributor to his team's mediocre regular season record. Skay also noted, though, that "Some potentials weren't met."

Sophomore Jeff Lindquist, switched from centerfield to shortstop during the course of the year, sparkeled in the field and at the plate as he led the team in hitting with a hefty .412 batting average and committed just two errors all season while playing the two key defensive positions.

Duane Gonsorowski, a sophomore outfielder who played as a part-time starter, batted .400 in 20 at-bats and played errorless defensive ball.

Senior pitcher-outfielder Randy Dallmann was another consistant Prowler offensive threat with an eye-catching .372 batting average. He also led the team by picking up 15 walks.

Chris Biegner supplied the Prowlers with a third hard hitting sophomore as the big first baseman batted .370 and drove in 17 runs despite playing on an injured leg during the latter part of the season.

Two other Prowler batters sporting .300 averages at the end of the year were juniors Jeff Tunberg and Murray Melander. Tunberg, an outfielder-pitcher, batted .343 and Melander, a reserve catcher, hit .333 in limited action.

Other Prowler individual offensive category leaders included senior second baseman Duane Dicken who led the team with 21 runs batted in; Lindquist who led the squad with three sacrifice hits; and senior infielder-outfielder Cliff Shumway, the team captain, who led the club with 10 stolen bases.

"I was very, very happy with the play of Biegner, Lindquist and Gonsorowski, especially when you consider that they were just sophomores," explained Skay. "They're going to be tremendous ball players. There are other good kids coming up too, so the program should be in good hands," pointed out the out-going coach.

The four man Prowler pitching staff was headed by senior Jeff Langlie who posted a 3-0 record, including two wins in the district 31 tournament. Joel Folger, another senior, was 3-2 with a clutch two-inning relief effort against Bagley in the region first round. Tunberg was 1-2 on the mound and Dallmann was 1-4, although his lone victory was a sparkling no-hit performance against Fergus Falls.

Record Bullhead Caught Recently In Itasca County

Largest brown bullhead on Minnesota record was taken in Itasca county on May 21, the department of natural resources reported recently.

Fritz Johnson, fisheries biologist, who identified and weighed the fish said the seven pound one ounce specimen was caught in Shallow lake by William Meyer of Holland, Iowa, who was vacationing in the area.

The bullhead is by far the largest ever recorded as taken in Minnesota and fisheries specialists expressed amazement at its length of 24.4 inches and its 7-1 weight.

The fish is about three times the size of the next largest brown bullhead in the record files and also larger than any yellow or black bullhead in the files.

Under the 1964 Wilderness act, the interior department's bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife was given until this year to make recommendations to Congress on which areas of the country qualify for federal protection as "wilderness".

Legion Ball Club Hosts Newfolden In '74 Opener

Thief River Falls American Legion baseball program is scheduled to begin its 1974 season tonight (Monday) when Thief River Falls hosts Newfolden on the fairgrounds baseball diamond beginning at 7 p.m.

Rocky Wilson, in his fourth year of coaching Thief River Falls Legion ball, will be directing a team nearly identical to the Lincoln high school squad that won the 1974 district 31 tournament and finished runner-up to powerful Bemidji in the recent region eight tournament.

The Legion club has had the benefit of just one practice session together, but the Legion opener comes just one week after the close of the Prowler schedule to give the players just enough rest between the 16 game high school spring season the 19 game Legion summer slate of games.

A busy first week will find the Legion playing three games in four days as the Wilson-coached team faces Newfolden tonight and plays the Thief River Falls Elks Tuesday in a pair of 7 p.m. home games before traveling to Newfolden Thursday.

Other Legion home games this summer include Thurs., June 20, Warren; Fri., June 21, Belcourt, N.D.; Thurs., June 27, Warroad; Tues., July 1, Crookston; and Fri., July 12, Moorhead. All Thief River Falls home games start at 7 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond.

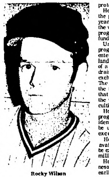
Thief River Falls road games include Thurs., June 13, at Newfolden; Tues., June 18, at Oslo; Sat., June 29, a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Bemidji; Sun., July 7, against Detroit Lakes in a Detroit Lakes tournament with Wahpeton playing East Grand Forks in the other game; Tues., July 9, at Roseau; Thurs., July 11, at Hallock; Mon., July 15, a 6:30 p.m. doubleheader at Red Lake Falls; Tues., July 16, at East Grand Forks; and Fri., July 19, at Moorhead.

Thief River Falls will defend its sub district championship trophy beginning in the tournament's first round games scheduled to be played Fri., July 26.

Wilson directed his 1973 team to its first sub district title since 1968 before losing to Breckenridge 2-0 in the state qualifying ninth district tournament championship game. Last year's team finished the season with an eye-catching 23-4 overall season record.

This summer Wilson inherits a Lincoln ball club that finished at .500 with an 8-8 record, but played its best ball of the season at tournament time to compensate for a sub-par rain hampered regular season.

"I think they can play good ball," said Wilson about his incoming team. "They showed they could play well during the high school tournaments. They just didn't have much of a chance to play during the spring with all the wet weather. We'll get a lot more games in this summer and I think we'll be alright."



Rocky Wilson

Wilson noted, however, that matching last year's record would be extremely difficult because of a tougher 1974 schedule. "Warroad, Roseau and East Grand Forks will probably be really tough for us this year," pointed out Wilson, "But I think we should be right in there with them."

DNR Leader Urges Protection Of Water Bank

Minnesota commissioner of natural resources Robert Herbst has written the state's congressmen urging them to use their influence to insure protection of water bank funds.

Herbst said he has learned that the president's budget for fiscal year 1975 proposes to discontinue the water bank act as a separate program and that water bank funds be used for other purposes.

Under the water bank program, the federal government enters into a contract with rural land owners whereby the owner of a wetland agrees not to fill or drain it for a period of 10 years in exchange for an annual payment. The payment is to compensate the farmer for the crop income that could have been realized if the wetland had been placed in cultivation.

Herbst said the water bank program should "maintain its identity" and its funds should not be used for any other purpose except preserving wetlands.

He added that the funds available for the program should be expanded from the present 110 million to 150 million annually.

Herbst had written to Minnesota's congressional delegation earlier asking that the Reuss amendment, prohibiting the use of U.S. department of agriculture funds for wetlands drainage, be kept a part of Agriculture's appropriation bill.

The department of agriculture had asked that the restriction be dropped from the next appropriation bill.

Smelt Found In Lake Near Ely

Smelt have been found in Burntside lake near Ely, the department of natural resources reports.

Fisheries biologists expressed concern over the discovery since it is known that smelt prey on newly hatched lake trout. In addition, Burntside lake is one of the headwaters of the large Kawishiwi river watershed.

Prowler Pair Lose To Mayo In State Tennis Tournament

Thief River Falls teammates Tim Engelstad and Keith Breiland won a first round match, but lost in the quarterfinals of the doubles competition during the 1974 individual state tennis tournament held Friday at the University of Minnesota courts in Minneapolis.

Engelstad and Breiland whipped Dave Malskog and Joe Haukebo of Moorhead 6-2, 6-4 in their opening round match Friday morning, but fell to Rochester Mayo's Jamie Bastron and Fred Siekert 6-4 6-3 in a second round match.

"They (Engelstad and Breiland) just didn't play very well, even against Moorhead," pointed out Prowler tennis coach Whitey Olson. "I don't know if it was nervousness or what, but they're capable of playing a lot better tennis. We were as good as the rest of the doubles teams down there outside of Minnetonka and Eisenhower, and of course they're two really great teams."

Region eight's singles representative, Brent Reichert of Crookston, lost a first round state tournament match to Mark Hempel of Edina East. Reichert came back to win his first match at state in three years with a 6-1, 6-2 consolation round decision over Brian Edelstein of Hibbing, but then lost a second consolation match to Gary Carlson of Madison 7-5, 6-4.

Bemidji, region eight's representative in Thursday's team competition, lost a first round state match to White Bear Lake 4-1. The Lumberjacks beat Mounds View 4-1 in a first round consolation match, but lost to Madison 3-2 in the consolation championship.

Pre-tournament favorite Minnetonka won the state team title and added the doubles crown by Mark Wheaton and Roger Jenkins. Mark Brandenburg of Rochester Mayo won a second straight state singles title.

"It's really something just to get into the state tournament, so we have to be pleased," noted Olson. "For Keith, especially, the experience will be a tremendous asset since he's only a junior."

Minnesota-Maine Eagle Egg-Plant Is Successful

Two bald eaglets have hatched in the Maine nests they were transplanted to as eggs in early May after they were taken from their parents' nests in Minnesota, director Lynn A. Greenwalt of Interior's fish and wildlife service announced.

It was the first such transplant experiment with the bald eagle. The original plan called for six eggs to be transplanted from Minnesota, where the eagle population is healthy, to six nests in Maine, where pollution has affected eagle nest hatching in recent years. Only three eggs were taken from Minnesota because of the onset of bad tree climbing weather. The three were delivered to Maine and planted in nests the next day. One egg broke as it was being placed in the nest.

The two eaglets hatched out on May 16. The foster parents appear convinced the birds are their own offspring and are caring for them normally with daily feeding and close guard of the nest area against possible enemies.

At the time of the transplant the two nests in Maine each contained one addled egg. These were removed and taken to the fish and wildlife service's Patuxent wildlife research center for pesticide analysis.

Neither one would have hatched in the wild. Analysis showed the shell of one was 31 per cent thinner than healthy eagle eggs—a phenomenon that occurs from eagles eating prey containing hard pesticides picked up from their diet. The accumulation of pesticide residues increases with each succeeding level in the food chain, and in the case of eagles, the residues have seriously altered the birds' reproductive capability in Maine and other areas. Additionally, the contents of both eggs were examined and showed no embryonic development, probably because of dieldrin residues.

The eaglets will be banded by fish and wildlife service biologists in the hope that their future movements and health can be monitored. This will take place in mid to late June.

"We are genuinely pleased with the results," Greenwalt said. "The concept of bald eagle transplants is now a valid, tested one, and future plans can be drawn up for similar transplants. Biologists were fearful that the disturbance of the egg-switch might prompt the foster parents to desert the nests, but this fear fortunately was not borne out by the experiment. The switch took less than 30 minutes from the time the foster parents left the nests until the eggs were switched and the parents returned. Both sets of parents kept a watchful vigil on the switching team and returned as soon as the area was cleared."

The parent eagles in Minnesota were left with plaster-filled goose eggs to maintain their interest in the nests. If they continue to incubate these dummy eggs, they will be provided a young bird from a Minnesota nest that hatches more than one eaglet, for many times there is a four to six day interval between hatchings.

Pirates Win Title

Dorn Places Second In Discus At State Meet

Thief River Falls senior Tony Dorn placed second in the class A discus competition during the 1974 Minnesota state track meet held Friday and Saturday at St. Cloud.

Dorn tossed the discus 147-11 to place second in the event won by Jackson star Rick Alts with a 167-2 throw; Len Devos of Crookston was third in the Friday night discus competition with a 146-5 heave.

Dorn was the only Prowler to score in the state meet as five other Thief River Falls entries failed to place in the strong field.

Region eight representative Crookston won the medium size school class A team championship by a whopping 20 point margin over second place Elk River, 40-20. Edina East won the large school class AA crown by a slim 27-26 margin over Rochester John Marshall and Gaylord edged second place Biwabik 16-12 to win the small school class B team trophy.

Two Prowler state meet entries turned in fastest times of the 1974 season but still failed to place. Senior distance runner Brian Phelps bettered his own Lincoln high school two mile record with a 10:13 to place 10th out of 16 runners in Friday night's finals. Dan Gueningsman of Lester Prairie won the class A two mile in a record 9:39.8. The Prowler mile medley relay team of Jerry Sandahl, Tom Barry, Jeff Houfek and Jeff Johnson turned in its best time of the season at 3:47, but didn't place in Friday's finals. Hills-Beaver Creek won the medley relay in a class A record 3:36.5.

Tony Dorn

Other Prowler state meet entries included Sandahl in both the 120 yard high and 180 yard low hurdles and Joe Sorvig in the lows. Sandahl, the region eight champion in both events, struggled through two state meet preliminary races, clocking a 21.5 in the lows and 15.6 in the highs, hitting a couple of hurdles. Sorvig ran a 27.7 in strong effort for himself in the lows. Jeff Hawkins of Elk River won both hurdle races, running a 14.6 in the highs and 19.8 in the lows.

"I was pleased with everybody's efforts at the state meet," said Prowler track coach Marv Walter. "Sandahl was a little disappointed, but all of the rest did good jobs."

Crookston won five events to give the Pirates their first ever state championship in any MSHSL sponsored state tournament. The region eight champions were paced by starry Don Moore won the 100 in 10.0 and the 220 in 22.6 while also running on the winning Pirate 880 relay team along with Jeff Radi, Jeff Potter and Jon Burkhardt in 1:31.5. Other Crookston wins came in the 880 by Nathan Hanson in 1:56.7 and in the mile relay by Robert Ranum, Mike Ranum, Hanson and Brukhardt in 3:26.9.

Wildlife Service Uncovers Illegal Feather Sales

A ring of more than two dozen traffickers in illegal eagle and other migratory bird parts and feathers has been uncovered in Oklahoma by U.S. fish and wildlife service special agents, announced secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton.

It is illegal to buy, sell, barter or trade in migratory birds and their parts, including eagles.

Secretary Morton said, "The activities of this group resulted in the killing of literally thousands of migratory birds to manufacture Indian artifacts. Many of these are passed off as authentic—and of course, fradulent—antique art objects, usually with splendid historical anecdotes attached to each to increase its price."

Oklahoma state game rangers and the U.S. attorney's office in Oklahoma City cooperated and assisted in the six-month investigation which culminated in the issuance of search warrants and summons.

The assistant U.S. attorney for the western district of Oklahoma, O. B. Johnston III, said, "We are pleased to assist the department of the Interior in attempting to control and discourage the senseless killing of migratory birds for monetary profit. It is hoped that through vigorous investigation and prosecution we can discourage others who might be inclined to kill migratory birds and sell the feathers.

Almost two dozen different bird species, including bald and golden eagles and seven kinds of hawks, were involved in a cottage industry operation manufacturing American Indian artifacts—an enterprise that has boomed in recent years. This lucrative market sees eagle carcasses selling on the black market for as high as $125 each. Wing and tail feathers are used for war bonnets and ceremonial dress. As many as 10 eagles must be killed to make one war bonnet. One fan made solely from tail feathers of the scissor-tailed flycatcher, which sold for $650, required the killing of 38 birds.

Secretary Morton said, "There are three major points I would like to emphasize concerning commerce in migratory bird and eagle products.

First, regardless of who killed the bird or how long ago it was killed, it is illegal for these items to enter commerce in any form.

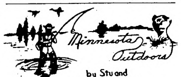
Secondly, the reason for prohibiting the sale, trade, or purchase of genuine antiques stems from the fact that any traffic in such items invariably puts pressure on living species in order to prolong and increase the commerce.

Lastly, the prohibition of killing migratory birds, particularly eagles, in no way interferes with American Indian religious ceremonial use of these animal parts. The Interior department maintains a repository where the remains of all eagles that are killed by accident or die naturally are stored for free distribution by permit to Indians who are practitioners of bona fide tribal religious ceremonies and scientific institutions."

Fish & Wildlife Service Plans Public Meeting

First of two annual public meetings to set migratory game bird hunting regulations for the 1974-75 season will be held in Washington, D.C. June 25, Lynn A. Greenwalt, director of the U.S. fish and wildlife service announced.

The first conference will discuss proposed migratory shore bird and upland game bird hunting regulations. A second conference to discuss waterfowl hunting regulations will be held during August.



by Stu and Dee Mann

Three Minnesota conservation officers will be recognized by commissioner Robert Herbst with "Meritorious Service Awards" after saving the lives of persons involved in water and auto accidents last month.

One conservation officer, Russ Nelson of Pierz, featured in both successful rescue attempts.

According to the DNR, the first incident began the evening of April 17 when a Minnesota highway patrol officer radioed for assistance after finding a very worried man on the shore of Mille Lacs lake. The man told the officer that three of his friends on a snowmobile had gone out on the lake to fish and had not returned.

Responding to the radio call were conservation officers Nelson, Ray Sanbeck of Garrison and Donald McShane of Onamia.

Finding the ice in a rotten slushy condition, the three CO's located a boat and began dragging it out on the lake in the direction indicated by the anglers' frantic companion.

All of the officers broke through the ice several times but eventually reached a point 50 feet from the fishermen. The anglers were standing on their submerged snowmobile to keep their heads above water.

A rope was attached to the boat and thrown to the anglers who pulled the boat to them and managed to climb in. The officers then retrieved the boat and the anglers. All finally returned safely to shore but only after breaking through the ice several more times in the process.

The anglers were suffering badly from exposure and required hospitalization.

Only four nights later—on April 21—officer Nelson was patrolling his area near Pierz on the lookout for illegal fish spearing activity when he discovered a car submerged on its back in the Platte river.

Nelson dove into the stream and found a man trapped inside of the car. He managed to remove the man, who was still alive, and also found the man's wife who had been thrown clear in the accident and was in a state of shock.

In recommending the three officers for the awards, Jerome Liemandt, chief conservation officer for the DNR, said the prompt and courageous action of the three officers undoubtedly saved the lives of the victims involved in the two accidents.

"Although conservation officers are frequently called upon to locate lost persons and those involved in outdoor accidents," said Liemandt, "few incidents illustrate as well as these the hazards often encountered and the willingness of officers to undertake the necessary risks."

Forty-one endangered Aleutian Canada geese were released into the wild on Agattu Island in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska recently, U.S. fish and wildlife service director Lynn A. Greenwalt has announced.

"We hope to afford this rare species a new lease on life," Greenwalt said. "Man's activities in years past were the primary reason for its near-extinction. Today we hope to reverse that situation and have man play the major role in restoring this beautiful, mysterious goose to its traditional haunts. This bird's migratory patterns have taken it as far away as Japan and down the west coast of the United States."

The 41 geese released reached breeding age of two and three years at the Patuxent wildlife research center in Laurel, Maryland. Nucleus of the captive breeding flock was established in 1963 when 18 goslings were picked up from the Aleutina Islands after it became evident the species was threatened with extinction. Today the captive breeding flock numbers 18 breeding pairs.

Between 1966 and 1973, over 200 Aleutian Canada geese have been raised at Patuxent. The recent release of 41 is to be followed next year by another release of about 60. Seventy-five Aleutian Canada geese were released in March 1971 on Amchitka Island, but were only seen there for six weeks. It is not known what fate befell them.

The flock released recently, since it was raised in captivity, may not have the wild migratory instinct common to wild Aleutian Canada geese. To offset this disadvantage, a family group of wild Aleutian Canada geese from Buldir Island in the Aleutians will be placed on Agattu with the new arrivals in hope that they will assume flock leadership.

Sheriff Richards Serves On N.W. Council Board

Pennington county sheriff Charles Richards is presently serving on the board of directors of the Northwest council on alcohol and drug problems.

Previously the Northwest council had been instrumental in the development of a treatment program to serve the seven northwestern counties. This program is presently operated by the Glenmore foundation.

Northwest council is now redirecting its efforts to assist in reactivating county alcohol and drug committees in each of the counties as a means of strengthening and broadening the scope and the work of the council.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

News must indeed be in short supply for you to run a front page story such as "Going to Movie in Africa Requires Extra Effort".

It is "moment of truth" stories such as the two written by a well-meaning missionary that continue to shroud other nations, particularly African nations, in mystery. For some reason missionaries seem to have a need to tell the world how tough it is for them to bring the "word of God" to far away places. They continually paint a picture of great white Americans sacrificing to do something for those poor savages whose only reason for existing is to be thankful for missionaries.

The truth of the matter is that life for a missionary in Africa is not that difficult and in many ways is more comfortable than life is here.

The point of all this is that most people who go to another country receive far more than they give and it is time they stop writing home about all of the melodramatic "hardships".

Sincerely,
Jim Kremer

Language Camps Run By Concordia Attract 1,400

Registration for Concordia's language camps has already surpassed last year's total attendance, according to Alvin Traaseth, coordinator of the Concordia language villages.

Last year, 1,240 junior high and high school students attended one of the language camps and over 1,400 have already applied for his summer's program.

Established for the purpose of creating "cultural islands" where the campers can immerse themselves in the culture of a foreign country, the language village facilities have expanded from one German village serving 75 campers in 1961 to seven village sites involving over 1,200 campers in French, German, Norwegian, Spanish and Russian.

Through the use of passports, foreign money, games, national festivities, foreign food and the use of a foreign language, campers involve themselves in the culture of their "adopted" land.

The language village concept has been broadened this year to include a number of programs in foreign counties. The summer, the program includes bicycling in Bretagne, France and on the medieval route to Santiago de Compostela in Northern Spain, and back-packing in the Austrian Alps.

Registration is still open for the 1974 summer program.

Highway Project In Polk County To Begin July 8

In Polk county, for highway 2, Moen Brothers, Inc. of Moorhead made the apparent low bid of $528,548 on grading of eight miles between Fisher and Crookston. Work is to begin July 8 and to be completed within 65 working days.

Nyquist Gains Support In Bid For State Office

Candidacy of Dean Nyquist for the Republican nomination for Attorney General gaining support across the state at recent district Republican conventions, Nyquist's volunteer committee reports.

Convention results show a support resolution on behalf of Nyquist was passed by the Third District (suburban Minneapolis) convention. Nyquist also received resolutions urging his candidacy at several other district conventions.

"We have been heartened by the response to my candidacy for attorney general at the district conventions," Nyquist stated.

"I am an active, serious candidate for this endorsement," Nyquist continued, "and will be speaking out in the weeks ahead on the critical issues facing the people of Minnesota."

Nyquist, 39, served as a state senator in Minnesota from 1967-1973. A member of the senate committees on highways, welfare, the judiciary and general legislation, he served as chairman of the Senate subcommittee on corrections and criminal and juvenile law, two areas of critical concern to the office of the attorney general.

Nyquist has announced plans of beginning a series of meetings across the state with local residents to determine major areas of concern as it relates to the duties of the attorney general.

mother, Mrs. Clarence Meyer, to visit relatives enroute to Austin. Her local chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Carlson, will drive to Austin Thursday to watch pageant operations and attend the final event Saturday evening.

During her past year as Miss Thief River Falls, Laurie has participated as a guest at the Miss Bemidji pageant and been invited to return for the water carnival parade; made parade appearances at Erskine, Plummer and Grygla; and participated in the Mrs. Jaycees Charity Ball, Cat Country Round-Up and Jaycee awards night program.

She has visited residents at Valley home and convalescent and nursing care unit of Northwestern hospital. One of her first offical acts was participation in the dedication of Bill LaFave park at the Aquacade last year. She met the reigning Miss Minnesota at a "Girl Talk" session for Miss Minnesota candidates in St. Paul several weeks ago.

After three months on the West Coast following her coronation last summer, she enrolled at Northland community college in Thief River Falls for the winter quarter. At Northland she was in the "Carnival" play cast, participated in the college chorus, played softball on the Northland girls softball team which placed third in the state and was an assistant to School District 564 physical education instructors Diane Lillevold and Sue Feeney through the work study program.

Laurie plans to return to Northland in the fall and harbors future hopes to become a recreation director.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

News must indeed be in short supply for you to run a front page story such as "Going to Movie in Africa Requires Extra Effort".

It is "moment of truth" stories such as the two written by a well-meaning missionary that continue to shroud other nations, particularly African nations, in mystery. For some reason missionaries seem to have a need to tell the world how tough it is for them to bring the "word of God" to far away places. They continually paint a picture of great white Americans sacrificing to do something for those poor savages whose only reason for existing is to be thankful for missionaries.

The truth of the matter is that life for a missionary in Africa is not that difficult and in many ways is more comfortable than life is here.

The point of all this is that most people who go to another country receive far more than they give and it is time they stop writing home about all of the melodramatic "hardships".

Sincerely,
Jim Kremer

Language Camps Run By Concordia Attract 1,400

Registration for Concordia's language camps has already surpassed last year's total attendance, according to Alvin Traaseth, coordinator of the Concordia language villages.

Last year, 1,240 junior high and high school students attended one of the language camps and over 1,400 have already applied for his summer's program.

Established for the purpose of creating "cultural islands" where the campers can immerse themselves in the culture of a foreign country, the language village facilities have expanded from one German village serving 75 campers in 1961 to seven village sites involving over 1,200 campers in French, German, Norwegian, Spanish and Russian.

Through the use of passports, foreign money, games, national festivities, foreign food and the use of a foreign language, campers involve themselves in the culture of their "adopted" land.

The language village concept has been broadened this year to include a number of programs in foreign counties. The summer, the program includes bicycling in Bretagne, France and on the medieval route to Santiago de Compostela in Northern Spain, and back-packing in the Austrian Alps.

Registration is still open for the 1974 summer program.

Highway Project In Polk County To Begin July 8

Bids on 25 trunk highway improvements in some 20 counties, totaling $6.5 million, were received by state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard in St. Paul May 24.

Included among the improvements slated are bridge construction and repair, bituminous resurfacing and the installation of traffic barrier, traffic noise attenuator walls, and traffic signs at railroad crossings.

In Polk county, for highway 2, Moen Brothers, Inc. of Moorhead made the apparent low bid of $526,549 on grading of eight miles between Fisher and Crookston. Work is to begin July 8 and to be completed within 65 working days.

Scout District To Hold Monthly Roundtable

District boy scout leaders will meet Wednesday evening at 7:45 p.m. in St. Bernard's Catholic church of Thief River Falls. Cub scout leaders participating in the program include Oscar Elshaug, Mrs. Rick Contos and Mrs. Kermit Malberg.

Subjects to be discussed include a proposed "dad and lad" overnight camping trip, summer pack activity, fall cub scout registration, and a canoeing workshop. Information will be available about Camp Waubaunaquat. Boys who are unable to attend camp with their own tropps will have an opportunity to go July 14 through 20 with a provisional troop to be organized by Morris Owen.

Nyquist Gains Support In Bid For State Office

Candidacy of Dean Nyquist for the Republican nomination for Attorney General gaining support across the state at recent district Republican conventions, Nyquist's volunteer committee reports.

Convention results show a support resolution on behalf of Nyquist was passed by the Third District (suburban Minneapolis) convention. Nyquist also received resolutions urging his candidacy at several other district conventions.

"We have been heartened by the response to my candidacy for attorney general at the district conventions," Nyquist stated.

"I am an active, serious candidate for this endorsement," Nyquist continued, "and will be speaking out in the weeks ahead on the critical issues facing the people of Minnesota."

Nyquist, 39, served as a state senator in Minnesota from 1967-1973. A member of the senate committees on highways, welfare, the judiciary and general legislation, he served as chairman of the Senate subcommittee on corrections and criminal and juvenile law, two areas of critical concern to the office of the attorney general.

Nyquist has announced plans of beginning a series of meetings across the state with local residents to determine major areas of concern as it relates to the duties of the attorney general.

Serve a Deviled Dip While They Wait

On a picnic, boat or porch, while they wait, let them not want! In other words, let the folks nibble on a dip while they wait for you to put the finishing touches on a meal.

A can of deviled ham mixed with dairy sour cream and some zippy seasonings takes moments to blend. It can be served as a dip for chips, crackers or an assortment of crisp vegetables to stave off hunger pangs.

DEVILED HAM DIP

1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 can (4 1/2 oz.) deviled ham
1 tablespoon minced green onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon sugar
Dash of pepper

Combine sour cream, ham, onion, mustard, celery salt, sugar and pepper. Chill. Serve with assorted crackers, potato chips or raw vegetables (radishes, carrot sticks, celery, cauliflower, green onions). May also be used as a sandwich spread. Yield: approximately 1 cup.

For those who want a lighter, fruit-type dip, here's cottage cheese with fruit and curry flavor.

FRUIT CURRY DIP

2 cups cottage cheese
1 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1 can (8 3/4 oz.) crushed pineapple, well drained
2/3 cup chopped unpeeled red apple

Beat together cottage cheese, curry powder and garlic salt at highest speed of mixer until fairly smooth. Stir in pineapple and apple. Cover and chill. If desired, garnish with apple slices. Serve with corn chips, shredded wheat wafers, apple slices or celery sticks. Yield: approximately 3 cups.

BLUE CHEESE WHIP

1 cup (4 oz.) crumbled Blue cheese
2 cups dairy sour cream

Beat Blue cheese with 1/4 cup sour cream; fold in remaining sour cream. Cover and chill. Serve as a spread for crackers, as a "dunk" for breadsticks, potato chips, carrot sticks, cucumber slices, tomato wedges, radishes or as a filling for celery stalks. Yield: approximately 2 cups.

Picnic Tips

1. Keep a picnic basket ready for spur-of-the-moment picnics. This should include a plastic or paper table cloth and napkins, plates, cups, cutlery, salt, pepper, sugar, mustard and catsup. Then you'll only have to pack the food and be off when the mood strikes you.
2. Fill half gallon milk cartons with water and freeze. These can be taken along on the picnic to melt for drinking as well as to keep meats and salads cold since they provide a "block of ice."
3. Keep charcoal, starter fuel and matches in a bag with work gloves. Whoever starts the fire can keep his hands clean, as well as having everything handy in one place.
4. Fill a wide-mouth thermos with frankfurters, then with hot water. These will be heated by the time you reach the picnic spot.
5. Bake cookies in advance and pack them into coffee cans. Cover with their plastic tops. If you don't anticipate a picnic shortly, the cookies can be kept in the freezer, ready for a quick dessert.
6. Nothing adds more comfort to outdoor dining than a few portable tables. Wood or metal sets are available in every price range. They can be used indoors as easily as out.
7. Don't let bugs spoil a lovely picnic. Spray the picnic area (grass, flowers and bushes) just before the picnic. Do not spray tables or grills.
8. Keep crisp vegetables on hand for the nibblers or hungry ones who just can't wait for the food to cook. That means washed cherry tomatoes, celery and carrot sticks, green pepper cubes, lettuce chunks, cucumber slices placed around a bowl of cottage cheese and sour cream dip. Season to taste with salt, celery salt, pepper, lemon juice, and grated peel and dust with dill weed or parsley. Let the dressing and vegetables sit on one of those milk carton "blocks of ice," to keep cool and refreshing.
9. Don't trust your glass tumblers on picnics. It's safer, easier and lighter to carry plastic tumblers in the large, "tall" sizes for beverages.
10. Desserts are always ready if you make an assortment of sundaes in paper cups with covers and place them in the freezer. Take them out one-half hour before serving to soften or just before you leave for the picnic grounds.

MILK Tips

• Protein is an "in" word today. It's important to everyone because every cell has protein and it must be eaten daily as it can't be stored by the body. One tasty way to get your daily protein is to drink milk. Two-thirds of a glass of milk provides the same amount of protein as an ounce of meat, poultry or fish. Or, if you prefer, you can add milk, the natural food that has no trimming, peeling or waste, to cereals, canned soups or main dishes.

• Milk drinkers have fewer ulcers than non-milk drinkers, 42 percent less, according to the California Health Department. Coffee drinkers are 78 percent more likely to get ulcers, and smokers are 33 percent more likely to get ulcers than non-smokers. So, if you must drink, make it milk. And if you must smoke, cut down your odds by drinking milk.

EDA Will Help States Combine Study On Energy

Secretary of commerce Frederick B. Dent recently announced approval of a $97,337 grant to help states conduct a program to coordinate research on the economic impact of energy problems.

The National Governors' conference, 1150 17th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., applied for the grant from the Commerce department's economic development administration.

The conference will use the grant to help employ a staff to work with state and federal agenices conducting individual studies of the energy situation and its relationship to growth and employment.

Conference officials said the aim of the program will be to avoid duplication of research and to assure wide distribution of the findings of energy-related economic studies.

The program will include conferences of various state officials to develop information which will enable decision-makers to reduce adverse effects of energy shortages.

The national governors' conference will provide $32,446 to complete the $129,783 total cost of the program for a year.

Make Ahead Main Dish Salad Makes Picnicking Easy

Do you like a spur-of-the-moment picnic? Or is yours the kind of a family that says, "Come on, let's take the food out to the porch and eat there."

Whichever way it happens, if you have a main dish salad already chilling in the refrigerator, it's easy to carry it to a picnic spot or porch. Camper's Choice, the chicken noodle salad, is cousin to the soup of the same name with just as much flavor if the noodles are cooked in chicken broth. Add to this crunchiness in the form of sliced radishes and crisp celery pieces and you have garden freshness to enhance the original flavor.

Surprise ingredient in this salad is thick, creamy, tangy sour cream which adds less calories than mayonnaise. One tablespoon of sour cream has 25 calories as compared with 65 for commercial mayonnaise; the cream will also contribute valuable nutrients such as protein, calcium and vitamin A.

Camper's Choice, an intriguing combination of chicken and noodles in a salad goes to the picnic in a bowl. To accompany that, Chili Cheese Squares come right from the pan in which they were baked. Serve with ice-cold milk from a thermos.

CAMPERS' CHOICE

6 cups water
1 tablespoon chicken seasoned stock base
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups medium noodles
3 cups chopped cooked chicken or turkey
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1/2 cup sliced radishes
1/4 cup sliced green onion
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning

Bring water, stock base and salt to a boil in a saucepan. Add noodles and cook according to package directions; rinse with cold water and drain. Combine chicken, celery, radishes, onion and noodles in a large bowl. Mix sour cream, seasoned salt and poultry seasoning; fold into chicken mixture. Chill. Yield: 8 cups.

Instead of the usual rolls or bread-and-butter sandwiches, treat the folks to Chili Cheese Squares with the salad. This hot, quick bread is made with refrigerated crescent rolls put together with a zippy filling of Cheddar cheese, onion and chili powder. They're sprinkled with poppy seed and take but 15 to 20 minutes baking. Serve with chilled glasses of milk for an additional vitality boost.

MILK Tips

• Protein is an "in" word today. It's important to everyone because every cell has protein and it must be eaten daily as it can't be stored by the body. One tasty way to get your daily protein is to drink milk. Two-thirds of a glass of milk provides the same amount of protein as an ounce of meat, poultry or fish. Or, if you prefer, you can add milk, the natural food, that has no trimming, peeling or waste, to cereals, canned soups or main dishes.

Ripening to Blend Flavors and Harden

A. Push ice cream down from top sides of can. Blend soft with firm portions. Cover with foil. Replace cover. Put cork in hole.

B. Pack freezer bucket with ice and salt, using a ratio of more salt to ice than for "freezing." Wrap in a heavy towel, or newspapers. Let stand in cool place for 2-3 hours. Drain brine and check ice and salt frequently. Add more if necessary.

C. Homemade ice cream is best when eaten right after hardening. If you wish to store it, transfer to plastic freezer container after it has hardened for three hours. Cover top of ice cream with plastic wrap and then seal container.

D. Ice cream or sherbet can be hardened in the family freezer. Pack in plastic containers. Be sure to leave room for expansion! Or leave the ice cream in the mixing can, cover, and store in freezer.

The recipe and tips on ripening and hardening ice cream are from the cook booklet, "All About Homemade Ice Cream." If you would like a copy, please send 25c in coin to "Ice Cream Booklet," c/o American Dairy Association, 6300 North River Road, Rosemont, Illinois 60018.

Oven Crisp Chicken, Molded Salad Provide Old-Fashioned Picnic Fare

Golden Summer days call for fun and feasting out-of-doors. Why not go to an old-time picnic favorite and give the folks a real treat? That would be chicken. It's dipped in a combination of egg and buttermilk, then in cracker meal seasoned with Parmesan cheese and ground nuts for intriguing flavor.

Rather then standing over a hot range to fry this chicken, you'll find it's easier to brush melted butter on the chicken pieces in a shallow pan and bake it. That will give it the appearance and taste of fried chicken. When coated and allowed to refrigerate for at least an hour, the coating clings more readily to the chicken.

It's easy, too, to make an old-fashioned molded salad of favorites like grated carrot and pineapple, accented with golden bits of shredded Cheddar cheese. Make this in advance and save those last minute flurries of preparation.

Serve old-fashioned picnic fare at your next outing. Oven Crisp Chicken has a mysterious, magic flavor while the salad boasts of a flavor surprise with the addition of shredded Cheddar cheese.

OVEN CRISP CHICKEN

3/4 cup cracker meal
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup ground pecans or walnuts
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
1 broiler-fryer chicken (2 1/2 to 3 lbs.) cut up OR 6 cut up chicken parts
Melted butter

Combine cracker meal, cheese, pecans and salt. Beat together eggs and buttermilk. Roll chicken in cracker meal mixture until it picks up a fine, even coat. Dip into egg mixture; then roll again in cracker meal to coat thoroughly. Place in single layer in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan; brush lightly with melted butter. Bake, brushing occasionally with melted butter, in preheated 400 degree oven, 1 hour or until chicken is tender and well browned. If coated chicken is stored in refrigerator before baking, allow 1-1/4 hours for baking.

GOLDEN CHEESE SALAD

2 packages (3 oz. each) lemon flavor gelatin
2 1/2 cups boiling water
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 can (13 1/4 oz.) pineapple tidbits, undrained
1 1/2 cups grated carrots
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

In a bowl pour boiling water over gelatin; stir until dissolved. Stir in sour cream, beat until smooth. Add pineapple. Chill until partially set. Fold in carrots and cheese; turn into 9-inch square pan. Chill until firm. Makes 16 servings.

MILK PROMOTION PAYS OFF

Programs Essential for Milk Marketing

In an inflationary period, people watch their pennies more closely. They change their spending habits, cut out luxury items and cut back on personal and business expenses. Too often the food budget is reduced because it's handy and within reach.

Dairy farmers must be good business men in order to survive in today's competitive society. They know it is essential to maintain a market for their dairy products. As the champion boosters for cows, dairymen must continually remind consumers of the nutritional benefits of milk and dairy products.

To reach consumers, dairymen invest in the national promotional programs of United Dairy Industry Association. Promotion may be defined as creating, strengthening and maintaining a favorable image for and favorable attitude toward dairy products in the consumers' minds.

UDIA's "total promotional concept" includes the activities of its family of organizations: American Dairy Association (ADA), National Dairy Council (NDC) and Dairy Research Inc. (DRINC). ADA is the advertising and sales promotion arm of UDIA and also conducts dairy case training programs. NDC directs nutrition education programs to professionals and schools and performs nutrition research projects. DRINC is the product and market development function of UDIA.

In addition, UDIA maintains consumer-oriented public relations programs and conducts market research to provide a foundation for promotion. Local promotion and education are the responsibility of UDIA member organizations and affiliated Dairy Council units.

Why Promote Dairy Products?

It's especially important to promote milk and dairy products now. In this era of high prices, declining milk production, consumer resistance and the market pressure from imported dairy products, dairymen must maintain market momentum for milk and dairy foods. Even though the sharpest drop in per capita food consumption in 15 years occurred in 1973, consumption of dairy foods was up slightly. This built upon the one-percent per capita increase for milk and dairy products in 1972.

There are many other sound business reasons why more money for milk promotion should be invested in national non-brand campaigns:

- To increase total dairy sales and per capita consumption of dairy products.
- The nutritional and economic benefits of dairy products should be emphasized when food prices have gone up.
- The competition for the consumers' dollar by other beverages and substitute products.
- To keep the consumer informed on the facts of milk production.
- To feature the nutritional and price benefits of dairy products in comparison with other foods.
- To keep the dairy import situation in proper perspective.
- Promotion can't be turned off like a water spigot.

Even though individual cow production is down because of lower quality feeds, and per person consumption of milk is increasing slightly, sufficient milk must be available for the Nation's health. This situation is compounded by fewer cows.

In our supply and demand economy, more promotion is needed to prime the milk pump. Sufficient demand will provide an economic incentive to produce more milk if the price level will provide reasonable profitability. Without this demand, price increases necessary to keep pace with costs, will not be possible.

Even though the retail prices for milk and dairy products have gone up, they have not kept pace with dairymen's production costs. Price conscious consumers must be kept aware of dairy food benefits. This is possible with consumer-oriented promotional programs. Without promotion, many more dairymen will be forced out of business and the price-production cycle will go unmerrily on.

Pertinent Pointers When Cooking Out

★ Start your charcoal fire about 45 to 60 minutes before you plan to cook. The coals should have burned down from their red-hot stage to a pale gray before cooking is started or the fire will be too hot. When the coals are covered with a gray ash, their temperature will be about 350 to 375 degrees which is the proper temperature for cooking burgers, steak, chops or chicken.

★ Want to brush on marinade while grilling? Tie together a healthy handful of fresh parsley and/or sprigs of thyme, rosemary and tarragon for a flavorful fresh herb bouquet to dip in the marinade and brush on burgers, steaks or chicken.

★ Milk tastes best when it's really icy cold. To achieve this on a picnic, freeze milk in ice cube tray, then place the milk cubes in with milk in carton, bottle or plastic container to keep it well chilled.

★ One of the best investments you can make is a portable ice chest. Pack into it a block of ice frozen in a half gallon or gallon milk carton to prolong the chilling of perishable foods.

★ Bake homemade cookies and freeze them in plastic containers or empty coffee cans. They're always ready in the freezer for a picnic or patio dessert. They'll defrost en route or while you're having the main course.

State Receives 617 Corporate Farm Reports

Reports from 617 farming corporations operating in the state have been received within the April 15 deadline and a reasonable extension period, the Minnesota department of agriculture announced recently. That is 24 more than were identified in prior registrations conducted by the secretary of state in 1972 and 1973.

Emphasizing that a statistical summary compiled during the initial canvass of the first 617 reports is unofficial and subject to correction after the investigative processing, assistant commissioner Bill Walker said that it does indicate that only a fraction of one per cent of Minnesota's total farmland is controlled by non-family corporations.

Unofficial preliminary tabulations by assistant commissioner Walker show that the 617 corporations own, lease or contract farm a total of 531,756.19 acres of Minnesota's total of 30.6 million acres of farmland, of which 22 million will be in production this year.

Minnesota farm family corporations own and operate 288,720.95 acres or 54.3 per cent of the total corporate controlled acreage in this state. Farm corporation families outside Minnesota own and operate another 2,412.85 acres, in Lyon, Martin, Nobles, Redwood and Sibley counties.

State-based business corporations seeking designation as authorized farming corporations reported they own or control 184,893.77 acres of Minnesota agricultural land. Included in this group are 3,423.12 acres owned or controlled by non-profit organizations.

Domestic corporations located outside Minnesota, in addition to the farm families reported above, reported they own or control 55,928.62 acres in this state.

Kandiyohi county has the most corporate farming operations, 35 in the initial study. Other counties in the top ten are Stearns, 23, Martin, 27, Polk, 26, Clay, 23, Renville, 21, Swift, 19, Olmsted and Sherburne, 18 each, Dakota 17, and Blue Earth, 16.

Stearns, Minnesota's leading dairy county, has the greatest amount of corporation controlled land, 32,202.34 acres, but 13 families hold 14,647.51 of the total.

Clay leads all counties in family farm corporations with 20 families owning and operating 29,101.03 acres of the corporate total in the county of 30,509.03 acres.

Other major corporation farming counties are: Polk, 24,904.66 acres (8 families, 11,347.48 acres); Kittson, 23,529.86 acres (5 families, 14,402.67 acres); Martin, 18,356.59

Boaters Can Enjoy Skillet Suppers

The galley's small and supplies are limited, but you can do fascinating things in a skillet to feed those hungry sailors.

Canned soup and tomatoes, pasta and rice, dehydrated onions, and green pepper and a tube or glass of Parmesan or Romano cheese are part of the shelf supplies. It's easy to pick up some milk and ground beef before setting sail. Natural cheese keeps well in that tiny refrigerator for concentrated but instant, first-class protein.

All of the ingredients in this Galley Ho Skillet go right into the skillet, even the macaroni, so the extra step of cooking the macaroni is eliminated.

GALLEY HO
SKILLET SUPPER

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 3/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup uncooked elbow macaroni
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 3/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- Chopped parsley

Melt butter in a large skillet with cover; add beef, onion, celery and green pepper and saute until meat is browned. Add tomatoes, salt and pepper; bring to boil. Add macaroni; cover and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes or until macaroni is tender. Stir in Parmesan cheese. Sprinkle with Cheddar cheese; cover and allow to stand for 5 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Agriculture To Have Priority Of U.S. Energy

Energy expended for agriculture and food processing is a priority, but if consumer preferences can be changed, particularly in regard to "fast" and "convenience" foods, some energy could be saved.

That is the view of University of Minnesota food scientist Eugene Sander, who recently came to the university from private industry.

"There is no way of cutting energy requirements for agriculture, but we may have to change consumer attitudes to sustain future generations," he says. In particular, consumers may be directed away from the so-called convenience foods to other foods that take less energy.

For instance, the popular one-pan dinners found on most grocery store shelves represent an energy intensive product. Meals available from this convenience item could be reproduced at about half the cost by purchasing the ingredients separately, providing the consumer is willing to spend more time in the kitchen.

Also, the fast food operations, which have been very prolific on the American landscape in the past few years, result in heavy energy use. The paper, plastic and styrofoam one-time use containers found at many of these operatons involve the consumption of wood products and petrochemicals, in the case of the plastics, as well as the fuel and electricity used in the production of these packaging materials. Energy is also expended to collect and dispose of packaging materials, Sander adds.

But the food scientist does not want to leave the impression that we should turn the clock back to the turn of the century. On the contrary, modern food processing technology has been responsible for saving energy. The potato is an obvious example. In dehydrating potatoes (the water is removed), much energy is required but also is saved in transportation because the eight of the edible product has been reduced. Another benefit of dehydration is that it preserves food and prolongs availability to the consumer. Dehydrated potatoes can be kep in storage much longer than can raw potatoes, he adds.

"Maybe trends could be shifted toward more practical types of foods," Sander suggests. For instance, consumers prefer the more energy intensive canned fruits over sun dried, dehydrated fruits. Remember, it takes less energy to transport the less heavy, less bulky dehydrated fruit. But consumer attitudes will have to be changed considerably before shoppers reach for dehydrated fruits in lieu of the canned ones.

Another area where attitude change is needed, he says, is in the use of non-returnable, one-time-use beverage cans and bottles. Actually, the manufacture of these containers takes less than one per cent of the total national energy consumption, but their manufacture represents a drain on our natural resources, specifically metals such as aluminium. Added to this is the litter problem and energy required to pick up and dispose of containers at taxpayers' expense.

"There's no way of cutting energy for agriculture," Sander says, but it may be that there really is no need to since agriculture uses a very small percentage of the total energy consumed in the United States. A survey in California by the University of California at Davis and the California Department of Agriculture showed five per cent of the total energy consumed in the state went into agricultural production and food processing. It is estimated that it takes another five per cent of the total energy consumed to get packaged good products into the home. For Minnesota, it is estimated that it takes about four per cent of the total energy consumed for agricultural production and food processing.

Sandwiches Are Good Standby Summer Fare

Sandwiches fit the summer style of eating: they're casual, carefree and easy to fix, carry or keep.

They also fit all kinds of occasions when food's in order: that quick snack or meal on porch or patio; that meal-in-hand on a boat; or, that brown bag bash you may carry in your knapsack or transport to the beach.

Sandwiches are only as good as their fillings. Those must be full rather than skimpy. Though the choice is as wide as the world, prepare only those which you and the family like. There's just no sense in spending time and money on smoked salmon or Bel Paese cheese for a piece de resistance unless the folks go for it. It's better to stick with American or Swiss cheese, ham, peanut butter or summer sausage if that's what turns them on.

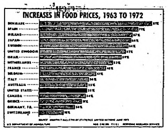
So have fresh bread, rolls or buns. Stale bread adds nothing positive to a sandwich since it may have to wait before being eaten. Do butter that bread or roll, all the way to the edges, or the filling will soak through and make it soggy.

Some sandwiches are made to wait, like these Cheesy Franks in Foil. A lively mixture goes into buttered buns, then they're wrapped in foil. They're not really baked but they're heated in the oven or on the grill to make them really tempting.

CHEESY
FRANKS IN FOIL

- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1/4 cup chili sauce
- 1/4 cup sweet pickle relish
- 1/8 teaspoon leaf oregano
- 8 frankfurters
- 8 frankfurter buns

In a bowl combine cheese, chili sauce, relish and oregano. Slit frankfurters lengthwise, but do not cut through. Place about 3 tablespoons cheese mixture in each. Place frankfurters in buns. Place each on double thick rectangle of aluminum foil. Fold foil down onto sandwich in tight double fold; twist ends. Place on grill folded side down for 10 minutes; turn and heat 10 additional minutes. Makes 8 sandwiches.



INCREASES IN FOOD PRICES, 1963 TO 1972

VARIATION: In a bowl blend together 2/3 cup dairy sour cream, 1/4 cup instant minced onion, 1/4 cup sweet pickle relish, 1/4 cup prepared mustard and 1/2 cup crumbled Blue cheese. Spread mixture on both sides of cut buns. Place frankfurters in buns. Wrap and heat as above.

ITALIAN
CHEESEBURGERS

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon leaf oregano
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 6 slices Mozzarella cheese
- 6 sandwich buns, buttered

In a bowl lightly mix beef, onion, salt, garlic salt, basil, oregano and pepper just until blended. Shape into 6 patties. Place on broiler pan. Broil to desired degree of doneness. Top each patty with a slice of Mozzarella cheese and broil just until cheese begins to melt. Serve in buns. Makes 6 sandwiches.

EGG SALAD SPREAD

- 3 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup cottage cheese
- 1 tablespoon dairy sour cream
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 1 1/2 teaspoons chopped chives
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon dill weed

In small bowl combine eggs, cottage cheese, sour cream, mustard, chives, salt, Worcestershire sauce and dill weed. Cover and chill to blend flavors. Serve on rye bread or crisp crackers. Yield: 1 1/4 cups.

GOOD GOUDA SPREAD

- 8 ounce Gouda cheese
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- 2 tablespoons minced pimiento
- 1 tablespoon minced green pepper
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped chives OR 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/8 teaspoon garlic salt

Allow cheese to come to room temperature. With cookie cutter cut wax from top of cheese; scoop out cheese leaving shell intact. In a small mixing bowl beat cheese and 1 tablespoon yogurt until smooth. Add remaining yogurt, then pimiento, green pepper, onion, seasoned and garlic salts. Spoon enough mixture into the reserved shell to fill and mound on top. If refrigerated allow to come to room temperature before serving. Cover and chill remaining mixture until needed. Serve as a spread for assorted crackers. Yield; approximately 1 2/3 cups.

Milk Is A Wonder Food

From the Chicago Sun-Times: "How would you like something to provide you with the following services: helping to develop and maintain bones and teeth; regulating the heartbeat; building, maintaining and repairing body tissues; helping build resistance to disease; keeping skin clear, soft and smooth; preventing infection; protecting against night blindness; maintaining normal vision, and helping the nervous system function properly. If so, then call upon milk. It contains almost every nutritional element needed in the human diet."

Expanded Farm Exports Hurt By Transportation

Recently named to take part in a federal-state program to boose agricultural exports, Minnesota may find the opportunity blighted by the shortcomings of its rural transportation system, according to state commissioners for highways, agriculture and economic development.

Under the program announced by state agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald in February, export marketing specialist LeRoy Thoreson of that department will represent Minnesota's agri-business on a series of missions to nations considered prime markets for the state's agricultural produce.

Minnesota's food and fiber industry is the largest industry in the state, economic development commissioner James Heltzer declared, accounting for more than 40 per cent of the gross state product. It provides employment for three out of ten Minnesotans: 142,000 on farms and 260,000 engaged in assembly, storage, transportation and distribution occupations. Unlike Minnesota's depleted mineral resources, the agribusiness is a source of wealth renewable every year, Heltzer added.

Minnesota ranks fifth in the nation in total cash farm income, according to Wefald. With an investment of $9.9 billion, the farm segment of the food and fiber industry here has a gross income of $2.3 billion. another $1.5 billion is generated in processing and marketing agricultural produce, and in providing for the industry's needs.

"Expansion of Minnesota's agri-business in overseas markets could be the stimulus to outstate economic recovery that has eluded us since the decline of the mining industry," highway commissioner Lappegaard observed, "providing we don't miss the boat because of our poor roads."

Pointing out that the huge grain sale to Russia is still bogged down on its way to ports by the inadequacies of the transportation system, Lappegaard cited serious problems created by hundreds of grain trucks bound for the seaway port of Duluth on U S 2. The route is a two-lane vintage highway, almost without shoulders, that also carries considerable local and tourist traffic.

"Nationally, more than 75 per cent of all farm produce travels to market by truck," Wefald confirmed, "but in Minnesota dependence on farm-to-market roads is even greater. Here we have some 175,000 trucks carrying to the nation's markets almost all of our livestock, 50 per cent of our potato crop, and nearly 90 per cent of our fresh fruits and vegetables. And all farm produce bound for local markets moves by truck."

The dependence of Minnesota agriculture on over-the-road transport is reflected by the fact that some 21 per cent of the trucks registered in the state are farm trucks, as compared to the national average of 8 per cent.

"Where the export of bulk commodities like grain is concerned," Heltzer added, "over-the-road transportation is balked by out-dated highways with load limits under nine tons. The cost of transporting bulk commodities under such conditions, of course, is prohibitive."

Last year, because of a boxcar shortage--and the abandonment of some 31,000 miles of rail lines since 1938--much of the grain bound for export markets 'missed the boat.' In Minnesota 191 grain elevators in 123 communities found they had no alterntive but to await shipment by rail. Their access roads are restricted to gross weights under nine tons, and cannot support heavy grain trucks

Asked if Minnesota can upgrade its rural trunk highway delivery system fast enough to assure a timely arrival of Minnesota produce in an expanded export market, Lappegaard said the Highay department'spresent financial position is such that even the timetable for the budget-restricted 'backbone highways' program is now in doubt.

"Decreasing highway user tax receipts—resulting fromthe gasoline shortage, the 55-mile an hour speed limit, and the trend toward smaller cars—together with sprialing materials costs and the predicted end of Federal Highway Trust fund financing in 1977, leave little room for optimism," he said.

Capture the essence of the season with Fresh Strawberry Cloud Pie. Line a crumb crust with a mixture of fresh tasting Birds Eye Cool Whip Non-Dairy Whipped Topping and thickened strawberry flavor gelatin. Fill center with a strawberry gelatin mixture.

Fresh Strawberry Cloud Pie

- 1 package (3 oz.) strawberry flavor gelatin
- 1 1/3 cups boiling water
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 container (4 1/2 oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed
- Red food coloring (optional)
- 1 baked 9-inch graham cracker crumb crust, cooled
- 1 1/2 cups fresh strawberry halves

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; remove 1/2 cup and chill until slightly thickened. Fold the slightly thickened gelatin and sugar into the whipped topping. Add a few drops of food coloring. Chill again, if necessary, until mixture will mound. Line bottom and sides of crumb crust with the whipped topping mixture, mounding high around edge. Chill. Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatin until thickened; stir in strawberries. Spoon into the whipped topping-lined crust without covering the rim around the edge. Chill until firm — at least 3 hours.

Energy Policies Could Deprive New Generations

"As long as U.S. policy is to ensure geometrically increasing energy for present generations, it probably is ensuring energy deprivation for generations to come," says John Gostovich of the Minnesota energy project.

Gostovich urges Americans to constrain their fuel consumption, thus allowing more flexibility in future energy development polices. Energy use in the U.S. doubled between 1950 and 1970, said Gostovich, quoting a recent Ford Foundation report. "We just don't have the resources to sustain this kind of growth in demand."

If energy use continues to escalate, he adds, the U.S. will be forced into extensive nuclear power plant construction, strip mining and offshore drilling. These are likely to result in massive environmental degradation.

If continuation of American prosperity ultimately requires extreme energy development measures, "we should give some serious thought to what we mean by economic prosperity and the good life" he says.

The Ford Foundation's projection of alternative energy use growth rates indicates that "sensible constraint" in consumption could cut down considerably the size of energy supplies needed in the long run, he adds. Such constraint is not likely to involve drastic curtailment of non-luxury uses.

Although Minnesota weathered the winter without severe shortages, the possibility of supply crunches will be with us for some time, he says.

Since the state doesn't produce its own petroleum or natural gas, government officials will have to make tough decisions about allocating whatever imported supplies are available during extreme shortages.

Gostovich, who also is a graduate student in agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota, has spent the past six months collecting information on energy use in state agriculture.

He is part of a five-man project headed by Dean Abrahamson, University associate professor of public affairs, and funded by the State Planning Agency through the Committee on Urban and Region Affairs.

The project is aimed at providing government officials information on how much energy is consumed in various parts of the Minnesota economy and in what form. Hopefully, this data will "put fuel uses in perspective" and thus help officials make fuel allocation decisions.

Gostovich's task is putting together figures on how much fertilizer and fuel go into producinb each kind of Minnesota crop. As a sidelight, this type of information can help consumers vote for more efficient energy use.

For example, nonrenewable energy sources going into crop production can be compared with the nutritional energy contained in the harvested crop. By harvest time, an acre of corn contains three times as much energy as was used by the farmer in producing it.

Meanwhile, for potatoes, the ratio is mo. 2 like 1 to 1, Gostovich says. After the crop is processed into potato chips, far more energy has been expended in production than is returned in nutrition to the consumer.

A smart shopper can cast votes for more efficient energy use by choosing locally produced, non-processed foods rather than "junk" foods. But unless many consumers follow the same strategy, this idea won't work, he notes.

Future Trends In The Dairy Industry

What's in the future for the dairy industry? Better management and new products, according to Frank Groves, University of Wisconsin agricultural economist.

In the next ten years, the number of dairy farms will decline from the present 300,000 to slightly more than 200,000. At the same time, the total number of cattle will decrease from the present 12.4 million to slightly more than 11 million. However, the average herd size will be larger and production per cow will increase.

These trends indicate that the key to having a successful operation will be good management. Groves says that to be successful, the farmer will have to be well-educated and able to adapt to new technology, management and marketing techniques. Better management will enable the dairyman to double his production in the next decade.

As with the dairy farms, processing plants will decrease in number and increase in size. This trend will also call for more efficient management. Rising labor costs will continue to force management to substitute machines for people.

The demand for food will naturally increase as the population increases, but the types of food desired will change.

It is estimated that the life cycle of a new food product is about five years. This means that two-thirds of the food products you will be eating in 1984, haven't even been developed. Most of these new products will be made by combining different parts of present foods such as dairy products.

As far as pure dairy foods are concerned, there will be a continued shift of consumer demand from high fat products, such as butter, whole milk and cream to products like skim and low fat milk. An exception is cheese which is not a low fat product but will increase in consumption.

Nyquist Will Seek Attorney General Post

Present legal qualifications for the office of attorney general and what those qualifications should be were discussed this week by Dean Nyquist, campaigning for the Republican nomination for attorney general in Minnesota.

"The state constitution is not definite regarding qualifications for the office," Nyquist stated. "It appears that one could be elected as legal counsel for the state of Minnesota without any prior legal experience, and this is precisely what has occurred in the present administration.

"The present attorney general has little, if any, experience in private law practice," Nyquist said.

Nyquist, Brooklyn Center, is a former state senator and founder and senior partner of the law firm of Nyquist, Jones and Cripe, Ltd. He said that under the present attorney general "the office has been turned into a political office rather than a legal office."

"It gives one very little comfort to realiz that the legal affairs of Minneso are handled by a former c rman of a political party wi no experience in representing clients," Nyquist said.

Let's Have Dessert Alfresco Style

Pack a sack and take a snack!

Is there anything nicer on a warm spring or summer evening than taking a walk or a ride on a bicycle to the park or beach? By the time you get there and wander around the site for a bit, you're bound to be hungry. After all, you didn't have dessert.

In keeping with the return to simplicity, your snack pack sack can hold a thermos of chilled milk and some cookies. That's an easy dessert. Having it out-of-doors gives it the name of "alfresco," a word that comes from the Italian, meaning "in the cool" (of the evening).

Creamy Cherry Bars are an ideal cookie to have because they're nutritious, made with creamery butter, both cream and cottage cheese, plus pecans, coconut and cherries. They're rich and freeze nicely, if you want to make them in advance.

Red 'N White Pinwheels are a perfect answer to the summertime cookie problem because the recipe makes five dozen. They're a refrigerator cookie so you can mix at one time, bake at another time, or as needed.

A thermos of ice cold milk, Creamy Cherry Bars, Red 'N White Pinwheels and a basket of fruit give you dessert alfresco.

CREAMY CHERRY BARS

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
- 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 packages (3-oz. each) cream cheese
- 1/2 cup cottage cheese
- 1 tablespoon maraschino cherry juice
- 3/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 1/3 cup chopped maraschino cherries
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 1/2 cup flaked coconut

Cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Gradually add flour. Pat dough evenly over bottom of an 8-inch square baking pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven, 15-20 minutes. Meanwhile, beat cream cheese, cottage cheese, cherry juice and almond extract in a small mixing bowl until light and fluffy. Fold in cherries; spread over first layer. Combine pecans and coconut; sprinkle over cheese filling. Bake 15-20 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Yield: 24.

RED 'N WHITE PINWHEELS

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon red food color
- 1/2 teaspoon peppermint extract
- 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts

Cream butter; gradually add sugars and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg, vanilla and milk. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; gradually add to creamed mixture. Divide dough in half; add red food color and peppermint extract to one half. Leave other half plain. On waxed paper roll white dough to measure 18 x 8-inches. On waxed paper roll red dough to measure 16 x 8-inches. Invert waxed paper with red dough over white dough; peel off waxed paper. Sprinkle with nuts; press in slightly so they stick to red dough. Roll from long side as for jelly roll. Chill 1 hour. Cut rolls into 1/4-inch slices and place on buttered baking sheets. Bake in a preheated 400 degree oven, 8-10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Yield: approximately 5 dozen cookies.

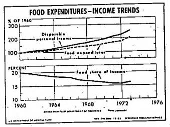
Cool Off With Frosted Drinks Made of Milk, Ice Cream

Toast vitality and health when you sip on a milk and ice cream drink! These contain protein, vitamins and minerals, so they're nourishing as well as easy to drink.

Most of these are easy to whip up in a blender at a moment's notice if you'll keep milk and ice cream in your refrigerator along with some of the fruit juices mentioned in the following recipes:



GRAPE COOLER

- 1 scoop vanilla ice cream
- 2 tablespoons frozen concentrated grape juice
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup lemon-lime carbonated beverage
- Scoop vanilla ice cream

In glass blend together 1 scoop vanilla ice cream and grape juice. Stir in milk, then carbonated beverage; top with scoop of ice cream. Yield: one 12-ounce serving.

COFFEE FLIPOVER

- 3/4 cup milk
- 1 chocolate covered peanut flavored candy bar, cut into small bits (about 1/3 cup)
- 1 scoop coffee ice cream

Pour milk into glass. Reserve 1 tablespoon candy. Stir remaining candy into milk. Top with scoop of ice cream. Garnish with remaining candy bits. Yield: one 12-ounce serving.

CITRUS COOLER

- 1 package (3 3/4 oz.) instant lemon pudding mix
- 4 cups milk
- 1/3 cup undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- Orange sherbet
- Mint, optional

Prepare pudding mix as directed on package using 4 cups of milk instead of amount called for in package directions. Stir in orange concentrate. Pour into tall glasses and top with a scoop of orange sherbet. Garnish with mint, if desired. Yield: approx. 4 1/2 cups.

LEMON-BANANA SHAKE

- 1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrate for lemonade
- 1 cup mashed bananas
- 3 cups milk
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream

In a mixing bowl while beating softened ice cream, gradually add lemonade; blend in bananas. Gradually add milk. Pour into large glasses; top with scoops of ice cream. Yield: approx. 6 cups.

Short Sips

• The typical American family spends $42 a week for food, including milk according to a recent Gallup poll. This is a record high, up $5 over 1973 and nearly four times the $11 sum recorded in the first survey on food costs in 1942.

Gallup surveys during a quarter century show that food costs in the United States have increased to a lesser extent than have non-food costs.

In 1947, food costs represented about one-half of the total minimum the public said was needed to make ends meet. More recent surveys have shown that food costs represent a smaller proportion – between one-third and one-fourth in the latest survey.

• Although the sharpest drop in per capita food consumption in 15 years occurred in 1973, dairy products more than held their own. While milk production declined almost 4 percent in 1973, per capita of consumption of dairy products was up slightly. The food industry, generally, showed sharp reductions for meat and eggs, and smaller declines for poultry and fish. There was a three percent decline in the consumption of livestock products.

• More than seven out of 10 non-farm families blame inflation as the cause of rising food prices in 1973, and 82 percent say that the best way to correct inflation is cut government spending.

The PACER survey shows that non-farm people regard farmers as harder working, more friendly and helpful, more dependable, more productive, more concerned with the environment than the average non-farm person.

Productive Farmers

The gain in overall productivity among farmers is almost twice as great as in our manufacturing industries. The output per man hour in manufacturing has increased 1.7 times in the last 20 years—but output per man hour of farmers is 3.3 times higher than 20 years ago.

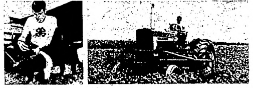
Youths Aid Agriculture in 4-H Program



Whether working in the fields or in the livestock pens or elsewhere, 4-H'ers involved in the 4-H agricultural program gain real experience in this area, and go on to rewarding careers in agriculture and agribusiness.

American agriculture is the success story of the 20th century. And with increased technology, efficient farming techniques and higher yields, U.S. farms are feeding 210 million Americans and a significant part of the world's population.

"To maintain its lofty position as the world's No. 1 provider of food and fiber, requires the constant infusion of new people into the agricultural industry," says Norman C. Mindrum, director of the National 4-H Service Committee. "Young people, such as America's million plus 4-H members enrolled in agricultural projects are gaining a wealth of knowledge and experience in their work with crops, animals and machines. These are the future leaders of agriculture," the director explained.

He noted that one of the country's leading farm machinery manufacturers, International Harvester Company, is aiding in this push for young people to find their future in agriculture. And to assist them, the company is providing a full schedule of incentives and recognition in the Cooperative Extension Service conducted national 4-H agricultural program.

Topping the list of awards are six $1,000 national scholarships to the college of their choice. Additionally, IH provides an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5, for a boy or girl from each state. And up to four medals of honor are provided for outstanding accomplishments at the county level.

In 1973, nearly 6,500 4-H'ers shared in the recognition. While most of them received medals of honor, 50 attended National 4-H Congress. And five of the six scholarship recipients look to agriculture for a career – ranching, farming or agribusiness.

Among the outstanding group were: Gregg Hartman, 18, Pueblo, Col., Barry McCutcheon, 18, Hanford, Calif., Steve Tresslar, 19, Franklin, Ind., Iowan Charles Butt, 18, of Hampton and Cam Foreman, 18, Felt, Okla., Freshmen or sophomores in college, the young men are well on their way in agricultural pursuits.

Hartman has a purebred herd of Angus cattle and a flock of registered Hampshire sheep. McCutcheon has grown corn, barley and sugar beets on land rented from his parents; and Tresslar has averaged over 150 bushels of corn per acre for an eight-year period and marketed his crop through beef heifers and steers he has raised.

The Iowa and Oklahoma youths have found an outlet for their agricultural interests through managing rented acres.

For information on how to join in America's success story, agriculture, contact the local county extension office.

There Are No Substitutes for Real Cream-ers

We're up in the air about the liquid creamers most airlines offer passengers to make instant coffee or tea more palatable. These dairy substitutes are too readily available because the price is right.

The stuff never saw a cow. And you can't see what you're drinking unless you have excellent eyes or a magnifying glass. The tiny type usually lists ingredients something like this:

Water, hydrogenated palm kernel oil, sodium caseinate, sugar, dipotassium phosphate, propylene glycol monostearate, polysorbate 60, stearoyl-lactylate, salt, artificial flavor and color.

It almost seems unfair that "sodium caseinate" is a dairy derivative and that "artificial flavor" should be given label credit. Once you had to be a Philadelphia lawyer to read the fine print. Today it's better to have a degree in chemical engineering.

Non-dairy creamers, liquid or powder, don't have the flavor appeal of cream, half and half, or milk. They perfume coffee, sweeten tea and hide behind the taste of chocolate in a hot drink. These whiteners do keep fresh, practically forever, but who cares? And they really don't violate any dietary dictums except to run roughshod over tired taste buds.

In addition to his taste buds, today's citizen is examining every tenet of his society. Let's hope that in his drive back to nature he stops at the store for real creamers. If this "back to basics" has any validity, cream, half and half, and milk should be included. Not only because they are one of the Basic 4 Food Groups, but also because they are "natural" products.

It's difficult to substitute ersatz products for real, natural, tasty and nutritious foods. This is especially true of the dairy family of products.

Is it possible that our technically-oriented society has progressed beyond the point of no return? Will we all need a degree in chemistry in order to determine what it is we don't like in what we're eating?

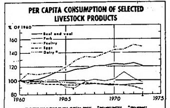
And if so, is this really progress?

Feed Your Shade Tree

Your trees which dropped their leaves last fall to let the sunshine through are taking on a new wardrobe now, and a once-a-year serving of fertilizer this time of year will help them dress up in a healthier way. The people of the American Association of Nurserymen suggest a technique that can make your work easier, more effective.

Feed the shade tree when the ground is damp, they say. Use a crowbar or similar tool to make a circle of holes in the ground about 18 inches apart, ideally 8 to 12 inches deep, underneath the tree at about the point of the end of the longest limbs. Put two or three tablespoons of fertilizer in each hole, then top off with soil.

Feeding your trees this way provides two benefits. Fertilizer goes to the roots of the tree where it is most needed, and it is beneath the level of grass roots to avoid over-abundant growth where it is not desired.



An occasional meal can be meatless but filling as shown by this Seafarer's Skillet. Cheese and milk supply the complete protein for the meal.

SEAFARER'S SKILLET

- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/2 cup chopped onion OR 2 teaspoons instant minced onion
- 1/2 cup uncooked regular rice
- 1/4 cup chopped pimiento
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

Gradually add milk to soup in a large skillet; add celery, green pepper, onion, rice and pimiento. Cover and simmer 20-30 minutes or until rice is tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in cheese until melted.

A Thirsty Crop

About 650,000 gallons of water are necessary for the production of each acre of rice, reports the Arkansas Experiment Station.

In Germany it's bad luck to sneeze while putting on shoes; but to sneeze in conversation means that the last statement was true.

How important are the farm and food industries in this country? One out of five workers in the U.S.A. is in the food processing, transportation, retailing, farming and restaurant food service.

Average U.S. consumer shopping at the supermarket spends about 28 per cent of her money for non-food items today, such as cosmetics, records, cigarettes, clothing, magazines and liquor—to name a few.

June is for spooning homemade peach ice cream into a dish with more peaches or what-have-you. Take the ice-and-salt-packed ice cream out to picnic or beach for a special treat, making sundaes or cones.

For Super Flavor and Fun, Too, Make Your Own Ice Cream

Your very own ice cream is fun to make and tastes like nothing else you've ever had. It's especially good to make it in the good old summertime when there's a wealth of fruit and berries.

For peach ice cream perfection, mash the peaches as fine as possible while still retaining some of the original character. This gives an even distribution of the fruit in the ice cream as well as a better texture. Mashing the fruit will also prevent the dasher blades from clogging.

PEACH BUTTERMILK ICE CREAM

- 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups buttermilk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups mashed fresh peaches
- 1/4 cup sugar

In saucepan combine gelatin, sugar and buttermilk. Dissolve gelatin and sugar over low heat, stir occasionally. Gradually add hot mixture to egg, stirring constantly. Stir in salt, cream and vanilla. Combine mashed peaches and sugar; add to mixture. Chill. Churn-freeze.

NOTE: If fresh peaches are not available, mashed, canned freestone peaches may be used. Do not add sugar to peaches. Regular milk may be substituted for buttermilk in the recipe. Yield: approximately 3 quarts.

Farmer Receives Smaller Share Of Consumer's Dollar

Today's farmer receives a smaller share of each dollar that the consumer spends on food than he did 20 years ago. In 1951 the farmer's share was 49 cents; today it is 38 cents. The farmer's share of each dollar spent for milk at the store was 56 cents in 1951; today it's 50 cents. For ice cream, 78 cents out of each dollar of retail price goes to pay marketing costs — the farmer gets only 12 cents.

Sun Shines Tuesday On 25th NW Dairy Day

DAIRY DAY SUNSHINE, coupled with early morning travel and a break in the show ring action, proved too much for LuAnn Malbraaten of Bemidji. She snuggled up to her junior yearling Jersey calf and fell sound asleep and the calf felt inclined to do likewise. The snooze continued in spite of surrounding activity and clicking of the Times camera. The nap may have helped both showman and calf as they combined to win the Jersey breed reserve championship at the show.

Brilliant sunshine but cool temperatures provided a nearly perfect day for the 25th anniversary observance of Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Although attendance and entries were reduced somewhat by the lateness of farm field work, general attendance was considered good and quality of the dairy show was again extremely high.

Seventeen-year-old Nancy Kasprick of Angus gathered in an armload of top awards with her three-year-old purebred Holstein cow, repeating her performance of last year but using a different animal. Donald Hagen of Roseau captured reserve championships in two different breeds and a sister and brother act, Vickie and Todd Johnston of Angus, took top honors in senior and junior showmanship competition.

Carol Peterson of Twin Valley, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Peterson, received the crown of Northwest Dairy Princess from Brenda Mathson of Thief River Falls, 1973 winner. The 5 foot, 5½ inch graduate of Twin Valley high school this spring has brown hair and brown eyes.

Selected as attendants from the 18 participants were Gail Erickson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Erickson of Pencer, and Kendra Broten, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broten of Roseau. Both are 1974 graduates of Roseau high school.

Miss Kasprick's winnings included the overall show grand championship, purebred show championship, Holstein breed championship and Holstein purebred championship. Her cow was selected as the best uddered cow of the show and Nancy's three-animal herd was placed at the top of the individual herd competiton.

Law Enforcement Center Planning Is Progressing

Progress is continuing in the planning of a joint city-county law enforcement center at Thief River Falls with both the city council and the county board taking action on the matter during the past two days.

On Monday evening the council's representatives on the law enforcement center planning committee reported the status of their meetings. According to Mayor Robert Carlson, the committee was prepared to recommend an architect for the project and had initiated discussion of possible cost sharing for construction of the facility.

The council discussed possible building sites including the old arena, the service station at Frist street and Main avenue, the old library, Wiener motors and the area north of the city's water plant. By eliminating the least practical locations, councilmen agreed that the best choice would be to locate the new facility on the southwest corner of the First and Main intersection.

The area north of the water plant was eliminated because of its location (too far from the courthouse) and the belief that the railroad which owns the property would not be interested in selling the land.

The Wiener motor company location was also ruled out when Mayor Carlson reported that the owner is not interested in selling the property..

The old library site had two strikes against it. Although the city already owns the property and it is close to the courthouse, the site is actually too small to allow construction of a building of the size required and permit adequate landscaping for a pleasing appearance. Councilman Roger Worth also expressed the opinion that the old library is a landmark of this city and a significant number of local citizens might be opposed to tearing it down.

With two locations remaining under consideration the service station site was selected over the old arena, primarily because acquisition of the station property and the two houses south of it would be less expensive than replacing the arena or the community's loss by tearing the present arena down and not replacing it.

Following a discussion of the city-county cost sharing relationship, the council was unanimous in its vote to offer the county $100,000 as the city's contribution to construction of the vacility. The council also offered the assistance of city personnel for clearing the construction site and recommended that the county acquire and use the property on the southwest corner of First and Main. Councilmen expressed the opinion that it might be fair for the county to pay the entire cost of this project because city residents would be paying a share through local taxes. However, the offer was made to reduce the county's burden of construction costs expected to be in the neighborhood of $700,000. The council did consider the possibility of offering less money with an agreement to provide a building site.

Mayor Carlson and Sheriff Charles Richards presented the committee's recommendation of an architect to the Pennington county commissioners yesterday (Tuesday). According to Richards, the committee recommended the selection of firm of Foss, Engelstad and Foss. Although the company's proposed fee (eight percent if the contract price reached $700,000) would be slightly higher than the amount proposed by the committee's alternate selection of Hodne-Stagberg (7½ per cent at $700,000), both would cost the same if the construction cost was held at $500,000.

A factor contributing to the committee's recommendation was that Foss, Englestad and Foss have offices in the Fargo area and could be expected to be more accessible than Hodne-Stagberg with its office in Minneapolis.

The Fargo firm also offered to prepare preliminary plans for not more than $1,000. Hodne-Stagberg quoted $4,800 for preliminary plans. The board did accept the committee's recommendation and approved selection of Foss, Englestad and Foss to prepare preliminary plans for the project.

The city-county committee will continue to coordinate planning activities and contact property owners to acquire the necessary property.

270,000 Acres Not Planted In County

Pennington county farmers have planted less than 15 per cent of their crops as of Monday, according to Loren Luschen, local representative of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA). Addressing the county commissioners yesterday (Tuesday), Luschen stated that wet fields and unfavorable weather have prevented planting of about 270,000 acres by 800 farmers in this county. Farmers unable to plant wheat or similar crops by the end of this week will have to consider alternatives such as summer fallow.

The board proceeded to approve a letter to Gov. Wendell Anderson requesting presidential designation as a disaster area.

Receipt of this designation would enable the FHA and other agencies to make their service and resources available on an emergency basis. Marshall, Red Lake, Roseau and Kittson counties have already received this designation as a result of an earlier civil defense report of damage to public roads, bridges, etc.

Drainage and ditches continued to be a prominent topic during the board meeting. A number of requests were received for cleaning or backsloping. Included were sections of County Ditch 75 requested by property owners in Star and Hickory townships and a mile of a branch of County Ditch 39 in Kratka township.

Several other drainage related problems were also introduced. Property owners in the Thief river area indicated their concern about flooding created by the Thief river's inability to handle the spring flow released up-river at Thief lake. Much of the problem is located in Marshall county where the Thief river is designated as State Ditch 83. Although Pennington county may be required to participate in a project to handle this problem, the land owners were referred to the Marshall county board for appropriate action.

Ted Hornseth, a Marshall county resident with property in North township, was present to ask the council to replace a bridge across a ditch separating his property drained by Judicial Ditch 30. The private bridge was built in about 1921 or 1922 and washed out in 1939 or 1940. Hornseth's request comes after more than 30 years of driving half way around a section to reach an adjoining field. Construction of a new bridge to serve Hornseth's property would be assessed against property benefited by Judicial Ditch 30.

Virgil Eckstein, a property owner in Polk Centre township, presented a complaint about damage caused by flooding along Pennington County Road 1 which forms the border between Pennington and Red Lake counties. At the point involved, Red Lake county has responsibility for maintaining the road. Board members and the county engineer expressed the opinion that Red Lake county recently raised the road level without providing for drainage of water which formerly ran across the road.

Vernon Stenberg explained that he and several of his neighbors are having a problem with drainage along County Road 77 north of the local roundhouse. Reportedly another neighbor has constructed a driveway without installing a culvert for drainage.

Miles Koop was present to offer to sell or lease 35 acres of gravel to the county. The material is located in Sanders township. Board members indicated that they would contact the county attorney to determine if and how the purchase could be made.

Sun Shines Tuesday On 25th NW Dairy Day

DAIRY DAY SUNSHINE, coupled with early morning travel and a break in the show ring action, proved too much for LuAnn Malbranten of Bemidji. She snuggled up to her junior yearling Jersey calf and fell sound asleep and the calf felt inclined to do likewise. The snooze continued in spite of surrounding activity and clicking of the Times camera. The nap may have helped both showman and calf as they combined to win the Jersey breed reserve championship at the show.

Brilliant sunshine but cool temperatures provided a nearly perfect day for the 25th anniversary observance of Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Although attendance and entries were reduced somewhat by the lateness of farm field work, general attendance was considered good and quality of the dairy show was again extremely high.

Seventeen-year-old Nancy Kasprick of Angus gathered in an armload of top awards with her three-year-old purebred Holstein cow, repeating her performance of last year but using a different animal. Donald Hagen of Roseau captured reserve championships in two different breeds and a sister and brother act, Vickie and Todd Johnston of Angus, took top honors in senior and junior showmanship competition.

Carol Peterson of Twin Valley, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Peterson, received the crown of Northwest Dairy Princess from Brenda Mathson of Thief River Falls, 1973 winner. The 5 foot, 5½ inch graduate of Twin Valley high school this spring has brown hair and brown eyes.

Selected as attendants from the 18 participants were Gail Erickson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Erickson of Pencer, and Kendra Broten, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broten of Roseau. Both are 1974 graduates of Roseau high school.

Miss Kasprick's winnings included the overall show grand championship, purebred show championship, Holstein breed championship and Holstein purebred championship. Her cow was selected as the best uddered cow of the show and Nancy's three-animal herd was placed at the top of the individual herd competiton.

Law Enforcement Center Planning Is Progressing

Progress is continuing in the planning of a joint city-county law enforcement center at Thief River Falls with both the city council and the county board taking action on the matter during the past two days.

On Monday evening the council's representatives on the law enforcement center planning committee reported the status of their meetings. According to Mayor Robert Carlson, the committee was prepared to recommend an architect for the project and had initiated discussion of possible cost sharing for construction of the facility.

Gail Diane Bergerson Weds Alan Van de Streek at Gully

Marriage vows were exchanged recently by Miss Gail Diane Bergerson and Alan Van de Streek at a 7:30 p.m., ceremony at Bethany Lutheran church at Gully.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bergerson of Gully. Parents of the groom are Edward Van de Streek of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Leo LaCoursiere of Brooks.

Rev. George Stoddard, Jr., officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Hilda Kvaale was the organist and accompanied Pam Fore and Mark Sletto, friends of the couple, as they sang, "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white polyester floor-length gown styled with a fitted bodice enhanced with lace trim and covered buttons. The skirt was bordered at the hemline by a wide ruffle that flowed back into a modified train. Her veil of bridal illusion was held by a half-hat edged with lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies, purple carnations and babies' breath.

Carol Bergerson, attended her sister as maid of honor. She was an empire styled gown of lilac dotted Swiss accented by a white floppy hat. She carried a solitary purple tinted mum.

Attending the groom as best man was Wayne Halbash, friend of the couple. Both the groom and his attendant were attired in black tuxedos, blue ruffled shirts, black bow ties and white carnation boutonnieres. The ushers were Daryl Sweno, cousin of the bride, and Kenny Bergerson, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bergerson was attired in a yellow sleeveless dress topped by a yellow and white coat. The mother of the groom wore a light green two-piece ensemble. Both wore identical corsages of lavender tinted carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's parental home. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Albert Aakness of Trail. The cake was decorated in lavender and blue and topped by a miniature bride and groom. It was cut and served by Sue Bergerson, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Clyde Ellefson, aunt of the groom, served the ice cream. At the punch bowl were Julie Bergerson, sister of the bride, and Sheryl Van de Streek, sister of the groom. Linda Bergerson and Lana Van de Street, sister of the bride and groom, respectively, presided at the gift table. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Orville Peterson and Mrs. Carl Sweno.

The bride is at Oklee, where she was attending school, while the groom is completing his basic training in the U.S. Navy at San Diego, Calif. Photo, Neal Fox Studio.

Richard Hornseth of 217 North Merriam avenue reported that damage amounted to $125 when someone used a BB gun to shoot the windshield of Hornseth's pickup. About $40 in damages resulted when someone sprayed paint on 21 windows and two exits at Franklin school. Paint was also used to vandalize the Hartz wholesale warehouse, Lincoln high school, a nearby sidewalk and a semi truck.

Several mini-bikes have also been stolen in Thief River Falls. Boyce Lee reported Monday that someone had taken a mini-bike from his garage. Three boys, one 14 and two 13, were later caught with the vehicle in their possession.

On Wednesday three boys, ages 8, 11 and 12, were apprehended in possession of two mini-bikes which Mrs. Craig Lindahl had reported stolen from a service station. One of the juveniles also admitted having another stolen mini-bike hidden. The machine had been taken from the Ronald Kipp residence at 521 South Markley.

Thefts and damages resulted from a number of local break-ins. A window at the Clark station was recently broken and cigarettes and change totaling $117.50 were taken.

Adella Bailey of D and Q cabins reported that someone had entered the residence and stolen tapes and a screwdriver set. Floor tile was also torn up and a throw rug was cut.

Gasoline Prices Drop Slightly During The Week

Average gasoline prices dropped slightly for the second straight week as the number of stations open for sales on Sunday topped 55 per cent, according to the Minnesota State Automobile association (AAA) and the auto clubs of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

In its weekly survey of gasoline stations around the state, the motoring organization found that gasoline supplies and hours of operation continue to improve. More than 30 per cent of the stations contaced said their fuel supplies were better this weeek than the week before. Nearly 70 per cent said their supplies were the same as they were the week before. Only one station in the survey reported that its supply of fuel was lower than the week before.

The average price for regular this week was 55.1 cents, down from 55.2 cents last week. The average price for premium was 58.7 cents, down from 58.8 cents the week before.

Nearly 83 per cent of the stations reported operating hours past 7 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. This is the highest percentage of stations open evenings since early last fall, the AAA said.

Stations in St. Paul reported the longest operating hours but also the highest prices. Stations in Minneapolis reported the shortest operating hours but also the lowest prices. Prices in St. Paul average one cent higher than prices in Minneapolis, the report found.

Although the availability of gasoline is approaching normal, the AAA said, high consumer demand this summer could still force shortages in some areas. The AAA recommends all motorists practice fuel conservation and reduce unnecessary driving.

Freedom Tree To Be Planted At Hallock Tues.

Planting of a "freedom tree" in recognition of WOI Richard Knutson, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Aaseby of Thief River Falls, will take place Tuesday evening at Hallock. Knutson has been missing in action since Jan. 8, 1973, when his helicopter was downed by enemy ground fire in Quang Tri province of South Vietnam.

Public is invited to participate in the ceremony at 8 p.m. Alvin Aaseby will participate by presenting the freedom tree to Larry Younggren, president of the District 351 board of education, for planting. The day's activities are being co-sponsored by the Hallock American Legion and the Voices in Vital America (VIVA) organization.

"The planting and unveiling of a plaque honoring all prisoners of war and missing in action is our way of paying tribute to these men who remain unaccounted for in Southeast Asia," stated Patricia Russell, president of the Hallock American Legion auxiliary unit.

To Choose State Candidates At DFL Convention

Al Loehr, mayor of St. Cloud, and Joan Growe, a Minnesota legislator are both seeking the DFL endorsement for secretary of state in what is haping up to be the only contest in the DFL state convention June 14-16 in Minneapolis.

Both Loehr and Rep. Growe claim to have over 50 per cent of the delegates supporting them. Endorsement requires a 60 per cent plurality of delegates and a long convention fight between these two candidates is a distinct possibility this year.

The winner will be the party's endorsed candidate against incumbent GOP secretary of state Arlen Erdahl. Howeer, the loser could be the convention's choice against the incumbent Republican state auditor Rolland Hatfield.

While neither candidate has indicated a desire to run for state auditor, some observers feel that the loser of the Loehr-Growe battle may announce for the auditor's slot at the convention.

Judging by the 1970 election results, Erdahl and Hatfield have approximately equal strength as opponents. Erdahl was elected by just over 10,000 votes and Hatfield by just under 10,000 votes.

BICYCLE SAFETY

Now that spring is here, the bicycle traffic is upon us. With the rising cost of gasoline and the shortages, more bicycles are being used than ever before.

Needless to say, this increased use of bicycles poses a very serious traffic problem. Bike riders have to become aware of the fact that good riding habits on a bicycle are just as important as good driving habits in a motor vehicle. Traffic laws apply to bicycles as well as motorized vehicles. Section 169.221 of the Minnesota Traffic Regulations clearly state that:

"Every person riding a bicycle upon a roadway shall be granted all of the rights and shall be subject to all of the duties applicable to the driver of a vehicle by this chapter. . ."

A copy of the balance of this section follows for your inspection

"169.221 BICYCLES. Subdivision 1 Traffic laws apply. Every person riding a bicycle upon a roadway shall be granted all of the rights and shall be subject to all of the duties applicable to the driver of a vehicle by this chaper, except as to special regulations in this chapter and except as to those provisions of this chapter which by their nature can have no application.

Subd. 2 Manner and number riding. (a) A person propelling a bicycle shall not ride other than upon or astride a permanent and regular seat attached thereto.

(b) No bicycle shall be used to carry more persons at one time than the number for which it is designed and equipped.

Subd. 3 Hitching rides. No person riding upon any bicycle, coater, roller skates, sled or toy vehicle shall attach the same or himself to any street car or vehicle upon a roadway.

Subd. 4 Where to ride. (a) Every person operating a bicycle upon a roadway shall ride as near to the right side of the roadway as practicable, exercising due care when passing a standing vehicle or one proceeding in the same direction

(b) Persons riding bicycles upon a roadway shall not ride more than two abreast except on paths or parts of roadways set aside for the exclusive use of bicycles.

(c) Whenever a usable path for bicycles has been provided adjacent to a roadway, bicycle riders shall use such path and shall not use the roadway.

(d) No person shall ride a bicycle upon a sidewalk within a business district.

Whenever any person is riding a bicycle upon a sidewalk, such person shall yield the right of way to any pedestrian and shall give audible signal before overtaking and passing such pedestrian

Subd. 5. Carrying articles. No person operating a bicycle shall carry any package, bundle, or article which prevents the driver from keeping at least one hand upon the handle bars.

Subd. 6. Lighting and brake equipment. (a) Every bicycle when in use at nighttime shall be equipped with a lmp on the front which shall emit a white light visable from a distance of at least 500 feet to the front and with a red reflector on the rear of a type approved by the department of public safety which is visible from all distances from 50 feet to 300 feet to the rear when directly in front of lawful upper beams of head lights on a motor vehicle. A lamp emitting a red light visible from a distance of 500 feet to the rear may beused in addition to the red reflector.

(b) Every bicycle shall be equipped with a brake which will enable the operator to make the braked wheels skid on dry, level, clean pavement.

Subd. 7. Sale with reflectors. On or after July 1, 1959, it shall be unlawful for any person to sell or offer for sale any new bicycle unless it is equipped with such reflectors as are prescribed by subdivision 6.

The Thief River Falls police department will adopt the following policy in regards to the enforcement of these laws to protect the citizens of Thief River Falls from an unwanted tragedy of someone being seriously injured or killed in a bike accident because of careless riding habits:

(1) All adult persons who are found to be violating will be issued a citation requiring a court appearance. Adults are considered responsible persons and should be well aware of correct traffic procedures.

(2) All juveniles found in violation will be brought to the police station where their parents will be required to come and pick them up. Parents are expected to teach their children the correct riding procedures for safe movement. All juveniles will also be issued a citation that will be handled in court or with a verbal warning, depending on the seriousness of the offense.

(3) All bike owners should also be aware of the equipment required on a bicycle. Night riders are required to have good working lights and reflectors. Equipment violations shall also be enforced.

One may ask, "Isn't this quite harsh for bicycle riders, especially our young people?" I would only answer this question by saying this I would rather take the time to instruct the person in correct riding habits than to have one of my officers knock on a door and tell loved ones the sad news they thought they would never hear.

Again, a reminder of some of the basic safe riding habits

(1) Ride with traffic, not against it. That is, on the right side of the street

(2) When riding in groups, ride single file

(3) Obey all signs

(4) Make sure the bicycle is in good working condition and has the required equipment

(5) Never ride more on a bicycle than it is built for.

(6) Keep both hands on the handlebars. Use baskets for carrying objects.

(7) Be prepared to yield at all times. Remember, no matter who is right, the bike rider is going to come out on the short end of the stick.

Thank you.

Acting Chief of Police

If the Shoe Fits..

My son's new shoes are size 1 and his old ones are 13's. Can he wear the old shoes for awhile to play in?

It would be safer to shine up his old shoes for Sundays and let him wear the roomier new shoes for school and play. Parental pride tells us that children must look their best when we take them to church but hurt pride heals quickly. Deformed bones are extremely difficult to straighten and that is an understatement if there ever was one.

The rigors of play - the running, jumping, twisting, turning - are strenuous for the child's feet. It is for play that the most properly fitting shoes are most necessary.

An unidentified Chinese craftsman turned out a "dragon clock" sometime around 1000 A.D. Transverse bars are evenly spaced across the body of the metal figure. A wooden rod of the proper dimension, lighted at the end, burns from one bar to the next in approximately an hour. A cord with weights at both ends is placed at the bracket representing the wake-up hour. When the burning rod severs the cord, weights drop into copper basins below. Now exhibited in the Louvre, the dragon clock was used many centuries before spring and pendulum driven alarm clocks were perfected.

John Kopari, Lincoln high school swimming coach announced earlier this week that a summer AAU swimming program has been developed in Thief River Falls and anyone interested in competitive swimming this summer is invited to participate in the first-year program.

"All ages, all sexes can take part in the program," pointed out Kopari. "The only requirement is that you should know how to swim."

There are currently 15 swimmers involved in the newly organized AAU program here. The summer's first practice was held Monday. The squad will continue to practice nightly Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 10 p.m. in the Franklin middle school pool.

"We'll stay away from any real rigid or formal program like we have in high school," mentioned Kopari. "A person can compete in as many meets as they like during the summer but I would rather have them learn through practice and keep the meets to a minimum."

There are a number of AAU meets scheduled throughout the state this summer, including meets at Fosston and Fergus Falls. A meet is scheduled to be held at Fergus Falls July 2. Kopari would like to point his swimmers toward participation as a team in a large invitational meet at Rochester on July 27.

"We have no feeder program for our high school swimmers like other sports," said Kopari, "And this AAU program would do just that. It would be a great benefit to the Thief River Falls swimming program. The girls, in fact, can compete in the AAU during the summer then jump right into their high school season that will be held in the fall starting this year."

Anyone can participate in the AAU program, but there is a $10 AAU fee to be paid by each individual.

Kopari also pointed out a need for a strong parent AAU club to help promote the AAU swimming and to provide help at meets, along with driving swimmers to out of town meets.

Anyone interested in more information about the AAU program, or the parent group, can contact the Franklin pool.

Two members of the region eight champion Bemidji high school baseball team that will defend its 1973 state title starting today (Wednesday) in St. Paul were among 11 northern Minnesota high school Indian athletes honored last week at the Leech Lake Neighborhood Civic Center.

John Buckanaga and Stan Drew of Bemidji were among the Indian athletes honored, along with Lynn Sandy and Diana Thunder of Warroad, by the Northern Minnesota Indian Athletic Association.

Speaking of Bemidji, it's certainly been a great year for the Lumberjack athletic teams.

Bemidji had a strong football team, its hockey team won the region eight title for the third straight year and finished runner-up to powerful Edina East in the state tournament and the basketball team won the region B and state class AA championships before losing to strong Melrose in the state play-off game... Bemidji also won region eight tennis and golf crowns this spring.

Now the Bemidji baseball team is regarded as a favorite to win this year's state baseball tournament after the Lumberjacks won the region eight title with a 4-1 win over Thief River Falls.

Cliff Morlan of Bemidji Pioneer noted that four current members of the Lumberjack baseball team—Andy Kannenberg, Jim Coway, Bob Johnson and Randy Beck have all played in three state high school hockey and baseball tournaments.

TRF Beats Newfolden By 5-1 In Legion Baseball

Coach Rocky Wilson's Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team opened its 1974 season schedule on a successful note Monday by posting a 5-1 win over Newfolden on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

The host team scored the game's first run in the third inning when Tim Erickson walked, stole second, moved to third on a single by Cliff Shymway and scored on a single by Jeff Lindquist.

Another Thief River Falls runner crossed the plate in the fouth inning even though the Wilson-coached club failed to produce a base hit in the frame. A walk, fielder's choice, stole base, wild pitch and passed ball all pushed Jeff Tunberg around the base paths for a 2-0 game.

Thief River Falls broke the game open in the fifth by scoring three runs on just one base hit. A one-out single by Lindquist was the only hit of the inning, but Thief River Falls capitalized on three walks, four wild pitches and a hit batter by Newfolden pitchers Dan Magner and Gary Kujanson. A stolen base and an error also helped stalk Thief River falls to a 5-0 lead.

Newfolden spoiled a three-pitcher Thief River Fallls shutout bid in the sixth when Magner stroked a one out single, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Kujanson off Jeff Langlie.

Joel Folger pitched the first four innings for Thief River Falls and was credited with the win. Langlie pitched the fifth and sixth innings and Tunberg hurled the final frame. The three Thief River Falls pitchers checked Newfolden on four base hits. Thief River Falls managed only four hits off Magner and Kujanson, but the Newfolden hurlers issued nine walks and eight wild pitches. Newfolden committed the game's only error.

Thief River Falls returns to Newfolden for a return match tomorrow (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

Students at the University of Minnesota's Twin Cities campus have filed a complaint with the federal government charging wide-scale sex discrimination in the intercollegiate athletics program.

"The complaint documents in detail the fact that women are treated as second-class citizens" in the university's athletic program, Kathy Kelly, former student body president, said.

Roseau River Project May Get Federal Funds

U. S. House of Representatives this week passed an appropriations bill, which includes funds for public works projects in Minnesota's 7th congressional district, according to Congressman Bob Bergland.

A supporter of the bill, Rep Bergland said the Roseau river project will receive $100,000 for construction, if the bill is approved by the senate and signed into law by President Nixon. In addition, $100,000 has been approved for the planning for the Twin Valley lake project and $96,000 approved for planning for the Wild Rice river-South branch and Felton ditch project.

Cold rainy weather on the bass fishing opener, June 1 and unseasonally low water temperatures because of the late spring appeared to have had a bad affect on fishing success, according to the Minnesota department of natural resources.

DNR creel census clerks interviewed over 500 anglers at Lake Minnetonka and on lakes in Detroit Lakes and Glenwood.

TRF Elks Sweep Twinbill From Anoka 7-6, 10-9

Thief River Falls Elks sponsored traveling baseball team for 15-16 year olds opened up its 1974 season schedule with a doubleheader sweep over Anoka on the Red Lake Falls diamond Saturday.

A three game weekend series was originally scheduled to be played Friday and Saturday on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond, but rain forced cancellation of Friday's games and wet grounds here forced the teams to play Saturday's twinbill at Red Lake Falls.

Thief River Falls won both games by single runs, claiming 7-6 and 10-9 victories.

The Elks scored seven runs on eight hits and committed two errors in the opener while Anoka scored six runs on five hits and committed three errors. Terry Drydal was the first game winning pitcher, benefiting from three RBI's produced by Doug Dallmann.

Thief River Falls rallied from an 8-2 second inning deficit to win the nightcap 10-9. The Elks collected 12 base hits and committed three errors. Anoka scored nine runs on 11 hits and committed two errors. Dallmann was the second game winning pitcher, helping his own cause with a two for three batting performance for three more RBI's.

The Elks, coached by Ron Novak and Frank Womack, will return to action Saturday when the team travels to Bemidji for a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

Legion Tops Elks 7-4 In TRF City Baseball Game

A four run third inning enabled the Legion to claim a 7-4 win over the Elks Tuesday in the annual inter-city Thief River Falls baseball game.

The older Legion players snapped a 1-1 tie with their big third inning as they combined two base hits with three walks and two Elks errors for four runs. A bases loaded single by Murray Melander and a run scoring single by Jeff Lindquist were the run producing blows in the inning.

The Elks squad of 15 and 16 year olds trimmed the difference to 5-2 in the top of the fourth when Doug Dallmann singled, moved to second on a fielder's choice, stole third and scored on another fielder's choice.

Coach Rocky Wilson's Legion club matched the run in the bottom of the fourth when Cliff Shumway led off with a single, stole second and scored on a single by Randy Dallmann.

The Legion added another run in the fifth on a fielder's choice, stolen base and a single by Lindquist for a 7-2 ball game.

Coached by Ron Novak and Frank Womack, the Elks came up with two runs in the seventh for a 7-4 final on three errors, a walk, wild pitch and back to back singles by Dallmann and Gonsorowski.

Singles by Dallmann and Olson produced the first run of the game for the Elks in the first inning.

The Legion tied the game 1-1 in the second on an error, stolen base and a single by Melander.

Shumway started on the mound for the Legion and picked up the pitching victory. Randy Dallman also pitched for the Legion. Doug Dallmann started for the Elks and took the loss. Olson, Forney and even the Legion's Joel Folger also pitched for the Elks.

Sandahl Paces LHS Track Scorers During '74 Season

Final year end 1974 Lincoln high school track point totals were announced earlier this week by Prowler head coach Marv Walter.

Sandahl

Walter

Junior Jerry Sandahl, a speedster specializing in the high and low hurdle races, paced the Thief River Falls individual scoring by totaling 108¾ points. Sandahl was also a Prowler relay team member.

Senior weightman Tony Dorn tossed both the discus and shot put to accumulate 55½ points to rank a distant second behind Sandahl.

Three other seniors, Brian Phelps, Joe Sorvig and Jim Carlson finished 3-4-5 in the final scoring charts. Phelps ran one and two mile races to total 47¾ points, Sorvig ran the hurdles and relay events for 35½ points and Carlson took part in relay races and high jump competition for 27 points.

The next three places in the Prowler scoring charts belonged to juniors as Tom Barry participated in sprint, hurdle and relay events to log 17¾ points; Jeff Houfek ran mostly relay races for 17; and Jeff Johnson ran both medium and long distance events, along with relay team running for 15.

Others who scored for the Lincoln thinclads this spring include seniors Dave Cork with 3½ points and Lonnie Olson with one point, along with juniors Mark Haroldson 5¼, Greg McEwen 4½, Greg Leach 4, Brad Brown 2 and Dick Johnson ½ and sophomores Kent Ehrenstrom 3, Dan Kezar 3, Mike Burstad 2 and Tim Benedict 1. Freshmen Tony Brosseau and Tim Loeffler also figured in the Prowler scoring as Brosseau scored 4½ points and Loeffler 1¾.

A number of new Lincoln high school track records were established during 1974. The Prowlers set seven new records during the indoor competition. Three outdoor school records were either set or met this spring.

The new indoor records set this season included six standards established by Sandahl who set five records in varying distance hurdle races as he ran record times in the 50 and 70 yard high and low hurdles, added a new 60 yard low mark and set a 50 yard dash record.

Phelps registered a new Lincoln indoor mile record with a 4:50.8 clocking.

New Lincoln outdoor record holders include Phelps with a 10:13 two mile run and Dorn with a 165-2 discus toss. Sandahl equaled the Lincoln record 15.2 in the 120 yard high hurdles.

"Considering our practice time that was limited by the weather, along with the wet condition of our track, I think our season's performance could be considered a success," offered Walter who worked with an inexperienced team dominated by underclassmen during the 1974 season.

"We had a lot of little pleasant surprises like Dan Heieren and Jeff Johnson in the distance and Brad Brown in the 880 and Tony Brosseau in the 440," pointed out Walter, "Along with some constant performances from Jerry Sandahl and Joe Sorvig in the hurdles, Brian Phelps in the distance races and Tony Dorn in the discus."

A group of 10 scoring juniors paced the Prowler scoring this spring with 184½ points. Six seniors who scored totaled 170½ points and six sophomores totaled 21¾ points. The two freshmen added 6¼ points.

"We'll have a lot of kids back next year and I think we'll be able to do better as a team," promised Walter. "There's a good builder program in the junior high under Ron Novak and from the elementary programs, too. There's a lot of talent coming through the program."

Girls Softball Program Starts Friday In TRF

Thief River Falls park and recreation department will again sponsor a girl's softball program for girls 9-15 years old this summer, beginning Friday at 10 a.m. on the east side softball diamond.

The program will feature games every Friday at east side, with the park and recreation department furnishing all equipment except gloves. Two playground directors will be on hand to supervise and umpire the games.

All Thief River Falls area grade school and junior high school girls are invited to take part in the program.

The Giant California Condor do not breed until they are four or five years old. Normally they do not nest more often than every other year, probably because a young condor must be fed and cared for by its parents until it is more than one year old.

Carry a spare tire, proper tools, and extra securing equipment.

Athletic Field Turf Course Set For June 18th

Puddles, bare ground, weeds all over, torn up turf and tuf that takes all day to water—these are a few problems that recreation, parks and athletic directors may face this summer.

A short course on athletic field turf management will be held at 9 a.m. June 18 on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus to provide information to meet these problems.

Some of the speakers in the day-long program include University horticulturist Donald B. White, who will discuss compaction problems which may result in puddles after rain, bare ground in the middle of the field and weeds. Russell E. Rose of Cushman-Ryan division, Outboard Marine Corp., will give information on aerification, lack of which may result in turf being torn up easily and turf that takes all day to water.

Participants will be given a chance to discuss their turf problems with experts in the afternoon. Registration is through the Office of Special Programs, 405 Coffey Hall, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 55108.

Cyanide Device Acceptable For Killing Coyotes

Emergency use of a cyanide device for killing coyotes has been authorized for use in restricted areas of the West to provide relief to livestock producers who have suffered high losses this year, secretary of the interior Rogers C.B. Morton said.

"I must stress that this is an emergency measure consistent with the provisions of Pressidential executive order 11643. The M-44 cyanide device will be used only after Fish and Wildlife Service personnel document the local need for its employment to cut high scheep and goat losses," Morton said.

The M-44 is a spring-loaded cyanide ejecting tube placed in the ground. It is among the most humane and selective control tools known as death occurs almost instantly when scented bait triggers a puff of cyanide into the coyote's mouth when it tuggs at it. Wehen used professionally, it is safe and selective. There is little hazard to human beings. The toxicant either decomposes or is metabolized immediately. It does not persit in the environment or enter the food chain. Areas where these devices are used will be clearly marked with warning signs.

The use of chemical toxicants such as the M-44 on federal lands for controlling predators except in defined emergency situations was banned by Executive Order in February 1972. Since the time of that order federal, state, and private agencies have increased efforts to control coyotes with other methods such as aircraft, traps, denning, and hunting.

There are some areas where topography and vegetation have hampered these control programs. It is in these localized areas whether public or private land, where the livestock, sheep and goat lossses have been high and this is where the emergency procedures of the executive order will be implemented.

Federal agencies involved have jointly developed new procedures to permit the use of the M-44 in the emergency period. Under the new procedure a rancher, land user or land administrator, when faced with losses that cannot be avoided by the usual methods, would request emergency consideration from regional directors of the fish and wildlife service. The request for emergency action will be immediately appraised and documented in the field by fish and wildlife service personnel.

An authorization to provide relief will then be issued by the fish and wildlife service regional direcor only if it is within the guidelines approved by the federal agenicies, and it is determined that a true emergency situation exists and that other methods are not applicable. His decision will be relayed immediately to the fish and wildlife service field force who will place and control the M-44 devices.

Environmental protection agency permit allows the fish and wildlife service to use the M-44 device during the emergency period. The permit was granted under provisions of section 5 of the federal insecticide, fungicide, and rodenticide act, as amended, and will be effective through October 31. Without such authority from the EPA, it would not be possible to implement the emergency procedures announced by Secretary Morton.

The permit also requires the department of the interior in cooperation with the environmental protection agency to gather data in each situation on the efficiency of the device and its use and additional information on its possible effect on environment.

SHEEP JUDGING requires close inspection of the animals, particularly when they are covered with several inches of wool. Barry Newton of Thief River Falls is pictured as he participated in the sheep judging event held recently during sheep days at Greenbush. Newton is a member of the Pennington county 4-H sheep judging team that took first place in the event. Other members of the team are Jeff Knutson and Neil Johnson.

U.S.-Canadian Whopping Crane Exchange Works

Some of the 13 endangered whooping crane eggs picked up in late May from nests in the wilds of Canada are now peeping and pipping in incubators at the Patuxent wildlife research center in Laurel, Maryland, Lynn A. Greenwalt, director of the Interior department's fish and wildlife service, announced.

Peeping is the first audible sign of life heard from within an egg. Pipping is the attempt of the chick to break out of the shell.

The pickup of the eggs was carried out in cooperation with the Canadian wildlife service. Fifteen whooper nests were located by Canadian biologists. U.S. fish and wildlife service scientists joined an expedition to the whoopers' only remaining nesting area, which is in Wood Buffalo national park in Canada's Northwest Territories, to assist in the egg removal.

Fourteen nests had the normal two eggs each. The 15th held only one. A single egg was removed from 13 of the 14 double-egg nests. The removal of one of a pair of eggs does not seem to materially effect the number of young whoopers arriving on the wintering ground. Few families arrive there with more than one chick even though they laid two eggs.

This is the fifth year whooping crane eggs have been picked up from the wild to build a nucleus of a captive breeding flock of this endangered species. A total of 50 eggs have now been taken. Scientists at Patuxent have experienced a 90 per cent hatching success rate so far.

The captive breeding flock now numbers 17 whoopers. Initial nutritional problems with new chicks have been overcome, and the expectations of wildlife biologists at Patuxent are higher this year than ever before for more chicks to reach maturity than in years past when the scientists were developing whooper care procedures.

What the future holds for the endangered whooping craine is unknown. The wild flock numbers only 48 birds. Several options are now under study by both Canadian and U.S. wildlife biologists. Eggs produced in the wild or in captivity could be placed on nests in the wild to be reared by sandhill crane foster parents. Newly hatched chicks could be placed with foster parents, or young whoopers that have reached flight stage could be placed with whoopers about to migrate south for the winter. The decisions on which method to use will be jointly arived by the U.S. fish and wildlife service and the Canadian wildlife service based on the results of studies now in progress in the field and at Patuxent.

WINNER of the professional sheep shearing contest held recently during sheep days at Greenbush, Gary Reinhart of Fargo is pictured competing in the event. Reinhart, a student at North Dakota state university, recently took second in the international competition held in Canada where he competed against professionals from other sheep raising countries such as Australia and New Zealand.

AFTER SHEARING sheep for 35 years, Russell Cory of Lancaster is still going strong and proved it recently when he placed third in competition held during sheep days at Greenbush. His record includes one first, 16 seconds and 10 thirds in the event.

Anglers Told Not To Throw Unused Minnows In Lake

Minnesota anglers were asked by the department of natural resources today not to throw their left over minnows into the lake at the end of the fishing trip.

Fisheries supervisor Chuck Burrows said, "Despite the care used to insure that rough fish species are not taken and sold for bait use, some of these species inevitably find their way into the tanks of bait dealers.

"Emptying minnow buckets into the lake may lead to the stocking of undesirable rough fish into waters where they are not present and where they could adveersely affeect the status of game fish populations."

Burrows also asked anglers not to throw their old monofilament fishing line into the water.

"The plastic substance used to make the line virtually immune from the normal decaying process and will remain in the lake almost indefinitely," he said.

"Fish, waterfowl and other aquatic wife can become entangled in the line and be killed.

It is also a nuisance for other fishermen who often hook the discarded monofilament or get it wrapped around the propellers of their outboard motors," said Burrows.

Bicentennial Group Elects Local Officers

Steering committee and officers of the Thief River Falls bicentennial organization were elected at a meeting held recently at the Thief River Falls city offices. Richard Contos and Mrs. Gerald Odegaard will serve as co-chairpersons for the group.

Mrs. Marvin Walter will be executive secretary and Miss Ardith Johnson will serve as treasurer with Mayor Robert Carlson included as an ex-officio officer. Steering committee will be composed of 12 members with four serving on each subcommittee for "Heritage '76", "Festival USA" and "Horizons '76".

Members of the steering committee include the following: Heritage '76—Inga Geving, Eric Hammershoy, Otto Stenberg and Orville Ellingson; Festival '76—David Olin, Tyrone Birkeland, Milan Borsheim and a member yet to be named; Horizon '76—Dennis Wojahn, Jerry Wigness, Frank Hamerlinck and Gene Beito.

Mrs. Inga Geving and Otto Stenberg were selected by the group to attend a meeting on heritage centers for the Red River Valley area. The heritage center program is being coordinated by the Red River Valley Historical society.

Among local projects for the bicentennial will be development of the pioneer village being organized through the Pennington county historical society. A number of other projects and events are being planned for local observance of the nation's 200th birthday in 1976.

Next meeting of the committee will be June 19 at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers.

DNR Asks End To Stringer Sorting

Department of natural resources today sought to remind anglers that the practice of "stringer sorting" is wasteful and illegal.

Stringer sorting occurs when anglers catch their limit of fish but continue fishing, replacing smaller fish on their stringers with freshly caught larger ones.

Church Burrows, fisheries chief, said the smaller fish taken from the stringer and released usually die.

"Fish seldom survive after being dragged about for any length of time on a stringer," he said. "Often just handling a fish with dry hands will result in the fish's eventual death by removing the protective slime coating from the scaled."

Burrows said anglers who sort their stringers are actually removing more than their legal limit of fish, although they will not have more than their limit in posession when checked by conservation officers.

Dairy Foods Store Best In Refrigerator

"Price of food today is so much higher than a year ago, it naturally makes us think more carefully about our purchases and what we do with them. With this in mind, we thought you'd enjoy some hints on care and storage of dairy products in the refrigerator," suggests Dairy Ann, dairy food consultant for American Dair association of Minnesota.

Milk

Fresh fluid dairy products are perishable foods which should be kept refrigerated at 40 degrees F. to protect flavor and freshness. At this temperature milk will keep for a week or more, but it is best to use within 3-5 days. Pasteurization prevents normal souring of milk or cream. An opened container should be resealed to prevent absorption of other food flavors. After using, return fluid products to refrigerator promptly. Exposure to light destroys flavor and riboflavin.

The acidity of buttermilk increases during storage affecting its smooth body and textrue. For best flavor, use within 3-4 days.

Unopened cans of evaporated milk should be stored in a cool, dry place not above 70 degrees F. and not below freezing. After opening, evaporated milk should be given the same care as regular milk. Store in original container, cover and use within 3-5 days.

Packaged instant nonfat dry milk stores well even at room temperature for 6-8 months. Refrigeration is needed only after reconsititution. Storage at high temperatures or under humid conditions for long periods may cause caking and flavor damage. However, the food value is not affected and the milk can still be used for cooking and baking. For flavor improvement, store it overnight in the refrigerator after mixing.

Sweetened condensed milk can be kept in the unopened can for approximately 6 months in a cool, dry, dark place. Because of the high sugar content, sweetened condensed milk stays sweet and safe for several days if covered and refrigerated.

Cheese

Curd cheeses keep well in the refrigerator for several weeks. Long holding will result in some additional curing and a sharper flavor.

Cheese should not be kept outside of the refrigerator for extended periods. Exposed to air and heat, cheese dries out, "oils-off" and might become moldy. Proper storage at 40 degrees F. preserves the original flavor and appearnace and insures full use of the cheese without waste. Original wrapping, waxed paper, transparent wrap, aluminum foil and plastic bags are all satisfactory wrapping ro refrigerator storage. Cover tightly to exclude air if large pieces are to be stored for any extended period of time.

Natural cheeses when improperly wrapped or under moist conditions may develop mold spots. This harmless mold can be scraped off and no change in flavor will be noticed unless the mold has penetrated deeply into cracks in the cheese. In such cases the molding portion should be discarded. With Blue cheese, however, its unique flavor comes from the molding process.

Cheese that has dried out may be grated and kept in a covered container in the refrigerator. Pasteurized processed cheese should be refrigerated after opening to prevent drying and unattractive "oiling off".

Cottage Cheese

Store cottage cheese as you would fresh milk—refrigerated and covered. Use this delicately flavored product within a few days after purchase to insure maximum flavor appeal. It's highly perishable. Keep it covered to prevent it from picking up oders and developing off flavors. When stored tightly covered, at 35-40 degrees F., it should stay at its peak of flavor and texture for about 1 week.

Butter

To keep butter at its best keep it: Clean, cold and covered! Keep butter in the coldest portion of the refrigerator at 40 degrees F. or lower wrapped in its original package. Butter will keep for several weeks under these conditions. Keep partially used butter in a covered butter dish in the refrigerator. If the refrigerator has a butter storage compartment, keep only the amount of butter to be used within 2-3 days. The compartment's temperature is higher to keep butter at its best spreading consistency.

Because salt acts as a preservative; unsalted butter is more susceptible to changes during storage than salted butter. Its delicate flavor can be insured by limiting the time of storage to a week or two.

Long exposure at room temperature or exposure to light results in the loss of fine butter flavor. But butter back in refrigerator between meals.

Ice Cream

Best dipping or slicing temperature for vanilla ice cream is about 5 degrees F. Ice cream is easier to scoop or slice if moved from freezer to refrigerator to soften. Temper by allowing about 20 minutes for ½ gallon, 10 minutes per pint for scooping; 10 minutes and five minutes, respectively; for slicing. Chocolate, fruit and nut ice creams with higher sugar content, have a lower melting point and can be dipped and served at 0 degrees freezer temperature.

Sour Cream

Keep dairy sour cream clean, cold and covered at 40 degrees F. Store in original container in the coldest part of the refrigerator. When you buy dairy sour cream, refrigerate it immediately. Then to insure the retention of its smooth, tangy flavor, place the carton upside down to prevent the entrance of air. Dairy sour cream will last two weeks for maximum flavor enjoyment. If stored for longer periods, the acidity may continue to increase and the result may be a sharper flavored product.

Yogurt

To retain the fresh flavor and smooth texture of yougurt, store it in the refrigerator at 40 degrees F. Yogurt should be consumed within 7-10 days after purchase to give maximum flavor enjoyment.

If stored for longer periods, the acidity may continue to increase resulting in a sharper flavored product. At this time, palatability is your main concern since the high acidity of yogurt protects it against undesirable bacteria. If the yogurt smells fresh it will taste good.

Separation is normal, so just stir the liquid back into the yogurt and enjoy it. Spoon off any mold since it is harmless and the remainder of the yogurt will be edible.

Unopened containers with tight fitting lids may be stored upside down to prevent air from entering the carton; once opened, store it right side up.

Thought For The Day

This is the season of graduations from the various schools. And graduates are celebrating their successful completion of a course of studies. But they would be quite unrealistic if they considered graduation as the ultimate goal of education.

I am hopeful that none of us thinks of graduation as a goal in itself. We are surely concerned with a great deal more than such short term goals. Education, if it has any significance at all, is vitally important for all of one's life.

If the graduate has also matured in a vital faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord, there are some specific qualities of attitude that will govern his life from that point on.

Keep Our Guard Up

Following editorial comment is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Soviet sea power is rising as the strength of the United States naval forces declines, Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt says in a current magazine interview.

Adm. Zumwalt, the outgoing chief of naval operations, says that Russian naval superiority may be a sure prospect if it is not already a fact. Russia has been steadily building its strength on land and sea and in the air. While the United States has maintained a policy of curtailing its forces, the Soviet Union has increased its manpower.

What makes the prospect most alarming is the admiral's prediction that Russia will probably not keep its word on disarmament agreements. Russia has steadfastly opposed any form of on-the-site inspection which the admiral says would be the only guarantee that Russia would comply with any arms limitations pacts.

Furthermore, Adm. Zumwalt indicates his belief that Russia will resume an aggressive foreign policy as soon as it has military superiority.

How would this happen? The admiral suggests that Russian domination would come by a "series of salami slices in which they (Russia) take a stand or change the political orientation of a nation, and we feel unable to do anything about it." Loss of control of the oceans economically and militarily would pave the way for such actions.

Adm. Zumwalt believes that it is now uncertain whether or not the U.S. could control and use the sea lanes in a crisis. That means we might not be able to keep our overseas imports moving. Sixty-nine of our 72 critical raw materials come to us by sea at the present time. And with demands for energy increasing so rapidly, the admiral points out that the U.S. will require about 50 per cent of its oil from overseas in 1980.

Some may consider this a strange way for a top naval officer to be talking at a time when relations between Russia and the United States appear relatively strong. His voice should be heard, however, for he has been close to such matters for many years.

Nothing Russia has done indicates any change in its goal of world domination. It is right and reasonable for the great powers, the Soviet Union and the United States, to be on as friendly terms as possible. But this nation can not afford to relax its vigilance and its strength in the hope that Russia will be a kindly and considerate ally.

U.S. citizens are weary of conflict and tired of the heavy drain of military expenditures. Where savings can be made, they should be accomplished quickly and efficiently. But this is no time to turn our backs on the facts of liife and the quite obvious truth that Russia does not share our goal of a democratic way of life for all who wish it.

. . . But Not Too Often

Following editorial is from one of our exchange papers and comments on the standard practice today of public reaction after the fact:

One jury should have been more than ample, more than enough. But apparently it wasn't. It seems that ever since a federal court jury has pronounced its judgment on former attorney general John Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans everybody has been getting into the judicial picture.

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said he did not have all of the necessary information to pronounce judgement himself, or words to that effect. In the view of the fact that a jury of their peers had already reached a verdict—in this case innocent on all counts—we don't really see where it is very necessary for the senator from South Dakota to add his approval or disapproval to the actions of the jury.

Even more glaring were the remarks of a television reporter on the scene in New York at the time the verdict was announced. He told the world that he didn't know exactly why, but the jury had found both Mitchell and Stans innocent on all counts. Frankly, we admire his zest as a reporter but unless he was locked up in the jury room with the rest of them he really couldn't know "why," any more than we could.

The point is that the matter of Stans and Mitchell landed in the lap of the court, where the entire Watergate mess should have been in the first place. After a lengthy trial and due deliberation, America's judicial system was put to the test and arrived at a verdict. Their verdict should have been enough—without the added commentary of a South Dakota congressman or a television reporter. If this is not true, America has been quite proud of an inadequate judicial system for an unbelievably long period of time.

We can only assume that the jury in New York knew what it was doing. The long experience of our system would indicate that the odds are overwhelming in its favor. Mistakes have no doubt been made over the years—but not too often.

Short Sheets Again?

Following editorial is from the Portland Oregonian:

Charging higher prices for shrunken products is getting to be a frequent method of modifying the full impact of inflation. When production costs rise, prices may rise accordingly or the product can be made much smaller or manufacturers may raise the price a little and cut the size a little.

When the cost of candy bars rose to 15 cents, the bars were smaller than the old 5-cent and then 10-cent product.

When bath towels went up in price, the size noticeably made it harder to grasp both ends firmly for a back rubdown after a bath.

Now, manufacturers say that sheets are being made shorter and narrower—not the bottom contour sheets, but flat top sheets in regular and luxury sizes.

It was too good to last. For a time sheets that pulled out at the bottom of the bed and wadded up around the knees in the night were only a memory, as was the tug-of-war when beds were shared and one sleeper rolled over taking the sheet with him and leaving his bed companion shivering in the cold.

Americans became accustomed to extra-long or extra-wide beds with linen to match. While they were enjoying the good nights' sleep, the price of cotton zoomed; labor costs, shipping costs and all the variables including the price of polyester—the fabric that made wrinkles a thing of the past—climbed higher. To compensate, manufacturers are reducing the size and raising the price.

"Short-sheeting" was a good natured practical joke that was funny because it was readily remedied. But there aren't likely to be many guffaws from those who sleep double if they have to fight for shares of short and narrow sheets like their grandparents did with muslin sheets that shrank. Will this be one shortage they won't take lying down?

Waiting In Line

"American housewives may occassionally get a little miffed at the prices they find in their friendly neighborhood supermarkets, but at least they don't have to waste much time on their rounds, as shoppers do in the communist countries. A Polish newspaper. . .(has) reported that a family in that country spends 6.5 hours a week standing in line for one thing or another.

These were the average waits: To make a bank withdrawal, 45 minutes; to send a postal money order, 30 minutes; to buy a piece of meat, 40 to 45 minutes; to reach the fruit and vegetable counter, 15 minutes. The annual total of the country is 2.5 billion man-hours, enough to increase Poland's gross national product by 20 per cent. All that waiting would not be tolerated in America, where people are so impatient they honk at the car ahead of them the moment the traffic light turns green. With the exception of long waits at the gas pump, that is."

Give It Time

We don't know why so many people seem so excited about litter and the environment. Researchers at Penn State university have speculated that a tin can discarded today should be completely broken down by the year 2073. Aluminum cans tossed away today should be degraded by 2143 and plastic wrappers by the year 2200.

Even glass bottles can't be expected to last beyond the year 1001972, according to the report. Why worry about a litter problem? It will go away if we give it enough time....

...And stop littering day.

Borrowed Nonsense

For the second consecutive year, an Iowa man listed his occupation as "hired killer" when he filed his federal income tax.

The listing got no response from the Internal Revenue Service last year, so he decided to pull the same gag this year.

He is a pest exterminator.

Said the trembling lion hunter: "Nervous? No, I'm not nervous. Just incredibly alert."

notes from the governor

Perhaps the most significant issue to come before the nation's governors at our national conference in Seattle last week was national health insurance.

Health consumers are caught in a sprial of rising health costs. Some 25 million Americans now have no health insurance protection at all. Millions more have inadequate coverage. So the various national proposals discussed at the conference received intense scrutiny by the governors.

I found the governors largely united in their belief that some kind of national assistance in financing health care for citizens is now a major national priority. We differed on whether the Social Security system or private insurers should manage the program. But we agreed on several basic principles in the resolution we passed.

As its first priority in the health area, the Conference urged prompt enactment of federal legislation to guarantee adequate health benefits to citizens regardless of their personal financial resources. We also agreed that employers or individual citizens and the government should all share the costs of insurance in a fair and efficient system.

There was no support for "government" medicine. Instead, the governors emphasized the use of existing private enterprise medical services, local rather than federal planning and regulation and a continuing shared responsiblity for such programs as drug abuse, alcoholism, mental health, and mental retardation services. Further, the task of educating doctors, nurses and other health professionals in each state should primarily be a state responsibility, the governors said.

The National Governors Conference has long held that adequate health care should be available and accessible for our citizens. But this year the Conference declared the problem an urgent national priority and asked for immediate congressional action.

At the same time, working at the state level as we do where real health problems of people are close and visible, we made it very clear that national health insurance efforts must allow a major continuing role for state and local governments and preserve our private enterprise delivery system.

Senate Report

— by —

Senator Richard Fitzsimons
Minnesota District One

I write this news item after just returning from two days of hearings and consultations with the Minnesota Congressional and Senate delegations and a number of federal agencies in Washington, D.C.

While in the Capitol I had the opportunity to visit with the Minnesota Congressional delegation on the proposal before the secretary of the treasury for the transfer of several customs offices from the Pembina customs jurisdiction to the Duluth jurisdiction. I personally conveyed to them the strong interest as evidenced by people in northwest Minnesota for this change.

Likewise, I was part of a Senate and House delegation from the Minnesota resources commission that met with the national park officials in the department of interior on some boundary changes for the Voyageurs national park. A strong plea has been made to delete a small prime duck hunting area from the park itself and put it into a state game managment area that would permit hunting if permitted by Minnesota state department of natural resources rules.

Last week Secretary of Agriculture Butz ended a freeze on $120 million of money appropriated for rural sewer and water grants. Several communities in northwest Minnesota have application in for these funds but the guidelines for their distribution have not us yet been released. With the construction season for this kind of operation relatively short in northwest Minnesota, I had the opportunity to stress the urgency in getting the new guidelines out.

During the stay in Washington I had the opportunity to attend a reception sponsored by the Minnesota society for three retiring Minnesota Congressmen.

Congressman Ancher Nelson, John Zwach and John Blatnik were honored at the reception. Senator Hubert Humphrey delivered the farewell message on behalf of the Minnesoa Congressional and Senate delegation. It was obvious from Senator Humphrey's words and the testimony reveived that these three retiring Minnesota Congressmen were highly regarded on Capitol Hill.

Involve Public In Planning Of State Highways

Soon to be published by the Minnesota highway department is a hefty volume describing in detail how it will enlist the assistance of public agencies and the citizenry in future transportation planning, commissioner Ray Lappegaard announced recently.

All states are required by federal law to set up ways and means for citizens and public agencies to bring their influence to bear on plans for the construction or improvement of federal-aid roads and streets. Favoring the idea, Lappegaard expanded its scope to include also trunk highway work not covered by the law.

Lappegaard's concern about undesirable side effects of highway work is not new. Two years ago, speaking before the National highway research board, he urged support for those concerned with environmental degradation, for "those who speak out against noise, against pollution, against ugliness." Opposing the extreme positions of some who would impose a narrow lifestyle on the majority, he called for striking a balance between care for the environment and equally important needs for mobility and economic growth.

The "Action Plan," as the publication is called, provides for early and continuing participation of the public and public organizations in all transportation planning done by the Minnesota Highway department. It describes how possibly adverse asocial, economic or environmental effects will now be identified in early planning stages, and how a broad new approach to planning, using the skills of social, physical and natural scientists will alleviate undesirable side effects that are unavoidable.

The action plan calls for an examination of other transportation alternatives at every step of the process, including a 'no-build' alternative characterized by Commissioner Lappegaard as always a prime consideration.

Three new features are introduced into state transportation planning by the action plan. The first is a statewide technical advisory committee representing nine agencies of state government and the 13 regional development commissions. Second is the recognition that transportation planning is a part of the comprehensive land-use planning now to be done by the regional development commissions, whose combined plans will become the blueprint for the state as a whole. The third feature of the plan makes provision for frequent public meetings, statewide, throughout the planning process.

Additional innovations, also calculated to keep public organizations and the citizenry up-to-date on how things are coming along, are the naming of knowledgeable information officers in the nine district offices and the St. Paul headquarters, the designation of district office liaison officers to coordinate planning between the Highway Department and the regional development commissions, and a provision for 'highway information days' at the district offices and in St. Paul.

Finally, a special office to carry out provisions of the new action plan and to refine it from time to time as experience warrants will be set up in the capital headquarters. The plan is slated to go into effect November 1.

Minnesota's Ethnic Groups To Celebrate

In 1855, three years before Minnesota became a state, the territorial legislature established a commissioner of immigration in an attempt to lure more homesteaders to Minnesota's farmlands. Continued efforts to attract settlers were made by the railroads for the next 15 years.

Groups of settlers from Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Wales and Germany had already established homesteads in east and southeastern Minnesota by 1858, and after the Civil War, waves of immigrants, as part of the postwar influx, contributed to the state's increasing population. By 1880, the population had reached 780,000, an increase of more than 340,000 in 10 years.

The immigrants, uprooted from countries and cultures they had known for a lifetime, recreated a part of their native heritage by planning celebrations reflecting their ethnic backgrounds. Many of these celebrations have survived nearly 100 years.

By exploring the state's ethnic festivals, one can trace the patterns of the earliest settlements in Minnesota.

Minnesota's Swedes

First groups of serious settlers began arriving in the eastern sections of the state in the 1840s. Swedish pioneers who endured incredible hardships on the ships that brought them to America found their way into Washington and Chisago counties.

The town of Chisago City celebrates Ki Chi Sago Day on September 14 with an Old World Market, parade and dance. The participants in the Old World Market sell antiques, food and crafts and wear native Swedish dress in their booths.

The Zion Lutheran church in Chisago City is celebrating its centennial all this year with special activities planned each month. At the Midsummer Fest on June 23, the Sunday service will be conducted totally in Swedish. On August 11, Settlers Sunday, the congregation will wear settlers' clothing and arrive at church in horse-drawn carriages. Many old traditions will be observed, even to the point of seating men and women on opposite sides of the church as was the practice until 1888.

North of Chisago City in Cambridge, the Minnesota traveler can find a Swedish Festival on June 14-16. The Swedish Institute dancers will perform and gourmands will be able to eat their fill of the famous Swedish meatballs. A beauty pageant, parade and canoe races are part of this three-day celebration.

Further north of Mora, you'll find two other Swedish-influenced celebrations. Mora has a Swedish sister city by the same name so its activities are patterned after not only its native land but also a particular Swedish community.

Mora hosts the Vasaloppet cross country ski race each February. In Sweden, this race draws 10,000 competitors who begin the race with what is termed a "mass start," where all competitors begin together as opposed to staggered groupings or heats. Mora patterns its race after Sweden's, even to the point of serving blueberry soup shipped from Sweden.

On June 14-16, Dala Days are also held in Mora. The festival's name comes from Dalsland, the area where Mora, Sweden, is located. The Dala (or Dalecarlian) horse was a holy animal in Mora, during heathen times. Today the horses, symbolic of the community, are sold in Mora's shops. As you drive into Mora, you can't miss the brightly painted Dala Horse which stands 25 feet high.

Swedes in the Twin Cities celebrate Svenskarnas Dag (The Swedish Day) on June 23 in Minnehaha Park. This festival follows the Swedish tradition of having a celebration in midsummer. The day's activities draw more than 40,000 people who promote and continue traditional culture a church service is held in the morning followed by a band concert, olk dancing and singing.

Minnesota's Norwegians

Minnesota's Norwegians settled mainly in southeastern Minnesota in the 1860's. Some moved to the Red River Valley in the '70s and '80s to raise wheat in this fertile region.

Norwegians in Spring Grove celebrated the Norwegian National Holiday, Independence Day, on May 17-19. The festival, called Syttende Mai Fest, included coronation of a queen and king of the Trolls, Olympic runners, a parade, a smorgasbord, fiddlers bee and a drawing for a trip to Norway.

The Norwegian community of Elbow Lake in the Red River Valley was settled in the 1870s. It is the only city in Minnesota with a Norwegian sister city. The Sister City Celebration is held on June 15. To honor its Norwegian counterpart, Elbow Lake renamed the lake on its outskirts, Flekkefjord. This year's celebration will feature an internationally known 40-voice choir from Norway.

Norwegians streamed into Minneapolis in the 1890s as their numbers increased with the advent of railroads. Their descendants in the Twin Cities gather on Norway Day, July 14 in Minnehaha Park for a morning church service in Norwegian, followed by speeches, folk dancing and singing.

Minnesota's Danes

Danes, the smallest group of Scandinavian immigrants (only 14,000 by 1890 in Minnesota), settled in Freeborn, Steele and Lincoln counties. Tyler was and still is the Danish center of Lincoln county.

On June 14 and 15, Tyler celebrates Ableskiver Days. Ableskivers, Danish pancakes, are served during the entire two-day festival. The elebration also includes a barbecue, queen contest, regional diary day for local 4-H club members and a parade.

Danish Days are combined with a Rutabaga Festival in Askov, Minnesota, August 23-24. Ableskivers are also served here. Festival planners say some people travel to Askov only to eat this Danish pancake specialty. Talent shows on Friday and Saturday feature local talen as well as entertainment from Sandstone prison inmates.

Danes from all over the midwest gather in Minneapolis' Minnehaha Park on June 9, Danish Constitution Day, to celebrate with a Danish "smorrebrod," folk dancing and music. A Danish outdoor church service is also conducted.

Minnesota's Scandinavian Mixtures

Swedes, Danes and Norwegians came together for a unique celebration on May 24-26 in the Cedar-Riverside area of Minneapolis. The celebration called the Snoose Boulevard Festival focused on the entertainment heritage of the Scandinavian-Americans in days gone by through reconstructing the Scandinavian entertainment life of the Cedar-Riverside area where dance halls like Dania Hall once thrived.

Concerts were given by Swedish folk singer and actress, Anne Charlotte Harvey. Other activities included parades, dancing for schottische enthusiasts, fiddlers, accordianists, sale of Scandinavian foods and general revival of the old time entertainment culture.

Another Scandinavian festival which does not identify itself with any particular Scandinavian country is Willmar's Kaffe Fest on June 27-29. The town is known for its afternoon coffee, a tradition growing out of a coffee drinking club formed years ago. During the festival, free coffee and cookies are served. Other events include a carnival, parade and queen coronation.

Minnesota's Germans

Scandinavians certainly weren't Minnesota's only immigrants. In fact, Germans were the largest single international element in the state in 1880 with 66,000 people. Early settlements were found around the St. Cloud area and in Brown County.

New Ulm traditionally has a Musikantenfest (formerly Polka Days), however, it won't be held this year. The town is busy developing a Historic Trail in the central business district. It will emphasize New Ulm's German tradition, the 1862 Dakota (Sioux) Uprising and New Ulm's history. German tradition will be highlighted by a tower for a Glockenspiel (a large German clock) which also has carillon bells and figurines. A beer garden and court is also planned.

Young America will hold its 113th annual Stiftungsfest celebration on August 23-25. This German festival is the oldest continuous celebration in Minnesota. It originally started as a musical celebration but time has added less ethnic oriented activities like a carnival, barbecue and softball games. You can be assured that they haven't sacrificed the beer garden and polka dancing.

Minnesota's Slavs

Minnesota's Iron Range is shared by two ethnic groups, the Jugoslavs and the Finns. Slavs gather in Eveleth on July 21 for All-Slav-Day. The celebration has been held in towns all over the Range including Ely, the first settlement of Slavs in Minnesota.

The Slovanian Culture Society of Thunder Bay, Canada, provides signing and dancing, and the refreshments include locally made sausage.

Minnesota's Scots

The gathering of the clans is held twice a year in Mapleton, where a Scottish settlement on the Maple river was established in the 1850s. In January, the settlers gathered, commemorating the birth of Scottish poet Robert Burns. Scottish music, dancing, singing, gathering of the clans and crowning of Miss Bonnie Lass were held. In addition, curling trophies were awarded. (Mapleton lays claim to the title of the cradle of Minnesota's curling. Its village seal has crossed brooms and a curling stone.) If you've never had haggis, a special Scottish dish made from oatmeal, suet and spices, here is your opportunity to try it.

On June 15-16 the clans gather again in Mapleton for the Highland games. These athletic events include the hammerthrow, weight and stone toss and caber poll toss. Highland dancing competition takes place along with massed bagpipe and drum bands.

Minnesota's Poles

If you're a fan of Polska kielbasa (Polish sausage), plan to be in Ivanhoe on August 9-10 for Polska Kielbasa Days. This town, settled by the Poles around 1900, serves free sausage during its two-day festivities. Polish American dancers from the Twin Cities perform and wycinanki (Polish paper cutting) will be taught and demonstrated.

Minnesota's Dutch

Directly south of Ivanhoe in Edgerton, you'll hear the tap of wooden shoes on July 16-17 as this Dutch community celebrates its Annual Dutch Festival. The local residents dress in the traditional Dutch attire for two days. This year's festival will feature ball games, a parade, and special entertainment. This is the only Dutch festival in the state. Though the number of Dutch immigrants was small (2,000 by 1890), they formed distinctive communities.

Minnesota's Swiss

Another unique and singular community in the state is Berne. A Swiss community near West Concord, Minnesota history records that Swiss settlements were found by Major Stephen Long's expedition as early as the mid-1820's. The inhabitants of Berne are primarily descendents of immigrants from the cantons (comparable to our counties) of Berne and Glarus in Switzerland. Part of the annual celebration includes a parade of flags depecting the cantons of Switzerland.

Swissfest activities on August 13 include yodeling, Swiss folk dancing, alphorn blowing, Swiss wrestling and stone throwing. The food fare offers traditional Swiss delicacies: white sugar cookies (a favorite with the Swiss), Big Nothings (a cookie called kuechlis), pear bread (berrebroot) and rabbit ears (nusli). Switzerland doesn't seem so far away when you visit Berne.

Minnesota's Belgians

In the late 1880s and '90s, a Catholic bishop encouraged the immigrantion of Belgians to Minnesota. They settled in Ghent; and to this day, this is probably the most Belgian community in the state. They celebrate thier national vrigins on Belgian American Day, August 10.

Events for the day include a parade, queen coronation and prysbolling, the Belgian National Sport (it looks somewhat like lawn bowling). Belgian cookies and waffles are on hand all day.

Minnesota's Czechs

Save September 8 to visit the Kolacky Kapitol of the World on Kolacky Day in Montgomery. This Czech town—still 60-70 per cent Bohemian—was settled in the 1850s along with New Prague and Silver Lake. The kolacky, a Bohemian bun, is honored by the town with a full day of activities including a parade, slow pitch softball tournament, midway and king and queen coronation. The king, rather than being chosen for beauty, poise and personality, qualifies by the number of kolackies he can consume. If you want to be in the running, you will have to be able to eat more than 20 of these Czech delicacies.

Minnesota's Irish

Minnesota's Irish, as one would expect, celebrate on St. Patrick's Day. St. Paul's parade dominates the city, and bars do a record business in Irish whiskey. The Irish sought land in Minnesota in the 1850s and '60s. "The largest and most successful Catholic colonization program ever undertaken in the United States was that sponsored by bishop John Ireland in Minnesota between 1876 and 1881," wrote James P. Shannon.

And finally, in an effort to recognize the contributions of many other ethnic groups who contribute to the diversity of Minnesota, Duluth will host the Annual Folk Festival in Leif Erikson Park on August 3. The program includes ethnic music and dance and an art and craft fair.

Looking ahead now the 1976 national Bicentennial year, the International Institute in St. Paul will hold its Festival of Nations at the St. Paul Civic Center in May 1976. This festival, held only every three years incorporates all nationalities and highlights the pluralism of Minnesota's ethnic heritage.

"Doughnut" Treasures

These are not really doughnuts at all but they taste much like them — and they're treasures indeed! Best of all, even a non-pastry cook can whip them up. Spread slices of white bread with preserves, as though you were making sandwiches. Slice these in fourths, dip into a pancake mix batter, and then fry till golden brown. Like doughnuts, they're delicious, they're delightful. And just great for late summer, fall (or any time) get-togethers!

"DOUGHNUT" TREASURES

Makes 16 doughnuts

8 slices thin-sliced white bread
¼ cup preserves or marmalade
¾ cup pancake mix
½ cup milk
1 egg

Trim crusts from bread. Spread each of 4 slices with 1 tablespoon jam; top with remaining 4 slices. Cut each sandwich into quarters.

Combine pancake mix, milk and egg in bowl. Stir lightly until batter is fairly smooth. Dip sandwich quarters in batter; drain. Fry in hot deep fat (375° F.) about 2 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar before serving.

what's the use?

Hospitals have found a new use for foam cups that works well at home, too. A large foam cup filled halfway with water or concentrated juice, capped and frozen so the fluid's at an angle, will produce enough rock-solid ice to keep contents cool for hours. Perfect for picnics because of its light weight and temperature retaining qualities, a foam cup filled this way provides enough ice for many refills. It eliminates carrying leaky bags of ice cubes, too. Foam cups replace the old ice-carafe-glass system in many hospitals with studies to show the foam cup-for-ice-water method to be three times as sanitary, more economical and easier to handle. Why not try the idea when someone is ill, and always keep some in the freezer ready for any thirsty member of the family now that you'll all be spending more time out of doors.

Hypertension Major Problem In Nation Of Health Problems

You may have high blood pressure—a disease that makes you a vulnerable target for stroke, kidney disease and heart failure—and not even know it.

Half the estimated 30 million people in America with high blood pressure don't even know they have it. What's more, half of those who know they have hypertension (the medical term for high blood pressure) aren't being treated, and half of them are being treated inadequately, according to the family economics bureau of a large life insurance company.

Here are the facts:

(1) Hypertension is the primary cause of 60,000 deaths each year.

(2) Hypertension is the most important predisposing factor in coronary disease and stroke and accounts for more than 50 per cent of the deaths each year.

(3) Hypertension costs the country at least $5 billion per year in economic loss resulting from death, disability and related disease among people under 65.

A federally-funded national campaign of major private, professional and governmental organizations is working to alert the public about the dangers of high blood pressure.

Elliott Richardson, former secretary of health, education and welfare, called hypertension "a hidden time bomb ticking away to its moment of detonation."

The emphasis is on the word "hidden." Hypertension is virtually symptomless; its basic cause unknown. It cannot be cured—only controlled—and doctors disagree on their definitions of it.

Symptoms begin appearing when the disease becomes severe—and it can become severe quickly—when pressure readings rise above 140-90. Symptoms may include dizziness, shortness of breath, headaches, fatigue, insomnia, flushing of the face, and pain over the heart or in the left chest. These symptoms, however, can also indicate other causes.

An old wives' tale has it that fat people with florid faces have high blood pressure. No so, says Dr. John B. Stokes, III, executive secretary of the National high blood pressure education program of the Nation heart and lung institute. "Hypertension does not relate to the appearance of a person," says Dr. Stokes.

Because it does its deadly work so quietly, hypertension probably is "our most overlooked major disease," according to the National Heart and Lung institute.

One indication of its prevalence was found in San Diego county where 40,000 people were screened: 30 per cent of them were referred to their physicians for treatment of hypertension.

High pressure makes your heart pump harder, exerting greater force against artery walls and, after a time, damaging your blood vessels and kidneys and causing your heart to enlarge or to fail completely.

Hypertension is conductive to artery-clogging deposits that can cut off the supply of blood to heart and brain, causing heart attack and stroke.

If a hypertensive person does not get treatment, his condition will almost surely worsen. Also, the more severe the hypertension, the shorter a person's lifespan is likely to be.

Health and life insurance companies used to consider nearly everyone with high blood pressure an unacceptable or high insurance risk.

However, because of the excellent drug treatment available today, many persons with mildly—to moderately-elevated blood pressure are now considered normal insurance risks, or else they can be insured with only a modest increase in premium.

Insurance companies have long been active in recognizing and substantiating the importance of high blood pressure as it relates to a person's longevity. In fact, a life insurance company medical director at the turn of the century invented and perfected the devise used to check blood pressure: call a sphygmomanometer.

Insurance companies, in setting premium rates related to hypertension, consider these factors: duration, severity and treatment of high blood pressure; weight and age; family history; presence or absence of a recent normal electrocardiogram and chest X-ray; cardiovascular complications; and blood cholesterol and trigylceride levels.

Hypertension is not, as some people think, a characteristic affliction of the elderly. It strikes young adults and middle-agers, too—people in the prime of their lives. The incidence of hypertension, however, rises with age.

At all ages, up to 80, hypertension rates are higher for blacks than for whites. Overall, twice as many blacks have hypertension as whites—and it tends to be more severe in blacks. The reasons for this are not known.

Because of the severe consequences of high blood pressure, a number of national organizations are now trying to induce all Americans to have their blood pressure checked—but it's an uphill battle.

Nevertheless, the evidence that hypertension is, indeed, a deadly disease may persuade some to ask, "What can I do?"

You can stop smoking and stop eating high-cholesterol foods.

When a hypertensive male, 39 to 59 years old, eats a lot of high-cholesterol foods and smokes, he is five times more likely to die prematurely. This is the conclusion of research done in Albany, Chicago, and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The "composite" individual most susceptible to hypertension would be a young, overweight, black male with low income and a family history of hypertension who smokes cigarettes, drinks a lot of coffee, and eats salty food with high cholesterol and saturated fat content.

A family history of hypertension, high blood pressure as a youth, and cigarette smoking is another deadly combination.

According to genetic studies, if both parents are hypertensive, 46 per cent of their children will be hypertensive. If neither parent is hypertensive, only three per cent of their children will contract the disease, on the average.

Drs. Meyer Friedman and Ray H. Rosenman of Mt. Zion hospital, San Francisco, recently described the personalities of people who are prone to heart attacks as a result of hypertension in their book, "Type A Behavior and Your Heart." A hypertension-prone person, they say, moves, walks and eats rapidly, is impatient with activity that's slower than his normal pace, does two things at once, such as shaving while driving, and feels guilty while relaxing.

There can be no treatment of hypertension without diagnosis. Large numbers of hypertension cases are uncovered each year through examination of life insurance applicants, through pre-employment physicals, and other types of required routine health exams. However, millions of people with high blood pressure go undetected.

The status of hypertension as "our most overlooked major disease" is being attacked by:

(1) The "National High Blood Pressure Program" coordinated by the National Heart and Lung Institute and funded by Congress. Fourteen clinical centers each have enlisted about 800 adult volunteers with high blood pressure. They will be treated, and their health closely monitored, for five years, to identify the most effective treatment.

(2) A national Veterans Administration program that eventually will involve 168 VA hospitals in screening and treating hypertension among the 30 million veterans in the U.S. The program is reaching non-veterans and families of veterans, too, through screeing programs sponsored by local veterans and service organizations, heart associations, and medical groups.

(3) An American Medical association effort urges doctors to check the blood pressure of every patient—even those who see them for a common cold—and also endorses a program of blood pressure readings by dentists. The AMA is informing the public of the need for periodic checkups and the importance of accepting—and continuing—treatment.

Fortunately, there is plenty of hope for treated hypertensives—in contrast to the prospect of early death, disability, and heightened susceptibility to disease that faces persons with untreated high blood pressure. Thanks to the number of effective drugs with few side-effects which have been developed over the past 15 years, no other major life-threatening, chronic illness can be as effectively treated as hypertension.

In addition to drugs, the treatment of hypertension may include exercise, more sleep, a low-fat diet, reduced salt intake, a diuretic to reduce the amount of water in the body, mild sedatives and weight reduction. Your physician may suggest your try just about anything that calms you—a warm bath, good book, movie, or even transcendental meditation.

In the long run, according to the company, it should be far less expensive to control hypertension than to care for those who become disabled and economically unproductive as a consequence of the disease.

"And this makes it $90 million," says 6-year-old Alex Mera, as he hands UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim a check for $7,696,000 payable to the United Nations Children's Fund. The contribution brings to more than $90 million the total raised by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF in the past 21 years from the annual "Trick or Treat" collection by American youngsters on Halloween, the sale of UNICEF greeting cards, and individual and corporate gifts. Rachel Boschen, 4, expresses her approval of helping children of the developing world through UNICEF.

Boating Tips...

NAUTICAL TERMS

Every good boater should recognize and use the colorful and traditional language of the sea. Without a command of basic nautical terminology, the neophyte boater dooms himself to the classification of "landlubber." To help prevent this calamity, the Mercury outboard boating experts developed the above illustration to identify the proper nomenclature for an outboard boat. Gunwale is pronounced "gunnel."

Acting President Views Role At 'U' of Minnesota

by Bill Huntzicker
University news service

E.W. Ziebarth, who has been named interim president of the University of Minnesota, believes that education should be an "integrating" and "liberating" experience.

While he admitted that his five-month appointment is not earth-shaking, Ziebarth said he believes the transitional role at a time when the university is evaluating priorities can be an important one.

Ziebarth, who was dean of the University's college of liberal arts (CLA) for ten years, will be available to begin his new duties before president Malcolm Moos leaves July 1 and to continue after C. Peter Magrath arrives in late September.

"Clearly someone has to perform the transitional function for an orderly transfer of the presidential office," Ziebarth said. "Issues can arise that might have enormous importance for the university and some of its constituencies.

"I think it would be presumptuous, at the very least, for an interim president to make policy judgements which might make an incoming president prisoner of those judgments," he said.

But, Ziebarth added, he will be in a position to protect the academic environment during this period.

"If we limit the freedom to inquire after truth, even in small measure, it is truth itself which suffers, and all of us are left much poorer," he said.

"Ignorance," Ziebarth told the regents in accepting the appointment, "is also a fearful limitation on the freedom of choice, and no society can afford the cost of limiting the freedoms which such ignorance makes inevitable."

In an interview, Ziebarth defended the size and diversity of the university. He said the university tries to integrate a liberal education into the experience of the most applied and specialized professional.

"A large university can provide experiences in a wide variety of fields so that a student has a meaningful choice, not simply a blind stab at a field that sounds good at the moment," he said.

"We are pulling our students from environments which vary enormously," he said. "The student who comes from a highly limited environment, whether it's the ghetto or whether it is some kind of intellectual ghetto, has a right to interact with students who have other kinds of backgrounds, so that they may learn from each other."

Education takes place in a variety of ways, he said. "It takes place in the dormitory, the dining hall and in the common room, wherever students meet.

"If they meet in a beer hall together and are discussing, as often happens in European universities, issues of moment, I think this could be an extremely important part of education," he said.

Ziebarth said the evaluation of educational priorities at the university will be difficult in the near future. "Accountability in liberal education may be different than accountability in administration, for instance," he said. "In a creative field, it's a tougher problem to judge a person's contribution."

He said that regularization of procedures and faculty appointments shoud not become too rigid to permit creativity.

Ziebarth, who will begin his new duties in mid-June, is a former correspondent for CBS and WCCO radio in the Twin Cities and was once chairman of the university speech department.

During the past year, he has been working on an international communications satellite program. He is a Wisconsin native and graduate of the universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The Senior Citizens met at the Center on Thursday, June 6. The afternoon turned to warmer weather and 24 registered. The visitors were Mrs. Tilda Johnson of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Janice Borowics and Tammy, Evelyn Lefrooth, Mrs. Elmer Kline, Nannie Lefrooth, Oscar and Charmaine Johnson, Swan Lindstrom, and Martin Eskildson.

As usual, the men played cards and the women did their work. Some worked on pillow tops, some on quilts, and many were crocheting fancy potholders. Mrs. Kline brought the Center some sequins, which they can surely use, and they thanked her much. Irene Larson is still at the Greenbush hospital. Hope she'll soon be back. It was nice to have Inga Johnson back at the Center. We are not a large group, so we surely miss those who are not there. Tilda Johnson donated $1 to the Center. She was also the door prize winner—a box of cards donated by Irene Larson. Janice Borowicz gave a five cent tip. Amanda Johnson was the hostess. Evelyn Lefrooth furnished a cake, as she celebrated her birthday at the Center. Her mother, Mrs. Kline, furnished the ice cream. We all enjoyed helping Evelyn celebrate her birthday and the Center honored her with some fridge ornaments and money.

Friday evening visitors at the Eugene Kleinwachter home were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Rierson, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harstad.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Underdahl of Cando, N.D. were overnight guests at the Morris Lindstrom home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Steffenson of Minneapolis, Mrs. Dora Aakhus of Grand Marais, and Mrs. Ella Thun were supper guests at the Douglas Thun home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Steffenson of Minneapolis and Mrs. Dora Aakhus of Grand Marais spent a few days visiting friends and relatives in the area.

Hail losses can kill a year. Come rain or hail, overhead stays the same. Your bills still come due. So if you don't get the crop you planned on, you could be counting up losses instead of profits.
You need insurance protection designed to take on the risks that come with hail. But some hail insurance programs only cover your seed and fertilizer—you're stuck with all the other losses hail can cause. You lose the "rent" due the land, the machine time and fuel, the wages due labor and management—and the profits you need to keep your farm going.
Waseca Mutual Hail Insurance can cover the whole loss, including the profits you would have made if the hail hadn't struck. See us about the hail protection plant that can insure your profits, not just your seed and fertilizer. Waseca Mutual pays cash for hail.

Flag Day Ceremonies Held

Josephine Buringrud Recalls Early Days

(Editor's Note: One of the projects of the Pennington County Historical society has been to secure histories of area pioneers for retention in the society's files. From time to time these personal accounts of early day life in the Thief River Falls area will be featured in the Times.

Today we begin a series of articles condensed by the historical society from the writings of Mrs. Josephine Buringrud, 89, who has been a resident of Valley Home in Thief River Falls for the past 10½ years. Other parts of the series will follow in later editions of the Times.)

PIONEER RESIDENT of the Thief River Falls area is Mrs. Josephine Buringrud, 89, who came to Thief River Falls prior to the turn of the century. She is the mother of Art Buringrud, local postmaster, and has been a resident of Valley home for the past 10½ years. Her recollections of early days in this area, as written for and condensed by the Pennington county historical society, begin in a series in today's issue of the Times.

We arrived by Great Northern train and father met us. The depot was out where the track is west of the city. It was a great disappointment to, me, a lonesome looking place since I had come from a larger city with even a small college.

We started to walk, carrying our suitcases, size of a small trunk, called "telescopes" in those days. We walked through sloughs and finally reached the corner where Ben Franklin store is now located. We stopped there to eat at a small cafe and when I asked my father, "But where is the town?" He said, "You are in it right now."

Oh, what a disappointed girl I was, but we had to find our house and get settled. This was a large newly-built home on the east side of the river in a wooded area. Our nearest neighbor was the McMahon family and a daughter Kathy later became Mrs. Jim Connelly.

Mr. McMahon often took us sleighriding and sightseeing—we went up the river to Squaw Point where we saw the Indian graves. These were mounds with little houses built over them and holes cut into the walls where we were told the Indians would drop food at certain times. The Indian reservation joined the river there; it had not been opened for settlement. Chief Moosedung thought himself a very important fellow but was very pleasant to us.

One night I had quite a scare, woke up to drum beats on tin pans and hollering. My first thought was "Oh, the Indians are coming!" My dad went to investigate and it was a charivari, for Louise Lonson and Ben Erickson who had just been married.

I remember how narrow the streets were and how muddy. At times it was all the oxen or horses could do to pull wagons through them. The sidewalks were just

Pennington Has Local Tax Drop

Despite massive injections of federal and state aids to local government, property taxes levied in Minnesota zoomed upward by nearly $100 million this year, reaching an all-time record statewide total of $1,081,455,756, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association. Pennington was one of only nine counties to show a decrease.

This was a major point in a 12-page analysis of property taxes payable this year, distributed to its members this week by the taxpayer group. The analysis compares 1973 and 1974 taxable values, mill rates, tax levies, homestead tax credits and net taxes payable, county by county and statewide.

In Pennington county the total of peroperty taxes levied (dropped) $22,028 or .82 per cent. Taxable values were up 9.10 per cent to $27,497,197. The average mill rate fell from 106.57 to 96.87 mills. Homestead tax credits increased from $300,953 to $423,020. The net property tax payable was down 6.04 per cent to $2,240,699.

Tax levies dropped in only nine of the state's 87 counties: Carlton, Cook, Fillmore, Freeborn, Koochiching, Pennington, Pope, Rock and Roseau. Their aggregate reduction was slightly over $2,000,000, while in the other 78 counties levies climbed by an aggregate of $100,813,255.

"About two-thirds of the $100 million increase in property taxes levied will fall as an added burden on the state's general fund, in the form of homestead relief reimbursement," states Charles P. Stone, the association's executive director. "Homestead relief costs this year will amount to $189,308,679, up more than 54 per cent from 1973. Such reimbursement will serve to reduce the net property taxes payable in 53 counties below their 1973 total.

"Net property taxes payable, after homestead tax credits, total $892,147,077, up $32,239,362 or 3.75 per cent from the previous year's total"

For the state as a whole, taxable values increased $475,269,957 or 4.56 per cent over 1973, reflecting both new building and higher assessments. The average mill rate climbed 5.26 per cent to 99.14 mills. The total of taxes levied was up slightly over 10 per cent.

"This year's $100 million dollar increase in taxes levied by local units of government is about four times the previous year's increase," Stone said. "If this sharp upward surge in spending and taxing by counties, townships, cities, school districts and other taxing units continues, it will once again challenge the people's taxpaying ability."

County Receives $229,659 From Revenue Sharing

Pennington county received $229,659 in revenue sharing funds for the year ended June 30, 1973, with $149,425 going to the county itself, $62,299 to cities, and $17,935 to townships.

Other counties in the area received the following totals: Marshall, $366,671, Red Lake, $151,940; Polk, $954,604; Beltrami, $630,237; Roseau, $305,573; and Kittson, $193,626.

Minnesota Taxpayers association has sent to its members a 10-page tabulation showing how $108,737,913 in federal revenue-sharing money was distributed—among Minnesota governmental units.

One-third—$36,270,142—went to the state government, the MTA report shows. Two-thirds went to counties, cities, townships and a few miscellaneous units under a complicated formula.

Governor Asks Disaster Study For Pennington

On Thursday, the Pennington county DFL received a response from Governor Wendell Anderson to its resolution calling for disaster designation for Pennington county.

The governor's letter said in part: "I have instructed the Division of Civil Defense to immediately investigate the situation in Pennington county and take every step at their disposal to seek disaster relief."

Since surrounding counties have already been declared disaster areas, DFL officers believe that the declaration of disaster status for Pennington county will only be a formality and should come very soon.

County DFL officers also noted that the state DFL convention convened in Minneapolis Friday and ran through Sunday. Delegates from Pennington county included Fran Stromberg and John Steidl, county chairpersons, Evelyn Berg, Neil McEwen, Carol Stumpf and recent Lincoln graduate Jeff Knutson.

Building Permit Issuance In TRF Noted For April

Valuation and number of building permits issued in Thief River falls during April amounted about the same as in 1973. However, the total figures include an increase in nonresidential construction and a reduction in residential work.

A total of 31 permits with a valuation of $248,000 were issued in April 1974. During the same month in 1973 there were 32 permits issued with a value of $256,000.

Non-residential building permits increased from 26 in 1973 to 30 in April 1974. Their valuation made an even larger jump from $101,000 to $227,000.

Residential building permits dropped from eight single dwelling units in April 1973 to just one in 1974. The valuation represented fell from $156,000 to $21,000.

Free Lutherans End Conference In City

Rev. Richard Snipstead, Minneapolis, was reelected vice president of the Association of Free Luthran congregations at the church's annual conference in Thief River Falls Thursday. He is dean of the Association Free Lutheran Bible school in Minneapolis. The conference was held Wednesday through Sunday at Our Savior's church.

Named secretary of the 125-congregation church was Rev. Dennis Gray, Grafton, N.D., a parish pastor. He replaced Rev. Robert L. Lee, Valley City, N.D. who declined re-nomination due to the press of other duties.

Rev. John P. Strand, Minneapolis, has one year to go on his fourth three-year term as president of the AFLC.

In his annual report to the church, Rev. Strand cited a world in upheaval and a peace that is elusive. He spoke of shortages facing the world's peoples and the reality of famine for millions.

"There is turmoil in the American political scene," he said, but he reported that he "found many fine Christian people in government too," when he attended a leadership conference in Washington last winter.

In regard to the church scene, he pointed to the liberal-conservative struggles in some church bodies, to great interest in the occult and emotional and experience-oriented religions of today. He also called for a return to worship practices and attitudes which are God-glorifying not man-pleasing.

In his report to the annual conference, Rev. Kenneth L. Anderson, McVille, N.D., chairman of the co-ordinating committee, administrative board of the church between conferences, stated tht two new congregations had been received into fellowship during the past year. They are Zion Lutheran, Wadena, and Victory in Christ Lutheran, St. Paul.

Rev. Wendell Johnson, Dalton, was nominated for a vacancy on the co-ordinating committee, a term of five years. Nomination to the corporation is tantamount to election.

Hearing Set On New State Bank For Grygla Area

Hearing on an application to form a new state bank at Grygla has been set for Tuesday, July 23, by Robert A. Mampel, state banking commissioner.

Incorporators of the proposed bank are Fred A. Sorensen, Thief River Falls; Arnold Stanley, Victor Schmidt, Henry Holte and Ronald Engelstad, Grygla; and Delmar Hagen, Gatzke.

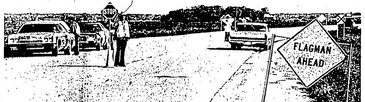
Application requests that the bank be authorized to issue 4,002 shares of common stock for a total of $400,200. Capitalization will include $100,000 in common stock, $100,000 in surplus and $200,000 in undivided profits.

Bid Accepted On New Post Office At Newfolden

Leisure Development company of Marshall is the apparent successful bidder to construct a new postal facility in Newfolden, according to Harvey E. Stokke, postmaster. Leisure's bid was the lowest of four bids received. No bid figures were announced.

The building will contain an area of 1,392 square feet with a parking and maneuvering area of 3,250 square feet. The postal service will lease the building for 10 years with four renewal options of five years each.

Location of the new building was not announced but construction is expected this summer with occupancy in late fall.



MOTORISTS traveling to or from Thief River Falls during the next two weeks may encounter this crew conducting a survey for the Minnesota highway department. Information obtained from drivers will help determine the need for a highway by-pass. The survey operation is planned to limit the inconvenience to travelers and does not normally require more than a minute to answer the necessary questions. Survey takers note the type of vehicle and number of occupants. They also ask where a vehicle is coming from, going to, for what purpose and where the vehicle is normally garaged. With cooperation from motorists this information can be obtained with a minimum of inconvenience. If there are too many vehicles for survey takers to handle efficiently, flagmen will allow some motorists to pass while a counter records the type and number of vehicles.

Governor Asks Disaster Study For Pennington

On Thursday, the Pennington county DFL received a response from Governor Wendell Anderson to its resolution calling for disaster designation for Pennington county.

The governor's letter said in part: "I have instructed the Division of Civil Defense to immediately investigate the situation in Pennington county and take every step at their disposal to seek disaster relief."

Since surrounding counties have already been declared disaster areas, DFL officers believe that the declaration of disaster status for Pennington county will only be a formality and should come very soon.

County DFL officers also noted that the state DFL convention convened in Minneapolis Friday and ran through Sunday. Delegates from Pennington county included Fran Stromberg and John Steull, county chairpersons, Evelyn Berg, Neil McEwen, Carol Stumpf and recent Lincoln graduate Jeff Knutson.

Rev. Richard Snipstead, Minneapolis, was reelected vice president of the Association of Free Luthran congregations at the church's annual conference in Thief River Falls Thursday. He is dean of the Association Free Lutheran Bible school in Minneapolis. The conference was held Wednesday through Sunday at Our Savior's church.

Named secretary of the 125 congregation church was Rev. Dennis Gray, Grafton, N.D., a parish pastor. He replaced Rev. Robert L. Lee, Valley City, N.D. who declined re-nomination due to the press of other duties.

Rev. John P. Strand, Minneapolis, has one year to go on his fourth three-year term as president of the AFLC.

In his annual report to the church, Rev. Strand cited a world in upheaval and a peace that is elusive. He spoke of shortages facing the world's peoples and the reality of famine for millions.

"There is turmoil in the American political scene," he said, but he reported that he found many fine Christian people in government too," when he attended a leadership conference in Washington last winter.

In regard to the church scene, he pointed to the liberal-conservative struggles in some church bodies, to great interest in the occult and emotional and experience-oriented religions of today. He also called for a return to worship practices and attitudes which are God-glorifying, not man-pleasing.

In his report to the annual conference, Rev. Kenneth L. Anderson, McVille, N.D., chairman of the co-ordinating committee administrative board of the church between conferences, stated that two new congregations had been received into fellowship during the past year. They are Zion Lutheran, Wadena, and Victory in Christ Lutheran, St. Paul.

Rev. Wendell Johnson, Dalton, was nominated for a vacancy on the co-ordinating committee, a term of five years. Nomination to the corporation is tantamount to election.

MOTORISTS traveling to or from Thief River Falls during the next two weeks may encounter this crew conducting a survey for the Minnesota highway department. Information obtained from drivers will help determine the need for a highway bypass. The survey operation is planned to limit the inconvenience to motorists and does not normally require more than a minute to answer the necessary questions. Survey takers note the type of vehicle and [illegible] occupants. They also ask where a vehicle is coming from, going to, for what purpose and where the vehicle is normally garaged. With cooperation from motorists this information can be obtained with a minimum of inconvenience. If there are too many vehicles for survey takers to handle the traffic, flagmen will allow some motorists to pass while a counter records the types and number of vehicles.

ALCW Schedule Retreats For Area Lutheran Women

Two retreats are scheduled this summer for the women of the American Lutheran church (ALCW), according to a release received from Mrs. Louis Hermansen of Roseau, ALCW vice president of the Thief River Falls conference.

The retreats are scheduled for July 2 at Camp Galilee, near Lake Bronson State park, and August 6-7 at Lake of the Woods Bible Camp near Baudette. Leaders planned the two retreats in order to cut down transporation problems and in order to accomodate more women as women of the Lutheran church in America are being invited.

Letters announcing the retreat have been sent to the ALC and LCA auxiliaries, inviting women to select whichever location and date is most convenient. Individuals or groups are welcome and may stay for all or part of the retreats. Since the speakers will be different and extra activites will be offered at the two-day retreat, women may attend both events.

The theme of the retreats will be "With the wings of an Eagle," based on Isaiah 40:31, "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; and they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

At Camp Galilee, the guest speaker will be Sanford Fuglestad, director of Lutheran Social Services of Moorhead. He will lead the two sessions on "Listening and being a Friend—with Yourself." Mrs. Myron Carlson of Warren will be the song leader. Two Bible studies, designed to increase understanding of personal strengths and weaknesses and to point out the source of strength for Christians, will be led by Miss Karen Sharger of Stephen.

Sharing of good reading will also be emphasized. Each woman is asked to bring a favorite book which has strengthened her. Gift copies of the New Testaments will be distributed and may be marked by those who wish to have scriptural answers for troubled friends.

Registrations for Camp Galilee will begin at 9 a.m., with a fee of $2.50 plus $2 for the noon meal. Women may bring their own lunch if they prefer. The retreat will conclude at 3:30 p.m. Tentative registrations are being requested in advance to enable the staff to prepare food and materials. Forms have been mailed to presidents of the auxiliaries asking them to register the number from their church who plan to attend. Registrations are due June 26.

Details for the August retreat at Lake of the Woods are still in the planning stages. Cost will be $8.50 for both days, including registration and meals; or $1.75 per day registration, plus individual meals.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Scott Taylor
of Fertile

Doesn't it bother you to know that you have gone over the hump? The question was simple and to the point. At first I bristled, thinking that the teenager was being impertinent; but as I looked into her serious face, I realized that her question deserved an honest answer. No flippant answer like, "You're only as old as you feel," would do.

Her vibrant youth seemed to emphasize my age. Braces glistened as she flashed a warm smile. Some of my natural stright teeth were missing and replicas were held in place by little metal hooks. Her beautiful blond hair hung almost to her waistline. My dark born hair had long been replaced by gray. Her face was without a wrinkle, her waistline was trim, and her long, slender legs bore no signs of varicouse veins. As I was making the comparisons, I recalled my high school commerical teacher. She was one of my oldest teachers and as a sophomore, I thought she was ancient. She died two years later at the age of 28. Following that line of thought, it wasn't surprising that the mid teen-ager thought that I had both feet on a banana peel.

Her second question, "Aren't you afraid of the future?" solved the problem.

Many years ago, I learned that we have no guarantee that we will be here tomorrow. It is human nature to fight to live, so naturally I would like to live many more years. There are many things I'd like to to do and see. I've seen so many revolutionary changes, from horse and buggy, travel, to cars, planes and space ships. It would be interesting to see what the future has to offer my grandchildren.

During the past six months I've had a terrific lesson in good old-fashioned spunk. In December, just before her 89th birthday, Tiny Grandma broke her hip. After the first couple of weeks, she started planning for her future. Last week, with the aid of a walker, she left the hospital.

If I am priveleged to live to be as old as Tiny Grandma, I hope that I will have the same determination to carry on. However, if for me there is no tomorrow, I am not afraid. With the promise of a mansion, that needs no remodeling, should I be afraid to move in?

Last week the gremlins in Kitchen Karnival worked overtime. As many of you noticed, there was a mistake in the recipe, listing garlic twice. The correction is: use ½ teasooon onion salt and only ¼ teaspoon garlic.

Today's recipe came from Mrs. Scott Taylor of Fertile. She didn't send any information about herself, but recommended the recipe for for broiling steak.

Dad's Steak Special

Chill a beef top round steak, cut 1½ to 1¾ inches thick; score on both sides in diamond pattern, ⅛ inch deep, with a sharp knife. Combine ½ cup sherry, ½ cup soy suace, ¼ cup salad oil, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 clove minced garlic and 10 drops hot sauce in saucepan. Cook slowly 10 minutes; chill. Place steak in plastic bag, add marinade, carefully press out air, tie securely and place in pan in refrigerator for 6 to 8 hours or overnight. Remove steak from marinade, reserving marinade, and place on grill over ash-covered coals or on rack in broiling pan so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature to rare or medium (25 to 40 minutes, despending on thickness of steak and doneness desired), brushing with marinade and turning occasionally. Carve in thin slices, diagonally across the grain.

Salves Of Gov't. Savings Bonds Noted For April

Savings bond sales in Pennington county amounted to nearly $25,000 during April to bring the county's 1974 cumulative total to $107,095 which is 48 per cent of this year's quota. Last year this county's bond sales had only reached 35 per cent of the 1973 quota.

Both Marshall and Red Lake counties are running slightly behind last year. Marshall county's bond sales have reached 47 per cent, slightly behind the county's 1973 pace of 49 per cent. Red Lake county's sales have reached 30 per cent of the 1973 quota compared to last year when its bond sales had reached 42 per cent.

Norman county is leading the state by reaching 94 per cent of its 1974 quota. Last year at this time Norman county had sold just 44 per cent of its 1973 quota. Wilkin county has reached 82 per cent of its 1974 quota while Mahnomen county is at 78 per cent.

The average for all counties in Minnesota is 39 per cent of the 1974 quota, as of the end of April.

FFA Chapter Is Cited For Camp Courage Support

Minnesota Future Famers lead the way in helping their fellow men and the handicapped in particular, as was demonstrated at the annual FFA state convention hold recently at the University of Minnesota St. Paul campus.

This organization of young men and women, through their 1973-74 living-to-serve program, raised over $97,000 for Camp Courage. Last summer 916 handicapped Minnesotans attended Camp Courage, Minnesota's residential camp for the physically handicapped and children with speech and hearing handicaps, near Maple Lake.

W. B. Schoenbohm, executive director of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. (MISCCA) praised the chapters for their outstanding service to Minnesota's handicapped and presented awards based on past achievements. Thief River Falls chapter was cited for contributing over $2,500 since joining in the Camp Courage grain drive.

Over the years the FFA has financed construction of the speech and hearing center at Camp Courage and assisted in equipping it. The chapters have helped in maintaining the programs that enrich the lives of handicapped persons through sponsorship of radio camps, travel caps, camperships; the horticulture program and, this year, a film entitled "Faces of Courage" which tells the story of MISCCA (courage services) in the candid words of the handicapped themselves.

Traffic Deaths Are Down For Month Of May

Minnesota traffic fatalities for the month of May this year promise to set a 10-year low record, the Minnesota department of public safety revealed recently.

As the month drew to a close, fatalities officially and unofficially reported totaled 50, compared with 98 in May of 1973. While later reports are expected to increase this total somewhat, this year's toll is safely under every May since 1965, when 55 persons lost their lives in traffic crashes. The 10-year average for May is 87.4.

The May record continues a trend that began in January, when the highway toll was the lowest but one in the preceding 10 years. In January this year traffic deaths totaled 39, compared with a preceding 10-year average of 50.8.

At the close of May, the unofficial count for the five months was 258, compared with 345 for the same period in 1973. This year's total may be expected to remain substantially under last year. The average toll for the same period during the preceding five years has been 319.

The figures represent a 25 per cent reduction in fatalities from last year and slightly under 20 per cent from the five-year average. However, it must be noted that unusually favorable driving weather, conducive to more travel, prevailed during the early part of the year.

It is generally assumed that reduced highway speeds have had a decisve effect upon the traffic toll. Although enforcement agenices have reported a heavy volume of complaints above violations of the 55-mile speed limit, well qualified observers have reported that the speeders appear to be exceptions, and that drivers generally respect and observe the lowered limit.

Wheather travel has been substantially reduced cannot be determined at this time, but one significant figure may be the week-end toll compared with the average for all days in May. Excepting the Memorial Day week-end, the other three weekends had seven fatalities, compared with the 10 that might have been expected for an average six days in May.

Fly Ash Could Be Used In Concrete For Highways

Fly ash, a waste by-product of coal-burning electric power plants, may now be used by state highway department contractors to extend portland cement, presently in short supply.

Aside from the ecological benefits of utilizing an industrial waste in this way, the addition of fly ash increases workability of the concrete, according to deputy Minnesota highway commissioner and chief engineer W. Stanley Ekern.

Use of fly ash is optional with contractors. It may be substituted, in a typical instance, pound for pound in place of portland cement, in an amount not exceeding ten per cent by weight of designated portland cement content.

More Than 3,000 Scouts, Leaders To Attend Camp

Over 3,000 Scouts and leaders from troops in 82 communities of the new Northern Lights council, Boy Scouts of America will attend the four council operated summer camps, according to Albert V. Hartl, Fergus Falls, camping and activities chairman.

Northern Lights council was formed early this year by the merger of councils with headquarters in Fargo, Grand Forks, Bismarck and Minot. In addition to all of North Dakota the council includes 18 Minnesota counties and several counties of Montana and South Dakota.

Area service centers are being maintained in Grand Forks, Bismarck and Minot with the council service center in Fargo.

According to Hartl, "the Northern Lights council affords Scout troops the opportunities of attendance at four reservations thus broadening, like never before, the program opportunity and youth outdoor scouting experience. The Scout camp is the laboratory of scounting".

Scouts will attend camp either as a troop or on an individual basis in provisional troops at the Wilderness reservation at Park Rapids or Waubanaquat at Ogema, Minn., or Heart Butte at Lake Tschida or Mettigoshe at Bottineau, N.D.

Troop tent camping, by patrols on the troop site, is the scouting method of accommodation. Activities at each camp include swimming, boating, canoeing, life saving, scouting skills, conservation, archery and rifle range skills, etc.

Horseback riding and photography are special program features at Wilderness, outpost camps and woodlore at Waubanaquat, motorboating and the North Dakota hunters safety program at Heart Butte, as well as a three-day canoe trip at Metigoshe.

Parents of Scouts not registered for camp may obtain information from the four council service centers, Hartl indicated.

Northern Lights council employs an adult and young adult trained staff to support camp adult scoutmasters in youth program activities and troop operation.

Mrs. Buringrud Recalls Early Days In T.R.F.

two planks laid side by side so you can imagine there was not much room for a lady when she came by with her wide skirts and having to pass by the Indians often setting along the outside edge of the walk.

There were six saloons in town and I never felt safe passing by one of them as not much room to balance on if some man was being shoved out the door.

On the corner where the Elks building is now located was the Hans Tangseth store, a general dry goods and grocery store. This store burned down but was rebuilt. There was a Mr. O.P. Johnson store where Kelly Hardware now is and Mr. Aas' general store was on the corner across the street west where Coast-to-Coast is now located. Rasmus Oen had a small hardware store where the Northern Bank is now located.

There were other small stores, eating places and a small confectionery store where we could buy candies and fruit. In those days we didn't know much about ice cream except the home made kind but we could buy pop. I worked in a small store owned by Judge Tarrant, helping Mrs. Tarrant when her husband was ill.

Central school was located on the parking lot area across from Trinity church. There was also Knox school north with two teachers and I remember the Professor Mr. Todd who taught grades 6-8. I attended school for a short time here until my parents moved to a farm east of Holt.

I remember the Norwegian Synod church, a small congregation with Rev. I.T. Anstad as pastor.

It was located across from where Pennington Hotel is now and also had a parsonage next door which is still there but remodeled. This was a wooded area with narrow paths throughout.

My first girl friends were Gina and Alma Gilbertson, Mable Evenson, Clara Aas, Emma Bakke and Agnes Bakke. We had no modern conveniences but had to use kerosene lamps and only wells for water.

The saw mill provided work for man so-called lumberjacks. The river was so full of logs that one could walk acorss on the floating logs. My dad bought large loads of odds and ends of the cut lumber for 25 cents.

I traveled to Holt where we lived on a farm for a year, then returned to Thief River to watch it grow and improve gradually.

Travel in those days was any way you could find traveling through woods and brush. We left in March 1899, had a bobsleigh with hay rack on it loaded with some of our household goods, a large box with about two dozen chickens and the family—mother, father, one sister and three brothers.

I was holding the youngest one on my lap when it happened, just six miles from Thief River Falls. The roads were very rough with quite a bit of snow in places. We struck a bad place, over went the hay rack, chickens and all. We scrambled out and mother asked me to sit in a snow bank holding brother while they had to unload and get the sleigh back on the road. I had to giggle but it wasn't so funny to the others. We got started again and sometime after 5 o'clock we reached our new home just 15 miles north of here or two miles east of Holt.

The next day my father and I went back to Thief River to get the rest of our belongings, stayed overnight with McMahon's, started out at 6 o'clock next morning in a blinding snowstorm. Father and I walked most of the way; it was easier to keep warm. After several hours we reached home which sure looked good to me even if it was just a three-room log house with the upstairs room having cracks in the walls and ceiling. At night I would often lay in bed and see the moon and stars shining thru and some mornings if it had snowed during the night I would uncover and get a small snow bank in my face.

We made many trips back and forth to Thief River. Sometimes we stayed overnight, or would stop at the Erick Gullingsrud's who had a boarding place and a barn where you could put your horses. As a rule we would bring our hay and feed along. Here I met Clara and Lena Gullingsrud; they still live in this home west of the Mobil Oil station.

Most everyone was short of flour and living mostly on potatoes instead of bread. Father decided he was going to try to bring back as much flour as he could so I went along (I admit I was daring and loved excitement). This trip was almost too much. I can say the horses crawled on their bellies the whole distance to Thief River as the mud was so deep. We passed five dead horses who could not make it. After getting flour and supplies and resting the horses we returned home on drier roads.

Free Lutherans End Conference In City Sunday

service on Wednesday night, Rev. Robert L. Lee preached the opening sermon. It was based on Psalm 91 and dealt with the conference theme, "Continuing in His Grace".

By Friday afternoon 348 delegates had registered for the conference. The AFLC is found largely in the upper mid-west, but has congregations in Montana, Arizona, Oregon and Washington also. Delegates were present from each of those states.

On Friday reports were given on the work of world missions, home missions and evangelism. The church maintains a mission in Parana, Brazil, where Rev. Connely J. Dyrud of Thief River Falls is one of the missionaries. North Dakota, Arizona, Colorado and Ohio were mentioned as possible areas for new home mission congregations in the future.

Prayer hours at the close of each morning business session were led by Rev. Jay G. Erickson, Ferndale, Wash. A solo on Friday at the prayer hour was sung by Miss Janell Ness of Thief River Falls.

Pastors of the church and their wives had a supper at Lon's Cafe on Friday evening. They heard an address by Olben Gunderson of McCanna, N.D.; a member of the North Dakota legislature.

Friday evening service at Our Savior's Lutheran was a laymen's service. It was led by Arnold Grimsrud of Wanamingo, and the sermon was delivered by H. Donald Hansen of Minneapolis.

Elected by the missions corporation to directorships on Friday morning at a breakfast meeting at the Rex Cafe were Vernon Russum, a Grafton, N.D. farmer, to the board of world missions, and Rev. Julius Hermunslie, Fergus Falls, to the home mission board.

Stanley Holmaas, Newfolden grocer, was reelected to the board of trustees of the association schools at a school corporation supper meeting at the Rex Cafe on Thusday evening.

Two new positions in the AFLC were created at the Saturday morning business session. The first was that of a stewardship counseller and the second an evangelist-youth worker. Much discussion preceded both decisions. Some delegates questioned the need for a stewardship worker, but the motion to set up the office passed 100 to 54. In regard to the other position, the debate centered on whether an evangelist should also share the youth work duties, but the final decision was that he should.

A number of elections took place on Saturday, as follows: Miss Eula Mae Swenson, Fargo, N.D., to the board of publications and parish education; Rev. David C. Molstre, Thief River Falls, to the youth board; Arlo Kneeland, Ortley, S.D. to the stewardship board; and Oscar Christopherson, Minneapolis, to the board of pensions.

Five men were named to the budget analysis committee for 1975. They are Robert Dietsche, Sand Creek, Wis.; Norman Lindrus, Ontonagon, Mich.; Herbert Presteng and Roy Mohagen, Grafton, N.D.; and Eugene Nesland, Thief River Falls. The committee is to analyze agency budget requests and make recommendations to the 1975 annual conference which will likely be held in Minneapolis at the church's headquarters in Plymouth.

A banquet for young people was held at Our Savior's Lutheran church on Saturday evening. Later, a youth service was held with Rev. Michael Brandt, Lake Stevens, Wash., as speaker. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a gift of $8,000 from the Women's Missionary federation to the AFLC Bible school in Minneapolis for the purchase of a van. Rev. Richard Snipstead, dean of the school, accepted the gift.

Center of attention in Sunday's activities was the ordination service on Sunday afternoon. Ordained into the ministry of the AFLC were Richard Anderson, East Grand Forks, called to Rosedale Lutheran, Minneapolis, and Dennis O'Neil, Mayville, N.D., called to Faith Lutheran, Minneapolis. Rev. Anderson is a nephew of Mrs. O.K. Ose of this city. Rev. John P. Strand officiated at this service.

Rev. Richard W. Gunderson, missionary to Bolivia, preached at the early morning communion service. At the morning worship service of the conference, Rev. Leslie Galland, Spicer, was the preacher.

A toal of 382 delegates registered for the conference's business sessions. They came from 11 states.

Thought For The Day

There is a time to speak and a time to listen. We may hear and still not really hear. There are many voices clamoring for attention. Sometimes voices blue and drown each other out because there are so many booming out at once. Sometimes other noises drown out the voices.

But there is a time to listen. We need to listen to what others may have to say even though we may not always agree with them and with some we may never agree. We can learn much by listening and by doing so we also show respect for the opinions of others and in a sense earn the right to have others listen when we have something to say.

Above all we need to remember that even as God listens to us we need to listen to what He says to us. He will speak only what is the very best for us.

—Rev. Roy K. Malde
Trinity Lutheran Church

Tribute To Father

Father's Day tribute was paid recently in a letter sent to the Times by a reader in Milwaukee, Wis. The writer intended the tribute to a particular father, but it may well apply to many and we print it as follows:

The heart of a father is a secret place. It is there he feels the bursting of pride at you, his child. There where the pangs are felt when one by one his children grow into their own adulthood and leave their hallowed home. It is in his heart where he has worried, cried and felt immense joy. Yes, it is a secret place and a large portion belongs to you, his child.

He carried the burdens of the day, years past and years to come, on shoulders that must be immense to carry the load. The twinkle in his eye at some secretly shared joke with you, his child. He wants the best for you, he wishes your life to be easier for you, fewer burdens than he has had.

He loves the spring, my father, when the earth awakens and starts to grow. The hot summer days remind me of my father. After a hard day in the fields he still had time to marvel at nature with me, his child. The call of a cricket, a fawn dipping her head at a brook. Yes, in the spring and summer, I remember my father.

Fall and all its wonder. When nature puts on her glittering garments of vibrant color he could take the time to walk in her splendor with me, his child, and together we would marvel at her showy array.

Winter in north country can be bitter, stinging and hard. However as his child it was not cold but warm. His warmth permeated wherever he was. Snow covered the earth with a blanket of down, the trees were frosted with cotton. His presence in our home made it warm and secure. Yes, in fall and winter, I remember my father.

"Honor Thy Father and Mother—" Honor him, you who still have him here, walking with you. Too soon that twinkling eye shall close and you have only his dear memory to hold to your heart.

"Lighght?"

It took Rep. Steven D. Symms (R-Idaho) to show us some of the downright foolish things your tax money is spent for. And, of course, every bit of it must be appropriated by Congress.

Rep. Symms inserted in the "Congressional Record" an eye-opening article which showed among other things that our tax money is being spent for:

Chasing wild boars in Pakistan ($35,000);

Studying the perspiration smell of Australian aborigines ($70,000);

Studying Polish bisexual frogs ($6,000);

Studying the blood grouping of Polish Zlotnika pigs ($20,000);

Learning the differences between native American and Indian whistling ducks ($5,000);

Studying the mating calls for Central American toads ($20,324);

A study to find out how fishing boat crewmen cause conflicts in Yugoslavian peasant towns ($15,000);

Another study to find out why people say "ain't" ($121,000); and

Still another study of medieval Spanish satire and invective ($8,500);

But the topper probably was the $5,000 spent for the poem "lighght." That's not the title 'That's the entire poem!

Our Religious Heritage

Publisher John Olson in the Fertile Journal wrote recently his feelings about renewed efforts to further curtail religious freedom in American as follows:

"Down came the April showers and up came NBC's Today show with one hardy perennial we personally could well do without, atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair. She, it will be remembered, is the matronly gal from Baltimore who, in 1963, succeeded in getting the U.S. Supreme Court to ban school prayer.

"Now, 11 years later, Ms. O'Hair is back, this time to do combat with a Massachusetts mother who initiated a proposal which led the passage last fall of a state law allowing one minute of silence in public schools for meditation or prayer.

"I feel this is a country under God," explained the woman, Rita Warren, in an accent brought from her native Italy in 1947.

"I don't want to force others to pray, but I don't want to be prohibited from praying either. I didn't come to America for that. If I had wanted to be prohibited, I would have gone to Russia."

"Ms. O'Hair then proceeded to remove all doubt that her foreign born counterpart understood the religious heritage of America far better than she did as a native citizen.

Since, 1954, when the Eisenhower Nixon administration added the words 'Under God' to the Pledge of Allegiance, we have been busy establishing a civil religion in America," said the atheist.

"Ms. O'Hair notwithstanding, the roots of our country's reliance on God are planted considerably deeper than 1954.

"George Washington, in his Farewell address, said, "Reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle." Jefferson and Madison fought for freedom of religion, not for prohibition of it. Lincoln spoke of "this Nation under God." And the Declaration of Independence, the charter document upon which this nation was founded, asserts "a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence."

"Both Houses of Congress begin their daily sessions with prayer, a practice which began with the Continental Congress. The Supreme Court itself, since the days of John Marshall, has opened each day's deliberations with the supplication, "God, save the United States and this Honorable Court."

"We would staunchly oppose the forcing of anyone to participate in prayer against his will. At the same time, however, we do not see why our children should be denied the same privilege of daily prayer in a public facility that members of Congress and the Supreme Court grant themselves."

Costly Litter

Minnesota's litter problem is both costly and extensive. Just how extensive it is will become more apparent this summer as maintenance forces cut back on housekeeping chores to conserve motor fuel, according to the state highway department.

To get an idea of the cost of Minnesota's litter problem, just imagine 11,532 orange Highway trucks lined up bumper-to-bumper for 40 miles, headed for the dump with rubbish picked up on state trunk highways.

Now picture seven more of those three-ton capacity trucks swinging into line at the end of that dismal procession. They are headed for the dump, too, loaded with nickels and dimes—representing the $742,275 in Highway User revenues 'thrown away' on this unprofitable clean-up. For whatever solace it may afford, the last truck in that cavalcade of waste is only half full of tax money.

This is the vision projected by Minnesota highway department statistics on the increasing cost of cleaning up litter on the state's 12,000-mile trunk highway system. The figures do not take into account the cost of picking up litter on county highways, county roads, township roads, federal forest highways, Indian service roads, military roads and community streets—numbering some 116,000 additional miles.

Had the $742,275 spent on litter clean-up been used instead as the state's 10 per cent share of matching funds in Interstate highway construction, Minnesota's economy would have been enriched with an additional $6.68 million in federal highway aid. And so we might add another seven trucks to the imaginary procession to the dump, loaded this time not with nickels and dimes but with dollar bills.

For all practical purposes, we are littering our streets and highways with money—state and federal highway user taxes we have paid out in the expectation of having better, safer motor travel.

In an appeal to motorists to help keep Minnesota clean and scenic during the coming holidays and vacation season, assistant highway commissioner Edward Heinen explained that the petroleum shortage has restricted state highway department clean-up efforts this year largely to built-up areas that are well-maintained by property owners.

A tough new law passed by the Legislature last year makes littering a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $300 or 90 days in jail, or both. Convictions are recorded on the offender's driving record, and subsequent offenses of that nature result automatically in a minimum fine of $100.

Instead of a fine, any judge or magistrate may order an offender to pick up litter along any public highway or road under the direction of the state highway department, with a jail sentence as the option.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I just finished reading Jim Kremer's letter to the editor. He is intitled to his opinions, but I disagree with him.

I enjoyed reading "Going to a Movie in Africa Requires Extra Effort".

It lets me see another way of life. I know the missionaries life isn't easy; if it was there would be no shortage of missionaries.

We should all do more to support these people whose work is helping others.

Sincerely
Jeanne Johnson

Must Apply For Disaster Aid In Area By July 16

Governor Wendell Anderson announced today that persons eligible for disaster unemployment assistance because of severe storms and flooding in five northwestern Minnesota counties during the April 10 - May 24 period must file for benefits by July 16.

Counties included in the disaster area (as declared June 10 by President Nixon) are Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Red Lake and Roseau.

Anderson said claims can be filed at any of the three disaster assistance centers or at the Crookston and Thief River Falls state employment service offices of the Minnesota department of employment services.

The schedule for the disaster centers is:

Hallock (for Kittson and Marshall county)—Monday, June 17, and Tuesday, June 18, county court house, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Wednesday, June 19, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.;

Ada (for Norman and Red Lake county)—Thursday, June 20, and Friday, June 21, city hall, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The governor said the disaster unemployment assistance is generally available to any unemployed worker or self-employed businessman, farmer or other individual who, because of the disaster, no longer has a job or place to work.

Individuals unemployed less than 10 weeks at the time of the disaster or who completed school or training for work no earlier than 10 weeks prior to the disaster also may be eligible if the disaster prevented them from obtaining work. An individual who becomes head of household and is seeking work because the head of the household died as a result of the disaster also may qualify.

The amount of assistance will be based upon prior earnings. The minimum weekly payment will be $57. The maximum will be $85.

When applying for assistance, the governor said, a person should take with him his social security card and any papers that will show earnings and employment prior to the disaster.

It's really amazing to see the number of people involved in Thief River Falls baseball and softball programs during the summer months.

On just about any night of the week a person passing the Thief River Falls fairgrounds-arena area will at the same time see two slow pitch softball games being played, a fast pitch softball game and either a Legion, Elks or amateur baseball game being played.

At the same time there may be two more slow pitch softball games being played on the Franklin fields, a ladies slow or fast pitch softball game being played on the east side diamond and a men over 30 slow pitch softball league game being played elsewhere.

During the mornings, afternoons and some evenings when a field isn't being used for softball, the Thief River Falls youth baseball program takes over the spotlight.

It's no wonder they call baseball (softball) our national pasttime.

Detroit Lakes will host a pro-am hockey tournament June 29-30 and July 1 in the Detroit Lake fieldhouse.

The tournament, to be conducted by the Canadian professional hockey schools, ltd. which runs a summer hockey program in Detroit Lakes, will match the senior Pirates from Cookston, the Winnipeg All-Stars, the Winnipeg Aardvarks and a team composed of the Canadian professional hockey school instructors and students. The All-Stars, with its roster doted with players rated by both the NHL and WHA, plus some established pros, looks like the tournament's best team, according to CPHL president and tournament manager Jake Fleming.

The Pro-Am idea replaces last year's old timers tournament. There will be a mixture of professional, junior A, college and senior A players on the teams.

VFW Wins Far North Softball Tournament

Thief River Falls VFW outlasted 13 other teams to win the 12th annual Thief River Falls Far North fast pitch invitational softball tournament played Sunday on the fairgrounds diamonds.

The veteran VFW squad received a first round bye, beat the Thief River Falls Legion 7-1 in a quarterfinal game, blanked Fargo M & J 6-0 in the semifinals and then scored two quick runs to edge Fergus Falls 2-1 in the championship game on the fast pitch diamond.

Fergus Falls moved into the championship game by trimming Thief River Falls Arctic Cat and Thief River Falls Schmidts by identical 2-1 scores in first and second round games and then claiming a forfeit win over Ogema in semifinal action when the Ogema squad withdrew from the tournament after demanding and being denied a chance to play the game on the baseball diamond instead of an assigned softball field.

Moran's Steak House of Erskine, a member of the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league in regular season play, won Sunday's consolation championship. Moran's received a first round bye and then suffered a 4-2 upset defeat at the hands of Ogema in quarterfinal play. TRF Outlasts Ada 7-6; Host Pirates Wednesday

Thief River Falls picked up its initial win in Norman-Polk amateur baseball play Wednesday with an exciting 7-6 win at Ada.

Coach Howard Dalager's ball club will try to improve its 1-1 league record Wednesday when Thief River Falls host the Crookston Pirates in a doubleheader on the fairrounds diamond beginning at 7 p.m.

Lefthander Bruce Johnson stalked Thief River Falls to a 7-1 lead with a superb 12 strike-out pitching performance through seven innings.

Jon Looker took over on the mound for Thief River Falls in the eighth and ran into trouble as Ada rallied for five runs in the bottom of the ninth inning. Looker surrendered five base hits, issued two walks and threw three wild pitches in an erratic ninth as Ada pulled to within 7-6.

Pete Sullivan replaced Looker and used a neat curve ball to retire the Ada clean-up hitter and end the game with Ada runners sitting on first and second.

Rob Almquist, who enjoyed a perfect four for four night at the plate, scored the game's first run in the top of the first as he singled and later crossed the plate on a fielder's choice.

Thief River Falls capitalized on two Ada errors to score two unearned second inning runs for a 3-0 lead.

Ada scored its only run off Johnson in the third on a walk, wild pitch and a throwing error.

Two more unearned Thief River Falls runs crossed the plate in the fourth on an error, fielder's choice and back to back singles by Almquist and Mike Drury for a 5-1 ball game.

The Thief River Falls lead mounted to 7-1 in the sixth as Almquist singled, stole second and scored on a double by Larry Coltom. Drury produced his third RBI of the night with a single, scoring Coltom.

"Overall, the pitching was the key to the game, along with some key hits turned in by Almquist, Coltom, Drury and Sullivan," pointed out Dalager. "Defense was still a little shaky at times, but a good play now and then pulled us out of trouble."

Minnesota Safe Boating Week To Start June 30

Week beginning June 30 has been proclaimed "safe boating week" in Minnesota by governor Wendell R. Anderson.

In signing the official proclamation governor Anderson pointed out that all persons who utilize the state's waterways for recreation should possess at least a minimum knowledge of water safety "For their own protection, for the safety of their passengers, their craft and as protection for using the waterways of the state."

The governor especially urged "Inexperienced operators of small watercraft to enroll in educational courses which are designed to teach the fundamentals of safe boating".

Referring to the energy crises, governor Anderson said that "All who utilize our waterways should be mindful of the need to conserve fuel and to aid in meeting our energy needs."

The United States Congress, expressing an awareness of the need for increased boating safety effort enacted a joint resolution on June 4, 1958 directing that the week which includes July fourth be proclaimed annually as "national safe boating week."

Legion Ball Club Topples Newfolden Squad By 7-2

Thief River Falls snapped a 2-2 tie by scoring three runs in the fifth inning enroute to a 7-2 win over Newfolden in an American Legion baseball game played Thursday night at Newfolden.

The win was Thief River Falls' third straight season opening victory, a modest string that includes a previous 5-1 win over Newfolden and a 7-4 win over the Thief River Falls Elks. Coach Rocky Wilson's Legion squad will be back in action tomorrow (Tuesday) when Thief River Falls plays at Oslo. Thief River Falls will play a pair of home games later this week when Warren appears here Thursday and Belcourt, N.D. comes to town Friday for a pair of 7 p.m. games on the fairgrounds diamond.

Thief River Falls scored the first two runs in Thursday's game when Jeff Langlie led off the third inning with a single and was promptly joined on the base paths by teammate Jeff Tunberg via an error. Both runners scored on an ensuing single by Cliff Shumway.

Newfolden tied the game 2-2 in the bottom of the fourth. Gary Kujanson and Jeff Sorenson stroked back to back singles. The runners moved up on a sacrifice, Kujanson scored on an error and Sorenson scored on a single by Mike Loftstrom.

Thief River Falls plate three runs in the fifth after two batters had been retired to win the game. Two-out walks to Tunberg and Shumway were followed by a run producing single by Jeff Lindquist to snap the 2-2 tie. Shumway scored the game winning run on an error and Randy Dallmann's single made it 5-2.

Two more runs crossed the plate in the Thief River Falls sixth on a walk, fielder's choice and a two-run double by Tim Erickson.

Dallmann became the third Thief River Falls pitcher to pick up a win this summer with a six inning mound performance, hurling hitless ball for all but the fourth inning when the righthander surrendered four hits. Joel Folger pitched the final inning in relief for the winners. Kujanson went the distance for Newfolen to take the loss.

Minnesota Bass

Art Mercier, outdoor editor of radio station WBBM-CBS in Chicago, recently said on a broadcast that "Minnesota has some of the finest bass lakes in the world." Art and his wife Millie have fished many Minnesota's lakes with great success. One of Art's favorite's is Green Lake at Spicer.

The 1974 bass opener was good, though spotty, because of the weather. Best reports came from Lake Minnetonka where limits were the order of the day out of Wayzata. Artificial worms and live night crawlers got the best results. The largest bass taken weighed five pounds four ounces.

Tom Angley at White Bear Lake reported that fishing was good early and late but very slow during the day both on White Bear lake and Bald Eagle lake.

Bass Plans

Chuck Burrows, director of fisheries for the department of natural resources believes that more attention should be given to the bass by making two important changes.

"Shift emphasis in roughfish control to strategic placement of barriers to carp migration on a watershed basis. This will isolate headwater lakes for chemical rehabilitation and restocking with good bass, panfish and northern pike populations. Lakes in the middle of the watershed will be more susceptible to control with nets, since we will be working on more isolated populations. All of this will improve bass fishing, since bass and sunfish are the first to go when carp populations get out of hand."

Expand artificial propagation of bass by using new feeding techniques with prepared feed. This will provide large sized (yearling) bass for stocking which should survive and have an effect on anglin as well as stunted sunfish populations. We are still looking for a tool to overcome the stunted sunfish situation encountered, in too many of our heavily fished local lakes. These large bass may be it."

Prize Muskie

The biggest muskie caught so far this season was taken by Larry Holsapple of Bloomington fishing on Big Winnie. The fish weighed 45 pounds eight ounces and was caught using an eight pound test line.

DNR Urges Delay In Ditch Mowing To Save Nests

With recent studies showing at least one-half of all pheasants hatched in Minnesota coming from nests in roadside ditches, the department of natural resources today asked county and state highway departments to delay mowing operations, "at least until July 15."

Roger Holmes, supervisor of wildlife, said permanent nesting cover for pheasants, ducks and other ground nesting birds has nearly disappeared because of the current all-out production of agricultural crops.

For this reason, he aid, roadside ditches are more important than ever in the production of wildlife.

He explained that during the last decade the amount of nesting cover in roadsides has remained stable while other potential nesting cover has declined 66 per cent.

He said the DNR recommended no mowing, except along the shoulder of the road, until July 31. Holmes suggested that thistles be controlled by spot spraying or spot mowing.

He said the department has received cooperation from the association of Minnesota counties and the Minnesota highway department in past years in delaying of mowing and is "urgently seeking" that cooperation again this year.

Minnesota Game Census Reports Little Change

In most cases, populations of Minnesota game species appear to be at about the same levels as 1973, while pheasants show some improvment over last year, the department of naural resources reported today. Some populations registered declines during the past year.

The state's sharp-tailed grouse population this spring was similar to 1973. However, the cold, wet spring this year may adversely affect the situation, according to game specialists.

The ruffed grouse population showed declines everywhere except in extreme northwestern Minnesota, where the spring census indicated a sharp increase. This may indicate the start of an upswing in the population, which over a few years should spred easterly across the state, if past patterns in the populations are followed.

Minnesota deer population showed little change from last spring. A department big game biologist said that does in the northeast and northwest wintered relatively well, with normal losses occurring. However, despite a mild winter, overwintering losses in the north-central area were slightly higher than expected.

The number of state deer hunters showed a 14 per cent increase last season over the previous year, raising the total to 296,000. Approximatey 67,000 deer were taken during the 1973 season. Department wildlife officials are predicting the number of big game hunters will increase to 300,000 next season.

Timber Wolf Is In Endangered Animal Species

Timber wolf in Minnesota, the red wolf in Texas and the American alligator in the southeastern United States are three typical endangered species now under discussion in a scheduled series of meetings between Interior's fish and wildlife service, all 50 state governments, major conservation groups and other federal agencies.

The meetings were set up by Lynn A. Greenwalt, director of the fish and wildlife service, and are being held in FWS regional offices. The discussions focus on the implementation of the endangered species act of 1973, a stronger law than the 1969 act and one that carries specific requirements for both state and federal agencies to meet within restricted time periods.

Federal aid will now be available under the new act to state governments in amounts up to two-thirds of the cost of their endangered species programs. States are being provided with details of how this part of the act will be implemented. A total of $10 million for three years was authorized by the act to support state activites.

Most State governments have only until autumn to conclude a formal agreement with the secretary of the Interior on the conservation of resident endangered fish and wildlife species.

Walker belted a two run home to deep centerfield in the second to continue the State Farm scoring as the favored VFW fell behind 6-0.

Harlie Drees finally got the VFW offense rolling by hitting a lead off home run in the fifth.

LaChance matched the home run for State Farm, though, for a 7-1 game.

The Vet's big sixth inning included a lead off homer by Wayne Smith, a double by Del Offerdahl, a single by Cliff Shumway and a fielder's choice for a 7-3 game. Shumway then scored on a passed ball, and with two outs, Dana Stromberg doubled home two runs and Bob Paper added a run scoring single.

Swimmer's Ear Infection Is Summer Problem

Ten of millions of Americans flocking to beaches and pools this summer risk an affliction which, until recently, has been comparatively dormant. Called "otitis externa" or "swimmer's ear", it is an infection of the external ear canal caused by various bacilli and fungi found in polluted water.

Infections of bathers' ears can be severe, resulting in painful swellings of the ear canal and requiring medical treatment.

"Swimmer's ear" was previously held in check by the use of swim caps, whose tight fit kept the ear canal comparatively free of the polluted water. However, the recent long hair styles adopted by teen-agers has resulted in a declining use of swim caps, followed closely by growing incidences of swimmers ear infections.

Medical treatment of "swimmer's ear" can be lengthy, and uncomfortable. Dr. J. Allen Field and Dr. Curtis Benton, Jr. of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., reported in "Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Monthly" that some patients suffer from painful ear canal swelling for as long as several months, and that "it has been our experience over the years that ear drops in a swollen or debris-filled ear are usually without benefit."

Drs. Field and Benton reported further that "...by painstakingly cleaning the ear with a fine aspirator or a cotton-tipped wire applicator" they were able to pack multiple small pladgets of cotton saturated with steroid drugs, among others, into the swollen ear canals, obtaining good healing results.

The article indicated that this treatment required daily changing of the cotton packing in the painfully swollen ear.

Eyeing the growing incidence of "Swimmer's Ear", physicians throughout the country are urging their patients to use swim caps in public and private pools and at public beaches this summer.

Canoeists Are Advised Of High Water In State

Extreme care must be taken by anyone canoeing in Minnesota DNR outdoor safety specialists warned. Due to the heavy extended rainfall received across the state, many river and streams are at or near floodstage condition.

Five canoeists have already drowned in Minnesota within the past month. Four capsized and one died trying to swim to shore.

For safety's sake canoeists and boaters should follow these simple safety steps:

Always carry the proper type and number of personal flotation devices (life jackets). Wear them when conditions dictate, especially when canoeing.

Never overlaod your watercraft.

Don't overestimate your ability to navigate rapis or a river under highwater conditions. Use portages around the rapids.

Never intentionally shoot dams, spillways or other structures. This practice has resuled in several deaths every year.

Use caution when approaching river obstructions such as dams, fallen trees or fences. Fast water conditions increase your inability to avoid these objects.

Check on water conditions before heading out. These can be obtained locally, or by checking the weekly DNR canoeing report which covers most of the popular canoeing rivers in the state.

42 Million In United States Hunt Or Fish

Better than 20 per cent of the American people hunt or fish, according to last year's state license sales figures released by U.S. fish and wildlife service director Lynn A. Greenwalt.

Greenwalt said, "Hunting and fishing are major pastimes, with one of every five Americans enjoying the outdoors this way. License sales last year numbered close to 42 million nationwide, increasing by 400,000 over 1972 and representing an increase of $28 million in state revenues. Overall, in 1973, sales of sate hunting and fishing licenses netted $242 million. The 1973 licenses sold equaled the previous record high number sold in 1971.

"These revenues enable states to conduct their fish and wildlife conservation and management programs. Additonal funds come from federal aid in fish and wildlife restoration programs under which states are reimbursed up to 75 per cent of the cost of approved projects. For the current fiscal year which ends on June 30, over $62 million in federal aid funds was apportioned to the states according to a formula which includes the number of hunting and fishing license holders in each state," he added.

California is by far the fishing capital of the nation with sales of 5.5 million licenses, tags, permits and stamps. Closest runners-up were Michigan and Texas, each with 1.6 million sold. Other very heavily fished states are Minnesota, Tennesee, Missouri and Wisconsin. Wisconsin also attracts the most out-of-state fishermen in the country with nearly half a million visitors buying licenses last year. Minnesota and Montana rank just about as high with tourists fishermen.

Pennsylvania was the most heavily hunted state in the nation last year with 1.6 million licenses, tags, permits and stamps sold. California, Michigan, New York and Texas rank just below with each sate selling over a million licenses each. Montana has the distinction of being the most frequently visited state by out-of-state hunters. Lat year over 135,000 non-resident permits were sold there. Wyoming and Pennsylvania run a close second. Hawaii stands out as the state with the fewest licensed hunters and fishermen in the nation.

Employees required to provide Veterans Administration services for the nation's veteran population climbed past the 200,000 mark for the first time since 1949, when VA employment reached 200,305 in March 1974.

Naturalists Are Now On Duty At 26 State Parks

Naturalists are now on duty in 26 Minnesota state parks, under an expanded program launched a year ago by the department of naural resources.

The expansion in the program was made possible by an appropriation from the Minnesota natural resources special cigarette tax account, in response to a tremendous public demand for more interpretive programs in the state park system. The employment of additional naturalists for the summer months is one attempt to respond to this need, according to division of state parks and recreation officials.

The naturalists programs may vary slightly from park to park, but generally consist of such activities as: evening nature movies; nature walks during the daytime; studying geology, history, wildlife and plant life; car, canoe and bike caravans; photography and bird walks; and lectures on the history of early man, and other appropriate subjects.

Those serving as park naturalists are students, teachers or others who have a special interst in natural history and are willing to teach and work with the general public during the summer months. They include some members of the "volunteers in parks program", now in its second year of funding by the natural resources commission.

The state parks now featuring naturalists include Scenic, Jay Cooke, Gooseberry Falls, Cascade River, Judge Magney, Lake Bronson, Old Mill, Lake Bemidji, Itasca, Buffalo River, Maplewood, Lake Carlos, Mille Lacs Kathio, St. Croix, Crow Wing, Interstate, William O'Brien, Big Stone Lake, Sibley, Lake Shetek, Fort Snelling, Sakatah Lake, Nerstrand Woods, Helmer Myre, Whitewater and Forestville.

In addition, mine guides are available for underground tours at Tower Soudan and a taped presentation is featured at Split Rock Lighthouse interpreting and history and significance of the Light House area.

Park visitors wishing to benefit from the naturalist programs should inqure about the schedule upon registering for camping; or check the park bulletin board for information.

BSC Makes Changes In Dormitory Life

Thirty years ago, dormitory life consisted of sign-out sheets and a strict lights out schedule, but like the "one horse shay" that is all in the past.

In 1974, at Bemidji state college at least, students opt for foreign language floors, plus mini-courses ranging from macrame to comic books. Some freshmen still have images of dull grey rooms and restrictions, but a more liberated atmosphere is leaving such concepts in the dark ages.

In earlier years the dormitory servd 'in loco parentis' (in place of parents) complete with a roving police figure to enforce a rigid list of rules. A few guidelines still remain, but have changed radically to accomodate an 18 year old majority situation.

Dr. Larry Mangus, BSC housing director, comments "Students don't want to be stuck in a double room with a roommate and their belongings. They want privacy and variety, and we're trying to give them what they ask for. We're always looking for new ideas."

Purpose of Mangus' office is to offer alternatives to the conventional room and board concept of housing college students.

"There's a fine line between a dormitory and a residence hall. A dorm is simply a place to sleep and eat. If that's all we could do, there would be no reason for us to exist," remarks Mangus.

Next fall, the five residence halls at BSC are going to provide much more than a hot meal. All will have varying arrangements of coed living, and certain areas will be designated for freshman, sophomore, junior, senior, graduate and honor students. The freshmen, for example, will concentrate on a career development program to help the student away from home for the first time. None of the sections are to be mandatory, since one of the prime objectives is giving the individual a choice.

Fraternities, sororities and international students are not to be ignored in designing the new special interest housing program. By sharing a floor with people of common interests, students are able to further their knowlege in the specific area.

For example, the second floor of Tamarack hall will be reserved for the members of the modern languages program. Besides speaking either French, German or Spanish in the hall the group will be exposed to some aspects of the cultures.

Other academic majors such as fine arts, will also have special living quarters. Studios will be arranged as well as other study aids.

A popular choice the past year at BSC has been the cooperative living project. Here, superivison is at a minimum and students are ble to help pay for their room and board by helping with work in the hall, such as a desk job.

The actual room arrangement is not typical either. Most halls have a variety of room choices including singles, doubles, suites and private baths.

"It's an exciting place! The complete social program and short courses we offer help make the residents into more rounded people. At least it's offering something to do in their leisure time," the housing director explained.

A program which is growing in popularity is the hobby classes or short course. Students can attend meetings in their hall to learn almost anything in which they express interest. Often, faculty speakers aid in their professional areas.

An important part of residence hall life has always been a resident assistant or R.A.

"We've given up the policeman idea and are trying to select a professional staff which is interested in people and in helping students to grow," Mangus said.

"An R.A. now is basically in a counseling, information and referral position," he continued. "There is some discipline involved, but they are there to be a friend."

He indicated some staff members are selected for their special talents. Next year, one R.A. hopes to organize a theatre workshop session within the dorm.

Students choosing to live in residencehalls may question what the 'drinking on campus' decision will be. Mangus cites the "no drinking" law and says that until the law is changed the college must enforce it.

With his belief that a college education involves more than classroom pursuits, Mangus summarizes his feelings when he says, "Adjustments to college life are easier and students have a grater voice in their government while living on-campus.

"Of course, we're enthusiastic about on-campus living and we want to her student suggestions." The BSC housing director added "Our door is always open and changes can be made."

Some 400 persons, including 218 registered stockholders, attended the 68th annual meeting of the Garden Valley Telephone company at the cooperative's headquarters in Erskine June 4.

Oris Moen of Fertile was reelected to his seventh three-year term as the director from District 1. Simon Knudson of McIntosh retained his position, without opposition, as the fourth district's representative. L.J. Lee of Bagley also was reelected to another three-year term from District 7. Knudson and Lee were first appointed to the board in December of 1969.

Continuing to serve on the board are the following directors whose terms did not expire this year: Elmer Berg, Gully; Chester Casselman, Erskine; O. P. Gjerdingen, Red Lake Falls; Norman Hendirckson, Gonvick; Elmer Lee, Foston; and Thorfin Ostby, Grygla.

President Elmer Berg emphasized the need for an increase in telephone rates. He stated that the current maximum rate for one-party residential service was approved by the state commission some 23 years ago. Reffering to the federal consumer price index, which has risen 84 per cent since 1951, the company president said that the current $4.75 rate would have now been four dollars higher per month to keep pace with the national trend of inflation.

He stated, however, that "the rates for which the company will, in the near future, request approval from the Minnesota Public Service Commission are expected to be somewhat less than the projected $8.75 per month." Berg noted that although the cooperative's operating income in 1973 was nearly four times more than in 1956, expenses have gone up almost five and one-half times.

"Given a choice," he said, "we would happily say here today that we can continue to run the company with rates which were established for conditions as they existed in the 1950's. It would not, however, be in the best interests of any of us to ignore the basic economic facts of life."

General manager Harold Peterson, whose Garden Valley career now spans 46 years, reviewed the company's operations in 1973 and discussed plans for the future. He stated tha the company had recently received approval from the Rural Electrification administration for an additional $1.25 million loan. "The miracle," he said, "is that this loan is still at two per cent. The new bank loans are about seven per cent.

"That means," Peterson continued, "an average difference or saving of about $30,000 a year for 35 years. It surely gives us a much needed lift toward resuming our rebuilding program that has been on hard times these last couple of years."

The general manager said that a seven per cent interest rate is expected to apply to the company's next loan of from $1.15 to $3 million. Higher interest rates and other increased costs will definitely require a rate increase, he stated.

Motions that future annual meetings be held on February 15 (now the first Tuesday in June) and that a quorum for stockholders' meetings be increased from 50 to 1,500 members failed to be seconded and the proposed changes were not approved. Company attorny K.R. Erie and Steve Wright, certified public accountant, in addition to Berg and Peterson, responded to questions concerning the cooperative's by-laws, the annual report and the rate case.

Presentations were made to Loren Hole, who retired with 31 years of service on April 27, and to John Heideman, who had been employed with Garden Valley for 27 years when he retired on Nov. 30, 1973. Also recognized for his 27 years of employment was Walter Shoholm, who was not present at the meeting, and who retired on February 15.

Thirty-four safe driver awards of the National Safety council were presented to Garden Valley plant and central office equipment employees who had established or extended driving records without a preventable accident during the past year. Safety director Clifton Olson, with assistance from Harvey Johnson Jr., made the presentations.

A slide presentation, entitled "The Garden Valley Story", was narrated by plant supervisor Connie Nickelson. A group of local musicians, "The Erskine Oldtimers" provided additional entertainment at the 1974 annual session. Included in the group were Joe DuChamp, Bernt Odegard, Cliff Olson, Bloyd Talge and Vernes Trandem.

Winners of drawings for cash and merchandise attendance prizes were Mrs. Chester Casselman, Erskine; Mrs. Elmer J. Erickson, Bagley; Ms. Elmer Lee, Fosston; Mrs. Art Leining Plummer; Mrs. Orrin Ness, Fosston; Mrs. Carl Norling, Bagley; Mrs. Carl Opheim, Winger; Mrs. Thomas Ostby, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Alma Salveson, Winger; Mrs. Donald Shand, Plummer; and Mrs. Sina Stennes, Erskine.

North Central Boards 709 TRF May Passengers

North Central airlines boarded 383,897 passengers, an increase of five per cent, and flew 86,735 passenger miles, up four per cent, both all time records for the month of May, reported David E. Moran, vice president of traffic and sales.

Thief River Falls had 709 passengers board flights here in May—up from 682 a year ago—while 693 persons deplaned here. Boardings are now about equal to 1973 figures.

Passenger traffic gains for the month are considered good, Moran noted, because 1973 results included extra benefits, derived from a strike against another airline which serves some North Central cities, and 1974 gains were achieved despite a five per cent reduction in available seat miles due to the fuel shortage.

The passenger load factor for May rose nine per cent from 45.8 to 49.8

North Central again compiled an outstanding operating performance as 99.6 per cent of the 2,310,624 scheduled miles in May were completed, and 87 per cent of the 17,973 scheduled arrivals were on time.

For the first five months of 1974, year-to-date traffic records were also set. Passenger boardings reached 1,810,844, a ten per cent increase over the comparable period last year. Passenger miles were up seven per cent to 419,572,245, and cargo ton miles hit a new high of 5,393,587, an increase of three per cent.

Weekly Gasoline Survey Shows Improvement

Gasoline supplies continue to improve in Minnesota, according to the weekly survey made by the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and the auto clubs of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

More than 25 per cent of the stations contacted said their fuel supplies were better this week than the week before. More than 70 per cent said their supplies were the same as the week before. Only two stations in the survey reported that supply of fuel was lower than the week before.

The average price of gas this week was slightly higher with regular at 55.4 cents and premium at 58.8 cents.

The percentage of stations open past 7 p.m., weekdays and Saturdays dropped to 64 per cent while the percentage open Sundays also dipped to 40 per cent.

Gasoline prices in St. Paul continue to average nearly one cent higher than prices in Minneapolis.

C of C Hears Three Reports On Monday

Detailed reports from the downtown development committee, Northwestern hospital board of trustees and city clerk on increment financing were presented at the general membership meeting of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Monday evening at the Elks club rooms. Approximately 75 members were in attendance at the meeting.

Annual meeting of Jobs Incorporated was also held in conjunction with the meeting. Randall Noper, Gordon Peterson and Robert Flynn were reelected to the board of directors, with Vernon E. Nelson, Duane Walton and Noel Iverson elected to succeed Donald M. Olson, Gordon Ballingrud and Ed Mazurek. All directors were elected for two-year terms.

Duane Walton's review of downtown development committee action centered on activities to obtain a highway 59 bypass for Thief River Falls and to encourage hiring of a city project director or community development planner by the city's housing and redevelopment authority.

Walton said that good ideas are being constantly presented but rarely are translated into effective action because there is nobody available on a full-time basis to follow them through to conclusion. The committee's recommendation—approved by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors—will be made to the city council June 25, Walton said. It will ask the hiring of a community development planner to be on the job by September 1.

Candi-Shoppe Aspires To Reach Supper Club Circuit

After five years of playing dance music and entertaining, the all-girl musical organization known as the Candi-Shoppe is seeking to change its image.

"We want to go more into show type stuff," explained Margaret Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Fox of Thief River Falls and one of the original Candi-Shoppe members. "It would move us up a step on the ladder and I guess we would all like that."

"It's a way of life now," philosophized Shiela Johnson in her most melodramatic tones, referring to the career which the girls seriously pursue. Sheila is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Johnson of Thief River Falls and has been a member of the band for four years.

The way of life has created a togetherness for the girls which, somewhat surprisingly, has resulted in very few personality clashes.

"There isn't any friction," volunteered Kathy Hawkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Hawkinson of St. Hilaire and also an original member of the Candi-Shoppe. "When we're on stage it's us against the audience and that means we have to work together. And there are so many things to do that we really don't have time for differences."

"I think we all have enough respect for each other so that being together all the time isn't really a strain," added Debbie

Last night the board voted to accept the final report of Nason, Wherman, Chapman Associates for a site study and development plan on the school district property near the area vocational-technical institute. The board further requested the site planner to investigate in detail the grading and drainage problems of the area and recommend solutions, along with cost estimates for site improvements. This report is expected to be received by the district within 30 days.

At Monday night's session the board agreed to authorize the sale of five used buses to Anderson Superior Coach Sales of Moorhead for a total sum of $5,113. BROODS OF DUCKLINGS are making their appearance at the East Park wildlife managment area in eastern Marshall county. This teal hen and her brood of a dozen downy ducklings were photographed in the judicial ditch which serves as an outlet from the managment area's water control structure. Impoundment has created water area for large numbers of waterfowl.

East Park Wildlife Area Develops With Spring Rain

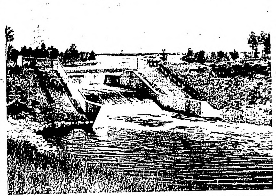
by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor



CONTROL STRUCTURE which creates a 1,720-acre impoundment is located on Judicial Ditch 18 in eastern Marshall county. The dam was built adjacent to the ditch which was then diverted when the structure was completed a year ago. A dry year in 1973 resulted in no water on the area but this spring's run-off and rains filled the area completely. Part of the impoundment—which doubles as a flood control and wildlife area—can be seen in the upper portion of the photo.

Following a spring season of abundant water supply, the newly-created East Park flood control and wildlife management area in the Tamarac River watershed has its impoundment filled and has attracted a large waterfowl population in its first effective year. Completed a year ago, the project effectiveness was delayed a year by dry weather in 1973 which failed to provide enough water to flood the impoundment.

The flood control and wildlife managment area includes a total of 8,500 acres including 1,720 acres of water area—approximately one-fourth the water area in the more commonly known Thief Lake wildlife managment area. It is part of the larger Tamarac River watershed which encompasses 234-700 acres or 366.7 square miles in Marshall, Kittson and Roseau counties.

The total watershed is 53 miles long and has a difference in elevation of 410 feet from its eastern to western extremities. Marshall county has 93.6 per cent of the area with 3.8 per cent in Kittson county and 2.6 per cent in Roseau county.

Total cost of the project, constructed under the watershed protection and flood prevention act (Public Law 566) was $356,731.86. Of this total $271,336.86 was provided by Public Law 566 and Marshall county soil and water conservation district funds and $85,395 was provided by the state department of natural resources' division of game and fish. Operation and maintenance of the area will be the responsibility of the division of game and fish under an agreement between the soil conservation district and department of natural resources.

Involved in the total project—as indicated on plaques installed at two places on the area—are the Marshall county board of commissioners cooperating with the Marshall county soil and water conservation district with the assistance of the Minnesota department of natural resources division of game and fish and the U.S. department of agriculture soil conservation service.

Involvement of the soil conservation service in the project was in the flood control aspects of the project. Engineering services were provided by the SCS and construction of the water control structure and 5.1 miles of dike was done by Roy Benson and Son of Stephen. The control structure was built along Judicial Ditch 18 and then the ditch was filled to divert water though the control structure. Fill for the dam site totaled 236,000 cubic yards.

No dredging was done for dike construction. The dike area was stripped to mineral soil with a core trench to remove peat and other non-desirable material. Dike material was then hauled with tractors and scrapers. All dike material was obtained from borrow areas on the managment material leading up to proposal of constructing a new medical office facility attached to Northwestern hospital. Discussions as far back as 1964 were formalized about two years ago when meetings were held to involve the Falls Clinic and Thief River Clinic, Drs. Jerome Bray, Earl Dagg and Robert Carter and the hospital board of trustees.

Chamber Hears Three Reports Monday Night

These meetings revealed that the Falls clinic had grown from five to nine physicians from 1962 to 1974; that Thief River clinic would have three doctors by July of 1974 and was looking toward remodeling or building; that Dr. Bray (surgeon) and Drs. Carter and Dagg (radiologists) were interested in other office space; that additional rental office space was needed for new specialists and general practitioners which are area's population base could support; and that two local dentists had made inquiries about office space.

National Association of Medical Clinics was contacted and made a survey of the local situation, Dr. Dagg said. The study resulted in the following recommendations:

(1) There should be a single building to house all doctors and interested dentists, and it should be designed to allow each group to retain its identity. Additional space should be provided or planned to house new physicians—either as new members of the present clinics or as independents.

(2) The building should have a physical connection to Northwestern hospital.

(3) Further study should be undertaken to explore the possibility that the hospital and medical office building share some services.

(4) All methods of financing the project should be studied.

It was generally agreed, Dr. Dagg said, that such a building would cost over a million dollars. Various methods of financing were studied and it was determined that the most practical solution was for the hospital to build the building and lease it to the tenants.

Since the hospital is owned by the city of Thief River Falls, tax-exempt revenue bonds could be issued for construction, providing a cost saving. Repayment of the bonds would be made out of rent paid by the tenants without a general obligation on the taxpayers of the city.

Several sites were considered with the most desirable being property across LaBree avenue west of the hospital. It would provide the most functional and least expensive connection to the hospital and permit considerable potential for sharing of space and services.

Tax increment financing has been considered as a method of obtaining property for construction of the new medical office facility.

Jerry Wigness, city clerk, reviewed the procedure involved in tax increment financing. In brief, it involves the dedication of increased taxes from improved property toward retirement of debt incurred to acquire the property and ready it for improved use.

For example, if a piece of property was taxed at the rate of $300 per year under existing use and through improvement was taxed at a rate of $1,000 per year, the tax increment would be $700. Under the tax increment plan, the taxing body would continue to receive the original $300 and the $700 increment would be used to retire acquisition and service costs.

nounced. His wife, Florence, was present for the presentation of chief's badge and insignia.

A native of Nebraska, Chief

Froschheiser served in the U.S. Air Force from 1964 to 1968 on active duty and was honorably discharged on Nov. 4, 1970.

He began employment with the city of Thief River Falls as a general laborer in October of 1968 and became a police patrolman on Jan. 1, 1969. In January of 1972 he became the department's juvenile officer and was named deputy chief of the department in October of 1973.

Froschheiser received air police training with the U.S. Air Force and has 48 credit hours toward an AA degree in law enforcement from Northland community college. He is a graduate of the basic police science school, intermediate command course of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension and two juvenile officer institutes held at the University of Minnesota.

Mayor Carlson said his appointment from the three candidates was based on Froschheiser's performance as acting chief and his ability to work with officers and patrolmen in the department, other county law enforcement agencies, school officials and the general public.

Candi-Shoppe Aspires To Hit Program Circuit

Schaal, the newcomer of the group. With experience in vocal and bass guitar with two groups at her home town of Blue Earth, she answered a classified ad placed by the Candi-Shoppe two years ago. A month later she was playing with the group.

"If things are going particularly bad one of us just says 'I quit!' and we all have a good laugh about it," Debbie said.

While the four girls have a combined total of 16 years in the group which is only five years old, there has been some employment mortality along the line. Six different girls have been members of the group at one time or another but have since gone on to other things.

The present group has now developed a unity of purpose which aims toward further development of the entertainment program technique. Once sufficiently developed this type of entertainment would bring the girls from the cabaret dance business to the more elite supper club circuit. More and more the group has been able to obtain bookings in dining clubs.

One of the most popular routines in the girls' six-hour, non-repeat repertoire, is a 40-minute program called—for lack of a better name—the Nineties Set. It is a set of songs from the Gay Nineties and Roaring Twenties which includes special costuming, a can-can number, Charleston and even some soft shoe complete with top hats and canes.

The girls put the show together especially for the Sourdough Rendezvous festival in Whitehorse, Yukon Territory. They were flown to Whitehorse from Vancouver, B.S., by the Sandman Motor Inn where they performed for six weeks. It was their second appearance there and they have been invited to return again.

During the first five months of this year the Candi-Shoppe traveled to such places as Eugene, Ore.; Vancouver, B.C., and Nanaimo on Vancouver Island; Kelowna, B.C.; and Lethbridge, Alberta, among other appearances. The one-night stands so prevalent in earlier days have given way to one-week or longer engagements.

The girls are scheduled for appearances by Frank Wiener of the Hungry I agency in Winnipeg, who works through other agents to arrange the itinerary. Yesterday they began a six-day stand at the Fountain of Trevi in Winnipeg, then move to Moorhead for a week at The Dirty Bird. During the month of July they will be in three towns in Alberta, then on to Spokane, Wash., where they will appear from July 30 through August 11. They plan to take in the World's Fair while on the west coast, and will be performing later in the fall in Washington and Oregon.

In the past couple of years they have acquired a new van and new equipment, including some instruments. Traveling with them for the past nine months has been Stephen Johns whose main task is to handle the sound equipment and mix or balance the sound during performances. He also helps with the driving and loading and unloading of heavy equipment.

Sixth member of the entourage is "Shopper", a wire-haired, mischievous bundle of poodle and terrier descent which Debbie acquired in Eugene, Ore. Less than a year old, he is one of the most well-traveled canines around.

All of the girls are vocalists and all play instruments as well. Shiela handles the keyboard, Margaret plays lead guitar, Debbie plays bass guitar and Kathy is in charge of the whole percussion section.

Among the most memorable experiences of the past year the girls recall a 22-hour train trip from The Pas, Manitoba, to Churchill for a performance there.

"And we saw a polar bear outside the back door of our hotel," Debbie said. "It was a female, kind of big around the middle, and the people there thought it was going to have twin cubs. That was a different experience."

The girls recently completed a two-week vacation period at their respective homes before beginning their new schedule of appearances.

MAKING AN INSPECTION of the impoundment at the East Park wildlife management area are Bob Farmes, left, area game manager stationed in Thief River Falls, and George Davis, assistant manager stationed in Karlstad. The department of natural resources has about 75 wildlife management areas of various sizes in the six-county northwestern Minnesota area. Water depth on the area is mostly from two to five feet.

TRFinettes To Host Drum And Bugle Contest

Wars Post 428 which continues to sponsor the all-girl Granettes.

The St. Paul Scouts drum and bugle corps, Minnesota's only all-boy corps, will also be competing. This organization which was formed in 1956 accepts boys as young as 11 years old and most of them join the unit with no music or marching experience.

Drum and bugle corps competition is judged on five basic categories beginning with a perfect score of 100 points and substracting for deficiencies. Areas scored include timing, bugles, drums, marching and maneuvering, and general effect.

A stop watch is used to time each unit's performance from the time the corps enters the field. The marchers must be in motion at least eight minutes and on the field not less than 11 minutes but not more than 13 minutes. Penalties of one-fifth of a point are subtracted for each six seconds of any infraction.

Buglers are judged on their position and handling of their instruments as well as their musical ability.

Drums are judged in a manner similar to the bugles. Although playing of the instruments is important in the evaluation, the precision and military bearing of the performers are also noted.

Precision and execution are keys to marching and maneuvering. Judges mark off points for ragged spacing between performers, hesitation, and false starts and stops.

The general effect created by each unit's overall performance is also judged. Factors contributing to this category include the difficulty of maneuvers, quality of performance and audience appeal.

Hosting their first "Arctic Nights" drum and bugle corps competition, the TRFinettes are planning to make this an annual event. Many local businesses and individuals are backing this venture, as indicated by the listing in the program printed for Sunday's competition.

The TRFinettes are directed by Gail Bergland and managed by Vernon Lee. The unit's board of directors includes Avis Goddard, president; Barb Restad, secretary; Dorothy Wold, chaperone; Darlene Bottom uniforms; Darlene Swanson, first aid; and Bill Dee, public relations.

The TRFinettes include 77 girls from the Thief River Falls area. The unit commander is Jodi Bergland. Lori Peterson, Lori Roisland and Kaye Meyerhoffer form the American flag squad.

The rifle line consists of Sheri Amiot, Sue Goddard, Carol Watson, Marsha Swanson, Kathy Bottem, Kathi Munt, Charlene LaValley and Cindy Bedard

Waiver Of Photo On License May Be Forthcoming

A proposed public safety department regulation to waive the present requirement for the photograph of the licensee on all Minnesota driver licenses will receive a public hearing July 1 in Room 211 highway building at 1:30 p.m.

Proposed regulation is intended to accommodate licensees and applicants who have religious objections to being photographed. It would authorize the issuance of licenses to such applicants without photographs and substitute the legend, "Valid without photo in compliance with M.S. 171.071 and Minnesota regulations." The statute referred to specifies that the commissioner of public safety may adopt regulations permitting identification of a licensee by other means than a photograph.

Under the proposed rule an applicant will be required to present a letter from his pastor "verifying that the taking of a photograph and its use as identification violates the tenets and beliefs of his religion."

The validation legend would appear in the space provided for the photograph.

"Eye That Cycle Week" Set By Gov. Anderson

Gov. Wendell R. Anderson Monday signed a proclamation designating the week of June 23-29 as "Eye That Cycle Week" in Minnesota.

The special motorcycle safety crusade is sponsored by the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and its affiliated clubs in cooperation with the Minnesota motorcycle industry council.

"Eye That Cycle Week" was prompted by the increasing number of motorcycles in the state and by the alarming number of accidents and fatalities involving automobiles and motorcycles.

The AAA pointed out that there are approximately 120,000 registered motorcycles in the state today. It was noted that in 1973 in Minnesota there were 65 motorcycle fatalities, 2,334 injuries and a total of 2,411 accidents.

The "Eye That Cycle" program is aimed at alerting motorists to the ever-increasing number of motorcycles on our highways.

In his proclamation the Governor declared, "The safe use of motorcycles in our state is a matter of concern for all.

"I do urge industries, schools, civic and service organizations, business groups and parents to cooperate in this observance in public and private in order that the well being of our motorcyclists and other users of our streets and highways may be safeguarded." says Gov. Anderson.

Thousands of "Eye That Cycle" flyers for car drivers and cyclists will be distributed throughout the state as well as litter bags and helmet decals.

Postmaster Art Buringrud Offers Mailing Tips

Tips to help vacationers enjoy trouble-free mailing of letters and post cards while on their holiday were offered recently by Postmaster (Art Buringrud).

"Mail as early as possible in the day, preferably in the morning," he said. "Avoid mailing on weekends when many post offices are closed. And try to deposit cards in mailboxes that indicate an early pickup." Buringrud also suggested to buy enough stamps before leaving home to prevent running out far away from the nearest post office. Keep in mind that stamps are more expensive when purchased from commercial vending machines.

Always use sufficient postage. For first-class cards, use an 8-cent stamp if the post card is not larger than the standard 4¼ x 6 in. size. For "jumbo" cards, 10-cent stamps are required. For airmail, use an 11-cent stamp on standard post cards and 13-cents for "jumbo" cards. As a general rule, use airmail stamps only when the mailing distance is 600 miles or more.

Remember to use Zip codes. Many times cards are addressed hurriedly while riding in cars, trains or planes. Legible Zip codes will help speed mail to its proper destination.

Keep this trick in mind: Type the addresses of friends and relatives on self-adhesive labels before you leave home. It is surprising how much time this saves on the road and how much neater those cards will look.

Another note: Don't forget about your personal mail back home.

Remember to ask a friend or neighbor to empty your mailbox daily and to hold the mail until you return. An overstuffed box in your absence is an open invitation for thieves to enter your temporarily unoccupied home.

However, if you prefer, you can fill out a form available from the post office and request that your mail be held for any period up to 30 days. If you choose this method, be sure to specify when you want your mailman to resume home delivery.

"The best way to insure a relaxing vacation comes from taking the necessary steps to make certain that everything—including the mail—is in good order back home," Postmaster Buringrud said.

Increase Noted In Food Stamp Use During Feb.

U. S. department of agriculture's food and nutrition service reports that more than 179,200 low-income persons in Minnesota received food assistance during February through programs operated in cooperation with the state departments of public welfare and education. According to Dennis M. Doyle, regional administrator of USDA's FNS, this was an increase of about 6,800 from January.

The February total included nearly 168,600 persons in 74 food stamp program areas who paid some $2,513,000 for food stamps valued in excess of $5,470,000. The difference of more than $2,957,000 or bonus value of the coupons was USDA's contribution to the program. The bonus averaged $17.54 per person compared with $17.63 the previous month.

For the fiscal year through February, Minnesota participants have been issued food stamps valued at nearly $35,180,000 of which more than $17,650,000 have been bonus coupons.

In the food distribution program, nearly 10,700 persons through 14 needy family projects received some 309,000 pounds of 25 nutritious food free from the USDA.

Doyle said the programs are designed to provide low-income persons with more and better food.

Of the total participants, some 97,100 did not receive public assistance payments.

Statewide Dairy Board Election Set For June 25

Acting on a marketing order petition submitted by milk producers, the Minnesota department of agriculture has set June 25th as the date for election of a 22-member Minnesota dairy research and promotion board.

Milk producers are the seventh Minnesota agricultural commodity group to pursue establishment of a self-financed marketing order under state agricultural commodities promotion laws. Marketing orders have previously been established by turkey, potato, beef, soybean and egg producers, and an order is being developed by a newly elected paddy wild rice board.

The dairy board election will be state-wide on June 25th. Producers may cast ballots between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. at their respective county agricultural extension offices, and in Hennepin county, only, at the ASCS Office in Hamel.

Two board members are to be elected in each of the 11 districts. The districts, based on approximately equal shares of the state's total milk production that is fourth highest in the nation, range in size from 2 to 19 counties.

A producer committee has nominated a slate of 46 candidates, assuring contests for every position on the new board. However, eligible milk producers are not restricted to the nominees, and may cast write-in votes.

Nominees and the counties for the respective districts involved in the June 25th election of the Minnesota Dairy Research and Promotion Board are:

District I (Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Lake of the Woods, Beltrami, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, Itasca, Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, Hubbard Cass, Koochiching, Wadena counties)—Allen Bjornson, Hawley; Howard Neumann, Ada; Sanford Moen, Gary and Lloyd Seter Jr., Glyndon.

'Grassroots '74' Is Republican Voter Campaign

Continuing efforts to turn out the maximum number of voters favorable to Republican candidates in the fall's elections, the Republican national committee is sponsoring from June 10 to July 15 a comprehensive program of instruction in the basics of political organization called "Grassroots '74".

The program, directed by RNC co-chairman Mary Louise Smith, is the most extensive to be held by the RNC in this election year. It consists of a series of 13 one-day seminars in voter identification, registration and turnout to be conducted in various cities across the country.

"Grassroots '74" is considered a scientific and proven program readily adaptable for the election of Republicans in any area regardless of size or locale. The sessions, Mrs. Smith said, are open to all Republican party and candidate organization leaders and workers who will be actively involved in the recruitment of volunteers and the preparation, implementation and final tabulation of get-out-the-vote operations.

One of the sessions will be held July 11 in Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Land O' Lakes Cash Payments Hit $5.3 Million

Land O'Lakes, Inc., Minneapolis, made a cash payment of $5.3 million on June 17 to 829 member association cooperatives and 17,148 individual farmer-members in seven midwest states. This amount is 40 per cent of the cooperative's members' savings from sales of $935 million in 1973.

The balance has been allocated to the members' retained equity accounts. Specific amounts paid to members are based on the volume of business each transacted with Land O'Lakes during 1973.

This is the second year in which Land O'Lakes has paid 40 per cent of savings, a 100 per cent increase over the 20 per cent paid in previous years. According to Ralph Hofstad, president of Land O'Lakes, "The reason for this increase in distribution of savings is to better serve the financial needs of the current, active membership of Land O'Lakes."

Funds allocated to retained equity accounts will be used to finance expansion of facilities and services as the needs of the members grow and will be redeemed later at the direction of the Land O'Lakes board of directors.

Land O'Lakes cash equity redemptions in the last ten years amount to approximately $63 million, and member investment in the cooperative is now approximately $107 million. Savings are obtained from the sale of feed, seed, fertilizer, chemicals and petroleum products, and from processing and marketing members' milk, milk products, turkeys, eggs and soybeans.

The program will include music, door prizes, old time costumes and lots of fun for all. In addition to the old car displays, there will be old motorcycles, license plate collections, and much more.

Despite the late spring and all its complications, the Northwest Experiment Station invites all interested citizens to get a firsthand look at the crops and soils research effort at its annual Crops and Soils Day on July 17.

The day will begin at 8 a.m. with registration and refreshments at the Ag Research center on the Northwest Experiment station, University of Minnesota, Crookston. There will be general tours in the morning to the crops and soils plots and the agronomy plots on the North Farm. First buses will go out as soon as enough people are assembled. Crops and Soils association will also have a five-minute stop in which they are going to talk about their new reorganization. Hopefully, these tours will be completed by 1:45 p.m. Noon lunch will be available in Bede hall, the College cafeteria.

There will be special afternoon tours beginning at 2 p.m. to the alfalfa plots, the potato research section, the Natural History area, and possibly one or two other areas depending upon seasonal developments. Livestock yards and lots will be open for visitation. A new slat floor barn for dairy should be ready for inspection.

On June 22, 1946, the first jet-powered airmail delivery was made when two Air Corps P-80', one flying from Schenectady, N.Y., to Washington, D.C., and the other from Schenectady to Chicago.

North Country Music Festival Plans Finalized

Plans have been finalized for the North Country music festival at Memorial hall gymnasium on the Bemidji state college campus June 30, according to co-directors Fulton Gallagher, Cayol Peterson and Harold Borchers.

With 14 country music bands scheduled, the 3-7 p.m. festival will showcase a variety of musical styles within the "country" music family—ranging from authentic bluegrass by Bemidji's "Kan-Stompers" to original country compositions by Podipto, along with a number of northern Minnesota's favorite dance groups. The non-competitive atmosphere of the festival will allow each band to do whatever they wish on the state.

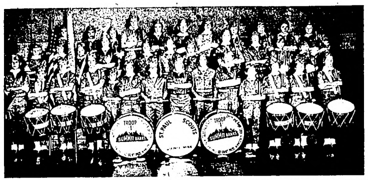
The festival is sponsored as a college and regional event by the BSC foundation, and any proceeds from the festival will be used for scholarships at Bemidji state college.

"We've had terrific cooperation from bands in northern Minnesota, and the festival is really shaping up as an enjoyable experience for everyone in our area," the directors state.

Bobby Aro, a bandleader and radio personality from Eveleth, will serve as master of ceremonies for the festival. Aro and his band will be joined by Stardust, Tomashock, Country Travelers, Hillboogy, Country Wheels, Matt and His Polkateers, Country Moonshiners, Podipto, Clearwater Country, Roadmasters, Kan-Stompers, Gary and the Strangers, and Willie Brand and the Bradedmen.

Advance tickets for the festival will sell for $1.50 for adults at Natural Music, Stereo, I, Brents, Melody Shop and the three Bemidji banks.

Price of tickets at the door will be $2 for adults. Children under 12 will be admitted free of charge when accompanied by their parents. Further information about the festival is available by telephoning 218-755-2915.



BOY SCOUTS from St. Paul will compete in the "Arctic Nights" drum and bugle corps competition Sunday in Thief River Falls. The event is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. and will be hosted by the TRFinettes. The St. Paul scouts are the only scout drum and bugle corps in Minnesota and the only all-boy unit. Boys joining the corps may be as young as 11 and most begin with no music or marching experience.

Mrs. Buringrud Tells Of Early History In Area

(Following is the second in a series of articles on early area history by Mrs. Josephine Buringrud, resident of Valley home in Thief River Falls. Her writings have been condensed for publication by the Pennington county historical society.)

At the age of 15 I was back in Thief River. The Indians had all been moved up to Red Lake and there was much excitement in town as people from near and far were anxious to file a claim for land. I had a busy time at waiting tables for the church ladies who were serving meals to the inrush of people in town. I got acquainted with many of the people who later built homes here.

Rev. Aastad filed a claim in what is now Silverton township and I went there with Mrs. Aastad to live or "prove it up" as the pastor could not be away from his congregation that many days at a time. I also worked for a time for Mike Burns who had two small houses where the Piggly Wiggly store now is located.

I remember once when Mrs. Burns was ill I went in to the front room to put some more wood in the stove and to my surprise there sat six Indians around the stove smoking their pipes. I guess they just walked in and made themselves at home. They had come back to do some trading in town and came to Mr. Burns who was their friend.

In December Mrs. Aastad, three small children and myself moved out to the claim to live for the next 10 months. There was a one-room house, divided by curtains, two stoves—a cook stove and a heater—and there was also a small barn with one cow which was my duty to milk. I was not very happy about that and I don't think the cow was either as sometimes when the pail was nearly full she would decide to kick, the pail went over my head and I had to go back with an empty pail.

One night it was especially embarrassing when a young man on a claim nearby came to buy milk. I went out to get it but that night the cow was really up to her tricks and I had to come back with an empty pail and looking like a snow man. It was best to see the funny side of many such experiences.

We had troubles with snakes, weasels, and problems of getting supplies and making trips by horse and buggy but we managed somehow.

Back in Thief River I watched new homes being built and the Soo Depot. I watched the morning they laid the rails across the bridge and saw the first train come across. It was at 6 o'clock on a Sunday morning and many people came out to see this great event.

I was not satisfied with my life just doing housework and had always wanted to be a nurse. I admired the girl with a white cap. I had finished the 7th grade of school in Brookings, S.D., but had no high school education.

I heard about Dr. Theo. Bratrud, Sr. and his hospital in Warren—I wrote to him and he answered me saying I could come and join a class of seven nurses in training. My parents had now moved to Roseau where Dad was manager of the Hanson-Barzen elevator. Sometimes I was asked to assist Dr. Delmore who served that area. The doctors I remember in Thief River were Dr. Brundy, Dr. Gamble and Dr. Mellby.

The nearest hospital was in Warren and if someone was taken suddenly ill they would often be taken on a stretcher in the baggage car of the "Wheat Line" train, or in a lumber wagon or bob sleigh, not a very pleasant ride for a patient. Most people could not afford nursing care; our salary at that time was $20 a week, later raised to $25. Then Dr. Swedenberg arrived in Thief River. He had an office in the same building as Dr. Booren, a dentist. I was the receptionist and also did private nursing.

Once an elderly man came from Minneapolis, got to celebrating too much, had to be put out of the Ogemah Hotel and into jail. I had to go along to take care of him, was not allowed to go into the cell but worked through the bars. Sheriff LaBree and policeman Paul Meddrick were very kind and helpful. I slept 10 nights in a jail cell, some experience!

The last night, a Saturday so many drunks were brought in, the cells were all filled. The men were shocked to see me there in my white uniform, but were polite and called for my help. By Sunday morning I felt if this was to be my work, I had chosen the wrong field so I called the doctor and said, "I'm leaving; I can't take this anymore."

Dr. said "I don't blame you," and two days later we put our Minneapolis man on a train minus our pay and also none for the hotel but it was a relief to see the train pull out and take our patient.

A nurse arrived from Deaconess hospital in Chicago and I shared an apartment with her and together we worked cases in the country and nearby small towns. At Gully we worked on several typhoid cases. I remember staying in a home for six weeks where five people were sick, including a 15-year-old boy. It was hard work, and the doctor only came out three times. I went back home after loss of sleep and worry, feeling I had done a good job as all went well.

One evening Dr. Mellby called me at 6 o'clock asking me to go to Grygla, a 40 mile drive, to care for a Mr. Olson who had had a stroke. His son would pick me up in an hour. At 7 o'clock we started out in an open sleigh. It was 35 degrees below zero, but clear and bright. I was dressed in a large fur coat, but was chilled to the bone—traveling was slow, but it felt so good to come in to a cozy home with hot coffee waiting. Spent the rest of the night caring for my patient, three weeks later left my patient as well as could be expected and I always felt hardships were well worth it when I could leave my patients improved.

DWI Clinics Now Opening In Minnesota

Special clinics for dealing with drivers who have been convicted of driving offenses involving intoxication have been developing at a rapid pace. Such clinics are now operating or about to begin operations in 34 locations in Minnesota, including seven in Hennepin county. Of these, 10 nave just started or are preparing to open. The driver training section of the Minnesota department of public safety has been assisting in the organization of the clinics.

The clinics are an offshoot of the Driver Improvement clinics which have been in operation since 1962, and under state supervision since 1966. The clinics are designed to assist drivers who have been involved in accidents and violations, and have been referred by courts and by state driver evaluators.

The DWI clinic program was initiated in Austin in 1971, patterned after a program developed experimentally in Phoenix, Ariz. While the clinics generally are based upon the Phoenix experiment, they vary widely in their approach to the problem, some following the regular DIC classroom format and others relying heavily on personal counseling and other approaches. A number are called "Safety Seminars."

Those following the general DIC format rely upon additional counseling or therapy for drivers with extreme problems. Administrtors are now conferring, with the objective of developing more uniform approaches.

Newly organized or in the process of organizing are clinics at Virginia-Hibbing, Morris, Center City, Marshall, Dakota County, and Beltrami County (Bemidji), which will service centers in Red Lake, Park Rapids and Walker. The DWI clinic at St. Cloud is preparing to service a center in Buffalo.

As the courts have legal authority to require a convicted driver to attend any clinic within 35 miles of his residence, the addition of these new locations to the 24 previously operating means that a substantial part of the state is covered. Most of the DWI clinics are operated either in conjunction with Driver Improvment clinics or in the same communities. Many are administered as separate entities and a number have been organized in communities where there are no DICs.

The typical format calls for 8 to 9 hours of classroom instruction and indoctrination in four evening sessions.

By the year 2,000 high-rise building will be self-contained communities with 25,000 people—the size of Philadelphia in 1776—living and working in one location according to Probing the Future, a study by Engineering news-Record.

Income Level Of Poor Raised Due To Living Costs

Income levels used in federal programs in which being "poor" is an eligibility factor have been raised by from $130 for a nonfarm family of one to $370 for a family of seven, the U.S. department of labor announced.

New income levels reflect the increase in the cost of living since the last criteria were set in July of 1973 and will be used immediately.

The revised poverty-level guidelines for nonfarm and farm families will e applied in administering some manpower programs under the comprehensive employment and training act (CETA), which provides jobs and training opportunities for the economically disadvantaged, jobless and underemployed persons.

For purposes of manpower program eligibility, a person is considered to be voor or "disadvantaged" if he or she or the famly receives welfare payments or if the annual family income in cash does not exceed the new levels.

Income levels for families of one through seven persons are shown below for the Continental United Staes with the tables for 1973 and 1974:

June 1973

Family Size	Nonfarm	Farm
1	$2,200	$1,870
2	2,900	2,465
4	4,300	3,655
5	5,000	4,250
6	5,700	4,845
7	6,400	5,440

May 1974

Family Size	Nonfarm	Farm
1	$2,330	$1,980
2	3,070	2,610
3	3,810	3,240
4	4,550	3,870
5	5,290	4,500
6	6,030	5,130
7	6,770	5,750

Income limits for families of more than seven persons may be determined by adding for the nonfarm and farm levels these amounts for each additonal person: $740 and $630 for the Continental U.S., $850 and $720 for Hawaii, and $920 and $780 for Alaska.

The levels are used in federal programs in whih being poor is an eligibility factor. The poverty level guidelines are issued by the office of economic opportunity on an annual or needed basis for use by the various federal agencies that need a criterion in their programs.

On June 30, 1961, Gen. Curtis E. LeMay became Chief of Staff, U.S. Air Force, succeeding Gen. Thomas E. White.

Veteran ball players with experience normally make up a championship team in professional sports. The same situation currently exists in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league.

The experience factor has been evidenced in games involving the league's Legion squad this season. The Legion team is made up almost entirely of players who formed the 1973 Lincoln high school baseball team—a team that recently retired Prowler coach Ralph Skay called his finest team in the 22 year history of the sport at the school.

The Legion is loaded with talented players, but owns just a 1-4 league record, losing tough games to veteran squads like Erskine and VFW after enjoying early leads in both games.

Experience, or lack of it, has proved fatal to the Legion in both losses as the veteran opponents execute plays in key situations while the Legion players struggle through "their one bad inning per game," which is the league's standard line for the Legion frustrations.

The fast pitch softball league's first key match of the 1974 season will be played Thursday when defending league champion VFW meets Arctic Cat at 7 p.m. on the fairgrounds fast pitch diamond.

The Vets dropped a season opening decision to Schmidts and can't afford to fall two games behind league leaders Arctic Cat and Erskine this early in the season. Arctic and Erskine are both 4-0 and Schmidts is 2-0, followed by VFW with a 3-1 record in the tight fast pitch standings.

Thief River Falls Knights of Columbus will be sponsoring a bus trip to the Minnesota Twins-Chicago White Sox American Legion baseball game at Metropolitan Stadium in Bloomington Saturday for all Thief River Falls youngsters between the ages of 8-16.

The bus will leave Thief River Falls at 1 a.m. Saturday. Cost for the trip will be $8. For more information call Al Walseth at 681-3638.

Lincoln high school head basketball coach Lee Swanson announced today (Wednesday) that the Lincoln high school gym will be open for recreational basketball purposes beginning Monday and running through August 9.

The gym will be open to the general public Monday through Thursday nights from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

David Dickey, Northland community college's MJCAA all-state, NJCAA all-region XIII and NJCAA honorable mention all-American basketball player, will be the program director.

Bemidji State College announced that 6-7 center Steve Vogel and 6-1 guard Don Hubbell of the Bemidji high school basketball team that won the class AA Minnesota state tournament championship in March will play basketball for the Beavers next winter.

Bemidji State will host a pair of all-commers track meets on the next two Thursdays in June.

A "run for fun" track meet will be held at BSC tomorrow (Thursday) beginning at 6 p.m. and a "governor's physical fitness" track meet will be held at BSC Thurs., June 27, also at 6 p.m.

Everyone is invited to take part in the meets. Anyone planning to take part in the meets should contact Myron Peterson as soon as possible at 681-2798.

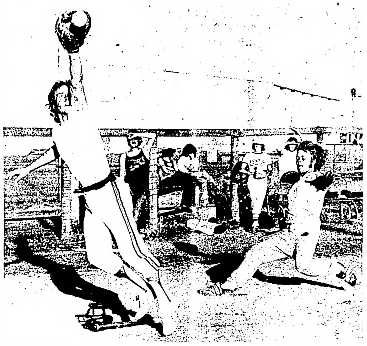
Jack Luoma of Bemidji and Del Schiffler of Melrose, opposing coaches in the 1974 Minnesota state basketball tournament championship game, will be on the staff of the 21st annual Concordia college basketball coaching clinic scheduled to be held August 7-9.

Dale Brown of Louisiana State and Dick Harter of Oregon are also on the clinic staff.



LEGION CATCHER Jon Jensen stretched to reach a high throw from the outfield as Erskine base runner Bruce Johnson slid into home plate during Tuesday night fast pitch softball league action in Thief River Falls. The Undefeated Erskine squad posted a come-from-behind 9-7 win to increase its record to 4-0. The Legion fell to 1-4 with the loss.

A relatively light early week schedule in Thief River Falls fast pitch softball play found Erskine and Nelson State Farm Insurance teams claiming Tuesday night doubleheader wins as Erskine rallied to beat the Legion 9-7 and State Farm whipped Melvies 18-0.

Erskine 9
Legion 7

Moran's Steak House of Erskine erupted for four runs in the top of the seventh inning to edge the Legion 9-7.

Erskine erased an earlier 4-1 second inning deficit to pull within 6-5 heading into the final inning when Moran's plated four runs on four base hits, a fielder's choice and a Legion error. Rick Johnson and Nick Neibauer stroked back to back singles to start the inning. A one-out single by Mike Neibauer tied the game 6-6 and an error made it 7-6. A fielder's choice increased the margin to 8-6 and a single by Curt Jenson provided Erskine with a 9-6 cushion.

The Legion got one run back in the bottom of the seventh on a single by Randy Dallmann and two Erskine errors.

Moran's had scored the game's first run in the first inning on a lead-off walk issued to Nick Neibauer, a fielder's choice, a sacrifice and a run scoring single by Bruce Johnson.

Legion lead-off batter Pete Sullivan singled and later scored on a wild pitch to tie the game 1-1 in the bottom of the first.

Four base hits, including a two-out three-run double by Bruce Johnson, in the second inning gave the Legion a 4-1 edge.

An error and back to back run scoring doubles by Jenson and Salverson enabled Erskine to trim the difference to 4-3 in the top of the fourth, but the Legion lead went back to 6-3 in the bottom of the inning on a rash of Erskine errors and a single by Tom Goddard.

A walk, two Legion errors and a single by Mike Neibauer made it 6-6 in the fifth.

TRF-Crookston Twinbill Slated In TRF Tonight

Coach Howard Dalager's Thief River Falls baseball team was scheduled to host the Crookston Pirates tonight (Wednesday) in a Norman-Polk amateur baseball league doubleheader beginning at 7 p.m. on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

Thief River Falls carries a 1-1 season record into tonight's twinbill, owning a 7-6 win over Ada, but dropping an 11-2 decision to the powerful Crookston Reds.

TRF Elks Split Doubleheader At Bemidji Saturday

Thief River Falls Elks traveling baseball team split a doubleheader at Bemidji Saturday, winning the first game 13-1, but losing the nightcap 10-5.

The same two teams will play a twinbill on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond Saturday starting at 1 p.m.

Terry Dyrdal and Mark Thorstad belted doubles to spark a nine-run sixth inning in Saturday's first game 13-1 Elks win. Thief River Falls out-hit Bemidji 8-4 and Bemidji committed four of the game's five errors.

Brian Peterson was the first game winning pitcher.

Bemidji erupted for six runs in the third inning of the second game on just one base hit and four Thief River Falls errors to win 10-5. Bemidji totaled 10 runs on six hits and played errorless ball. Thief River Falls managed only four hits and committed eight errors.

Oslo Surprises TRF Legion 3-2

Oslo scored three runs with two out in the fifth inning Tuesday to edge Thief River Falls 3-2 in a surprising American Legion baseball game played on the Oslo diamond.

The unexpected loss left coach Rocky Wilson's Thief River Falls ball club with a 3-1 record heading into two late week home games. Thief River Falls will host Warren Thursday and Belcourt, N.D., Friday in a pair of 7 p.m. games on the fairgrounds diamond.

Thief River Falls owned a 2-0 lead heading into the fifth inning when righthander Jeff Langlie retired the first two Oslo batters on a grounder back to the mound and called third strike before running into trouble. Back to back walks and a single by Randy Hanson produced one Oslo run and another walk loaded the bases for Bruce Kollin who promptly lofted a pop fly single behind second base for two runs and a 3-2 Oslo win.

Thief River Falls spent the game's final two innings producing scoring threats, but failing to capitalize on the chances. Three Thief River Falls runners reached second base in the sixth, with two runners moving to third. One scoring opportunity was cut one at the plate on an infield ground ball and the other two runners were left stranded. Thief River Falls put another runner on second in the seventh, but the game ended with a strike-out.

The game's first run scored in the Thief River Falls third when Jon Peterson singled, stole second, moved to third on a fielder's choice and scored on a single by Neil Johnson.

A single by Joel Folger, a stolen base and a single by Cliff Shumway made it 2-0 in the fourth.

Thief River Falls, playing without a number of regulars, out-hit Oslo 6-5 and Oslo committed the game's only two errors, but Langlie walked five and hit one batter.

HEADING FOR COVER like a bunch of miniature motorboats, this brood of mallard ducklings follows mama mallard toward the safety of nearby bursh at the East Park wildlife managment area in Marshall county. A coot joins the race to safety near the hen at the right of the photo. Although the area was ready a year ago the dry year failed to produce enough water to flood the area. This year was the exact opposite and the 1,720-acre impoundment was easily filled. Acceptance of the area by waterfowl has been good in its first year and broods of ducklings are commonly seen. Since the area is a wildlife managment area operated by the Minnesota department of natural resources it will be open for public hunting in the fall.

Wildlife Area Benefits From Spring Rains

Land involved in the project was about 97 per cent state tax forfeited or trust fund land before the project was initiated. A small portion of private land was acquired for inclusion in the project. Trust fund land was acquired by the department of natural resources through friendly condemnation proceedings and purchase while state tax forfeited land was transferred within the department from the division of lands and forestry to the division of game and fish.

Three parking areas are included in the project with hunter access to the water impoundment by boat up ditches on the area. Since the area is a wildlife managment area it is open to hunting and trapping during regular seasons. None of the area has been designated as a sanctuary although a closed area could be established if pressures warrant such action to hold migrating birds in the area.

While the accent is on the water area for waterfowl production and harvest, attention is given to the remainder of the area for big game and upland game management. Moose and deer abound in the area and sharptail and ruffed grouse are also important game species. The township produced more moose than any other township in the state during the last moose season, including six from one square mile section.

Intentions of the department of natural resources are to develop additional wildlife food plots which are farmed on a share basis by area farmers. Present food plots are on the north side and efforts will be made to establish one or more fields on the southwest side. Also planned are controlled burning to improve browse, improvement of the east access road and continuation of winter deer work. Food plots double as a deterrent to area crop depredation by waterfowl and as a winter food supply for birds and animals.

Restrictions placed on the area are subject to review in accordance with the pressure which the area receives. Driving on the dike will not be allowed by the general public. It is felt that this could damage the dikes (which are not graveled), disturb wildlife during production seasons and spoil the quality of hunting during the fall season.

The East Park Project is one of two on the Tamarac River watershed at the present time. The Overton structure and impoundment is located near Stephen. Two similar cooperative projects involving the DNR and SCS are the Joe River wildlife management area and Skull Lake wildlife managment area in Kittson county. The former is an 80-acre unit with 60 acres of water and the latter involves a 350-acre impoundment on a 6,500-acre area.

Location of the East Park project is about five miles east of Strandquist in East Park township. Group tours of the area may be arranged by contacting Bob Farmes, area game manager in Thief River Falls, or George Davis, assistant game manager, in Karlstad.

Public Safety Department Has New Director

Effective June 10, former state senator Edward G. Novak, 50, took office as commissioner of the Minnesota department of public safety following appointment by governor Wendell Anderson. Novak succeeds W. R. Hoaglund, whose four-year term expired.

Novak is a St. Paul native and has been a member of the state senate since 1958. His most recent post was chairman of the senate committee on finance.

After completing college and law school in St. Paul, the new commissioner served five years with the FBI and with another federal government agency. He has conducted his own law practice in St. Paul until January 1 of this year. His work with the federal government was in the areas of law and enforcement

Book Review

Compliments to Rand McNally & company who recently released Connie B. Howe's latest book, the "Recreational Vehicle Handook." The book is knowledgeable, descriptively graphic and pictorially complete in showing the procedures for using camping trailers of every type, in any circumstance or environment, through all seasons in all lands. The book proves that you don't have to be a plenipotentiary to own or rent a recreational vehicle.

After reading Connie's book you will be certain on how to choose, buy, rent, insure, store and maintain today's recreational vehicles. There's tips on special use and care of every type of camping trailer, including live-in campers, trailers and motor homes.

Howes demonstrates how to set up a campsite, pointing out the what-to-do or what not-to-do varying situations. Her easy how-to-do-it steps and explanations prove the advantages of owning or renting recreational vehicles.

The book also covers the electrical system, LP-gas system, water systems, gauges, generators, water purifying and chemicals and the daily routines.

Connie is a member of the society of magazine writers, outdoor writers association of America, association of Great Lakes Outdoor writers and the united ski writers association. She and her family reside in Lake Forest, Illinois. A well known writer, she has features and articles regularly appearing in national magazines.

She recently attended governor Wendell Anderson's annual fishing party which was conducted at Hill City.

While fishing with another writer who injured his hand between the boat and the dock, Connie applied pressure to prevent bleeding and wrapped the hand. She then quicly drove the writer to the hospital for treatment. The injury was slight, requiring but a few stitches.

An ebullient outdoors woman, Connie's book is jam-packed with story-line detailed descriptions in an easy reading approach to interest each member of your family.

State Seeks To Detect, Control Insect Pests

Establishment of special cooperative monitoring programs state-wide for early detection and control of two of the world's most destructive insect pests was reported today by the Minnesota department of agriculture.

The pests are the cereal leaf beetle, which can devastate small grain crops, and the gypsy moth, rated equally destructive to shade trees and forests.

Both monitoring programs are the result of "close walls" that Minnesota's agriculture and forestry industries have experienced with the two pests that have the potential for causing tens of millions of dollars in damage in a single year. Cereal leaf beetles were found in neighboring Wisconsin last year and in Minnesota in 1972, in Cass county, confirmed its first interception of a hitch-hiking gypsy moth. No infestation was found in extensive 1973 trapping after the interception.

Bert Hoger, entomologist in the department's plant industry division, said the cereal leaf beetle survey also is essential for economic protection of Minnesota's farming industry. Western states will not purchase nor accept any farm small grains without origin state certification the grain is free of cereal leaf beetle contamination.

The animal plant health inspection service of the U. S. department of agriculture is cooperating with the state agency in conducting the cereal leaf beetle surveys in 300 Minnesota oat fields. Oats are the primary host for the beetles.

Minnesota department of natural resources, USDA-APHIS, the U.S. forest service, and the national campers and hikers association are cooperating with the Minnesota department of agriculture in locating some 3,000 gypsy moth traps throughout the state, on public and private property and in all state parks, campgrounds and tourist areas.

Package Tours Of Minnesota Are Available

Tourism division of the state of Minnesota has recently begun marketing package tours for many of the state's hotels, motels, and resourts. According to the director of tourism, Lisa Lebedoff, more than 120 packages are available in the new "Minnesota Package" tours for 1974.

"Our Minnesota vacation tours are now being sold through travel agents and airline offices out-of-state. A package includes an air fare; hotel, or resort accommodations and transfers. Visitors may choose from a variety of vacations which include houseboating, tennis, golf, fishing, snowmobiling, canoeing and weekend city specials," Lebedoof said.

The length of these vacations varies anywhere from two to 11 nights. Some package tours offer use of a rental car; others, a sightseeing trip or entertainment feature.

"This program is an excellent method of bringing new, out-of-state business to Minnesota. National distribution of the tour manual through Western, North Central, Northwest Orient, Eastern, Braniff, Ozark, United and Allegheny airlines will help to familiarize travel agents with Minnesota's attractions, facilities and vacation opportunities; but, more importantly, participating hotels, motels and resorts that submit package tours are assured of increased exposure on a national basis through agencies in the United States and abroad," Lebedoof pointed out.

Package tour programs are growing in popularity with individual state tourism offices. Foreign travelers often prefer prearranged tour travel where accommodations and smooth travel arrangements are assured within a foreign country. With the increasingly complex fuel situation, American travelers may be looking more to mass transit for vacations. With an air fare included in the package, potential tourists can avoid use of the family automobile.

Spinal Injuries To Be Studied At University

A regional spinal cord injury center has been established at the University of Minnesota through a $300,000 three-year grant from the rehabilitation services administration of the social and rehabilitation service, H.E.W.

The center, one of 10 around the country, will collect data on the benefits of a "system of care" such as is available at the university's health sciences center.

Dr. Theodore Cole, associate professor of physical medicine and rehabilitation and center director, said the care system for spinal cord injuries at University hospitals is hard to duplicate elsewhere in the region because of the immediate availability at the University of many health disciplines related to evaluation and treatment.

Physicians, nurses, therapists, social workers and counselors will be working with patients who come to the hospitals in acute condition, helping them and their families understand their needs and what will be expected of them during rehabilitation.

Statistics will be collected for three periods: pre-injury, during hospitalization, and follow-up pertaining to methods of treatment, evaluation, and cost.

Several hospitals departments have used the multi-disciplinary team approach since last year anticipating center status.

Cole said he is pleased with the results of the patients treated so far by the team. "From the patient's point of view, complications have been reduced, the length of hospitalization has been shortened saving money, and there's been a smoother transition back to the home community.

"From our view," he added, "patient and family education has been improved and we've been able to obtain the feedback we need to further improve the care we're offering."

Cole, a charter member of the American Spinal Cord Injury Association, established a sexuality program for people with spinal cord injuries two years ago that has been used as a model throughout the country.

He cited the support of Congressman Albert Quie as an additional factor in the University's receiving the grant.

Fumes Hazardous In Motor Homes From Refueling

Minnesota department of public safety warned recently that a potential fire hazard has been found in some motor homes in which there is a risk of explosive gasoline fumes spreading into the vehicles during refueling.

The department cited findings of the national highway traffic safety administration that 1971 "Commercial" and "Grand Lodge" models built by Avco lacked provisions for preventing the spread of fumes during refueling. The findings were made during an investigation that resulted from an owner's report of a fire following the development of strong fumes.

NHTSA warning also reported that dangerous fumes developed even in some vehicles that were already equipped with sealants and fumes barriers.

Department of public safety advised all motor home owners to be watchful for the possibility of intrusion of fumes during refueling, and to take all precautions such as shutting off the motor and all electrical equipment, banning cigarets and lighters.

Owners who have experienced problems with fumes and fires should report full details to the Office of Consumer Affairs of NHTSA, Washington, D.C. 20590.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Minnesota Outdoors

by Stu and Dee Mann

Book Review

Compliments to Rand McNally & company who recently released Connie B. Howe's latest book, the "Recreational Vehicle Handook." The book is knowledgeable, descriptively graphic and pictorially complete in showing the procedures for using camping trailers of every type, in any circumstance or environment, through all seasons in all lands. The book proves that you don't have to be a plenipotentiary to own or rent a recreational vehicle.

After reading Connie's book you will be certain on how to choose, buy, rent, insure, store and maintain today's recreational vehicles. There's tips on special use and care of every type of camping trailer, including live-in campers, trailers and motor homes.

Howes demonstrates how to set up a campsite, pointing out the what-to-do or what not-to-do varying situations. Her easy how-to-do-it steps and explanations prove the advantages of owning or renting recreational vehicles.

The book also covers the electrical system, LP-gas system, water systems, gauges, generators, water purifying and chemicals and the daily routines.

Connie is a member of the society of magazine writers, outdoor writers association of America, association of Great Lakes Outdoor writers and the united ski writers association. She and her family reside in Lake Forest, Illinois. A well known writer, she has features and articles regularly appearing in national magazines.

She recently attended governor Wendell Anderson's annual fishing party which was conducted at Hill City.

While fishing with another writer who injured his hand between the boat and the dock, Connie applied pressure to prevent bleeding and wrapped the hand. She then quicly drove the writer to the hospital for treatment. The injury was slight, requiring but a few stitches.

An ebullient outdoors woman, Connie's book is jam-packed with story-line detailed descriptions in an easy reading approach to interest each member of your family.

State Seeks To Detect, Control Insect Pests

Establishment of special cooperative monitoring programs state-wide for early detection and control of two of the world's most destructive insect pests was reported today by the Minnesota department of agriculture.

The pests are the cereal leaf beetle, which can devastate small grain crops, and the gypsy moth, rated equally destructive to shade trees and forests.

Both monitoring programs are the result of "close walls" that Minnesota's agriculture and forestry industries have experienced with the two pests that have the potential for causing tens of millions of dollars in damage in a single year. Cereal leaf beetles were found in neighboring Wisconsin last year and in Minnesota in 1972, in Cass county, confirmed its first interception of a hitch-hiking gypsy moth. No infestation was found in extensive 1973 trapping after the interception.

Bert Hoger, entomologist in the department's plant industry division, said the cereal leaf beetle survey also is essential for economic protection of Minnesota's farming industry. Western states will not purchase nor accept any farm small grains without origin state certification the grain is free of cereal leaf beetle contamination.

The animal plant health inspection service of the U. S. department of agriculture is cooperating with the state agency in conducting the cereal leaf beetle surveys in 300 Minnesota oat fields. Oats are the primary host for the beetles.

Minnesota department of natural resources, USDA-APHIS, the U.S forest service, and the national campers and hikers association are cooperating with the Minnesota department of agriculture in locating some 3,000 gypsy moth traps throughout the state, on public and private property and in all state parks, campgrounds and tourist areas.

Package Tours Of Minnesota Are Available

Tourism division of the state of Minnesota has recently begun marketing package tours for many of the state's hotels, motels, and resourts. According to the director of tourism, Lisa Lebedoff, more than 120 packages are available in the new "Minnesota Package" tours for 1974.

"Our Minnesota vacation tours are now being sold through travel agents and airline offices out-of-state. A package includes an air fare, hotel, or resort accommodations and transfers. Visitors may choose from a variety of vacations which include houseboating, tennis, golf, fishing, snowmobiling, canoeing and weekend city specials," Lebedoof said.

The length of these vacations varies anywhere from two to 11 nights. Some package tours offer use of a rental car; others, a sightseeing trip or entertainment feature.

"This program is an excellent method of bringing new, out-of-state business to Minnesota. National distribution of the tour manual through Western, North Central, Northwest Orient, Eastern, Braniff, Ozark, United and Allegheny airlines will help to familiarize travel agents with Minnesota's attractions, facilities and vacation opportunities; but, more importantly, participating hotels, motels and resorts that submit package tours are assured of increased exposure on a national basis through agencies in the United States and abroad," Lebedoof pointed out.

Package tour programs are growing in popularity with individual state tourism offices. Foreign travelers often prefer prearranged tour travel where accommodations and smooth travel arrangements are assured within a foreign country. With the increasingly complex fuel situation, American travelers may be looking more to mass transit for vacations. With an air fare included in the package, potential tourists can avoid use of the family automobile.

Spinal Injuries To Be Studied At University

A regional spinal cord injury center has been established at the University of Minnesota through a $300,000 three-year grant from the rehabilitation services administration of the social and rehabilitation service, H.E.W.

The center, one of 10 around the country, will collect data on the benefits of a "system of care" such as is available at the university's health sciences center.

Dr Theodore Cole, associate professor of physical medicine and rehabilitation and center director, said the care system for spinal cord injuries at University hospitals is hard to duplicate elsewhere in the region because of the immediate availability at the University of many health disciplines related to evaluation and treatment.

Physicians, nurses, therapists, social workers and counselors will be working with patients who come to the hospitals in acute condition, helping them and their families understand their needs and what will be expected of them during rehabilitation.

Statistics will be collected for three periods: pre-injury, during hospitalization, and follow-up pertaining to methods of treatment, evaluation, and cost.

Several hospitals departments have used the multi-disciplinary team approach since last year anticipating center status.

Cole said he is pleased with the results of the patients treated so far by the team. "From the patient's point of view, complications have been reduced, the length of hospitalization has been shortened saving money, and there's been a smoother transition back to the home community.

"From our view," he added, "patient and family education has been improved and we've been able to obtain the feedback we need to further improve the care we're offering."

Cole, a charter member of the American Spinal Cord Injury Association, established a sexuality program for people with spinal cord injuries two years ago that has been used as a model throughout the country.

He cited the support of Congressman Albert Quie as an additional factor in the University's receiving the grant.

Fumes Hazardous In Motor Homes From Refueling

Minnesota department of public safety warned recently that a potential fire hazard has been found in some motor homes in which there is a risk of explosive gasoline fumes spreading into the vehicles during refueling.

The department cited findings of the national highway traffic safety administration that 1971 "Commercial" and "Grand Lodge" models built by Avco lacked provisions for preventing the spread of fumes during refueling. The findings were made during an investigation that resulted from an owner's report of a fire following the development of strong fumes.

NHTSA warning also reported that dangerous fumes developed even in some vehicles that were already equipped with sealants and fumes barriers.

Department of public safety advised all motor home owners to be watchful for the possibility of intrusion of fumes during refueling, and to take all precautions such as shutting off the motor and all electrical equipment, banning cigarets and lighters.

Owners who have experienced problems with fumes and fires should report full details to the Office of Consumer Affairs of NHTSA, Washington, D.C. 20590.

Pease be with you.

OSHA Training Course Offered Here June 28th

Many employers may be in serious violation of state and federal occupational safety and health act (OSHA) laws wthout realizing the extent of their responsibilities or even that such laws exist, according to Arthur E. McCauley, OSHA training division administrator for the Minnesota safety council.

Transplantation Of Genes Is Reported

by Bill Hafling
U of M Science Writer

"How do you nibble at the mushroom of genetic technology when you suspect that parts of it may be poisonous?" a Harvard researcher asked scientists at the 1974 meeting of the societies of biochemistry and biophysics in Minneapolis recently.

Dr. Richard Roblin pointed out that "we are not yet quite at the point where directed experimental manipulation of genes in humans is being attempted."

But a standing-room-only grup of basic researchers indicated that they are already quite concerned with the implications of their laboratory work and findings. Beyond the purely practical implications, the researchers expressed great concern over the ethical and legal questions now arising from such work.

One problem for researchers is the public's eagerness to apply the research in medical and ecological areas before it has been adequately checked out through repeated laboratory experimentation. Basic researchers such as biochemists and biophysicists tend to be skeptical of laboratory findings and want more time to check results before they are applied, Marc Lappe', associate in genetics at the Hastings Institute in New York, said.

On the other hand, 'Lappe' said, "clinically-oriented researchers" tend to be "bullish and optimistic about the prospects for genetic engineering."

Clinicians, such as physicians, are caught by criticism from two directions. Basic researchers fear clinicians may be too quick to use untested findings. On the other hand, surveys by social scientists show that many physicians are still using treatments and methods disproved by research years ago and do not keep up with research.

Dr. J. Eisinger, chairman of the symposium, outlined both the problems to be faced in biological research and the basic values at stake.

First, there are problems in the area of "biohazards," he said. The health of the research workers themselves may be threatened by the materials with which they are working, not only at present but in some unforeseen long-run way.

For example, a particular organism or chemical may appear harmless, yet in twenty years, things may begin to happen to the people who have been working with it. In addition, Eisinger said, there are possible hazards from the same materials reaching the public before enough is known about their effects.

Finally, there is the problem of possible ecological disruption from the creation of never-before-seen living organisms.

One area of particular concern to those present, for example, was the developing ability of scientist to isolate and recombine gene-sized pieces of DNA from widely different organisms, thus creating living things not found in nature.

DNA (deoxyribounucleic acid) is the chemical substance that makes up genes. The specific hereditary instructions of every living organism are coded within the DNA molecule. These DNA molecules are present in the nucleus of every living cell and each living thing thus resembles its ancestral stock because of the DNA it inherits.

In nature, organisms of two different species cannot be crossbred. In the laboratory, this seems to be a possibility.

"All living things are interrelated," Eisinger said. "They all occupy specific niches at present. What is the effect to be of a new organism, created by man, on this system? As biological means are developed to combat disease, improve species, and in general, improve the quality of life, what of the possible creation of new man-made diseases, of harmful organisms resistant to man's effort to control them? As we work to maximize the usefulness of our discoveries, we must be very sure to prevent harm.

"As scientists, we can operate best when the spirit of free inquiry and truthfulness is maintained," Eisinger said. "We must also be willing to admit that enormous gaps exist in our knowledge, especially with regard to the possible long-run hazards."

Speaking from the floor, Jonathan King of the activist group "Science For the People" said, "As scientists, one thing we should be doing is to think how we can help the public protect themselves against us." He also advised fellow scientists to think more seriously about the ethical questions involved in doing research and "not just the old worry of public reaction."

U.S. Army Now Offers Bonus For Enlistment

Effective now, the army is offering a new enlistment option whereby an individual may qualify for an enlistment bonus of up to $2,500. Entitled the US Army training and cash enlistment option, it is open to young men and women who have a high school diploma or GED certification and who meet the Army's mental, physical and moral standards.

This is the first time the US army has offered women an enlistment bonus. This is also the first time the army has offered enlistment bonuses for occupational specialties. Depending on the occupational specialty chosen, a young man or woman could receive a bonus of $1,500 or $2,500 on a four-year enlistment where previously only those enlisting in combat skills were eligible for such bonuses.

In addition to all the regular benefits and pay, the Army is paying an individual to learn paying an individual to learn such valuable skills as radio, mechanic or communications technician—skills that normally would require thousands of dollars in tuition to acquire as a civilian.

For further information, see your local army representative SSG. John F. Smith at 209 East 3rd Street, Thief River Falls or call him at 681-1154.

Follmann Named As Information Officer For MHD

Leonard N. Follmann

Appointment of Leonard N. Follmann, Bemidji, as highway information officer for District 2, Minnesota department of highways, was announced recently by Carl M. Larson, district engineer.

The new position, the first like it in the department's history and provided by the MHD action plan, is established in each of the nine districts in the state and the central office, St. Paul. The action plan was developed under a federally-directed program designed to increase public participation in highway matters and to assure adequate consideration of the social, economical and environmental aspects of project planning.

"With the identification of a highway information officer, the public has a direct-line contact to seek and supply information regarding the highway development process," Larson explained. "The new positions provide an additional, not a replacement, of existing procedures for citizen participation."

The long established process of informational meetings, public hearings and review of plans, environmental statements and other documents continue to provide a way for citizen input. However, the highway information officer offers an informal give-and-take of information on an everyday basis.

For Follmann, the role of highway information officer is in addition to his responsibilities as district design engineer. Follmann joined the Minnesota highway department in 1968 as district soils engineer, coming from Iowa where he served for 12 years in highway construction. In 1971, he was named materials engineer in District 2 and early this year was appointed district design engineer. With his expertise, he has served as an instructor in specialized training courses for highway personnel.

As highway information officer, Follmann said that inquiries or comments from the public should be sent to Highway Information Officer, Minnesota Department of Highways, P. O. Box 727, Bemidji, MN 56601. The telephone number is (218) 755-3900.

Value Added By Manufacturing Rises In State

Value added by manufacturing in Minnesota's 5,602 industrial plants in 1972 amounted to $5.6 billion according to a preliminary report of the 1972 census of manufacturers just issued by the bureau of the census, part of the U.S. department of commerce's social and economic statistics administration.

In 1967, year of the last census, the value-added was $4.1 billion. "Value-added" approximates the value of products shipped less the cost of materials used in the manufacture of the products.

Total number of persons employed in the plants in 1972 was 300,000—a rise of 200 from 1967. Payroll for 1972 totaled $2.9 billion as compared with $2.1 billion in 1967.

The "machinery" (except electrical) industry, with $1.2 billion in value-added or 21 per cent of the state's total value-added figure, was the state's leading industry. Textile mill products, with $35 million in value-added, showed the greatest percentage increase (65 per cent) over 1967.

Other industries in the state reporting large percentage gains were petroleum and coal products, up 60 per cent; furniture and fixtures, up 56 per cent; and stone, clay and glass products, up 48 per cent.

The report, "1972 Census of Manufacturers: Minnesota," is for sale by the Publications Distribution Section, Social and Economic Statistics Administration Washington, D.C. 20233 and by Department of Commerce district offices which are located in major cities throughout the United States. The price is 35 cents a copy.

Duluth Area Gets Economic Growth Grant

Approval of a $59,082 grant to help continue a program of planning for long-range economic growth and new jobs in a seven-county area, of northern Minnesota was announced recently by William W. Blunt, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

Arrowhead Regional development commission, with headquarters at Duluth, applied for the grant from the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce.

The commission serves a official planning organization for the Arrowhead economic development district, consisting of Aitkin, Carlton, Cook, Itasca, Koochiching, Lake and St. Louis counties.

The goal of the EDA district program is to encourage adjacent jurisdictions to work together to solve regional problems blocking growth and to create jobs for residents of economically lagging areas.

An economic development district must include at least two counties designated as redevelopment areas by EDA because of high unemployment or low family income. It also must include at least one growth center—a community that can provide jobs and services for residents of the district.

Aitkin, Cook, Itasca and St. Louis counties are the redevelopment areas in the Arrowhead District. The Duluth-Cloquet-Knife River-Two Harbors corridor is the growth center.

The commission will provide $21,020 to complete the $80,102 total cost of continuing the program for a year.

Potatoes Are Taste Smash At Food Festival

Prospects for exporting more potatoes to Japan are improved greatly as a result of the American Food festival held recently in Tokyo where processed potatoes were considered to be the taste hit of the U.S. export-trade show. Co-sponsors were the U.S. department of agriculture's foreign agricultural service (FAS) and the Japan external trade organization.

Free samples of American processed potatoes were quite popular among the 10,000 Japanese delegates, reports Gerald K. Ball of Rexburg, Idaho, vice president of the potato board. Ball also represented the Pacific Northwest potato export committee, which initiated potato export investigations in a cooperative effort with the FAS. Since the entire nation's potato industry can benefit from an export program, The Potato Board will spearhead future activities.

Ball was in Japan to work at the food show, to meet with Japanese food importers and to obtain more information about opportunities for the frozen and processed market.

Acceptance of American potato products by the Japanese is increasing sharply. In 1973, U.S. potato product exports to Japan were $1.3 million compared with $203,000 a year earlier—a six-fold increase. A third of Japan's agricultural imports—$3.4 billion—Come from the U.S., making Japan the number one importer of U.S. farm products. One major reason for this is Japan has only 16 per cent of its land available for cultivation, requiring it to import nearly half of its food.

"Frozen potatoes are the number one potato import," Ball said. "Quick-service food chains just like the ones in the U.S. are quite popular, and the demand for frozen French fries exceeds that experienced at home when they were first introduced.

"Housewives love them, too, and I even was asked about the availability of frozen, whole peeled potatoes. Importers believe the busy Japanese housewife wants to save time in the kitchen," Ball said.

Dehydrated potatoes would appear to be a logical product but the sulfur compound used as a preservative in the U.S. dehydrated products has never had a tolerance level established for it in Japan.

Ball explained that this preservative is harmless and has been used for years in the U.S. "The World Health Organization's recommended international tolerances are well above the level that American dehydrators use," he said.

Ball met with Japanese department of health and welfare officials who said they want to work with the potato board in establishing acceptable tolerance levels. If the Japanese establish levels within U.S. or W.H.O. standards, dehydrated potatoes can soon become part of the Japanese diet, Ball added.

The board, an organization supported by thenation's 19,000 potato growers and handlers, plans to work toward this goal and then develop systems for assisting processors to enter the export market.

COOKING

FEATURES . . .

Cool cookery. Everything but the food remains comfortably cool — (especially the cook). The cookware never gets hot, so china, glass, or pottery cookware can be used. Even paper plates — or towels. Anything but metal which blocks microwaves and prevents food from cooking.

Instant cooking. No pre-heating ever. Just place food in oven. Set time up to 25 minutes.

"Soil-proof" oven. All heat originates within the food — oven and cookware always remain cool to the touch. Nothing can burn. And spills wipe away instantly.

Helps stretch food budget. "Left-overs" are not left over, anymore. The Sharp Microwave Oven cooks food from all sides at once. All juices are retained.

Healthier, more nutritious food. Scientific tests prove most foods cooked electronically retain more vitamins and nutrients than foods cooked in any other way.

Patio and pool cookery. Outdoor dining becomes even more fun with the Sharp Microwave Oven. Rolls anywhere on its convenient (optional) roll-cart. Plugs into any AC socket.

"Modern microwave oven cookbook". Handsomely bound and colorfully illustrated cookbook provided with each Sharp Microwave Oven.

Flash defrost. Frozen foods defrost in a fraction of the time it would take at room temperature. A five-pound frozen chicken, for example, defrosts in just 10 minutes in the Sharp R-6300. At room temperature? At least 4 to 5 hours!

Triple protection. To maintain highest efficiency, the Sharp Microwave Oven is equipped with a unique double safety switch and concealed cam interlock switch. When door is open, the oven is inoperative.

2 YEAR WARRANTY: Every Sharp Microwave Oven is individually performance-tested before shipment from date of purchase.

GETTING CAUGHT!

When the jelly disappeared from the refrigerator, when a baseball shattered the window, when Mother discovered the stray cat sleeping in her washbasket . . . like a magnetic needle the accusing finger of my parents pointed toward me.

It's a crushing experience to get caught. But it can teach us a vital lesson. We soon discover a sense of responsibility and learn our obligation to others. Our true identity emerges.

The Church stands ready to help us learn responsibility. Through religious education youth today can still discover personal identity—while gaining a responsible view of man's obligations to God and to society.

LAKE SUPERIOR

LAKE SUPERIOR is the largest body of fresh water in the world. Containing about one-sixth of the fresh water in the world, it is over 1100 feet deep and has nearly 3000 miles of shoreline. Because of its huge volume, it heats up little in the summertime and freezes over only very rarely. It exerts great influence on the climate surrounding its shores for many miles inland. This Greatest of the Lakes has no large rivers flowing into it, and thus has a complete change of water only once every 500 years — rain that fell into the lake before Columbus landed in America remains to this day. If the waters are kept pure, the Lake represents an extremely valuable future asset as pure water becomes more precious each year.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

Gain an appreciation for this Great Lake. If possible, travel the length of it this summer along the Minnesota portion. Be careful to toss no refuse in it - help save it.

QUESTION: How far inland can Lake Superior affect the weather?
ANSWER: With the wind in the right direction, the lake can lower the temperature at least a bit over most of Minnesota in the summer. It may warm the air 20 miles or so inland in winter.

Penny pinchers are short changing America

One of these days you're going to pay a dollar for a 96-cent item because the clerk is out of pennies.

You'll have been shortchanged by penny-pinchers.

And soon merchants will have to round off prices to the next highest nickel because they have no pennies for change.

There is no shortage of pennies. Except in cash registers. The problem is the surplus of pennies. When a man comes home from work and empties the change from his pocket, the pennies become surplus coins. They aren't worth carrying around. So he scrapes them into a pickle jar or piggy bank and forgets them.

That's penny-pinching—though not by intent. He isn't hoarding. He isn't coin collecting. He isn't even intentionally saving money. He's just getting rid of a pain in the pocket.

So 30 billion pennies have gone out of circulation lately.

Your merchant, your banker and Mary Brooks, Director of the Mint, would like to get them back in circulation. The only way to do that is for you to dig them out and turn them in.

Indian Head and Lincoln/wheat pennies — no. Hang onto them. They're worth more than face value if in good condition.

Lincoln Memorial pennies aren't. And they never will be. 62 billion have been produced in the last 15 years. The U.S. Mint is pouring out 35 million more a day. They have no collector value and it is both uneconomical and illegal to melt them down for their copper content.

So buy things with them. Your grocer, your druggist, your hardware man will be glad to get them. If you have a great many pennies, bring them to your bank. You won't have to count them and put them in paper rolls. Just bring them in — the bank will count them for you. And give you bills for them. Or enter them in a savings account where they'll earn far more than in the piggy bank.

If you bring in $25 worth, you'll be awarded a special citation certificate from the U.S. Department of the Treasury signed by Mary Brooks, Director of the Mint and William E. Simon, Secretary of the Treasury.

Perhaps more important, if one billion pennies are put back in circulation — that's just one out of every 62 pennies produced in the last 15 years — it will save taxpayers $10 million!

So we're asking you to turn in any Lincoln Memorial pennies you now have lying around the house. Please. It will help the Government. It will help the economy. It can keep you from being shortchanged or overcharged. So do it. Abe Lincoln would be proud of you.

Thought For The Day

There is a vast difference between—Being sorry for sin and being sorry you are caught; Confessing your sins and confessing some other fellow's; Seeing your own faults and seeing some other person's; Conversion of the head, and conversion of the heart; Being led by the Holy Spirit and led by your own imagination; Being persecuted for "righteousness' sake," and being persecuted for "foolishness' sake", and 'Contending for the faith" and striving for your own opinion.

Arctic Nights

First annual Arctic Nights drum and bugle corps competition in Thief River Falls will actually be an afternoon affair beginning at 1:30 p.m. this Sunday at the Lincoln high school athletic field. Bill Dee, who has been devoting much of his own days and nights to arranging for the event, hopes to have the bleachers filled for the afternoon program. If enthusiasm is any indicator, he just might do it.

As the local TRFinettes have evolved into a competitive unit from the early day parade representatives of the community, interest in drum and bugle corps locally has also grown. Sunday's show will provide an opportunity for area residents to see some of the groups against which the TRFinettes compete.

While our local girls will perform in exhibition only and not compete on Sunday, the competition should be good and the entertainment value high. People who enjoy marching units in parades will have greater appreciation for the field competition, where precision maneuvers can be much better displayed.

A highly successful initial effort will lay the groundwork for even better shows in the future. Local support has been good in advance of the program and good attendance by an appreciative audience is all that remains for a totally successful venture. The TRFinettes and their adult leaders would appreciate seeing you in the stands this Sunday afternoon.

Something To Think About

Checks and balances in all phases of public and government endeavor have been built into documents governing our society in the United States. A two-party political system is an integral part of the system, as is the divison of authority among the legislative, administrative and judicial branches of government.

With these thoughts in mind, the comments of Reed Larson, executive vice president of the national right to work committee, are something to think about. He writes as follows:

Among private institutions, only labor unions inspire as little public confidence as government institutions, according to the Univerity of Michigan Institute for Social Research.

In a survey of some 1,500 persons across the country, institute researchers asked how good a job each of 15 public and private institutions was doing for the nation. Respondents answered by checking one of eight possible responses, ranging from "very poor" to "very good."

With the exception of the military, all public institutions ranked at thhe bottom. The only private institution ranking as low as state, federal and local governments, the courts, the Congress, and the crisis-torn administration were the unions.

These findings are significant for several reasons:

1) Because union officials, as most citizens are now aware, already wield political power far in excess of the number of "constituents" they represent;

2) Because union officials are waging an all-out campaign to increase their political clout to he point of exterminating all existing checks and balances; and

3) Because union bosses, if they can successfully buy what they call a "veto proof" Congress, have plans to push thru Congress a number of schemes which are obnoxious to and opposed by the vast majority of citizens.

House Minority Leader John Rhodes, Jr. (AZ), put it this way recently: "All the old causes will be dusted off and brought before the House and Senate with high likelihood of passage" he said, including the union chieftains' number one bugaboo, repeal of state Right to Work laws, if George Meany can buy his "veto proof" Coongress.

The stakes are high, Congressman Rhodes said. The alternative to an all-out effort this year by citizens who care enough to stand in defense of their own freedoms "will be the wall-to-wall, coast-to-coast closed shop philosophy for America." Meaning, a Meany-owned Congress will "amend" our federal labor policy to the point where every American will face the choice of paying homage to Big Labor or not working.

There's no question where the citizens of America stand on the matter of forced union membership. Two out of three Americans, 68 per cent according to preliminary results in the latest nationwide opinion reserach survey, oppose compulsory unionism. A large number (70 per cent) feel union bosses have too much power over our lives.

There's a serious warning in all this. Representative government in the United States will be fighting for its life this fall. It's as simple as that.

Local Redistricting

Minnesota law adopted March 26 of this year and which will go into effect Jan. 1, 1975, provides procedure whereby counties in the state are to be redistricted in accordance with current population. Many of the counties in the state—including nearly all of those surrounding Pennington—have taken the task in hand and have accomplished or are in the process of accomplishing re-division of the governmental unit.

Pennington county is perhaps unique among these northwestern counties in that it has one large community in which much of the population is concentrated. The law adopted by the legislature in March provides that "commissioner districts shall be bounded by town, municipal, ward or precinct lines". There is no likely way in which the five city wards can be divided along existing lines to create equal county commissioner districts.

Since imbalance of population in the city wards also exists, it would seem appropriate for the county and city to make a concerted effort to re-structure the city wards on an equitable basis, and in such a way as to conform to the requisites of county redistricting. The community is fortunate in that the population figures of the last census would allow division of the five commissioner districts into three urban and two rural districts. County population is very close to three-fifths in the city of Thief River Falls and two-fifths in the rural area.

In division of county commissioner districts, a variance of 10 per cent from the average for all districts is allowed. This can be increased slightly if the 10 per cent figure causes a voting precinct to be split.

Local redistricting has been a discussion topic here for a number of years and has progressed just that far. discussion. With the activity in counties around us at the present time, there may be some stimulus to initiate local action. And rather than waiting for each other to take the first step, the city council and county board should come together and meet the challenge head-on with a view toward getting the job done. It is a task which should have been rightfully performed years ago.

Back To Congress

Following editorial by Eugene Johnson appeared recently in the White Bear Press:

I'm ready to place the U. S. Postal Service back in the hands of congress. Four years ago I was one of the many who supported taking this service out of the hands of congress and making it a self-sustaining business-like operation.

The spiraling rates and questionable service are starting to bother. Besides, there is no relief in sight on the rate structure.

Add to this the startling factor on how much the postal service has been subsidized this fiscal year by Congress and you get the message loud and clear. According to Rep. Joe Karth, congress has given the U. S. Postal Service 1.9 billion dollars in this fiscal year for postal operations. This is far more than the cost to the government prior to four years ago when the highest subsidy was 750 million dollars.

I understand that labor costs have risen rapidly, but I also know that postal rates have risen too. I'm not sure that the postal service has increased in the same proportions.

Postal service was, at the very beginning, intended to be of service to the American people. It was not intended to be a pay as you go proposition. The postal service is a very important service to the American public as it is to business. In this country alone, we have more mail each day than all the other countries of the world put together.

I'm afraid if we continue at the rate we are going, postal service will be impossible for the American consumer to afford and use. 'Let's start the campaign to return it to congress.

Borrowed Nonsense

Friend of ours sent us this recipe prepared to solve the problem of our receding hair line. Funny, too, the sender is more of a "skin-head" than we are. The recipe—"First you take a half cup of green persimmons, seed and all, and crush them. Then mix half a cup of powdered alum with the persimmons and make a paste which you rub on your dome. This won't really grow new hair, but it makes your head pucker up to fit what hair you've got left."

notes from the governor

One of the pleasures of the 1974 National Governors' Conference this year was the sense of pride among the states in the new leadership role they are taking in the federal system.

Republican Governor Dan Evans of Washington, Chairman of the National Governors' Conference for the past year, set state innovation as the theme of the conference. And in his keynote speech to the Governors on "The State of the States," he highlighted the strides that are being made.

In financing, he emphasized that most of the states now provide at least 60 per cent of the combined state-local tax revenues. This means that states are providing more and more help to local governments and schools, as we are in Minnesota through out property tax reform and school finance effort and through large increases in state aids to local government.

In organization, he pointed to the structural reform taking place in state after state as we seek to pull our resources together and work for better targeting of efforts on the problems of our people. Many states are involved in efforts like Minnesota's restructuring of its central state administration and other reforms that grew out of our state's loaned executives action program (LEAP).

Governor Evans also pointed out the leadership role that states are taking to deal with current issues. He pointed out that states were the first to react with practical programs to deal with the energy crisis, with no-fault auto insurance, with environmental preservation and protection needs, with consumer protection laws, and that more than half the states took significant action on campaign finance or government ethics in 1974.

I was particularly pleased by the repeated references of speakers at the convention to the significant work Minnesota has done in increasing state support of public schools from 43 per cent to 70 per cent and limiting the use of the local property tax to finance education.

Perhaps the best comment on the excitement at the conference about the new leadership role of states was made by columnist David Broder of the Washington Post.

The states and their governors, for the past two generations, have been "pitiable figures, "richly entitled to the contempt they received from the public and the press," Broder wrote.

He added, however, that states have made "astonishing progress" in recent years in providing themselves with "fiscal muscle and administrative flexibility. . . ." Broder concluded by quoting an eminent political scientist's prediction that "the ideas that will become national policies in the 1980's will come from the states and their leaders."

Minnesota drivers are to be commended for doing their part during the gasoline shortage. Since state speed limits were reduced to a maximum of 55 miles an hour on March 2, not only have most motorists slowed down and saved on fuel, but lives have been saved, too.

During March and April, traffic fatalities in Minnesota declined 25 per cent compared with the same period last year. The decrease was at least partially attributable to the lower speed limit.

The majority of Minnesota drivers were doing their part even before the new speed limit was established. When asked last fall to voluntarily reduce their driving speeds, most drivers slowed down. Our highway death toll began falling. In January and February 1974, highway deaths declined 20 per cent from the previous year's figures. Add this to the March and April totals, the fatality toll is nearly 25 per cent below last year's January-through-April deaths.

However, there are still some drivers who are not responding to the new 55-mph speed limit. The Minnesota State Patrol tells me that the average highway speed has been reduced and is now between 55 and 60, still higher than is legal. Because many motorists are driving at 56, those driving above the speed limit are not only wasting fuel, but also are endangering the lives of others.

Our State Planning Agency has estimated that adherence to the 55-mph limit could save 83 million gallons of gasoline a year, an amount equal to half of one average month's gasoline consumption in our state.

Remember the slogan, "Speed kills"? It's been around for years and the truth of its message cannot be disputed. Yet few drivers paid much attention to it in the past. Now, across the country, we have seen that many, many lives can be saved if driving speeds are reduced. There are, of course, other factors influencing the reduction in fatalities; fewer people are driving—they're walking or bicycling—and many people are not traveling at all during the energy shortage.

There are further ways to reduce the traffic death toll as significantly as through speed reduction. If everyone wore seat belts, let someone else drive when drinking and yielded the right-of-way whenever there was a conflict, there would be a drastic cut in highway fatalities.

In our efforts to reduce driving speeds, the results have been encouraging. Drivers have been slowing down, traffic fatalities have been reduced, and gasoline has been saved.

But we can and must do even more; we must persuade everyone behind the wheel to cooperate. The dividends are worth it

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

by Arch N. Booth

Executive Vice President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Who worries about foreign trade anymore? That was at least two crises ago.

"Practically nobody" is the answer to the question, and it's a shame. It's a shame because many of our problems-of-the-moment are directly or indirectly tied to the ebb and flow of commerce among nations.

Inflation, for example, can be aggravated or alleviated by trade policy, although it is not caused by international trade.

Until the recent devaluations of the dollar and the decision to abandon fixed exchange rates, many experts believed we were "exporting" our inflation. That is, foreign countries had to accept dollars in exchange for their own currencies at the specified rate, even though the dollar was becoming worth less in terms of what it would buy, while their currencies were growing more valuable.

Undesirable Import

Now the shoe is on the other foot, although to a lesser extent. The prosperity of Europe and Japan—added to our own—has caused a strong growth in demand worldwide, which tends to raise the prices of the things we need to import. Consequently, we have lately been "importing" some inflation.

The Arab oil embargo is another illustration of the effects trade developments can have on domestic affairs. Embargoes and other forms of economic warfare are the things orderly trade treaties are designed to prevent. The fact that other raw-materials producers are casting envious eyes at the Arab example is a good sign that we had better pay some serious attention to renegotiating and stabilizing the rules of the game for international commerce.

The U.S. could cope with embargoes of other scarce materials more easily than with an oil embargo, but even so we wouldn't enjoy the necessity, I guarantee you.

Now is the time to head off such developments, while all potential participants are still on speaking terms. Once trade wars break out things get messy, to put it mildly.

The world is ripe for a new round of trade negotiations. But it won't happen without U.S. participation. And the U.S. will not be in a position to participate until Congress grants the Administration authority to get down to hard bargaining.

Trade Reform Act

Such authority has passed the House in the form of the Trade Reform act (H.R. 10710). It is—as of this writing—stalled in the Senate.

The Act would:

1. Provide authority to negotiate with other nations mutual reductions in trade barriers.

2. Provide greater accessibility to either tariff relief or adjustment assistance for industries and workers seriously injured by import competition.

3. Introduce greater flexibility in the management of trade policy, permitting, for example, the reduction of tariffs to counter inflation and the imposition of import surcharges to reduce chronic balance of payments deficits.

4. Allow the U.S. to fulfill its international pledge to grant tariff preferences to the less developed countries.

I hope the Senate rouses itself to action soon on this issue. It may be a "hidden" problem now, but it won't remain hidden long. Foreign trade is not a subject of academic interest. We must purchase abroad. And we must sell abroad to earn the money to pay for what we buy there.

Small wonder America's No. 1 selling compacts come from Plymouth.
Plymouth Duster
Duster—sticker-priced less than VW Super Beetle, Datsun 610, Mazda RX-3, and Mustang II.
It's true! Plymouth Duster carries a lower sticker price than all of those other economy cars. But Duster offers a lot more. Read on! You'll see.
In recent USAC tests, Duster's Slant 6 got better gas mileage on the open road than the Nova and Maverick 6. And in city driving, even got slightly better mileage than the 4-cylinder Mustang II.
The tests were sanctioned and results certified by the U.S. Auto Club.
All of which proves that Duster's an economy car superstar.
Duster seats 5, not 4.
Some small cars only seat 4 people. But our Duster carries 5.
A trunk larger than Pinto and Vega combined.
Duster not only gives you room inside. It gives you room out back, too. Over 19 cubic feet of trunk space . . . comparable to many larger cars.
Electronic ignition standard. Virtually eliminates costly ignition tune-ups.
Easy small-car parking and handling.
Duster doesn't forget that it's a compact, offering small-car maneuverability. It's big inside, but small outside.
In '73 Plymouth took over the lead in compact car sales—and still is No. 1.
No. 1
With so much going for them, small wonder that America's No. 1 selling compacts come from Plymouth . . . and that's the way we mean to keep it. Come in and let us show you what we mean.

Upper Midwest Writer Meet Set For July 14-26

William Armstrong, author of "Sounder" and a number of other novels, will be a member of the author-staff for the sixth annual Upper Midwest Writers conference at Bemidji state college July 14-26.

Armstrong is from Kent, Conn., and will teach the juvenile fiction section of the conference. "Sounder" represents his first juvenile-novel and was awarded the Newbery award, the Mark Twain award and the Nene award. The moving picture made from the novel was also an award-winner, and Armstrong has since written "The MacLeod Place", "The Mills of God", and "Sour Land", all juvenile novels.

Mrs Margaret Thorbeck, coordinator of the Upper Midwest Writers' conference, indicates that people in the Bemidji state college service region will have the opportunity to hear Armstrong in a public lecture July 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Hagg-Sauer hall.

Mrs Thorbeck also points out that nationally-known writers will teach sections in poetry, fiction, non-fiction, television and film script writing, and teaching of writing in addition to the juvenile fiction section. William Cotter Murray (fiction), David Steingass (poetry), George Robinson (scriptwriting), and Dr Edgar Z. Friedenberg (non-fiction) are other instructors signed for the conference. Mrs. Thorbeck will instruct the section for teachers of writing.

Six graduate or undergraduate credits can be earned by participants in the conference, and all persons intersted in writing under the guidance of people who are experts in their genre should contact Mrs. Thorbeck at BSC Hagg-Sauer Hall, Bemidji, Mn. 56601.

Economist Says Bumper Crop Is Likely Problem

Forecast of a bumper crop which will exceed domestic consumption represents both a potential problem and opportunity for Minnesota farmers, according to Harvey N. Daniels, vice president, economist and senior investment officer for the First National bank of Minneapolis.

"World-wide demand exists for about as much as we can produce," Daniels said, "but it is not all 'effective' demand. While hundreds of millions of people throughout the world are undernourished, there is no mechanism for matching demand and supply."

He pointed out that the result is likely to be a sharp decline in commodity prices this fall.

"However, this situation could produce pressure for a much needed world food policy under which a food reserve program might be established. The dual result could mean the placing of a floor under prices and the opening of international distribution channels," he said.

Daniels cited figures that showed prices paid to farmers for commodities have declined from an index peak of 203 in February to 175 in May, while the index of prices paid by farmers has risen from 159 to 168.

"Increases in the cost of production are driving farm profits down," Daniels said, "but compared with last year, farmers still are ahead. Negative trends, however, are forming."

In other economic sectors, Daniels forecast that the nation's "slumpflation" would continue through the second and third quarter of this year, bottoming out around Labor Day. Below average rates for real growth will continue into 1975, with weaknesses expected to persist in consumer durables, housing and net exports.

On the consumer level, Daniels said: "Even though consumer incomes are augmented by tax refunds and increased social security benefits, the ravages of inflation are so significant that real incomes and real spending cannot quickly be repaired." He added that "no significant increase in demand pressure arising out of a renewal of aggressive buying and borrowing by consumers is expected."

Gardeners Grow Too — On Polka Dot Snack Squares

It's true that spring planting means waiting. So treat gardeners, young and old, to an immediate reward after hours of hoeing, digging and spading. Serve them a snack of Polka Dot Squares and ice cream, then harvest the compliments. No green thumb is necessary, just a special ingredient. Enriched corn meal grants energy value and delicate crunchiness. Polka Dot Squares are cousins to chocolate chip cookies, but they "grow" into cake consistency. Just let the gardeners dig in, first into the good earth, then into these morsel-topped goodies.

POLKA DOT SQUARES
Makes 16 squares

- 1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup enriched corn meal
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- One 6-oz pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Heat oven to moderate (350°F.). Sift together flour, corn meal, salt and baking powder. Melt butter in a large saucepan; remove from heat. Add brown sugar, stirring until dissolved. Cool. Add eggs; beat well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients, vanilla and nuts; mix well. Spread batter in greased 9-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle chocolate pieces over batter. Bake in preheated oven (350°F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Cut into 16 squares.

National Farm Safety Week Is Set July 25-31

President Richard M. Nixon has proclaimed that July 25-31 shall be dedicated to the observance of national farm safety week. This marks the 31st consecutive year in which this annual national safety activity co-sponsored by the National Safety council (NSC) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has been observed.

Farm safety week was initiated during World War II to attack accident losses that were impairing crucial agricultural production. Thus, the two-fold purpose of farm safety week is to call attention to major accident problems that drain human and economic resources in agricultural producton, and to suggest preventive measures which can be applied to reduce these losses.

Accidents claimed the lives of about 6,000 farm and ranch residents last year. Approximately half of these were victims of motor-vehicle mishaps, another one-fourth were accounted for in accidental agricultural work deaths. About 500,000 farm residents suffered disabling injureis last year.

The cost of these accidents, including farm fires, totaled $2.75 billion in 1973—losses that farm and ranch people can ill-afford.

About one-fourth of all work-related injuries reported in a recent NSC 10-state farm accident survey were attributed to falls. Work falls often occur in the use of farm equipment—especially tractors, wagons and combines. But not all falls are work-related. Many additional falls occur right around the house and yard—on ladders, downstairs, on slippery surfaces and over hidden obstacles.

Consequently, NSC and USDA are emphasizing prevention of farm falls in this year's observance to help reduce farm deaths and injuries, and agricultural communicators, farm and rural youth organizations, rural safety leaders, agri-business, extension, and other community leaders are being asked to cooperate in this year's effort to reduce farm falls.

How to Save $$$ and Energy

Do your part to conserve energy. You can whittle your budget and come up with more time to do your favorite things. How? Here are some energy-saving tips:

Every degree you turn down the thermostat saves 3 percent of the fuel you use! Set it at 68-70° and leave it alone.

Defrost your freezer when the frost is ¼" thick. Frost decreases efficiency and makes the freezer work harder to do the same job with more energy.

Drafts around doors and windows can increase your heating bill by 15-30%. Caulk around windows and door frames and install weather stripping between sashes.

Use small appliances to do small jobs. For daily clean-ups, use a carpet sweeper (it's non-electric!) to pick up crumbs, dirt, even pet hair. No lug, no plug.

City Government To Be Changed For TRF

Thief River Falls, like 18 other cities in Minnesota, will soon be required to change its basic government structure by decree of the Minnesota Legislature. According to a law enacted in 1973, any Minnesota municipality not operating under a home rule charter by July 1, 1975 must reorganize under a uniform city code. The alternative for Thief River Falls, which presently operates under the Law of 1895, is to adopt a home rule charter. Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks are other area cities involved in this change.

About 30 East Grand Forks residents attended a public forum Wednesday evening to hear a pertinent presentation by Orville Peterson, retired past executive director of the Minnesota League of Municipalities. Robert Carlson, mayor of Thief River Falls, was also present to learn how this city might be affected by the new law.

According to information presented at Wednesday's meeting, there are three courses of action (or inaction) available. The simplest option is to do nothing. If no action is taken by July 1, 1975, Thief River Falls will no longer be governed by the Law of 1895 and this city will have to operate under the uniform municipal code.

Another possibility would be for the city council to pass a resolution adopting the municipal code at an earlier date. Because the code is a standard document with little room for modification, this action could be accomplished with a minimum of effort and without necessitating a vote by local citizens.

The third and certainly most complicated alternative would be to organize a charter commission to prepare a "tailor-made" home rule charter for this city.

The district court is the only authority with power to appoint a charter commission and may initiate action on its own. The city council could also start the process by passing a resolution requesting the court to make the necessary appointments. Local citizens could also force formation of a charter commission by obtaining petition signatures equal to 10 per cent of the number of votes cast in the last municipal election.

There are a number of factors to be considered in determining which course of action would be better for Thief River Falls. However, the basic question is whether this city should adopt a uniform code in use by the majority of Minnesota municipalities or take the necessary steps to prepare a charter specifically for Thief River Falls.

The main difference between these alternatives involves the power to make subsequent changes in municipal government. Under the city code, changes in local governmental operation could only be authorized by an act of the state legislature. Organization under a "home rule" charter would mean alteration of that charter could be initiated and accomplished by local action requiring a vote of the people.

Peterson reported a number of other factors which influence the choice between the city code or a home rule charter.

In addition to enabling a community to tailor a charter to meet its own needs and change charter provisions as conditions warrant, adoption of a charter enacts a form of government which permits and even requires citizen participation in its regulation.

Factors which apparently promote acceptance of the city code in the present situation

Oseid Is Elected To Head United Way Board For '74

Adolph Oseid, owner of Falls Red Owl, was elected chairman of the Thief River Falls United Way board at its regular monthly meeting held last week. Oseid served as downtown business campaign chairman during last year's campaign.

Mrs. Ralph (Clarice) Gallither, a teacher at Franklin middle school, was elected to serve as vice chairman. James Matson, employee of First Northwestern State bank, was re-elected to serve as treasurer Art Heinze was re-appointed to serve as executive secretary.

New board members elected were Mrs. Milton Hoff to replace Mrs. Carl Reid; Dr. Richard Heinrichs to replace Dr. Robert Carter; Mrs. Ernest Huot to replace George Erickson; and Larry White to replace Jim Nepper.

Outgoing chairman Bill Duckworth thanked the retiring board members for serving their community through their United Way. Other members on the board include Bill Dee, Carl Anderson, Betty Walton and Mrs. Joe Phelps.

An allocation of $1,575 was made to the local occupational development center to purchase a large industrial planer to help the sheltered workshop in its contract work. A $75 allocation was made to the local Association of Retarded Citizens (ARC) to help defray travel expenses while participating in the state ARC special Olympics in Mankato. Dan Skaja, special education instructor from the local school system, made the request on behalf of the ARC.

To date a total of $54,150 has been allocated to agencies that either directly or indirectly offer services to citizens of this community and surrounding area. A total of $53,998.98 has been pledged to the United Way during the 1973 campaign. Approximately 12 per cent pledge loss is estimated due to lay offs and people moving from firms offering payroll deductions.

A complete report on the United Way's allocations and income will be made to the public after completion of the annual audit, according to Art Heinze, executive secretary of the United Way.

If any person is in need of services which are offered by participating United Way Agencies, they are to contact any board member or secretary Heinze at 681-1624.

The 1974 fall campaign will begin on October 1. Volunteers will again be needed in various areas.

Jaycees To Hold Bicycle Safety Check Saturday

Thief River Falls Jaycees will conduct a bicycle safety check Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the old city arena in downtown Thief River Falls, according to Tim Shetler, chairman.

Bicycles will be checked for possible safety defects and will be equipped with reflectorized tape, furnished by Modern Woodmen of America. Riders will also be quizzed on safety rules and take a riding skill test.

Shetler said the safety check is being sponsored by the Jaycees to encourage bicycle safety and safe riding skills and that there is no charge for any of the program. Bicycle licensing is not a part of the activity, he added.

MCIA Decides To Investigate Marshall Board

Change in procedure in its efforts to obtain a vote on moving the Marshall county seat to Newfolden was voted by the Marshall county improvement association at a special meeting Thursday evening. Lowell Lindemoen, treasurer of the association, presided at the meeting held at the Marshall county central school gymnasium.

Members of the association in attendance voted to retain attorneys to investigate the possibility of improper procedure by the Marshall county board of commissioners or Marshall county attorney. A retainer of $2,000 was authorized for Robert Alphton of Grand Forks, N.D., and John W. Padden of Crookston to conduct the investigation.

The association changed its earlier decision to seek an injunction halting construction of a new law enforcement center in Warren. It had been learned, Lindemoen told the MCIA membership, that the association would have to post bond of 20 per cent of the estimated construction cost of the project in order for an injunction to be granted. The bond was estimated to be approximately $150,000.

Advice from attorney Alphton—who formerly was assistant attorney general in North Dakota under Helge Johnannson—was that bond would not be necessary if it could be shown that there was improper action by the county officials. Such things as diversion of funds from other projects into the building project were cited as possible grounds for charging improper action.

Lindemoen said the MCIA executive committee had also agreed that posting of notice to petition would be done immediately if the group voted to proceed with hiring of Alphton and Padden. He said the posting would be done by the Marshall county sheriff who would decide where the three required posting places would be. There is not enough time to post notice and circulate petitions before the Marshall county board opens bids on the law enforcement center July 8, he noted.

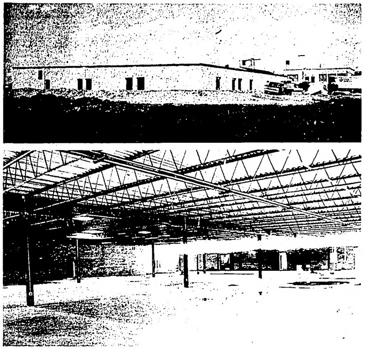
Lindemoen opened the meeting by reviewing activity of the executive board and officers since the last general meeting. He noted that officers had met with the county board to request agreement to abide by a court decision on legality of prior petitions, and that the request was refused.

"That's the quietest bunch of people I ever saw," Lindemoen said of the county board. "People in church are talkative compared to them."

The MCIA treasurer also said that the board met with attorney Neil McEwen and found that he had "cooled off" on the case. "He told us he would take the case to district court and an appeal to the supreme court if necessary, but he would only do it once," Lindemoen said. "We felt he made two bad mistakes for us in advice on petitioning and an injunction."

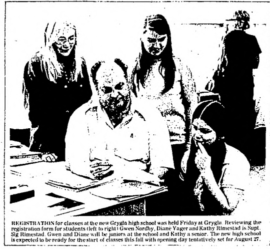
Lindemoen emphasized that the Marshall county courthouse committee, comprised primarily of Warren area businessmen, "is looking for technicalities" and that notice of petitioning was only one of a number of possibilities. "If that hadn't been available, they would have found something else," he said.

In almost unanimously voting the change in use of funds contributed for court costs, the group encouraged the officers to "get on with it." Lindemoen said he also needed approval from the Newfolden civic and commerce association to change use of its $1,000 contribution for court costs, but was advised there would be no difficulty in having those funds available.



NEW HIGH SCHOOL at Grygla is expected to be ready for use for classes this fall although it may not be completely finished at that time. The elementary building to which the new high school structure is attached is shown at the right in the top photo. Much of the school area will remain open except for the kitchen and some classrooms along the south side of the building. Shop area will be located on the other side of the wall at the left

Progress Made On Grygla School Building, Schedule



REGISTRATION for classes at the new Grygla high school was held Friday at Grygla. Reviewing the registration form for students (left to right) Gwen Nordby, Diane Yager and Kathy Rimestad is Supt. Sig Rimestad. Gwen and Diane will be juniors at the school and Kathy a senior. The new high school is expected to be ready for the start of classes this fall with opening day tentatively set for August 27.

With first classes in the new Grygla high school scheduled to begin August 27, construction on the building continues approximately on schedule, according to Sig Rimestad, superintendent of schools. All but one staff member has been hired in preparation for the opening.

To permit more definite scheduling of the first high school classes ever in the Grygla community, students completed registration sheets at a meeting Friday afternoon in the school gymnasium. Total enrollment in the elementary and high school is expected to be about 400 students.

In addition to Supt. Rimestad, high school principal Dave Kragness and elementary principal Kenneth Rustan, the Grygla faculty will include nine elementary and 15 secondary teachers.

"We were able to be choosy," Supt. Rimestad said about selection of staff for the new school. Since enrollment will not be large and a diverse program will be offered, instructors with a variety of instructional skills were recruited. Each will be expected to teach in more than one subject area.

"Current situation of teacher over-supply was a break for us," the superintendent said. "Not only were we able to find people who were qualified in the subject areas we needed, but we were able to select from among a

Nursing Service Was 'Hard Life'

(Following is the last in a series of three articles on early Thief River Falls by Mrs. Josephine Buringrud, resident of Valley home.)

In those early days, nursing was a hard life. Roads were poor, there was no phone service. A doctor would be called out, he would arrange for a nurse, order medicine and hypos and leave the nurse to use her own knowledge for the rest. A doctor seldom made a second call.

Pneumonia was such a problem, seemed so hopeless, medical skill was not far advanced. I cared for cases of these as well as scarlet fever and small pox. Many a prayer was sent up for help to do the right thing when all responsibility was mine.

One did not always get cooperation of their loved ones who were so worried. Usually a nurse worked day and night with just a few minutes sleep now and then. But in spite of hardship, I loved nursing and would not give it up.

Another difficult time I remember was one cold day before Christmas. I had gone to spend some time with my folks in Middle River. Dr. Melby called to ask if I could get to Strandquist to care for a young girl with a bleeding ulcer. I said, "No. The train had pulled out an hour earlier, only three people had cars and they could not go, my uniform and kit were in Thief River." It was a bitterly cold day and it happened that I found out the undertaker was coming out to get a corpse and I asked to go back with them to Thief River.

We started at 3 p.m. and reached Thief River at 8 p.m. I walked behind the sled most of the way to keep warm. Those 25 miles seemed to have no end. But I went to get my things, had supper, and tried to sleep until time to catch the 2 a.m. train.

Dr. Mellby was waiting at the depot for me; he gave me instructions—then the call came the train would be late. I was thinking ther'd be no end to the trip. I was also thinking of the Christmas turkey I was preparing at home when the call came to leave. At 5 o'clock the train arrived and I reached Strandquist at 6 o'clock for another six-mile drive, this time by horse and buggy. Finally I reached a cozy home with a worried father and mother.

This was Christmas morning

Good Nutrition Is Discussed At Mrs. Jaycees

Sue Stovel was the guest speaker at the June meeting of the Mrs. Jaycees held at the home of Kate Campbell. Her topic was "Basics of Good Nutrition." She stressed the four basic food groups and said that all fad diets and health foods should be evaluated to see if the four basic foods are included.

President Smitty Luschen presided at the meeting. She welcomed the guests: Mrs. Stovel and Mrs. Jean Heinrichs, and expressed appreciation to the women who had attended the Mother-Daughter Tea at Oakland Park nursing home. In reporting on the state meeting held in Minneapolis, she announced the results of the state election, the by-law change permitting divorced wives to retain their membership, and the proposition that state projects KD, CF, and Female health be combined into one project under the heading, Medical Heath. The proposition will be voted on at Summer Awards to be held July 19-20 at Crookston. The meeting will begin with a social on July 20. Discussions and forums will be held the following day.

Mrs Luschen also reported that a program chairman was needed to replace Colleen Harrington, and a chairman was needed to head the Mrs. Jaycees' participation in the Crazy Days event set for August 1.

Several committee reports were also given. It was noted that approximately 50 people had attended the Appreciation Tea, that the Betty Crocker coupon containers had been placed in the stores, and that the dues should be paid by July 1. It was also reported that all committees were filled for the Aquacade activities.

The park conditions and the operations of the Park Board were discussed and the group's concern will be expressed in letters sent to all authorities involved.

Sixteen members attended the meeting.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Lindahl Knutson of this City

Tiny Grandma is right when she says, "Give me back my old things, I don't want any of today's new and improved articles." The proof of her statement was on our kitchen counter. As I looked at my new cookware, a well-known brand, I could have cried. The edges were all nicked. An old kettle that had been used for almost 25 years showed no such marks. My first impulse was to return the set to the manufacturer asking for a set tht hadn't been improved. Then I thought of the many "new and improved" articles that would have to be returned. In my imagination, I began loading the truck.

The first to go was my latest purchase, three trowels with plastic handles at one dollar each. They were purchased so the grandsons could use them when they 'help Grandpa in the garden'. The first time I borrowed one of their trowels, the handle snapped off.) I'll keep the 20-year-old trowel with the wooden handle.

Next to go is the last bedroom set that we purchased. The mirror is all discolored while the mirror on the set we bought when we were married is still clear. Yet the newer one, with drawers constructed of new and improved cardboard in place of wood, cost at least four times more.

The kitchen set with its plastic covered chairs that have ripped in the seams can also be returned. I'll keep the old oak table and chairs that a former neighbor bought in St. Hilaire before the turn of the century. The original leather seats on the chairs are still in tact.

Most of today's materials can also be returned. The storekeeper would never recognize the limp, beige-streaked rags as the crisp yellow floral kitchen curtains. They weren't colorfast, nor was Tiny Grandma's rose dress that was laundered, following the instructions on the label sewed on the dress. (I'll keep the fast-colored red and green lunch cloth that cost 49 cents 35 years ago.) The drawerful of my husband's undershirts made of 34 per cent man made fabrics and 65 per cent something else, can all go back to the manufacturer, together with all of my granddaughter's diapers. If the manufacturer was forced to wear "pilled" underwear or harsh diaper material next to his skin, maybe we'd no longer receive fabrics of inferior quality.

While I was lost in my imaginations, my husband called me back to reality by announcing, "We'll have to paint the trim on the garage again this year. The paint is peeling off." My spirits drooped. I painted the garage last year with a well-known paint that had been improved.

The markets are filled with "new and improved" products that are of inferior quality. Unless something is done, those products will continue to be unloaded on you and I, the consumer. At today's exorbitant prices, can we affort to absorb that loss?

Today's recipe comes from Mrs. Lindahl Knutson of Thief River Falls. We are grateful to her for providing a recipe for a dessert that needs no baking.

Method. Fold marshmallows into whipped cream. Spread half over the crust. Top with pie mix and remaining cream and marshmallow mixture. Sprinkle crumbs over the top. Cool in refrigerator for at least one hour before serving. Will keep for several days.

The Knutsons have lived at Greendale Manor for about two months. They came here from the Radium community. Mrs. Lindemoen, we are very sorry about the errors that appeared in your Lunch meat recipe. This is the correct recipe. (I hope the gremlins have moved on to another location.

Lunch Meat

2 lbs. hamburger
2 tablespoons quick cure salt
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
⅛ teaspoon onion salt
1 cup water
7 or 8 drops liquid smoke

Method: Mix all the ingredients together. Shape into two firm rolls and wrap in that thin plastic film used for covering foods. Refrigerate overnight. In the morning boil one hour, leaving the loafs wrapped. (I used the boiling bags and that worked perfectly.) Cool before slicing.

Mrs. Lindemoen sometimes adds a small amount of mustard seed to the mixture.

Student Loans Now Contain New Provisions

According to information received by the financial aids office at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston, there are certain new provisions that affect the guaranteed student loan program.

The information, sent to all schools and lenders, is from the department of health, education, and welfare, Washington, D.C. It is important that students considering student loans read the following information:

On April 18, 1974, legislation affecting the guaranteed student loan program was signed into law (P.L. 93-269) changing the basis for determinging eligibility for Federal interest benefits. This amendment will be effective for all loans approved by guarantee agencies or commitments issued by the Office of Education on or after June 2, 1974, which means that applications initiated up to several weeks prior to this date may very will be subject to its provisions.

The major provisions of the new law are:

(1) Any student whose adjusted family income is less than $15,000 will automatically qualify for Federal interest benefits on loans totaling up to $2,000 in any academic year without any needs test or recommendation by the educational institution.

(2) Any student whose adjusted family income is less than $15,000, who wishes to apply for subsidized loans totaling in excess of $2,000 in any academic year must, as under current procedures, submit to the lender the school's recommendation based upon the results of a needs analysis.

(3) Any student whose adjusted family income is $15,000 or greater and who wishes to apply for a subsidized loan in any amount, must, as under current procedures, submit to the lender the school's recommendation based upon a needs analysis.

(4) The family contribution schedule utilized for the basic educational opportunity grant program may not be used for purposes of the guaranteed student loan program. Other methods currently authorized may continue to be used.

(5) The statutory authorization for the special allowance has been extended to cover loans made through June 30, 1975.

Bill Moeglein Attends Nuclear Power Institute

William Moeglein, science instructor at Northland community college, was a participant with 24 other science instructors from throughout the United States at a recent faculty institute held on Jun 10-14 entitled "The Technology of Nuclear Power".

The Institute for the selected participants was conducted at Argonne national laboratory in Illinois, the site of the first experiments in nuclear reactions and now a leader in nuclear power research. Institute funding was provided in part by the United States atomic energy commission (AEC).

Many topics of interest and concern were presented by scientists Manuel Kanter, Jan Van Erp, Charles Bean and Seymour Vogler from the Argonne national laboratory and AEC. Topics covered such subjects as energy demand, physics of fission, chemistry of nuclear materials, fabricating nuclear fuel, reprocessing and waste disposal, nuclear safety, environmental inpact of nuclear power and others. Moeglein, along with the other participants had the opportunity to tour the Dresden nuclear power station and the Midwest fuel reprocessing plant.

This institute provided a forum for scientists and educators to discuss and engage in exercises relating to the latest information on nuclear power.

SHOP AREA of the new Grygla high school is being readied for the fall term as concrete is being poured this week. Heating plant for the school will be located at the far end of this area. The shop is expected to play a major role in the curriculum of the school which is aimed toward providing practical experience in technical and mechanical fields.

POURING CONCRETE for the new high school at Grygla is expected to be completed this week. Here a workman has his wheelbarrow filled from a ready-mix truck parked outside the building.

number of applicants in most cases. We feel we are very fortunate to have the staff that we have hired."

Although kindergarten teachers are not in short supply, the kindergarten position is the only one which remains unfilled. This is due to the Grygla district's preference that its instructors live in the community rather than commute.

"If a teacher plans to drive 30 or 40 miles home after school, it's not likely he or she will be very willing to return for evening activities which we believe our students should have available," Rimestad added. He said six teachers are planning to move mobile homes into the community at the present time and that four others will be likely before school begins. Short money in the housing field has created some difficulty from that standpoint for the Grygla situation.

While the meeting for registration on Friday was for grades nine through 12, the high school itself will consist of grades seven through 12. Elementary school will be for kindergarten through sixth grade. Largest class in the school is the eighth grade with 41 students.

Supt. Rimestad complimented the board of education for its willingness to have teachers report for duty early in order to prepare for the school opening. Teachers will begin their employment on August 12 and will work with the administration in curriculum development and planning. In addition, assistance is being provided by Bemidji state college and North Dakota state university in establishing curriculum and performance objectives.

Courses are broken down into units, the superintendent said, so that students will have exposure to a large number of practical skills. More information on the curriculum itself will be published in later editions of the Times.

Unemployment Rate Up 5 Per Cent For May

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for May was five per cent, up 0.1 of a percentage point from April and up 0.4 of a percentage point from May a year ago, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently.

The nationally seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for May was 5.2 per cent, up 0.2 of a percentage point both from April and from May a year ago.

Cushing said the number of persons unemployed in May totaled 93,400, down 9,600 (9.3 per cent) from April but up 12,000 (14.8 per cent) from May of 1973.

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment for May was 1,492,000, up 21,800 (1.5 per cent) over April and up 55,600 (3.9 per cent) over May of last year.

Nonmanufacturing industries accounted for most of the increase in employment both from April and from May a year ago. Largest gains were in the Trade and Service categories both for the month and for the year. The over-the-month increase was 19,600 while the over-the-year increase was 38,100.

In the Manufacturing industries, employment was up 2,100 from April and 17,500 from May a year ago. Non electrical and electrical machinery categories showed the most significant gains while transportation equipment was down.

Average wage for production workers in Manufacturing for May was $177.86 per week for working 39.7 hours at $4.48 per hour. This was an increase of $1.19 over April of $7.32 more than the average weekly wage a year ago.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

We have a situation in our community which concerns many of us who care about the elderly.

Our 52 bed nursing home, owned by Pennington and Marshall counties, has to be replaced because of its age. It was determined that there was a need for more Intermediate Care I beds, (there are 22 on a current waiting list of the home); that the project, tho costly, was financially feasible; and that the people in our community wanted a nursing home built on the same site—22 acres of wooded land where the people can be outdoors, walk with safety, garden and enjoy all of nature.

The hospital has now presented a counter proposal to replace Oakland Park by building another floor onto their CNC unit. We understand that it will cost more to build a free standing facility and that the trend in area health planning is to build long term care facilities attached to hospitals, but, we are a rural community; our elderly are used to country living; many of them do not like to go to hospital attached facilities; the hospital has little or no space for them to be outdoors.

We feel our elderly deserve the very best we as a community can offer them so that they can truly live—not merely exist.

We invite you to visit Oakland Park nursing home and observe first hand what can be done to provide a full rich life for those who can no longer care for themselves.

The community is proud of Oakland Park and its reputation for total and complete care. The decision of which proposal will be submitted to the health planning agency for a certificate of need, will be made soon.

We feel the community should be able to decide, at the polls, the future of long term care in our community.

Thank you for your attention.
Sincerely,
Mrs. Agnes Israelson

Ag Commissioner Elected To Head Trade Council

Commissioner of agriculture, Jon Wefald, was elected yesterday as the fifth president of the 12-state mid-America international agri trade council (MIATCO) in Lincoln, Neb. After his election, he called for a maximum step-up in promotion of increased farm export sales.

"Sharply increasing export sales offers a very positive opportunity to counter a chaotic food supply and price problem that threatens to seriously damage the nation's biggest and most important industry, agriculture."

Commissioner Wefald said that MIATCO, the nation's largest and most successful regional agricultural state cooperative effort, has an opportunity to be of real service in expanding America's agricultural exports.

"We have to sell more if we are to keep our farmers in business, assure consumers adequate future supplies of reasonably priced food and fiber, and to maintain the favorable balance of international trade that is vital to the stability of the American dollar and this nation's continued world leadership," commissioner Wefald insisted, adding "we have the food and fiber the world needs to achieve this goal."

Commissioner Wefald said that there are major areas of opportunity for midwest farm exports in the Far East, Middle East and in Southeast Asia. Wefald set MIATCO priorities on these markets for his tenure as president.

The 12 midwest states affiliated in MIATCO through their respective state departments of agriculture are: Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota and South Dakota.

In fiscal 1973, the 12 MIATCO states achieved record agricultural export sales totaling over $7 billion, or 54 per cent of the U.S. total farm export sales. That was a 5 per cent increase in MIATCO's share of U.S. export sales compared to fiscal 1972, and in actual dollar volume represented a 77 per cent increase for the 12 states.

Minnesota, the nation's seventh biggest exporter of farm products, grossed over $597-million from its fiscal 1973 export sales, an amount equal to one-fourth of the state's total cash farm income. Other MIATCO states among the nation's leading farm exporters are Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Nebraska. The same seven states also are among the nation's top ten in total cash farm income.

Minnesota First Rubber Railroad Crossing Put In

First installation of a rubber railroad crossing in Minnesota has been completed at the double main line Soo Railroad tracks which cross Central ave. (Trunk Highway 65) about a block and a half south of 37th avenue Northeast, the demarcation line between Minneapolis and Columbia Heights. City of St. Paul is completing a similar installation on the Burlington Northern tracks on Como avenue, just east of Como park.

Central avenue crossing is subject to a very heavy highway traffic of 25,000 vehicles a day, including 1,500 heavy trucks.

The rubber crossing installed in New Britain, Conn., in 1955, is still in service. The Soo Line rubber crossing is expected to last at least 20 years with minimum maintenance, hopefully without complaints of a "rough crossing."

Prefabricated hard rubber mats with steel reinforcement and a diamond design on the surface for traction were laid at the crossing. Mats were installed between the tracks, with a 2¼-inch gap next to the inside of the rails to accommodate train wheels. Twenty-one inch wide aprons, composed of the rubber matting, were snugged up against the outer edge of the tracks.

Bolts, about a foot in length, were imbedded in the railroad ties to hold the mats firmly in place.

Thoroughgoing underground preparation is the key to successful installation of the hard rubber crossing. Rock ballast and new railroad ties must be laid. The ballast provides drainage and support for the tracks.

Minnesota department of highways provided the rubber crossing installation. The Soo Line, under the direction of assistant engineer Loren Sultze, provided the labor under a mutual construction agreement.

For many years the highway department has maintained a railway negotiations office to facilitate construction of the many improvents affecting both modes of transportation.

GI Educational Checks Extended For One Month

Educational assistance checks for 150,000 veterans whose GI bill eligibility was recently extended by one month will reach them by late June or earlier, the Veterans administration announced recently.

On May 31, the day the GI education entitlement expired for veterans discharged between January 31, 1955 and July 1, 1966, the President signed Public Law 93-293 granting a 30-day extension to the normal eight-year entitlement.

Long before the legislation was passed, VA accomplished all possible preliminary work for speedy service in anticipation that some form of extension would be passed by Congress and approved by the President, VA officials said.

In addition to the May 31 law, a supplemental appropriation is needed to fund the increases, but quick Congressional action is expected on the President's request for the necessary funds. The extension also allows 85,000 veterans pursuing correspondence courses during May to continue through June. The extra month of eligibility extends also to nearly four million other eligible veterans not currently training.

Commenting on the pay problem posed by the former May 31 deadline, VA officials explained "Most veterans receive educational assistance checks at the beginning of each month of training, but veterans who continued training after the deadline could not legally be paid for June training."

The new deadline, July 1, 1974, for veterans separated from service between Jan. 31, 1955 and July 1, 1966, applies only to school training, it was pointed out. Veterans taking farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on-job training have until Aug. 30, 1975, to complete training.

Single veterans going to school full-time under the GI Bill draw $220 monthly in education assistance, while those with dependents receive higher benefits.

VA officials noted bills are pending in Congress to increase allowances, and to extend GI Bill eligibility from eight to ten years.

Voice Opposition To Elimination Of Tax Deduction

Executive committee of the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) at a meeting in Rochester came out in strong opposition to a proposed elimination of the federal income tax deduction for state gasoline taxes.

The House ways and means committee has apparently reached agreement to eliminate this popular deduction as part of a "tax simplification" measure now being considered by that committee.

"To call this measure 'tax simplification' is to merely cloud the economic impact it will have on the motoring public," said Frank Kasper, president of the 400,000-member motoring organization.

"If elimination of this deduction becomes law, motorists all over America will have to share a one billion dollar tax increase. This is just another attempt at 'soak-the-motorist' legislation," said Kasper. "Every tax increase that affects the motorist affects mostly the wage-earner, the family man, and the low and middle-income people in general."

Kasper called on Minnesota's 400,000 AAA members to write their congressmen and oppose this measure which will further increase the economic burden on motorists.

"In this time of galloping inflation, it seems incredible that our government would consider further increasing the economic burden on the motoring public," Kasper concluded.

City Government To Be Changed For T.R. Falls

includes the fact that this action would be the easiest. In fact, with no action whatsoever this community would be subject to the provisions of the city code on July 1, 1975.

Another factor presented as an advantage of adoption of the city code is its uniformity for all communities operting under the code. Peterson cited the application of attorney general's opinions to all city code communities.

Code supporters also speculate that a locally written charter might not be as well written as the city code which has been in use for a number of years.

Some of the city code supporters at the East Grand Forks meeting voiced their concern about the possible cost of preparing and adopting a local charter. The charter commission is empowered to hire outside consultants such as an attorney. The cost of conducting a city election would also be incurred. However, the commission's expenditures would be limited to $1,500 without additional approval by the council.

Comparison of a local charter versus the city code is not possible at this time because a charter could be written to incorporate nearly any provision considered desirable for this community. However, the changes involved in accepting the city code can be discussed.

By comparison with other cities presently incorporated under the Laws of 1895, changes required for Thief River Falls would not be as great or as numerous. East Grand Forks residents elect all councilmen every two years. Under the city code their councilmen would serve four year terms with about half of them elected every two years. Thief River Falls councilmen already have four year staggered terms. Under the city code the mayor would continue to serve a two year term. Howver, he would preside over and have a vote on the council, abolishing the position of council president. Although he would gain a vote on the council, the mayor would lose his veto power. With seven seats on the council, the addition of the mayor's vote would introduce the possibility of a tie on close issues.

Another change from the provisions of the Laws of 1895 involves the mayor's relationship to the police department. Under the older incorporation the mayor has direct authority over the police department. However, because the Thief River Falls police department operates under a civil service commission, acceptance of the city code would have little local effect by placing the police department directly under the council like all other municipal departments.

The public will have an opportunity to hear Peterson in Thief River Falls when he addresses the city council at the invitation of Mayor Carlson. July 2 has tentatively been set for the meeting. Time, date and location will be announced in the Times when they have been confirmed. A question and answer session is also planned.

Nursing Service In Early Days Was Hard Life

and not much happiness for them. I just forgot my own disappointment, and the turkey, and after a good breakfast, set to work caring for my patient: The night was impossible for sleep and my bed was a folding bed with noisy dry leaves inside. But I survived and my patient got better. I stayed three weeks, mailed a report to Dr. Mellby every evening and he wrote to tell me what to do. I took the train to Middle River again to rest and to finish my Christmas trip.

There were many other cases, some sad and disappointing. Now there was more calls for nurses in the city, more drug stores, Stebbins had been the only one for some years. Population was increasing. Dr. Heiber and Dr. Froelich had been added to the medical staff, more and more babies arriving, but no hospital, very few automobiles, so when calling on a case night or day the only way to get there was by our own feet—carrying suit case and all.

Sometimes we cared for sick people at the Brummund Hotel. Sometimes we were called to assist a new arrival, maternity case and traveling in snowstorms was part of the problem.

At this time the small Physicians hospital was built, later the name was changed to Mercy hospital. This is well known to most people of the older generation living here then—the hospital opened with Miss Aas, as supertendent—She had once been an overseas war nurse. I was called the evening before the opening as there was to be five operations. I hesitated but made it by 7 a.m. and found out I was in charge of the operating room. I stayed there all that day and inhaled so much chloroform I was nearly sick myself.

Now when I see the improvements in hospital, doctors and nursing care to relieve pain and prolong life I think how thankful we should be.

I decided I'd like a family of my own, so I married a widower Andrew Buringrud with three daughters ages 12, 14 and 16, so I started out with a family. Lived in a home on N. Horace until 1946 when my husband passed away.

I have a son, Arthur, now Postmaster at Thief River, and a daughter Alice, who is a registered nurse and has lived in Yakima, Wash., for many years. I spent five years with her there but always felt Thief River was my home. I returned and haved lived at the Valley Home 10½ years. I read, sew, have made more than 300 pillowcases.

I enjoy my view from my window, can see the campers at Friendship Park, the traffic, and have many visitors. My son takes me for drives around the city and I think—"My, how it has grown!"

I feel I can still be part of the activity of my church, Trinity Lutheran, and only wish every one could be as happy and contented as I am as I wait my Master's call.

Red Lake County Emergency Loans Now Available

Farmers in Red Lake county who sustained production or physical losses as a result of heavy rains and flooding beginning about April 10 may be eligible to receive an emergency loan from Farmers Home administration, according to Jerry Carlson, acting county supervisor.

Farmers living in Red Lake county will apply at the Farmers Home administration office in Thief River Falls. Applications for assistance pertaining to physical losses must be filed not later than Aug. 12. Applications pertaining to production losses must be filed not later than March 12, 1975.

Farm emergency loans may include funds to repair or restore damaged farm property, as well as reimburse applicants for expenses already incurred for such purposes. Loans based on qualifying production losses may include funds to reimburse applicants for production expenses, which went into damaged or destroyed crop and livestock enterprises, but not to produce a new crop.

Payment terms depend on the applicant's payment ability and purposes for which the loan is used—loans made in relation to production expenses can be scheduled for payment over a period of one to five years.

Loans made to repair or replace home furnishings, machinery or breeding livestock may be scheduled for payment and not to exceed seven years. Loans made to repair, replace or restore farm real estate may be scheduled for payment not to exceed 20 years, except dwelling which may be scheduled for payment not exceeding 33 years.

All loans bear an interest rate of five per cent. No loans may exceed the actual loss sustained. The Thief River Falls FmHA office is located on south highway 59. Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Miles Appoints Manager For Gov. Campaign

James G. Miles, independent candidate for governor, has named Burton J. Lindahl, Wayzata, as campaign manager and said the campaign will be "clean and open, based on issues not personalities, with no dirty tricks."

Miles, of Deephaven, also announced that he has set a limit of $1,000 per individual contribution, whether made at one time or cumulatively, and that financial support will be accepted only from individuals—no organizations or associations—and only from within the state of Minnesota.

Lindahl, 49, previously had been involved in automotive retailing in the Minneapolis area for many years. For the past 10 years, he has been primarily engaged in private real estate investments.

Miles said Lindahl will function as a "typical campaign manager who is saddled with traditional strategies and techniques, worn out appeals to voters and the restrictions of an in-bred party organization."

Lindahl, who will devote full time to the campaign, said he has volunteered his services without compensation "because I feel it is time for a change in Minnesota government, and I believe Jim Miles has the fresh ideas and the dedication to public service that this state needs."

Lindahl, who also will have responsibility for developing and directing the statewide Jim Miles for Governor volunteer committee, said about 1,000 so far have volunteered to work for Miles' election.

Lindahl said this group will be the backbone of an organization which is "designed to cut across typical political boundaries and organization tables. We hope to appeal to all Minnesotans to vote for Miles on the issues and not be held captive by traditional, blind party allegiances."

On June 23, 1931, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty left New York on their round-the-world flight in the "Winnie Mae", a Lockheed P&W 550. The flight ended July 1, having flown 15,474 miles in 8 days 15 hours.

First 2 Permits For Agricultural Discharge Given

First two agricultural discharge permits for large Minnesota feedlot operations have been certified by the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA).

Such permits are required for Minnesota livestock producers with 1,000 animal units or more under the nation pollutant discharge elimination system (NPDES) program as spelled out in the 1972 federal water pollution control act.

Agricultural permits for larger operations will be issued by the U.S. environmental protection agency (EPA) until at least July 1, 1974, when the state is expected to take over the entire NPDES program. Conditions of the permits must be certified as adaquate by the MPCA board before they may be issued by the EPA.

The first two permits certified by the board are for feedlot operations of Natco, Inc., Ada, and Thunderbird Ranch, Fosston. MPCA officals estimate that some 275 Minnesota livestock producers must obtain an NPDES permit. Of these, about 70 have already applied for a permit. The remaining 200 or so producers with at least 1,000 animal units should apply for a permit as soon as possible, according to agency officials.

Federal law defines 1,000 animal units as follows: 1,000 beef cattle, 2,500 hogs, 700 dairy cattle, 55,000 turkeys, 30,000 chickens and 10,000 sheep.

Producers in these categories must obtain an NPDES permit if their livestock is confined to a single location for at least 30 days in any 12-month period and if the operation results in a discharge or potential discharge of manure or runoff.

Penalties ascribed under state and federal law for livestock producers needing an NPDES permit and who have failed to apply could amount to as much as $25,000 per day for willful or negligent violations. Civil penalties could amount to as much as $10,000 per day.

Further information on requirements for an NPDES permit may be obtained by calling MPCA district offices in Duluth, Brainerd, Fergus Falls, Marshall and Rochester, or Jim Bosch at MPCA headquarters in Roseville.

Area Teachers Attend Human Relations Camp

A number of people from the Thief River Falls area were recent participants in the Bemidji state college human relations program at BSC Bald Eagle outdoor learning center recently.

They include Dr. William Corliss, Ronald Leverington, Diane McKeever, Juneal Peterson, Myron Peterson, Fred Schmelzer, Kathleen M. Lindquist and William R. Poole, all of Thief River Falls and Wayne Tieman of Goodridge.

NEW PERSONNEL at Northwestern hospital services includes Jeff Hirte, left, respiratory therapist, and Dan Shafland, supervisor of laboratory services. Hirte, 22, is a graduate of St. Mary's junior college respiratory therapy department in St. Paul and was with United Hospitals in St. Paul. He will be in charge of administration of oxygen and equipment used in treatment and diagnosis. Shafland, 35, is from Davenport, Ia., and was associated with Quad Cities pathologist group as a medical technologist and instructor in the school of medical technology. He will fill the position created by the resignation of Mrs. Gunvar Olson. Both additions to the professional staff will expand the services available in their departments.

1974 Ag Census Will Begin In January, 1975

Farmers and ranchers are requested to get ready for the 1974 census of agriculture by keeping good records of farming operations this year. This is the request of the bureau of the census, the federal agency that will conduct the 20th nationwide census of agriculture during the first part of 1975. The bureau is part of the U.S. department of commerce's social and economic statistics administration.

Farmers will receive their report forms by mail early in January. They should fill them out and mail them back promptly. Having accurate and detailed records will make it easy for farmers to do this. Questions will be much like those in the last previous agriculture census which covered farming and ranching during 1969.

Questions will ask for acreage of cropland harvested; quantity and market value of major crops produced; acres irrigated and means of irrigation; acreage treated with pesticides, lime and other chemicals; acreage fertilized by kind of fertilizer (dry, liquid, gas).

Questions on livestock and poultry will cover the number of each kind on the farm as well as the number sold and the sales value. Quantities and sales value of their products will be sought.

Details will be requested about farm products produced or marketed under contract. A few questions will be included about hired and contract labor, the number of workers and cash wages paid; also about any injuries to workers.

Further expenditure questions will cover amounts spent for feed, fertilizer, pesticides, lime, gasoline and other farm fuels, machine hire, and livestock and poultry purchases.

There will be questions about the various types and uses of land, such as cropland not harvested, other pasture and woodland, and about the value of land and buildings on the farm.

Operators will be asked about farm related income such as recreational services, customwork provided other farmers, or payments for participation in Government farm programs.

Two types of report forms are being prepared: one for farms with sales of $2500 or more, and another less detailed form for places with sales of less than $2500. No matter which form a farmer receives, he need answer only those questions that apply to his operation. He should skip questions that apply only to other types of agricultural operations.

By Federal law, every report is confidential. It may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical purposes. The mail method reinforces confidentiality. It also allows the farmer to complete the report at his convenience with accurate information from his records.

Employment And Unemployment Both Increase

Unemployment rose in May, but employment also increased, it was announced today by the bureau of labor statistics of the U.S. department of labor. Primarily because of a rise in joblessness among teenagers, the nation's unemployment rate edged up to 5.2 per cent from 5.0 per cent in April. The jobless rate has been in the 5.0 to 5.2 per cent range since January, after rising from last October's low of 4.6 per cent.

Total employment, as measured by the monthly sample survey of households was 86.0 million in May, up slightly from the 85.8 million plateau at which it had held since January.

Nonagricultural payroll employment as measured by the monthly survey of business establishments, rose by 180,000, with the entire gain occurring in service-producing industries. There was also a rebound in the workweek and a sizeable increase in average hourly earnings.

The number of persons unemployed in May totaled 4.7 million (seasonally adjusted), up 170,000 fromthe previous month. This was a return to the levels of the first two months of the year.

Teenagers accounted for most of the May rise in total joblessness; their unemployment rate, which had dropped the previous month, increased from 13.8 to 15.8 per cent. Except for April, the teenage jobless rate has held between 15 and 16 per cent since January.

Jobless rates for most adult worker groups remained either unchanged or declined marginally in May. There was some improvment among married men, whose unemployment rate declined from 2.5 to 2.2 per cent over the month. The rate for men 20 years and over (3.4 per cent), women 20 years and over (5.1 per cent), and household heads (3.0 per cent) did not show statistically significant movements over the month.

The jobless rate for full-time workers, at 4.6 per cent in May, has been virtually unchanged since January. In contrast, the part-time worker rate rose substantially in May, from 7.3 to 8.8 per cent, due largely to the increase in teenage joblessness.

Unemployment rate for Vietnam-era veterans 20 to 34 years old, at 4.8 per cent in May, was not materially different from the rates of the first four months of 1974 or of a year abo. The rate for the more recently discharged veterans (20-24) was 10.3 per cent, remaining much higher than that for young nonveterans (7.9 per cent), who have greater civilian job market experience. For older veterans (those 25-34), jobless rates have been at or below the rates for their non-veteran counterparts.

Among the major industries, one of the few significant changes in the jobless situation was a decline in the rate for durable goods workers to 4.5 per cent in May from the five per cent plateau at which it had held in the previous four months.

Thought For The Day

Love is a pretty common word in our society. It means many different things, sometimes having more than one meaning in a single conversation.

Jesus had some thoughts about love, except that he put pretty close boundaries on his definition. In John 13 we read that the church was to show the same actions toward one another that he had shown to them.

He was talking to the apostles, to be sure, but the message comes through only too clear—the Christian attitude of love is to be like the love which our Lord revealed to us. Only in knowing that love and sharing it with men is there the fulfillment of our Christian life.

All Stand To Lose

Senator Hubert Humphrey's food bill, introduced in the U.S. Senate, is the topic of this editorial from the Morris Tribune:

Senator Hubert Humphrey has introduced a bill in the U.S. Senate which would establish government reserves of feed grain, soybeans, and other crops. "Humphrey Reports to Minnesotans", Hubert's weekly propaganda sheet sent to most Minnesota newspapers, describes the bill in glowing terms.

"The main emphasis of my legislation is simply to assure all consumers, urban and rural, of an adequate supply of food and fiber at all times and at reasonable prices," he informs us. Worse yet, Humphrey has the audacity to say that "My amendment will assure farmers a fair return on their labor and investments."

What does Humphrey mean by a "fair return"? Has he considered the fact that government stocks could be released anytime grocery prices rose in the stores: As such, government reserves would place a lid on crop prices.

In the words of Under Secretary of Agriculture Campbell, "Were the government intentionally to store industrial products, consumers would be able to buy automobiles, appliances, etc., for less than it costs to produce these products and the producers would have to go out of business. To follow this policy on basic farm products would plunge the price of these products to below the cost of production and would effectively stop production of these products."

Humphrey maintains that government reserves will assure "an adequate supply of food", but as Campbell points out, destruction of agricultural profits will seriously endanger our food supply. If the government allocates grain as efficiently as it delivers the mail, we might all starve!

In any case, we have an immense amount of storage capability on farms. New grain bins have been erected; farmers have had the foresight to plan for effective grain allocation. And so long as farmers have a decent chance of making a profit, we can be assured of adequate grain supplies.

Wm. J. Kuhfuss, AFBF president, says, "We only need to look at the results in many other countries that have gone this route of political management of production and price. Isn't it ironic that they need to come to the United States for their supplies?" Both farmers and consumers are better off under a free market system of production. But Humphrey has never had much faith in free enterprise, and if his shortsighted opinions prevail, we all stand to lose.

Hollow Professionalism

Robert Shaw, manager of the Minnesota Newspaper association, tells in a recent column about his visiting with several stars of the Metropolitan Opera company. He said he found the stars to be genuine craftsmen who had studied and perfected their art in a workmanlike manner. Then he makes a very pertinent general point.

"How full and rich the word 'craftsmanship' is! The singer's craft. The carpenter's craft. The writer's or journalist's craft. And how vague, confusing and self-flattering, on the other hand, is the word 'professional'.

"We know what a craftsman is. But what's a professional? The professional journalist might be aware of the position of the media in a mass society. But the craftsman is a person who knows where the apostrophes belong, how to spell, who loves words, and how to take complex ideas and reduce them to understandable English prose."

TV To Iron By

Roger Mudd, CBS-TV, speaking at Washington and Lee University said, "It is now my belief, after about 17 years in the newspaper and television business, that broadcasting in sound or vision will not prove to have contributed to the advancement of ideas or education of man as much as the printed word.

"(Television) is a powerful means of communication, but also a crude one which tends to strike at the emotions rather than at the intellect. For television journalists, this means a dangerous and increasing concentration on action which is usually violent and bloody rather than thought, on happenings rather than issues, on shock rather than explanation, on personalizing rather than ideas.

"The tube has become a trip, a national opiate, a babysitter who changes nothing, something to iron by, and to shave to, and to doze over."

Tongue In Cheek

Conservationists who have had experience with rationale exhibited by the U.S. army corps of engineers will appreciate this hypothetical case from the National Wildlife federation's "Conservation News":

I heard an interesting story about a man named Turnstone. Turnstone was accused of robbery and murder of a man named John Smith.

At the trial Turnstone's lawyer, Mr. Underhill, used an unusual defense. He dispensed with alibis, delays and discreditation of evidence. He based the defense entirely on the cost-benefit ratio.

Turnstone had gained $5,000 in the robbery. This was counted as a benefit, because Turnstone had a family and the money was needed. Furthermore, expenditure of the money improved the business climate of the community.

Smith's family gained $15,000 in insurance. Money gained by the ambulance driver, mortician, and police were counted as benefits. The judge's salary also was included.

According to Mr. Underhill, Smith himself could claim certain benefits. He was spared the cost of food, medicine, etc for those years he might have lived. Finally, the salary of the man who replaced Smith at his place of employment brought the benefit total to a magnificent figure.

Because Turnstone had accomplished all this at very little expense, the judge gave him a commendation rather than a conviction.

Underhill, it was claimed, had learned his methods while employed at the cost analysis department of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Environmental Impact

Following comments are from the Industrial News Review:

Dreaming about returning to the age of candles and facing the possible reality of such a return are two entirely different matters. Events of the past several months have shown there is much more to an energy shortage than the possibility of lighting up the candles. An oil import embargo has done more than anything else to show what can happen to the security and well-being of our country when the energy supply falters.

The crisis, however, has had one beneficial effect. It is stripping away false environmental and economic doctrines. Typical of a spreading tendency to face the harsh facts is the statement of the president of the California Public Utilities Commission. He criticizes those conservationists who "pursue a very restricted view of environmental impact." He added that it is not enough to limit interest in conservation to animal and vegetable life in the smallest species or to place emphasis on air and water quality alone.

"I believe the legitimate concern for environmental impact is broader still," he said. "The adequacy of utility service is an important environmental factor. Lack of electric energy in a dark street or where needed to reach the 50th floor of a building must certainly be considered to result in adverse environmental impact. Shortages being experienced in fuel oil or natural gas to heat our homes, or provide energy supplies for agriculture and industry results in substantial adverse environmental impact."

On the issue of electric power rates, the commissioner was no less explicit. He observed, "The public must be made aware. . .that some who claim to represent the conservation interst are willing to see utility service deteriorate as a means of slowing growth. . .The public must also be made aware that everyone who demands lower rates does not represent the consumer interests. . ."

The Arabs deserve credit for shattering the complacency of millions who have taken the electric light switch so totally for granted that they have acted as if they were on a direct line to a perpetual natural blessing. Providing energy on the scale enjoyed by our present civilization has been one of man's highest achievements. Recognition of that fact is elemental to solving the energy crisis.

Interesting Opinions

When the candle of our life burns low, may we have kept our soul so free, that like a flame it will leap upwards to the Great Fire at which it was enkindled, and never stop until its light meets that Heavenly Light which ages ago came to this world as its Light, to teach us all to say at the end of our earthly pilgrimmage here, as He uaid at the close of His: "Father, into Thy Hands I commend my Spirit."

Thief River Falls park and recreation department will be sponsoring a bus to Bemidji Thursday, supplying transportation to anyone interested in taking part in Bemidji's "governor's physical fitness track meet."

The all-comers meet is open to anyone from elementary school to 65 years of age. The bus will leave from the Franklin middle school at 3 p.m., arriving in plenty of time for the 6 o'clock meet.

Elementary school children interested in taking part in the meet should contact either Ron Novak or Myron Peterson. High school students wanting to compete Thursday should contact Jeff Houfek and post-high school competitors should contact Marv Walter.

Walter, the Lincoln high school head track coach, points out that "The meet is designed for fun. Everyone will compete against their own age group. Things like getting friends together to form a relay team are encouraged."

A full bus load of Thief River Falls entries are expected to journey to Bemidji, said Walter who noted people ranging from International Falls to Staples will be on hand for the annual event.

Walter, incidently took part in a same type of meet at Bemidji last week. The former Plummer and Moorhead State College track standout captured a pair of first places in the meet, winning the 100 yard dash in 10.08 and picking up another first in the 220 with a 24.0 clocking. He also placed second in the 120 yard low hurdles while competing in the meet's men's division.

It's hoped that Thief River Falls will be able to stage its own all-comers track meet sometime this summer.

Luverne Olson of Thief River Falls has become eligible to win a free trip to Scotland and $1,000 as a result of scoring a hole-in-one while golfing at the Thief River Falls country club earlier this season.

Olson's ace, recorded Sun., May 19, on the 206 yard par three eighth hole, qualified him for the annual Rusty Nail hole-in-one sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie company of Edinburg, Scotland. The contest's winner will be announced early next year.

Thief River Falls slow pitch softball teams fared well in an invitational tournament held at Fosston Sunday as the local Hamms-Pizza Hut team captured championship honors and the Arctic Raiders took home the consolation title.

Hamms-Pizza Hut beat Fosston Hartz 6-5 in the championship game for their fourth win of the day long event. The Raiders, after losing a first round 3-2 game to the Fosston Raiders, came back to beat Thief River Falls Hydra-Mac 9-6 in the consolation championship game.

Hamms-Pizza Hut and the Arctic Raiders are currently the only unbeaten teams in Thief River Falls regular season league play.

Serge Gambucci of Grand Forks recieved recognition in Sports Illustrated this week, being featured in SI's "faces in the crowd," section.

It was pointed out that Gambuccie, a favorite football and hockey official of Thief River Falls fans, has coached six state championship tennis teams at Grand Forks Central, as well as 10 state hockey championship squads. His seven children have accounted for 22 state individual or team titles in the same two sports.

In a purprise move recently, the Minnesota state high school league announced that 1975 will feature an eight team dual meet format for the state wrestling tournament.

The MSHSL, citing pressure from wrestling coaches and fans, switched to the team format to provide a true team champion, similar to the style used (and unliked by state coaches) in tennis.

An early season four team scramble for first place in the Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league has developed between Schmidts, Moran's of Erskine, Arctic Cat and VFW.

Schmidts and Moran's each boast perfect 4-0 records and Arctic Cat and VFW are each 4-1 heading into a busy week of action as the league still tries to make up for a bundle of early season rain-outs. This week's feature game will be played tomorrow (Tuesday) when Schmidts and VFW clash at 7 p.m.

Last week's results from Wednesday, Thursday and Friday night play found Schmidts beating Pepsi 5-3, VFW remained in the thick of the pennant race with a 2-1 decision over Arctic Cat, Schmidts edged Falls Diesel 10-9 and the Legion toppled Melvies 13-2.

Once beaten VFW handed Arctic Cat its first loss of the 1974 fast pitch softball season by claiming a well played 2-1 decision Thursdy night.

A game opening first inning walk issued by Don Lincoln to VFW lead-off batter Nick Drees proved costly as Drees moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Bob Paper, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a sacrifice fly to rightfield by Wayne Smith.

After putting a lead-off batter on base with a triple and failing to score in the bottom of the first, Arctic Cat managed to tie the game 1-1 in the second inning on a lead-off home run by Gordy Peterson over the leftfield fence.

The Vets scored the deciding run in the third when Drees and Paper stroked back to back singles that were followed by a pair of fielder's choice plays for a 2-1 game.

The frustrated Arctic Cat team produced three base hits in the bottom of the third, but couldn't come up with a run as VFW lefthander Al Erickson outdueled Lincoln the rest of the way.

Schmidts 5
Pepsi 3

Unbeaten Schmidts scored single runs in the fourth and fifth innings to snap a 3-3 tie Wednesday for a 5-3 win over Pepsi.

Pepsi scored the game's first run in the top of the first on an error and a double by Foss, but Schmidts quickly erased the early deficit with a three run first inning on a lead-off single by Larry Coltom, a walk, sacrifice, a single by Bakke and a run producing fielder's choice play.

Pepsi tied the game 3-3 with a two run offensive effort in the top of the fourth on a double by Lindquist, singles by Dormady and Grovum, an error and a fielder's choice.

Schmidts won the game with single runs in the fourth and fifth, though. A lead-off single by Johnson started the fourth inning. Weckworth added a single that was followed by an error for a 4-3 game. A single by Coltom, a sacrifice and a single by Johnson scored Schmidts' final run in the fifth.

Schmidts 10
Falls Diesel 9

Schmidts jumped out to a 6-0 first inning lead and coasted into the bottom of the seventh with a 10-1 cushion before struggling to a 10-9 win over upset-minded Falls Diesel Friday.

Four base hits, three walks, three errors and a wild pitch supplied Schmidts with a six run first inning. Falls Diesel got one run back in the bottom of the first, but three straight third inning singles by Decker, Noreen and Weckworth enabled Schmidts to claim a 10-1 edge.

Schmidts starter Dean Lawrenz, playing rightfield after the big lead was established, was forced back into mound duty in the seventh.

Only a bases loaded game ending double-play preserved the Schmidts win when Borg, playing centerfield, rifled a strike to home plate after a sacrifice fly to nail the runner and end the game.

Northland Electronics. . 8
Kat Haus. 3

Northland Electronics scored five runs in the first inning to post an 8-3 decision over Kat Haus behind the four hit pitching of Ron Trontvet and the strong defensive play by shortstop Don Balmer who recorded 10 put-outs.

The winners picked up 12 base hits off losing pitcher Russ Delorme. The teams committed three errors apiece.

Pro Oil 5

A four run fifth inning lifted Popplers to its first win of the season, an 8-5 decision over Pro Oil.

Don Bren was the game's winning pitcher and also starred at the plate by driving in four runs with two doubles and scoring once himself. Bob Wold took the loss.

Popplers held a slim 7-6 base hit advantage and both teams committed four errors.

Hamms-Pizza Hut 8
Country Kitchen 7

Mike Rasch belted a lead-off home run over the left field fence in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Hamms-Pizza Hut a dramatic 8-7 win over Country Kitchen.

The underdog Country Kitchen squad enjoyed an early 6-0 lead, fell behind 7-6 and tied the game 7-7 before Rasch spoiled the upset.

Dale Hanson and Ken Lindquist both clubbed three runs home runs to highlight the 13 hit offensive attack for the winners off losing pitcher Dennis Bendickson. Roger Ness picked up the win.

Arctic Raiders 33
Jaycees 1

Arctic Raiders stretched their season opening winning streak to eight games with a one-sided 33-1 five inning romp over the winless Jaycees.

The Raiders enjoyed a 32-5 base hit advantage to give Brian Nelson the pitching victory and hand Bob Dupree the loss. Jack Petrillo hit a pair of home runs and Gary LaValley added one bases-clearing shot. Jim Rogalla went five for five, Tom Williams was five for six and Bruce Saustad went four for five for Arctic.

Hartz 14
Grain Belt 13

Hartz banged out 23 base hits to shade Grain Belt 14-13 in a tight fairgrounds ball game.

Winning pitcher Gus Holmes was touched for 11 hits, but shakey Grain Belt defensive play led to six costly errors while Hartz played errorless ball in the field. Gordy DeLap took the loss.

Warehouse Foods 2

Ron Sorvig, Steve Sorvig and Lee Rupprecht all hit home runs to carry Hydra-Mac to a 13-2 win over Warehouse Foods.

After falling behind 5-3 in the first inning Arctic grabbed a 10-7 second inning lead and maintained a slim edge until a 13-9 cushion was wiped out in the final half inning.

Jim Barry and Harvey Ebbinghausen matched home runs for the two teams, with Ebbinhausen clouting a grand slam homer for Arctic.

Doug Anseby was credited with the pitching victory while Wayne Bjerken suffered the loss.

Legion Topples Belcourt By 7-6

Thief River Falls scored three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to edge Belcourt, N.D., 7-6 in an exciting American Legion baseball game played on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond Friday.

The come-from-behind win over Belcourt, coupled with a 5-2 triumph over Warren a night earlier, lifted the Rockey Wilson coached Thief River Falls Legion record to 5-1 heading into a tough late week scheduled that will find Thief River Falls hosting Warroad in a 7 p.m. game Thursday and then traveling to Bemidji for a 1 p.m. Saturday doubleheader.

Belcourt scored Friday night's first run in the opening inning on a one-out double, an error and a run scoring single by Bob Gannarelli.

Thief River Falls gained a 2-1 third inning lead when Cliff Shumway drew a lead-off walk, moved to second on a fielder's choice and advanced to third on a passed ball. Randy Dallmann reached base on an error and Chris Biegner promptly followed Dallmann with a triple to score both runners.

The host Thief River Falls team went in front 4-1 in the fourth inning. Jeff Langlie singled and Dallas Kemmer tried to sacrifice him to second, but two Belcourt errors scored Langlie and put Kemmer on base. Shumway then singled Kemmer home.

Belcourt came up with two runs in the sixth after the first two batters had been retired to trim the Thief River Falls lead to 4-3. A fielder's choce, a double, an error and a single made it a one-run game heading into the seventh inning.

The visiting Belcourt club prompted Wilson to replace Dallmann, the Thief River Falls starting pitcher, with Jeff Tunberg after a seventh inning lead-off walk. Belcourt came up with three runs in the inning, through, on a fielder's choice, back to back two-out singles by Champagne and Beck and two costly Thief River Falls errors for a 6-4 lead.

Not to be out-done, Thief River Falls scored three times in the bottom of the seventh to pull out a dramatic 7-6 win. A lead-off single by pinch hitter Neil Johnson started the big inning. An error, fielder's choice and another error made it a 6-5 ball game before Shumway lofted a pop-up near second base that fell in for a single with the bases loaded, scoring two runs and ending the ball game.

TRF Knocks Off Warren 5-2 In Legion Baseball Play

Thief River Falls handed previously unbeaten Warren its first loss of the 1974 American Legion baseball season Thursday by claiming a 5-2 triumph on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds baseball diamond.

All five Thief River Falls runs proved to be unearned as coach Rocky Wilson's ball club sandwiched six base hits around five costly Warren errors to give both teams 4-1 season records heading into Friday night engagements.

Thief River Falls scored the game's first run in the second inning when Chris Biegner stroked a lead-off double, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on a sacrifice fly to centerfield by Tim Erickson.

The home team went in front 2-0 in the third as Cliff Shumway singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on an error at third base.

A third Thief River Falls run crossed the plate in the fourth inning on a one-out walk issued to Erickson, a fielder's choice and an RBI single by Jeff Tunberg.

Warren chased Tunberg, the Thief River Falls starting pitcher, from the mound in the top of the fifth when a walk and three straight base hits sliced the Thief River Falls lead to just 3-2.

Joel Folger came on in relief of Tunberg and promptly got out of a bases loaded jam with a strike out and then pitched sharp one-hit ball over the final two innings to record a save and preserve Tunberg's win.

Thief River Falls expanded its lead to 5-2 in the bottom of the fifth when back to back Warren errors on the first two batters eventually led to two runs on a hard hit double by Jon Peterson.

Warren threatened in the seventh inning when an error and double put runners on second and third with two outs, but Folger struck out the final Warren batter to end the scoring threat and the game.

THIEF RIVER FALLS righthander Joel Folger turned in three strong innings of relief pitching to protect a 5-2 Thief River Falls win over previously unbeaten Warren Thursday. Folger entered the game in the fifth inning with Thief River Falls holding a slim 3-2 lead and three Warren runners on base. He got out of the jam with a strike-out and then pitched one-hit ball over the final two innings to record a save.

WARREN BATTER Kelly Forester pushed umpire Pete Sullivan against the backstop screen while emphatically arguing a called third strike that ended Thursday night's Thief River Falls-Warren baseball game on the fairgrounds diamond. Thief River Falls won the game 5-2.

Fish, Wildlife Aid To States Tops $37 Million

Over $37 million of federal aid funds for sport fish and wildlife restoration and hunter safety programs has been apportioned by secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton to the states and the governments of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa for use after July 1.

U.S. fish and wildlife service director Lynn A. Greenwalt said the $37 million is the first of two annual installments that will be distributed to the states from excise taxes collected in fiscal year 1974. It will be used by the states to finance their fish and wildlife programs during the first half of fiscal year 1975. The second installment will be paid in December after the tally of tax receipts is completed by the treasury department. Last fiscal year a total of $82 million in federal aid funds was distributed in two installments to state governments.

Funds for fish restoration programs come from a 10 per cent excise tax on fishing rods, reels, creels and artificial baits, lures and flies. Funds for wildlife restoration and hunter safety programs come from an 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition and a 10 per cent excise tax on pistols and revolvers.

"This self-taxing concept has stood the test of 35 years," Greenwalt said. "Since 1938 over $700 million has been collected in excise taxes on these items. Fifty per cent of these funds has gone into improving habitat for game such as building dikes to impound duck marshes, constructing watering sites on desert lands for quail and deer, managing forest lands and fencing elk and deer from farmlands. Twenty-five per cent has supported research into such things as census-guided selection of hunting seasons and bag limits and life history studies on a variety of animals such as wolves, grizzly bears and the Florida panther. Another 20 per cent has been spent buying land such as prairie duck sloughs, winter big game ranges, bottomlands and desertlands—in all, more than 54 million acres or over 84,000 square miles, an area larger than the six New England states, Maryland and Hawaii combined. Only five per cent of the funds has gone to administrative overhead."

Of the distribution announced, $26.8 million was distributed according to a formula based on hunting license holders and the area of each state for wildlife projects. Another $1.8 million was distributed, on the basis of state population, for hunter safety programs. Under the federal aid to fish restoration program, $8.8 million was distributed on a formula based on the number of sport fishing license holders and the area of each State.

Texas, Alaska, California and Pennsylvania are the largest recipients with over $1.1 million going to each. Maximum and minimum limits are placed on the distribution of these funds so that states smaller in area and population like Delaware, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Hawaii receive reasonable apportionments.

Texas ranked first in the total apportionment of federal aid in wildlife restoration for the fiscal year 1975 with a figure of $1,400,000; followed by Alaska $1,362,500; California $1,249,205; Pennsylvania $1,173,438; Michigan $914,050; Montana $811,994; Wisconsin $808,085; and Minnesota $748,831.

Young Wildlife Should Be Left Alone Says DNR

Department of natural resources today asked that people keep their hands off of young wildlife now being born in Minnesota's fields and forests.

Every spring the department receives calls from persons who have found young birds or animals wandering about apparently unattended by the mother. Frequently the young wildlife are captured and taken home in the belief that they will die if left alone or that they will make good pets.

Both these premises are usually wrong, according to DNR game specialists.

In the first place, young wildlife are seldom abandoned by the parents. Often, the mother is in hiding nearby but afraid to show herself until the people have left the area. The correct thing to do is to get away from the young so that the mother can return to care for them.

Further, young wildlife seldom make satisfactory pets and often die when removed from their natural habitat. In addition, it is illegal to possess protected wildlife out of season unless one has the proper permits from the state and federal governments.

Officials said nests and eggs of wild birds should also be left alone.

Carp Catchers Are Wanted By Minnesota DNR

Department of natural resources noted that 5,500,000 pounds of rough fish, half of them carp, were removed from Minnesota lakes last winter.

But fisheries specialists say there are still plenty of carp available for anyone who would like to get into the commercial carp fishing business.

Roughfish are removed from Minnesota waters by DNR fisheries crews and by private commercial "contract" fishermen who bid on a per pound basis for the fish to be removed.

Nearly all rough fish today are sold for human consumption. Those that are too small or otherwise non-saleable are buried or spread on farmers' fields for fertilizer.

With the high prices prevailing for meat, there is a market for carp and other rough fish.

Last year there were only 22 contract fishermen operating in Minnesota and the DNR is anxious to talk to other commercial fishermen with experience and equipment who might be interested in getting into the rough fish business.

Chuck Burrows, fisheries supervisor, said rough fish were removed from 300 lakes last winter. The sale of rough fish returned $90,000 to the game and fish fund.

"There is plenty of fishing water available in Minnesota for rough fish removal," he said, "but it is not a get-rich-quick venture. It is hard, cold work."

He said anyone interested in contract fishing should notify the DNR section of fisheries, 390 Centennial building, St. Paul, phone (612) 296-3325.

Gardening Can Cause Serious Health Problems

More pains and back strains are caused by pretty gardens than by ugly accidents, according to Dr. Dennis E. Arne, president of the Minnesota chiropractic association.

Doctor of chiropractic pointed out that bending, stooping, digging, pushing or riding a lawn mower and all the other duties required in maintaining a garden or lawn can be directly related as causes of problems of the back and spine.

"If you go through a neighborhood and notice the prettiest gardens and best kept lawns you might also pick out the houses where occupants have back problems," he said.

Fish, Wildlife Commissioners To Meet In Duluth

Fish and wildlife professionals from 18 surrounding states and provinces are expected to attend the annual midwest fish and wildlife commissioners association meeting in Duluth July 15 through 18.

According to Robert L. Herbst, president of the association and commissioner of the Minnesota department of natural resources, among the prime issues to be discussed will be changing public attitudes toward resources, problems related to wildlife managment and wildlife activities in eastern Canada.

The association will be meeting at the Radisson hotel in Duluth and spend some time inspecting the North Shore, area forests and the harbor area.

IRS To Notify Truckers About Tax Delinquency

Notices of possible highway use tax delinquency are being mailed to truck and bus owners and users, the Internal Revenue service recently announced.

The mailing is a part of the service's nationwide highway use tax returns compliance program.

The IRS has matched its highway use tax records with state truck registration records to identify potential nonfilers and under-reporters. During July, cases in which there is no response or insufficient response will be assigned to IRS district personnel who will begin contacting these owners.

Because highway use tax applies to vehicle users, not all owners are liable for the tax. For example, a lessee rather than a truck owner may be liable for the tax if local law requires the vehicle to be registered in the name of the lessee.

Any taxpayer who receives a notice of potential liability but is not liable for the tax should complete the appropriate sections of the notice and return it to the IRS.

The tax applies to trucks weighing 13,000 pounds or more, truck-tractors of 5,500 pounds or more, and buses that use the public highways. The amount of tax assessed depends on the number of axles and weights of vehicles.

All taxpayers having delinquent returns to file should not wait to be contacted, but should file immediately to avoid additional penalties and interest, the IRS said.

IRS Publication 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck-Tractors and Buses," furnishes detailed information on the subject and is available free of charge at IRS offices.

U.S. Commission Will Rule On Safety Standards

U.S. consumer product safety commission has finalized rules governing the development of mandatory safety standards for consumer products under the consumer product safety act.

The rules implement the provisions of Section 7 of the act, which provide for development of standards by outside parties, selected by the commission, and include meaningful requirements to provide for full consumer participation at each step in the standard development process.

Under the act, where the commission, determines that a safety standard is needed to protect the public from an unreasonable risk of injury associated with a consumer product, the commission will publish a notice in the "Federal Register" inviting any person, consumer organization, government agency, association, institution or industry to submit within 30 days either an existing standard for consideration or an offer to develop a mandatory safety standard.

By law, the commission must accept an offer from one or more qualified individuals or groups unless it decides to use an existing standard as the basis for a mandatory standard. If there are no qualified offerors or if the only offeror is a manufacturer, distributor or retailer of the product about to be regulated, the commission may develop its own standard.

Congress specified that standards be developed within 150 days from first publication of the notice inviting offers in the "Federal Register" until the standard is submitted to the commission. The length of time may be shortened or lengthened if the commission deems it appropriate.

In each case, final issuance of a proposed standard is up to the commission.

Where appropriate, the commission may agree to contribute to the offeror's cost in developing proposed standards. Offerors, however, must request such contribution, giving detailed explanation as to why it is necessary.

The commission, in announcing the final rules, said it will proceed immediately with notices seeking offerors to develop standards for architectural glass, swimming pool slides, power lawn mowers, extension cords and matches.

Four walks provided Arctic Cat-sponsored, Thief River Falls squad with its first run of the ball game in the fourth inning.

Thief River Falls rallied to within 4-3 in the sixth when Randy Dallmann and Gordy Peterson banged out two of the team's three base hits. Dallmann eventually scored on a passed ball and Peterson crossed the plate on an infield error.

Crookston completed the doubleheader sweep by scoring three runs in the sixth inning of the nightcap to snap a 3-3 tie and post a 6-3 triumph.

A bases loaded infield base hit to second base produced a 4-3 Crookston lead in the sixth. Greg Noesen then climaxed a night of sharply executed baseball on the part of the Pirates by laying down a perfect safety squeeze bunt for a 5-3 game. A third Crookston sixth inning run scored on a sacrifice fly to centerfield.

Thief River Falls had earlier rallied from a 3-0 deficit to gain a 3-3 tie when Gordie Peterson's bad-hop grounder went for a two-run double, with Peterson later scoring on a sacrifice fly.

Bruce Johnson limited the Pirates to just two base hits, but the lefthander took the pitching loss when he issued eight walks.

Minnesota-Idaho Trade Walleye, Chinook Salmon

Within two or three years, Minnesota anglers will be able to try their luck on a new fish, introduced into state waters for the first time this spring.

The department of natural resources has completed the first phase of its Chinook salmon program with the stocking of 200,000 three inch size fish into the Baptism, Cascade and French rivers.

Another 200,000 Chinooks will be stocked into the same streams later with half of the total going in this fall and the remainder next spring.

"The fish were obtained from the state of Idaho in exchange for Minnesota walleye eggs. Idaho has been reluctant to part with Chinook eggs but was anxious to introduce walleyes into some of their lakes and was persuaded to make the trade.

Idaho was said to be the only state in the nation that had no walleyes prior to the exchange.

The Chinook, often called a King salmon on the west coast, is among the most highly prized salmon for its table qualities and is rated with the sockeye and coho.

The strain, or variety, of Chinook obtained by Minnesota is called "spring-run" as opposed to another strain which returns to spawn in the fall.

In Minnesota, the adult fish are expected to show up in early summer along the North Shore of Lake Superior near the mouths of the streams into which they were stocked, and to enter the streams in late summer to spawn.

Spawning activity should be virtually completed by mid-September.

The stocked fish are expected to stay in the streams, all tributary to Lake Superior, for a matter of a few days to a few weeks. They then will travel downstream to the lake where they will remain and grow to large size until the onset of spawning activity.

First arrivals back to their home streams should begin to show up next year in the form of a few small jacks or early run males. In the summer of 1976, larger jacks and a few early maturing females will begin to arrive, but the greatest number of Chinooks are expected to appear in 1977.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

June 24, 1974
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
June 11, 1974

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse at 10:00 A.M., June 11, 1974. Members present: Hanson, Olson, Naplin, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

Theo. Hornseth appeared asking for replacement of a private bridge that he stated had existed across Judicial Ditch 30 at the center of Sec. 10 in North Township which had become damaged and not usable in the year 1939 or 1940 and which washed out at a later undetermined date. After discussion the matter was taken under advisement for consideration at a later date.

Julian Rodahl and others appeared and discussed repairing of the Thief River as it meanders thru Marshall County and enters Pennington County to join with the Red Lake River. Mention was also made of the need for restraint on addition of better drainage into Thief River in relation to its capacity. (Better field drainage was causing the water to flow into the river at a faster rate.) A letter was read to those present that indicated that funds were available to the Counties to repair the Thief River on a matching basis and it was suggested that determination must be made of what really was needed. It appears that each County could only work within its boundary or those benefited by the drainage and assessed as being benefited by State Ditch 83 could probably petition for repair and use the funds available. Mr. Rodahl agreed to continue investigation.

Those persons present were also interested in Jud. Ditch 30 and indicated they did not think Jud. Ditch 30 was out of repair and asked the Board not to do work on it.

Anton Kolrba and others appeared representing landowners in area served by County Ditch 75 asking for repair of ditch by cleaning. After discussion the Board instructed to program the repair.

Loren Luschen, County Supervisor of Farmers Home Administrtion appeared and discussed the excessive rainfall that has plagued the County this spring that now constitutes a natural disaster for many persons making a living by farming. After discussion Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, Excessive and persistent rainfall extending from April though May and into June has prevented normal spring planting by many Pennington County Farmers, and

WHEREAS, said persistent rainfall has prompted the Pennington County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) to file a report of Natural Disaster indicating that an estimated 800 farmers operating some 230,000 acres had been unable to plant more than 15 per cent of the planned acreages, and

WHEREAS, current sunny weather is enabling late planting of more acres of grain to lessen the enormity of the problem, said farmers have large sums of money invested along with outstanding loans in preparation for the spring planting, and

WHERAS, the large amount of late seeding increases the risk that the farmer is taking in investing these large sums.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the Pennington County Board respectfully petition Governor Wendell R. Anderson to take such steps as are necessary to have Pennington County designated as a disaster area by the President of the United States to allow the affected persons to qualify for any and all assistance available under a Presidential Disaster Proclamation.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hanson and declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Naplin that the minutes of the meetings of April 9 and May 7 and 21 be accepted as published. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Ivan Downs appeared and discussed repair of Branch 7 of County Ditch No. 39 on the south side of Church at the SW corner of Sec. 2 in Kratka Twp. Board instructed the Engineer to program the repair.

Myles Koop and Engineer Seidel appeared and discussed the possibility of purchasing gravel from Mr. Koop or buy the land and use it as a County pit. Merits of the buying or leasing were discussed and the matter was referred to the County Attorney for advice to the Board.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Hanson that the Engineer and Auditor be authorized and instructed to advertise for the seasons supply of Culverts with bids to be opened at 11:00 A.M., July 8, 1974. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Hanson that the sum of $100.00 be appropriated and paid to the Inter-County Community Council of Oklee to cover expenses of Board members. Motion unanimously carried.

A claim for loss of crop was received from Virgil Eckstein after it had been presented earlier and referred to Red Lake County. The County Engineer denies any responsibility. Mr. Eckstein lives very near the County line where roads are maintained by Red Lake County. The matter was referred to the County Attorney.

Mayor Robert Carlson and Sheriff Charles Richards representing the Committee that had been assigned to problem of interviewing Architects for the Law Enforcement Building and recommending financial participation of the City and County, reported on a meeting held June 10th in that regard. The Committee recommended that the firm of Foss, Engelstad and Foss of Moorhead be engaged as Architects for the Law Enforcement Building. No proposal was forthcoming from the Committee on the financial arrangements but Mayor Carlson presented a Resolution from the City of Thief River Falls Council relative to financial and site problems. The Resolution from the Council was read as follows: BE IT RESOLVED, that the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls hereby offers to contribute the sum of $100,000 toward the cost of a joint Pennington County-City of Thief River Falls Law Enforcement Center to be constructed on a site immediately south of the present Pennington County Courthouse, said site presently being occupied by a service station and two private residences to the south thereof.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City shall assist in the demolition of any structures on said site, to prepare the same for construction of said Law Enforcement Facility.

The County Board accepted the Resoluton without committment and requested that the Committee continue to function and to further consider the financial problems involved.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Olson that the County of Pennington retain the firm of Foss, Engelstad and Foss as Architects for a City-County Law Enforcement Building and the Chairman and Auditor be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with said firm. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Hanson that the sum of $200 be appropriated and paid to the Pennington County Safety Council for the continued use of the group in the field of safety. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Auditor and Chairman be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with the State of Minnesota, Department of Highways, and to sign a 'Material Pit Lease' covering removal of gravel from the S½NE¼ of Sec. 19 T152N, R43W (Polk Centre).

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and declared carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Naplin that the Treasurer and Auditor be authorized and instructed to cancel those Warrants outstanding for over 3 years and listed in Auditor's Journal Page 230. Motion unanimously carried.

The Board was appraised of the new Federal Law relating to a 40 hour week that has just been imposed upon the Counties. It was apparent that some adjustments would have to be made in certain areas and policy statements were to be drawn for the Boards approval. The matter was discussed along with matter discussed earlier where funds were available for an outside survey of job descriptions and personnel polices. Board to consider at a later date.

The Board was reminded of the 1971 Law change that set the date of the County board of Equalization, July 1st, and the Board determined that they would convene at 10:00 A.M. on that date.

Pursuant to provisions of Minn. Statutes 375.43, the All-Item Consumers Index was read to the Board as submitted by the Director of Civil Service. The index for April, 1974 was 208.2 as compared to 187.6 on the same date in 1973, an inceas of 20.60 points in the index since April 1973. Converted into percentage, the increase was 11 per cent. Report was accepted, filed and no action taken.

The Board then determined to allocate the Revenue Sharing Funds anticipated for the fiscal year July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975 in the amount of $154,515, and an unallocated $22,883.70 from previous allocations that had not been committed. Moved by Tasa seconded by Hanson that the following amounts be published as 'Planned Use' of those monies.

Public Safety	$100,000.00
Health	20,000.00
Libraries	14,000.00
Social Services for Aged	40,000.00

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

June 24, 1974
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA
June 11, 1974

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Court house at 10:00 A.M., June 11, 1974. Members present Hanson, Olson, Naplin, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

Theo Hornseth appeared asking for replacement of a private bridge that he stated had existed across Judicial Ditch 30 at the center of Sec. 10 in North Township which had become damaged and not usable in the year 1939 or 1940 and which washed out at a later undetermined date. After discussion the matter was taken under advisement for consideration at a later date.

Julian Rodahl and others appeared and discussed repairing of the Thief River as it meanders thru Marshall County and enters Pennington County to join with the Red Lake River. Mention was also made of the need for restraint on addition of better drainage into Thief River in relation to its capacity. (Better field drainage was causing the water to flow into the river at a faster rate.) A letter was read to those present that indicated that funds were available to the Counties to repair the Thief River on a matching basis and it was suggested that determination must be made of what really was needed. It appears that each County could only work within its boundary or those benefited by the drainage and assessed as being benefited by State Ditch 83 could probably petition for repair and use the funds available. Mr. Rodahl agreed to continue investigation.

Those persons present were also interested in Jud. Ditch 30 and indicated they did not think Jud. Ditch 30 was out of repair and asked the Board not to do work on it.

Anton Kolrbo and others appeared representing landowners in area served by County Ditch 73 asking for repair of ditch by cleaning. After discussion the Board instructed to program the repair.

Loren Luschen, County Supervisor of Farmers Home Administration appeared and discussed the excessive rainfall that has plagued the County this spring that now constitutes a natural disaster for many persons making a living by farming. After discussion Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, Excessive and persistent rainfall extending from April though May and into June has prevented normal spring planting by many Pennington County Farmers, and

WHEREAS, said persistent rainfall has prompted the Pennington County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) to file a report of Natural Disaster indicating that an estimated 800 farmers operating some 220,000 acres had been unable to plant more than 15 per cent of the planned acreages, and

WHEREAS, current sunny weather is enabling late planting of more acres of grain to lessen the enormity of the problem, said farmers have large sums of money invested along with outstanding loans in preparation for the spring planting, and

WHERAS, the large amount of late seeding increases the risk that the farmer is taking in investing these large sums.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board respectfully petition Governor Wendell R. Anderson to take such steps as are necessary to have Pennington County designated as a disaster area by the President of the United States to allow the affected persons to qualify for any and all assistance available under a Presidential Disaster Proclamation.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hanson and declared unanimously carried.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Olson that the minutes of the meetings of April 9 and May 7 and 21 be accepted as published. Motion declared unanimously carried.

Ivan Downs appeared and discussed repair of Branch 2 of County Ditch No 39 on the south side of Church at the SW corner of Sec. 2 in Kratka Twp. Board instructed the Engineer to program the repair.

Myles Koop and Engineer Seidel appeared and discussed the possibility of purchasing gravel from Mr. Koop by the land and use it as a County pit. Merits of the buying or leasing were discussed and the matter was referred to the County Attorney for advice to the Board.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Hanson that the Engineer and Auditor be authorized and instructed to advertise for the seasons supply of Culverts with bids to be opened at 11:00 A.M., July 8, 1974. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Olson that the sum of $100.00 be appropriated and paid to the Inter County Community Council of Oklee to cover expenses of Board members. Motion unanimously carried.

A claim for loss of crop was received from Virgil Eckstein after it had been presented earlier and referred to Red Lake County. The County Engineer denies any responsibility. Mr. Eckstein lives very near the County line where roads are maintained by Red Lake County. The matter was referred to the County Attorney.

Mayor Robert Carlson and Sheriff Charles Richards representing the Committee that has been assigned to problem of interviewing Architects for the Law Enforcement Building and recommending financial participation of the City and County, reported on a meeting held June 10th in that regard. The Committee recommended that the firm of Foss, Engelstad and Foss of Moorhead be engaged as Architects for the Law Enforcement Building. No proposal was forthcoming from the Committee on the financial arrangements but Mayor Carlson presented a Resolution from the City of Thief River Falls Council relative to financial and site problems. The Resolution from the Council was read as follows: BE IT RESOLVED, that the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls hereby offers to contribute the sum of $100,000 toward the cost of a joint Pennington County City of Thief River Falls Law Enforcement Center to be constructed on a site immediately south of the present Pennington County Court House, said site presently being occupied by a service station and two private residences to the south thereof.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City shall assist in the demolition of any structures on said site, to prepare the same for construction of said Law Enforcement Facility.

The County Board accepted the Resolution without commitment and requested that the Committee continue to function and to further consider the financial problems involved.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Olson that the County of Pennington retain the firm of Foss, Engelstad and Foss as Architects for a City County Law Enforcement Building and the Chairman and Auditor be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with said firm. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Tasa that the sum of $200 be appropriated and paid to the Pennington County Safety Council for the continued use of the group in the field of safety. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Auditor and Chairman be authorized and instructed to enter into agreement with the State of Minnesota, Department of Highways, and to sign a "Material Pit Lease" covering removal of gravel from the S½NE¼ of Sec. 19 T153N R45W (Polk Centre).

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Olson and declared carried.

Moved by Olson seconded by Naplin that the Treasurer and Auditor be authorized and instructed to cancel those Warrants outstanding for over 3 years and listed in Auditor's Journal Page 230. Motion unanimously carried.

The Board was appraised of the new Federal Law relating to a 40 hour week that has just been imposed upon the Counties. It was apparent that some adjustments would have to be made in certain areas and policy statements were to be drawn for the Boards approval. The matter was discussed along with matter discussed earlier where funds were available for an outside survey of job descriptions and personnel polices. Board to consider at a later date.

The Board was reminded of the 1971 Law change that set the date of the County Board of Equalization on July 1st, and the Board determined that they would convene at 10:00 A.M. on that date.

Pursuant to provisions of Minn. Statutes 375.43, the All-Item Consumers Index was read to the Board as submitted by the Director of Civil Service. The index for April, 1974 was 208.2 as compared to 187.6 on the same date in 1973, an increase of 20.60 points in the index since April 1973. Converted into percentage, the increase was 11 per cent. Report was accepted, filed and no action taken.

The Board then determined to allocate the Revenue Sharing Funds anticipated for the fiscal year July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975 in the amount of $154,515 and an unallocated $22,883.70 from previous allocations that had not been committed. Moved by Tasa seconded by Hanson that the following amounts be published as "Planned Use" of those monies:

Health	20,000.00

National Society Seeks Ban For All Fireworks

Another bone has been thrown to safety and consumer groups—in the view of the national society for the prevention of blindness—in the latest fireworks regulatory action by the government which this year adds firecrackers to the list of "banned hazardous substances." Roman candles, bottle rockets, sparklers and dozens of other fireworks will still be around. The society has long campaigned for a ban on all fireworks except those used for licensed public displays.

"The year-old consumer product safety commission, in banning only firecrackers, is continuing the piecemeal approach to effective fireworks control that was the impotent legacy of its predecessor, the food and drug administration," says the society's executive director, Virginia S. Boyce.

She added that the society this year would not formally file its objections to government regulatory action, "because we are forced to recognize this procedure as a futile gesture." In previous years the society has filed objections, petitioned for public hearings, and presented fireworks-injury survey data—all of which was rejected. (The 1969 survey, the latest undertaken by the society, revealed 1,330 injuries, with five deaths and 25 cases of blindness, caused by fireworks.)

Had the society again filed objections, it reports, it would have been joined this year by strange bedfellows indeed—trade organizations representing fireworks manufacturers. Estimates of fireworks sales each year range between $100-180 million, and firecrackers reportedly account for over 40 per cent of those sales. The industry petition will seek to delay the June 17 ban for 30 days, to allow the sale of firecrackers through the 4th of July.

In recent years increasing numbers of organizations and individuals have added their support to the society's total-ban campaign, formally communicating their position to the government. Organization-support includes the American academy of pediatrics, American public health association, National safety council and national fire protection association. Federal and state legislators, police and fire department officials, physicians, newspaper editors and safety specialists are prominent among individual voices.

"Our 1969 survey sufficiently alarmed these people to align them with us in our press for a total ban on fireworks," says Mrs. Boyce, "while the government claimed 'insufficient evidence', even denying our request for a public hearing. And yet more recent estimates of the commission itself give fireworks injury statistics considerably more appalling—five times the number—than those presented with out petition.

"Another important point, in our view," she said, "is the all-too-common availability of illegal fireworks where 'certain' fireworks are permitted for sale. The federal position also tacitly undermines the more stringent fireworks regulations that exist in 25 states. For example, during the past year Massachusetts and Utah faced—but turned back—legislative efforts to loosen up their fireworks laws."

The society notes that the major portion of the June 17 government regulation is devoted to the detailed standards for manufacturing and labeling of permitted fireworks. Mrs. Boyce said, "We feel this is a tangential maneuver which skirts the main issue—which is, that all fireworks, even well made fireworks, are inherently dangerous."

Engine Mounts Found Defective On Some Cars

Defective engine mounts whose failure causes jamming of the accelerator have been found on certain car models, the Minnesota department of public safety warned today.

The department reported that the defect was the subject of a public hearing on June 18 by the national highway traffic safety administration in Washington. NHTSA found the defect on 1965 through 1968 Buick Electra 225s and Buick Wildcats, and on 1970 Cadillacs with cruise control, except El Dorados. An estimated 441,000 of these vehicles are on the road.

The mounts, which are made up of two metal brackets bonded with rubber, are said to be subject to fatigue failure under conditions of dynamic stress, when the rubber has deteriorated. Jamming of the accelerator causes sudden sharp increases in speed and calls for panic braking "which cannot be consistently expected of all drivers," according to NHTSA.

Banco Joined By Canada Trust Of London, Ont.

Northwest Bancorporation and Southeast Banking corporation have been joined by a new partner, Canada Trust of London, Ontario, in their affiliated international merchant banking group, which has been renamed Canadian American Finance S.A. and its primary operating company, Canadian American Bank S.A.

Canada Trust, with assets under administration of $4.5 billion, is one of that country's largest trust companies. It operates 86 branches and has significant holdings in several real estate developments and investment companies throughout Canada.

In making the announcement, Henry T. Rutledge, chairman and chief executive officer of Northwest Bancorporation, said today, "The addition of Canada Trust will not only broaden the merchant banking company's capital base, but will further enhance its capacity to serve international markets.

"To reflect the new international character of the shareholders, the name of Compass Finance S.A has been changed to Canadian American Finance S.A. and Compass Bank S.A., headquarterd in Luxembourg with a representative office in London, has become Canadian-American Bank S.A."

Rutlege also announced that three executives presently living in London, Ont., have been appointed managing directors of Canadian American Bank S.A.

The three newly named managing directors are responsible to Glenn C. Bassett Jr., who continues as chairman of both Canadian American Finance S.A. and Canadian American Bank S.A.

Northwest Bancorporation of Minneapolis has assets of 6.5 billion dollars with controlling interest in 81 commercial banks, a mortgage banking company and several other nonbanking companies in the Midwest.

Southeast Banking Corporation is Florida's largest bank holding company with 26 banks and several banking related affiliates with more than 2.6 billion dollars in assets.

Ease Restriction On Hiring Full Time Students

Restrictions are eased on the hiring of full-time students at subminimum wages for part-time and summer jobs as a result of the Fair Labor Standards act (FLSA) amendments effective May 1, 1974.

Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan has announced that retail, service or agricultural employers may now employ up to four full-time students at 85 per cent of the minimum wage by filing an application with the secretary of labor.

Employers seeking to hire more than four students must still receive prior certification from the secretary. This is to ensure that student employees do not displace regular full-time workers.

The new amendments will also enable colleges and universities to employ their full-time students at 85 per cent of the minimum wage, with no restriction on numbers, in accordance with regulations proposed by the secretary of labor.

Employers may pay student learners working in bona fide vocational education programs 75 per cent of the minimum wage, upon filing proper application with the secretary.

In all cases, student employment must be in compliance with applicable child labor laws.

Motorists Urged To Check Their Speedometers

With a nationwide 55 mph speed limit and rigid enforcement in many states, now is the time to check your speedometer for accuracy, the Minnesota department of public safety advised recently.

This is easier to do these days than in the past, with mileposting on all of the interstate freeways and most of the trunk routes in Minnesota. In addition to marking each mile, the mileposts also record the distance from the south or west state line or from the junction where that route begins within the state. The mileposts are green markers with white numberals.

If you are on a route which is not mileposted, here is a handy way for checking your speed:

If it takes 80 seconds to go one mile, your speed in mph equals 45. At 76 seconds, per mile speed is 47½; 72 seconds equals 50 mph; 69 equals 52½ mph; and 65 equals 55 mph.

If you have a tachometer, you know from experience what your maximum speed is when running against the governor in top gear. You know, for example, that it's governed at 2,150 rpm which is 65 mph in 10th gear. If you stay in the ame gear you can calculate your speed by figuring the proportion.

If you haven't already figured it out, 1,800 rpm's equal 54 mph.

"So far this year," Minnesota department of public safety commissioner Edward Novak said, "our highway death count is about 100 below last year. We are confident that reduced speed has contributed substantially to this saving. Please observe the 55 mph speed limit. Every life is important."

State Insurance Division Lists Quarter Report

Minnesota insurance division, department of commerce, has intervened with insurance companies to assist state consumers in gaining claim payments of more than a quarter of a million dollars since the first of the year, Commissioner Berton W. Heaton reports.

Savings of $103,647 were previously reported for January and February. The additional $146,523 savings are being reported for March and April, Heaton stated. There were 337 files closed in April which totaled $57,362 recovered for Minnesotans with the assistance of the insurance investigators. During March there were 312 files closed with recoveries totaling $89,161.

"On the average, two-thirds of the cases brought to our attention are closed in favor of the consumer. The remaining often involve misunderstandings between individuals and companies or are outside our jurisdiction," Heaton explains.

Recoveries range from a $1 accident and health premium payment which wasn't refunded on cancellation to an $8,000 accidental death policy.

"In some cases," says Jerry Elliott, chief investigator, "we are able to assist the insurance industry as well as the consumer. We had one in April where a woman was paid $335 on a $100 deductible auto policy. The insurance company advised her to sue for the full amount in conciliation court. The court awarded her $435 and she wanted to keep the full amount. She asked us if this was proper and we had to tell her that she would have to return the original $335 to the insurance company—in effect, she would have been collecting double and actually profiting from the accident if she hadn't," he explained.

There were 218 files closed on disputed automobile claims during March and April; 44 concerning Homeowners policies; 36 on Credit Life and Disability insurance and 18 miscellaneous. The miscellaneous inquiries include aviation, inland marine, workmen's compensation and general liability.

Auto License Registration Dates Are Set

The months in which owners of passenger cars will register their vehicles starting in 1975 were determined in a drawing on April 19 by the Minnesota department of public safety.

Under the new monthly registration system, all passenger cars will be registered over a nine-month period starting in 1975. These months will be March through November. December, January and February will be reserved for registration of trucks and all other vehicles.

Initial determination of the registration month was made by dividing the alphabet into nine equal groups according to the last name of the owner. From this point on, a vehicle will be registered annually in a specific month, for the life of the car or for so long as it remains in Minnesota.

Those owners of passenger cars whose last name falls into the following groups will register in the designated month:

A - Brown—September; Browo - Hansn,—October; Hanso - Kampr,—May; Kamps - Mahag,—June; Mahah - Olsem,—August; Olsen - Rust,—April; Rusta - Sweno,—March and Swenp - Zyvol, in November.

During the first year of the new system, most registrations will be for less than a year, with the tax rate prorated on a 12-month basis. Those whose registration month is March will have the option of registering initially for three months and then reregistering in March for the following 12-month period. Or, they may register for the full 15-month period at the time of initial registration.

Since 1974 was a "plate" year, the next two years will be "sticker" years. Owners will receive two stickers—one validating the license for the registration period, and the other showing the month in which the next year's tax is due.

Offer New Major In Commercial Art At Bemidji

An interdisciplinary major in "Technical Illustration and Commercial Design" is now available at Bemidji state college for the student who is interested in the whole spectrum of commercial art.

The new major recently received approval by the Minnesota higher education coordinating commission and will be instituted this summer with classes that apply to the degree program. It is a Bachelor of Science (non-teaching) program.

Keith Malmquist, chairman of the BSC art department and a co-director of the program, notes, "This is a program with maximum potential derived from a minimum number of changes in offerings we've formerly had on the books. Its uniqueness and strength lie in the fact that we have drawn upon the expertise of three major departments within the school and put them together into a very comprehensive package."

The new major is a combination of courses from the art department, the department of industrial technology and the department of mass communications.

"We're concerned about educating students who are designers as well as technicians," Malmquist states, "and we feel we can best serve them by providing study in a wide array of related visual and technical pursuits rather than locking them into only one competency."

In this program, students will be taking courses ranging from painting, drawing, design and hand printing in the art department; drafting, illustrating, rendering and mechanical printing in industrial technology; photography, film making, television and multi-media in the department of mass communications.

Beyond a basic core of courses, students will have a great number of free electives and will choose an area of speciality. Internships are also built into the program, giving the candidates practical experience in the fields of commercial art.

"We are trying to develop a large variety of internships and are encouraging students to take several, rather than just one, in order to broaden their experience in the field," says Malmquist.

"Our stimulation for designing this program," he goes on to say, "is the clear trend by industry, business and other agencies to recognize the need and benefits of visual and graphic programming. Our program is a fresh and essential option for anyone genuinely interested in Commercial Art and we now have the most comprehensive program I know of."

While a number of schools in Minnesota offer two year programs for commercial artists, BSC's program is a full-fledged college major that requires a general education core, electives in various fields of expertise and a 15 credit area of specialization. The bachelor of science degree is awarded to the student completing the program.

"In light of the exciting new directions that industry and commerce are taking in the visual arts, the new technology that is developing, and the recognition of the essentialness of visual designers and technicians, we anticipate that this new program will be one of the most promising alternatives offered to students. We also feel that potential employers, both big and small firms, will find our program attuned to their needs as they begin hiring artists for their businesses," Malmquist concludes.

Further information about the new major in Technical Illustration and Commercial Design is available by contacting Prof. Keith Malmquist, Deputy Hall, BSC; or Dr. Kermit Anderson, Bridgeman Hall, BSC, Bemidji, Mn. 56601.

All children who will be starting school for the first time next fall should have completed their physical examinations and their immunization shots by the end of this week, according to Mrs. Margaret Race, Thief River Falls school nurse.

At round-up last April, appointments were divided over a three-month perod of April, May and June. With June almost gone, there are many children who have not reported for their examinations.

This is a last minute reminder to call your clinic for an appointment at once, Mrs. Race said.

Summer Theater Cast Selected

Tryouts have been completed, casts selected and stage crews are being formed as the Northland summer theater begins rehearsal work for the 1974 season. Under the direction of Michael L. Tillmann, summer guest director from Marshall and formerly from Thief River Falls, tryouts were held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening with good numbers auditioning for "Little Women" and "The Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-In-The-Moon Marigolds.

Cast in the roles for "Little Women", scheduled for July 12 and 13 presentation, are Leigh Ann Harris as Josephine March, the author's autobiographical portrayal of herself; Donna Keck as Meg March, the older sister; Debbie Penning as Amy March, the young artistic sister; and Sue Shenack as Beth March, the young sickly girl whose death brings the family even closer together than before.

Marilyn Lund, in her second year with the Northland company, is playing "Marmee, with Tom Karlson of Warroad playing Lawrence, Charles Erickson of Roseau playing John Brooke, Heidi Bornhold playing the gruff aunt March and Perry Bucholz, also in his second year with the company, as Professor Bhaer. Neighbors to the family will be played by Joel Peterson and Paul Mehrkens (both returning from last year's company) and Jody Ripley, Lori Klemisch and Lynne Anderson.

The group began rehearsal Monday at 7 p.m. in the Northland community college theater. According to Tillmann, "These are excellently balanced and talented casts. In fact, the difficulty was not in finding good people but in choosing from numerous good people who tried out which ones should play the roles."

Tickets for "Little Women" will go on sale in July and will be

St. Paul Unit Wins Drum And Bugle Contest

St. Paul Drum and Bugle corps compiled 40.4 total points to win the first annual Arctic Nights drum and bugle corps competition Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln high school athletic field in Thief River Falls.

Second place was awarded to the Mounties organization with 31.2 points and third place to the Granettes from St. Cloud. Troop I scouts from St. Paul were fourth in the competition.

Although the local TRFinettes performed in exhibition only and were not part of the competition, judging of the performance was made and a point total of 31.9 awarded. It would have been good enough for second place. In the marching and maneuvering category the TRFinettes rated 12.1 points—highest of all the units appearing at the event.

The Times regrets that photo arrangements made for the day were not fulfilled and we are unable to publish photo coverage of the event.

MOTORISTS in the Thief River Falls area have been encountering a traffic survey crew which is gathering information about vehicles using the highways leading into this city. The survey is being conducted by the Minnesota highway department at the request of the local city council to determine the need for a highway by-pass around Thief River Falls. Mary Munt of Thief River Falls, one of the local students employed on the survey crew, was photographed Friday afternoon offering a Minnesota highway map to Arnold Smith of Greenbush after he provided information required for the survey while Mary Mittelstadt interviews another motorist in the background. If weather permits, the survey could be completed this week and the proposed by-pass will be discussed Monday evening when city officials meet with highway department representatives.

New Regulation Hits Boarding Care Homes

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Owners or administrators of five Thief River Falls boarding homes having facilities for 195 residents are concerned about a new federal regulation which apparently could put them out of business and some of their residents out in the street. Mutual frustration and despair was expressed at a meeting Tuesday morning.

The regulation in question is one which went into effect March 18 of this year from the federal department of health, education and welfare. It spells out the technical and physical requirements to which intermediate care facilities must be certified to house residents who depend on medical assistance funds to pay for their care. In Minnesota, that means from 70 to 90 per cent of the residents of nursing homes and boarding care homes.

The HEW regulation recognizes only one category of intermediate care and the requirements spelled out are for nursing homes. Licensed boarding care homes have been entities in Minnesota since 1952, providing a service for residents who require a degree of custodial care considerably above that of simple board and room, but less than the comprehensive nursing care provided in nursing homes. Cost to residents in boarding care homes is much less than in nursing homes.

Under the regulation in question, all intermediate care facilities would have to meet the 1967 "Life Safety Code". This guide for the construction of public buildings requires such things as eight-foot wide hallways, four-foot wide doors, elevators and sprinkler systems. It would also require that each home be administered by a licensed nursing home administrator, and that a registered nurse be on duty seven days a week, or a licensed practical nurse who will consult at least twice a week with a doctor or nurse. A consulting pharmacist must also be provided.

Thief River Falls boarding-homes affected would be Valley home with 137 beds, Crestview Home and Hanson's Rest Home with 15 beds each, Kees Rest Home with 13 beds and likely Johnson's Riverside Boarding Care Home with 15 beds. The later home offers boarding care services for mentally retarded persons.

Valley home has the newest building, put into use in 1963. For a number of years before the new construction it operated as Valley Christian home at Horace avenue and Second street. Crestview home has operated about 18 years, Hanson's home for 21 years and Kees home for about 20 years. The Johnson facility has been licensed for boarding care since 1967.

None of the facilities—including the relatively new Valley home—meet the regulation of eight-foot halls and four-foot doors. About 30 per cent of the Valley home residents are medical assistance recipients. Of the 53 residents currently at the other four homes, only eight are private pay and the rest receive medical assistance support.

Owners and administrators of the homes were emphatic in their statements that it would be difficult and expensive to meet the personnel requirements of the regulation. All said it would be impossible to meet the physical requirements without entirely new construction. Cost of nursing home construction is estimated at $10,000 to $12,000 per bed.

"We have attempted the last few months to get HEW to change its mind," stated James Logan, executive director of the Minnesota Care Home association, Tuesday in Minneapolis. "The stock reply we get from the top

Elks To Remodel Downtown Bldg.

Approval of a remodeling project for the entire upstairs and much of the exterior of the Elks building in Thief River Falls was given by about a three to one vote at a meeting of the lodge Monday evening. Cost of the project, depending upon options taken, could range from $100,000 to $140,000, according to J.K. Stadum, chairman of the facility planning committee.

Following approval of the upstairs remodeling by the lodge, the Elks building corporation met with tenants leasing first floor business area. Agreement was reached on a new look for the and is supplied by Modern Woodmen of America. the Children's Toggery, Larson's Style Center, Ekeren Drug, Wilson Sports Centre, Model Barber Shop and The Club.

General contractor is to be named and construction begun soon with a view toward completion of the project before Christmas, Stadum said.

Serving with Stadum on the committee were Randall Noper, Robert Bregler, Robert Flynn, Frank Womack, Stan Cockrell and Wallace Grovum. Consideration was also given to new construction or purchase of the Thief River golf club facilities before the decision to remodel the existing building was made.

Although relatively minor changes have been made in the second floor of the building in recent years, the approved project will be the first major remodeling in about 25 years, Stadum said. The entire second floor will be used by the Elks lodge which will permit rearrangement of bar and dining areas and installation of new fixtures. Kitchen facilities are also expected to be enlarged and improved.

Stadum said the remodeling will be in a Bohemian motif which will feature heavy, rough-cut timbers and stone work. A canopy will be added to the front of the building as part of the exterior change. Front entrance and stairway will be extensively changed and the fire escape relocated.

Carla Errolyn Benson And Gregory Gene Gauwitz Wed

Ruth's plea, "Entreat Me Not to Leave thee," as recorded in Ruth 1:16-17, was the theme of the ceremony uniting Carla Errolyn Benson and Gregory Gene Gauwitz in marriage. Following the exchanging of the vows, the bride and groom lit the white wedding candle from blue tapers, signifying that their two lives had joined into one.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Benson of Stephen. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gauwitz of Akeley. Both are 1971 graduates of the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute and are now employed in Rochester.

The double ring ceremony took place at the Salem Lutheran church at Stephen with Rev. George Johnson officiating. Rev. Harvey Jackson of Dalbo, who was the bride's confirmation pastor, gave the pastoral meditation based on I Cor. 13. He also played the trumpet solo, "Bless This House," during the prelude and sang "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar. Mrs. Casmer Traska was the organist. She played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" for the processional and recessional. Following the processional, Mrs. Ronald Koland sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," corresponding with the banner which the bride and groom had made and hung in the chancel.

For the ceremony, the altar was graced with baskets of daisies and garden flowers. On the pews decorated with white bows and greens were tall candelabra made by the bride's father. The candles were in the bride's chosen colors of blue, lavender, green and pink.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a white polyester knit dress, styled in empire fashion with full bishop sleeves secured at the wrists by wide cuffs with miniature buttons. A wide flounce edged the bottom of the A-line skirt and chapel-length train. Venice lace, hand embroidered in blue by the bride, graced the top of the flounce and outlined the scooped neckline. Matching lace graced her lace and pearl headpiece that held her full-length veil. She carried a white Cattleya orchid on her confirmation Bible which she had covered with lace, matching the bodice of her gown. Cascading from the orchid were stephanotis, ivy and white ribbon. For sentiment, she wore a garter crocheted by her maternal grandmother. Her blue bracelet was her mother's gift from her father on her wedding day. She also carried a 48 year-old silk handkerchief which her grandmother and mother had carried at their weddings.

Mary Bonow of Rochester, a friend of the bride, was personal attendant.

Maid of honor was Joyce Feragen of Thief River Falls. She wore a floor-length gown fashioned of a tiny blue floral print on a white background. Matching fabric was drawn through the beaded lace that graced the square neckline, short puffed sleeves and the empire waistband that gathered the full skirt styled with three gathered tiers. Her gown and the one worn by the bride were designed and made by the bride.

Other attendants were Mrs. Bob Blazek of Greenbush, Judith Johnson of Karlstad, friends of the bride, and Janna Benson, sister of the bride. Their gowns, styled like the maid of honor's were of lavender, green, and pink floral print, respectively. All wore floppy hats, in colors to match their gowns, and carried white baskets with daisies in lavender, green, pink and blue interspered with garden flowers.

Attired like the bride in a white floor-length gown with floor-length veil was Polly Ann Parr, a cousin. She carried a white children's Bible topped with a white Japet orchid, stephanotis and ivy.

Jeff Gauwitz attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Neal and Kent Benson, brothers of the bride, and Drew Gauwitz, brother of the groom. Ushers were Brian Hendricks of Stephen and Dennis Olson of Grand Forks. All wore Adventurer tuxedos with white brocade coats trimmed in black. The groom, best man and the fathers of the couple wore blue ruffled shirts while the groomsmen wore shirts to match the gowns worn by the bride's attendants. Their carnation boutonniers matched their shirts.

Karla Carlson of Sandstone and Gregory Parr of Strathcona served as acolytes as Jennifer Loer of Grand Forks and Wendy Koland of Sandstone distributed the wedding programs. All are cousins of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Benson wore a navy blue floor-length gown with red and white accessories. The mother of the groom wore a mint green knit gown with white accessories. Both wore lavender cattleya orchid corsages.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parr of Strathcona, Mrs. Carl Benson of Karlstad, grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. William Rinder of Akeley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gauwitz of Peoria, Ill., grandparents of the groom; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendricks of Stephen, godparents of the bride.

A reception in the parish hall followed with Mr. and Mrs. David Carlson as host and hostess. Lori Gulbranson of Grand Forks was at the guest book, Cleo Seladcek and Debbie Hapka served the punch, Beth Ann Jackson and Cathy Carlson distributed the rice packets, Mrs. Michael Underberg of Thief River Falls presided at the gift table and Mrs. Harvey Jackson pinned the corsages. All are friends of the bride. Mary Pat Parr, a cousin of the bride, and Bradley Jackson carried the gifts.

A four tiered chocolate wedding cake, iced in white, centered the reception table. It was decorated by the bride with daisies in her chosen colors. Surrounding the cake at the base were blue ruffling, ivy and fresh pink roses. A Christogram topped the upper tier. Cutting the cake were Mrs. Gilbert Olson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Harold Knapp, friend of the groom. Mrs. Robert Hendricks, aunt and godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Bill Merrill, friend of the groom, poured. Coffee servers were Eric Parr and Lester Sjoblom.

Waitresses were Peggy Frei, Lynette Schmidt, and Roberta Grandstrand. Their aprons, in the bride's color scheme, were made by the bride. Also following the colors selected by the bride, were the gowns worn by little girls who distributed the programs and rice packets, and those who carried the gifts and lit the candles. Their gowns were of checked gingham with a white panel front outlined with eyelet lace trim.

Serving the reception were Mrs. Eskil Sjoblom, Mrs. Harry Schmidt, Mrs. Otto Walz, Mrs. Gordon Grandstrand, Mrs. Paul Grandstrand, Mrs. Jerley Henrickson and Mrs. Hans Anderson.

Following the reception about 60 relatives and friends gathered at the bride's parental home where the bride and groom opened their gifts.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted at the Salem parish hall by the parents of the groom.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, the couple is at home at 1231 Fourth avenue southwest, Rochester.

New Regulation Hits Boarding Care Facilities

level of HEW is that the stiffened requirements are necessary to protect bedridden and senile patients. They talk a different language because we are not talking about bedridden, senile patients. We are talking about people who are ambulatory and largely able to take care of their personal needs, but who require supervision in medication, diet, therapy, personal hygiene and social situations."

Should the regulation be enforced to its full extent by Jan. 1—the apparent end of a grace period for compliance with the March 18 regulation—the boaring care homes could be compelled to close and their residents to find other places to live. For some who have no relatives to take them in, who do not qualify for ICF I nursing home care, and who have no personal resources for enting an apartment, there would be no place to go. Such a possibility is not likely, but it is a possibility which is very real to the boarding care home operators and their residents.

"I don't think it's all black at this time," speculates Gary Erickson, executive director of the Pennington county social services (welfare) department. "We are checking with state officials now to see if it is possible for boarding care homes to revert to operating under the board and care license provsions they formerly used. The homes changed to the ICF II designation at federal request some years ago, and it may be possible they have the option of changing back to the old license.

"If that is possible, I can see improvement from the present situation. The change back to the previous system would get the boarding care homes off the central disbursement system of the state and allow our department to make financial support payments on a more current basis. The money would come out of a different program area."

Erickson admits that the possibility does exist whereby some very real problems could develop by mid-winter, but for the present is not overly concerned that a way can not be found to resolve the situation.

In the meantime, boarding care operators are not just sitting on their rockers. They are pleading their case to U.S. Representatives and Senators, state legislators and the press and public in hopes that the plight of their business and their residents will become generally known. They are counting on a reaction to the seemingly unnecessary increased private and public costs and oppressive nature of the regulation extensive enough to effect its change.

UMC To Offer 4 New Courses In Agriculture

Four new opportunities for technical collegiate-level training in agriculture are expected this fall at University of Minnesota technical college (UMC) in Crookston.

A program in poultry science is already approved while three proposed options in mechanized agriculture management are pending.

Majors in poultry science will receive broad technical training in animal science including specialized courses in poultry. According to UMC spokesmen, need exists for trained persons to manage poultry production enterprises, to assist as technicians in research activity, equip and maintain facilities, supply feed and pharmaceutical preparations and to market poultry and poultry products.

Proposed options in the new mechanized agriculture program include power and machinery structures and environment electrical power and processing, and soil, water and civil engineering. A graduate majoring in structures and environment could use the training as a farmer or rancher, as an agricultural building contravtor, construction foreman or fieldman, an agricultural building and equipment salesman or as agricultural structures and environment research technician.

Graduates of the two-year collegiate program at UMC receive an associate in applied science degree and are prepared for mid-management level work. Students receive specialized training in their major field of study plus a broad general education. Students also serve an internship which applies their college training to on-the-job work experiences.

More information about new agricultural programs is available through division of agriculture, UMC, Crookston, MN 56716.

Gas Stations Report Better Gas Supplies

Nearly a third of the gasoline stations in Minnesota reported their fuel supplies were better this week than the week before, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and the auto clubs of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

In its weekly survey of 56 gasoline stations around the state, the motoring organization found that 68 per cent of the stations surveyed reported their gasoline supplies were the same as last week. Only one station in the survey said its supply was lower than the week before.

Average prices for gas crept up again this week following several weeks of slowly decreasing prices. The aveage price of regular this week was 55.6 cents, up from 55.4 cents the week before. The average price of premium was 59.0 cents, up from 58.8 cents the week before.

Operating hours are near normal once again with nearly 80 per cent of the stations surveyed reporting hours past 7 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. More than 55 per cent of the stations are now open for Sunday sales of gas—a figure which has increased steadily since the lifting of the Sunday gas sales ban and the beginning of the summer travel season.

Stations in St. Paul had the longest operating hours but had the highest prices for gas. Stations in outstate Minnesota reported the lowest prices and with operating hours that were generally longer than stations in Minneapolis where prices were higher.

According to AAA, the number of persons taking motoring vacations is behind last year. But the lower demand for fuel is helping to minimize the impact of the present fuel shortage, the AAA said.

Carpenter Asks Butz To Resign USDA Position

Cy Carpenter, president of Minnesota Farmers Union and a member of the executive committee of the National Farmers Union, recently urged secretary of agriculture Earl L. Butz to step aside as head of the USDA and allow new leadership to tackle the farm and food crises which Carpenter said are getting steadily worse. Carpenter is a former resident of Thief River Falls.

"There is little confidence among either farmers or consumers that you can successfully solve current problems, since they are to an important degree the result of mistaken policies of the administration during the past five years," Carpenter said in a letter to Secretary Butz.

Carpenter charged tha the present indecision of the USDA chief as to what might be done in the livestock crisis indicates that the secretary is "completely out of tune with the grim realities which farmers are facing today."

"With cattle and hog farmers losing their life savings and being forced out of their chosen profession, there is little consolation for them in the off-hand remarks you address to the crisis," Carpenter said.

"Likewise, with dairy farmers facing ruinous prices, the proposal for a brief breathing space before dairy farmers are again turned on full force, indicates a lack of concern for the diary farmer and lack of understanding of the need for maintaining a dairy production system in this country," he continued.

"Since the foregoing not only represents one individual's opinions, but a vast and growing number of persons in and out of agriculture, we believe it would best serve the farmers and consumers of the nation, the national economy, and the well-being of the department of agriculture as a viable and necessary public institution, if you were to resign and allow new leadership to take over," he concluded.

GUARDSMEN from the Thief River Falls area were photographed Sunday as they formed up to march in the annual Governor's Day parade at Camp Ripley where they are receiving their annual two-week training requirement. The men will be returning this weekend.

Bemidji Highway Dist. Leads In Cost Savings

Employees of the Minnesota highway department saved taxpayers close to $1 million in the first quarter of 1974 in the second phase of the continuing cost improvement program instituted by commissioner Ray Lappegaard in December of 1972.

Among the nine regional highway districts, District 2 with headquarters in Bemidji led all the rest in realizing savings of $214,433. District 5, headquarters Golden Valley, ranked next with savings of $151,869. District 3, Brainerd, showed savings of $129,401, and District 9, Oakdale, reported savings of $124,150.

In personal interviews last January, employees suggested additional ways and means of cutting costs that have realized $597,000 in 'recurrent' savings and almost $327,000 in 'one-time' savings for the quarter.

One-time savings are those that cannot be repeated, like disposing of equipment that will not be replaced. Recurrent savings are those that will continue to cut costs indefinitely, like favorable changes in contract specifications.

Introduced by Lappegaard and recommended by LEAP, the loaned executives action program created by Governor Wendell R. Anderson to improve efficiency in state government, the highway department's cost improvement effort saved taxpayers more than $4.6 million in 1973.

"These are identifiable savings," Lappegaard said. "I believe the cost-consciousness aroused by the program has, in fact, resulted in many dollars in savings tht have gone unreported."

The program is patterned after one used by the 3M company on a world-wide basis. It is calculated to cut operating unit costs a reasonable five per cent every year.

Viking Covenant Church Notes 85th Anniversary

Falls, Winona, Rosewood, Newfolden, Drayton, Oslo, Moorhead and Cambridge.

The church history as given by Clarence Tangquist is as follows:

The Psalm writer wrote in Psalms 84:10 "I had rather be doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness.,, This was no doubt the feeling of our forefathers as they started the work here.

On June 7, 1889, the Viking Minnesota Covenant church was organized. The following served as officers: Isreal Peterson, chairman; Alex Anderson, secretary; and P. J. Drotts, treasurer. There had been some work done and some seed sown prior to this, some pastors had been coming and having services once a month. Sunday School had also been held at the Beckman home.

Rev. P. M. Samuelson, who had been preaching in this territory, was called to serve as our first pastor. He served from 1889 to 1894. During his ministry they were still meeting in homes. When Rev. Samuelson left Rev. Tornell was called. He served from 1894 to 1900 with a desire to worship the Lord and a vision for lost souls. The church was built during these years. It's first location was 1½ miles west of Viking on the site where the Lakehead Pipeline now stands.

With the resignation of Rev. Tornell, Rev. P. A. Dimberg was called. He served 2 years, from 1900 to 1902. During these years many families immigrated from Norway and Sweden, aglow and enthused to see the work progress and put everything into the work.

When Dimberg left, Chas Jacobson was called. He served just one year. O. J. Lundell was our next pastor and served from 1903 to 1905, when he resigned. After his resignation, Rev. Werner Drotts was called. He served from 1905 to 1928. He seemed determined to serve 25 years but his health failed him and he was compelled to discontinue. During his ministry, in 1913 the church was moved from where it was built to its present site. This involved a lot of will to work. It was a slow process, being moved across country, when Rev. Drotts could continue no longer, Rev. W. O. Larson was called. He served until 1930. He being a traveling musician and evangelist, felt he wanted to continue in that type of ministry at which time Rev. C. Edwin Anderson accepted the call and served until 1935. He was young and dynamic. He served the communities of Rosewood, Strandquist, Comstock and Faldahl and Viking during which time many were won for the Lord.

In 1936, the church called a young man right from school with his education behind him and his experience ahead of him. Rev. Joseph Bowman was a young man who served very efficiently, but in 1939 decided to take a wife and move to wider plains.

Samuel T. Berg served the church one year as interm pastor from 1939 to 1940. It was at this time our parsonage was built. In 1941 Rev. Franklin Duerre was called and served until 1942 at which time he accepted a call to a larger church.

With the resignation of Rev. Duerre, Rev. C. Norman Erickson was called. He served until 1950. During which time the church was remodeled, putting in a full basement and adding four Sunday School rooms.

Rev. Gilbert Anderson then accepted the call and served from 1950 to 1954.

In 1954 Rev. Justin Dakken was called. He served four years until 1958. He was succeded by Rev. Walter Blackwood, who served from 1958 to 1963. A man well grounded both physically and spiritually.

Rev. Myrher served as interm about 3 months. Rev. Bjurlin served from 1964 to 1966. Rev. Granstrom served from 1966 to 1971 Rev. Fredrickson served as interm for seven months.

Our present pastor Rev. Bruce Kallenberg began his ministry on June 1, 1972.

During the years several young people dedicated their lives to the Lord and prepared for his service. Some in the homeland and some on the foreign fields. Although we have not seen any sweeping revival thse later years, we have witnessed the Spirit of the Lord working in our midst and several decisions made for him.

We thank God for the way he has blessed and provided for us as a small church and for each one of these faithful pastors who have served so faithfully, warm hearted down through the years.

Might we who carry on continue to keep the Gospel torch burning until Jesus comes. Which we believe will be very soon.

The church is God's workhouse, where his jewels are being polished for his palace.

BSC To Hold Cheerleading Clinic In July

Bemidji state college summer music clinic will present the seventh annual cheerleading institute July 28-August 2, with professional faculty furnished by the International Cheerleading foundation of Kansas City, MO.

The institute is aimed at junior and senior high school students and their cheerleading advisors and will explore new ideas, routines, cheers, planning of routines and skits.

Dr. Theodore Thorson, director of the BSC music clinic, states, "Our institute has proven highly popular with students in the past and I'm sure this institute will be helpful and informative for participants."

A typical day at the institute would feature 8:30-11:30 cheerleading instruction, tumbling and calisthenics. After lunch, the students would get into pompon routines, cheers, tumbling and more calisthenics. Following dinner, students might explore pep rally planning, mass cheers and small group work, and then relax with clinic activities like dances, stunt nights or concerts.

"Non-commuting students will stay in supervised college housing and all cheerleading institute participants are eligible to participate in music clinic and college activities," Dr. Thorson indicates. "Applications for the institute may be made on the standard music clinic application forms, or on special forms obtained from my office."

Cost of the cheerleading institute is $72 for instruction and room and board. Those who can commute pay $32 for instruction costs.

Dr. Thorson notes that many schools pay the cost of sending their cheerleaders to the institute and encourages advisors to check this possibility. Reservations for the institute will be held until July 1 and further information is available from Dr. Thorson (218-755-2915), Summer Music Clinic, Bemidji State College, Bemidji, Mn. 56601.

Mike Lundgren

It was recently brought to my attention that Scott Reed, a recent 1974 Lincoln high school graduate, apparently set a new Prowler hockey record during the long-ago completed 1973-74 hockey season.

The record apparently established by Reed, which somehow passed my attention during a hectic season-ending surge of winter athletics, was a new Prowler assist mark.

The likeable Reed finished the 1973-74 season with 17 goals and 35 assists for 52 points to lead the Prowlers in scoring. His 35 assists apparently broke the school record of 33 assists set during the 1959-60 season by current Prowler B squad coach Dale Wennberg who scored 37 goals and added those 33 assists for 70 points that year.

The word "apparently" has been used in talking about the record because the mark has not really been verified. Hours of back file research for numerous Prowler athletic records have been almost fruitless in establishing an exact set of standards. Wennberg's assist record was used because of Huck Olson's 1959-60 scrapebook comments that read, "Dale Wennberg, an all-state tournament center in 1959, scored 37 goals and had 33 assists for 70 points, setting a new school record by breaking the old mark of 42 goals and 26 assists by Jack Erickson in 1950-51."

A similar attempt at locating a Lincoln record for single season football rushing yardage two years ago exemplified my futile record finding tries.

Rob Swenson in 1971 and Kent Smith in 1972 both neared the 1,000 yard rushing mark for the Prowler football teams. It was reported both times that the respective players were attempting to become the first Prowler 1,000 yard runners, but that acclaim would have been unconfirmed since Paul Klungness' 1961 rushing figure is not totaled.

Back file research showed Klungness with 993 yards for the season, but his rushing figures from The Thief River Falls-Moorhead and Thief River Falls-Crookston games that year are nowhere to be found.

My current list of Prowler single season rushing leaders shows Klungness on top with 993 (with an asterisk), followed by Swenson with 979 and Smith with 928.

My hockey assist record sheet will now show Reed with 35 and Wennberg with 33.

Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes newspapers, points out that "Coach Des Sagedahl faces a huge rebuilding job with his 1975 Bemidji high school baseball team. Only one starter—outfielder David Berg—returns from the club that took consolation honors in the 1974 state tournament recently at Midway Stadium in St. Paul."

Bemidji finished 16-3 overall this year and finished fifth in the state after winning the state championship in 1973.

Although Thief River Falls will return just three starters next spring, the Prowler baseball future looks brighter than ever with a host of talented youngsters advancing through the Thief River Falls baseball program.

Legion, Amateur Teams Will Play

Baseball activity will be played on two fronts in Thief River Falls this week.

The Thief River Falls entry in the Norman Polk amateur baseball league will host Ada tonight (Wednesay) at 8 p.m. on the fairgrounds diamond. Coach Howard Dalager's Thief River Falls ball club owns only a 1-3 record this season.

Thief River Falls will host Warroad Thursday at 7 p.m. on the fairgrounds ball park in American Legion baseball activity.

Coach Rocky Wilson's Legion squad, currently boasting a 6-1 season record, will also be in action Saturday when Thief River Falls travels to Bemidji for a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

Week's Schedule

Thurs., June 27, 9 p.m., Legion vs. VFW.
Fri., June 28, 7 p.m. Pepsi vs. VFW; 8:45 p.m. Arctic Cat vs. State Farm.

VFW edged previously undefeated Schmidts 2-1 and the Legion stunned heavily favored Arctic Cat 5-3 in exciting Tuesday night Thief River Falls fast pitch softball league action.

Tuesday's results left Erskine atop the tight league standings with a 4-0 record, followed closely by VFW at 5-1 and Schmidts 4-1. Arctic Cat, unbeaten until late last week, suffered its second straight loss to fall to 4-2 for the year.

Monday night's league play was highlighted by Falls Diesel's first win in two years as Diesel surprised Nelson State Farm Insurance 6-2. Pepsi handled Melvies 14-4 in Monday's other game.

Schmidts 1

The Vets erased memories of a season opening loss to Schmidts with a dramatic 2-1 win last night.

Al Erickson of VFW and Dean Lawrenz of Schmidts locked up in an old fashion pitcher's duel throughout the tense game with Erickson coming out on top with a three hitter and Lawrenz suffering the heart-breaking defeat despite a five hit effort.

VFW scored what looked like might be the game's only run in the third inning when Carl Poppenhagen and Erickson walked and Bob Paper reached base on an error. A two out single by Wayne Smith scored Poppenhagen, but Lawrenz struck out the next batter to get out of the jam.

Erickson coasted along on a two-hitter entering the top of the seventh and quickly retired the first two batters on a strike out and a foul ball pop-up behind the plate. A one ball, two strike count on the next batter put Erickson on the verge of a pitching triumph before Bill Decker suddenly tied the game 1-1 with a stunning home run, a towering blast over the leftfield fence.

Decker's heroics were short lived, however, as VFW scored the game's winning run in the bottom of the seventh. A single by Poppenhagen and a fielder's choice play put the first two VFW runners on base. Lawrenz then issued an intentional walk to Nick Drees to set up a force out at any base. The Schmidts strategy paid off the first time when Paper forced Poppenhagen at the plate with an infield ground ball. The second time the decision went in VFW's favor, though, as Scott Kleven's infield ground ball scored Erickson on a close play at the plate.

Legion 5
Arctic Cat 3

Arctic Cat scored the game's first two runs in Tuesday's doubleheader nightcap, but the upstart Legion, playing with a make-shift line-up, snapped a 3-3 tie with a two-run sixth inning to claim the surprising win.

Singles by Jeff Vacura and Gordy Peterson produced a first inning Arctic Cat run. A sacrifice fly by Rex Rugland accounted for a 2-0 second inning Arctic lead.

The Legion jumped in front 3-2 in the top of the third when back to back two-out singles by Randy Dallmann and Pete Sullivan, both slow infield rollers, were followed by a hard hit triple by Tom Hanson. An error then allowed Hanson to score.

Arctic Cat tied the game 3-3 in the bottom of the third on back to back singles by Darrell Stromlund and Peterson.

The Legion's winning sixth inning included a lead-off walk issued to Hanson, an error, a wild pitch for one run, a sacrifice and another error for a second run.

Falls Diesel 6
State Farm 2

Falls Diesel won its first league game in two years with a 6-2 triumph over Nelson State Farm Insurance in Monday night's doubleheader nightcap.

The Falls diesel squad, winless during the entire 1973 season and 0-4 entering Monday's game, collected just two base hits in the contest, but capitalized on six walks and a pair of State Farm errors to record the sought after win.

State Farm scored the game's first run in the top of the first inning on singles by Cota and Schmitz, but Falls Diesel came right back with two runs in the bottom of the opeining stanza on a fielder's choice, two walks, a wild pitch and two passed balls.

State Farm tied the game 2-2 in the second on a lead-off single by LaChance, a passed ball and an error.

Falls Diesel scored what proved to be the winning run in the third on a lead-off single by Leverington, fielder's choice, passed ball and a sacrifice fly by Grandstrand.

The winners padded their lead to 6-2 in the sixth by taking advantage of three straight walks.

VFW BASE RUNNER Al Erickson stepped onto home plate just a split second ahead of the ball shown inches away from Schmidts catcher Bruce Bakke's glove for the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning of Tuesday night's dramatic fast pitch softball league game. Erickson scored from third base on an infield ground ball with the bases loaded and one out in the last half of the seventh to give the Vets a 2-1 win.

THIS BUNT attempt by VFW batter Nick Drees resulted in a pop-out to first base during Tuesday's VFW-Schmidts fast pitch softball game in Thief River Falls. The Vets handed the Schmidts team its first loss of the year, 2-1.

Buyers of compact and sub-compact cars can expect operating savings of about 20 and 30 per cent under a standard size model during the life of the vehicle on the basis of today's prices, according to Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W.R. Hoaglund.

League standings remained virtually unchanged following a busy early week Thief River Falls slow pitch softball schedule as Arctic Raiders and Hamms-Pizza squads continued their winning ways heading toward a climatic head-on collision scheduled to be played Tues., July 16.

Northland Electronics . . 8
Grain Belt 5

Northland Electronics scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to snap a 5-5 tie and gain an 8-5 win over Grain Belt to highlight Tuesday night's play.

Ordean Peterson belted two home runs to help spark the Northland Electronics offense. Peterson hit a two-run shot in the first inning and added a three-run homer in the third as he finished the night with a perfect three for three performance at the plate and five RBI's.

A three run home run by Brian Peterson had enabled Grain Belt to gain a 5-5 tie in the top of the sixth.

Wes Gjovik out-dueled Gordy DeLap to pick up the pitching victory as both hurlers allowed only six base hits. Grain Belt committed four of the game's six errors, though.

Hartz 23
Pro Oil 3

Hartz backed Gus Holmes' four-hit pitching with a 21 hit barrage of their own to rack up a 23-3 win over Pro Oil Tuesday.

Clyde Sorenson led the Hartz offense with four hits in five at-bats. Barry Fellmann and Sid Brouse both collected three base hits and Holmes helped his own cause by going two for two.

Bob Wold was tagged with the loss as his teammates committed seven errors.

Lillevold Construction. 15
Arctic one 7

Larry Poole and LeRoy Vigen matched three run home runs, but Poole's helped lead Lillevold Construction to a 15-7 Tuesday night triumph over a faltering Arctic one squad.

Gerald Grabowska was the game's winning pitcher while Marty Flashberger took the loss.

Professional Building . 15
Popplers 3

Professional Building snapped Popplers' one game winning streak by claiming a 15-3 decision Tuesday in a make-up game of an earlier rain-out.

Kent Smith's two run inside the park home run highlighted the Professional Building's offense.

Mike Stewart was credited with the pitching win.

Hydra Mac. 11
Kat Haus. 9

Hydra-Mac withstood a four run Kat Haus rally in the bottom of the seventh inning to claim an 11-9 Monday night win.

The Hydra-Mac squad held a slim 8-6 base hit advantage in the closely matched game. Kat Haus was hampered by six of the game's ten errors.

Bruce Steiger was the game's winning pitcher. Russ Delorme took the loss.

Country Kitchen 33
Jaycees 7

Country Kitchen pounded out 38 base hits to thrash the winless Jaycees 33-8.

Glen Nesland and Bob Bendickson paced the Country Kitchen offense as Nesland belted a pair of home runs and Bendickson collected six base hits in seven at-bats and scored six runs.

Dennis Bendickson benefitted from the Country Kitchen offense to gain the pitching win. Bob Duprey took the loss.

Arctic Raiders 9
Warehouse Foods 4

Tom Williams hit another home run Monday to help lift the unbeaten Arctic Raiders past Warehouse Foods 9-4.

The Raiders backed winning pitcher Brian Nelson with a 14 base hit attack.

Hamms-Pizza Hut . . . 17
Professional Building . . 5

Hamms-Pizza Hut batters slugged five home runs Monday enroute to a 17-5 decision over the Professional Building.

Dale Hanson belted three home runs to highlight the 15 hit Hamms-Pizza Hut offense. His three homers accounted for eight RBI's. Ken Lindquist and Rick Dicken also smashed home run balls over the fence for the winners.

Roger Ness limited Professional Building to just five base hits.

Legion Outlasts Elks By 18-11

Coach Rockey Wilson's Legion ball club out-slugged a scrappy Elks squad 18-11 Tuesday in second inter-city Thief River Falls baseball game played between the two squads.

The older Legion players claimed an early 7-4 win over the youthful Elks before racking up yesterday's slugfest, a game that was scheduled on the spur of the moment.

Elks batters opened a 3-1 first inning lead, but a big six-run second inning provided the Legion with a 7-3 edge. A 350 foot three-run home run over the centerfield fence by Cliff Shumway highlighted the Legion uprising.

The Legion led 10-5 in the third inning before the scoring rocketed to 13-10 for the Legion in the fourth. The Legion made it 15-10 in the sixth before finishing with an 18-11 advantage.

Wilson's Legion ball club, currently enjoying a 6-1 season record, will be back in action tomorrow (Thursday) at home against Warroad in a 7 p.m. game. Thief River Falls will also play a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Bemidji Saturday.

BILL DECKER (right) accepts a congratulatory handshake from Schmidts teammate Dean Lawrenz as he stpes across the plate after belting a dramatic two-out home run in the top of the seventh inning to give Schmidts a 1-1 tie against VFW in Tuesday's important fast pitch softball game. VFW won the game in the next inning, though, earning a 2-1 triumph.

Cynthia Brooks Takes Mankato Coaching Class

Cynthia Brooks, an elementary teacher in Thief River Falls, is one of 60 students attending courses at Mankato state college this summer to get her coaching certificate for girl's high school athletics.

Interscholastic competition for girls has become available under the Minnesota state high school league since 1971. Since that time, MSC has certified approximately 162 coaches for girl's sports.

Because of the shortage of certified coaches in Minnesota, MSC is offering a program where non-physical education graduates in education can take a combination of science, officiating, coaching and first aid courses and get a coaching certificate. Physical education majors must take injury care and coaching methods before they are certified.

Drees' VFW team came away a winner, though, by posting an exciting 2-1 decision in the key fast pitch softball game on the fairgrounds diamond.

TRF Men's Golf League Standings Are Announced

Standings in the Thief River Falls men's golf league were announced by league officials Tuesday as recent sunny summer weather enabled the league to make-up a large portion of early season rain postponements.

The top three teams in each of the league's three divisions after three weeks of competitive golfing was listed by league officials.

Miracle Water tops the Jones Division with a 432 team total, followed by Froseth Food Market and Midwest Vision Center tied at 440.

Modern Woodman leads the Vardon Division with a 439, followed by Elaine's 441 and the Elks 448.

KTRF radio heads the Quimet Division with a 425 total, followed by Dewey's Standard 456 and First Federal Savings and Loan 458.

The week's low individual gross score was turned in by Lee Sorensen who shot a 34. Dick Penning recorded a 35. Don Rubel posted the week's low individual net score with a 44-27. Ekeren Drug and Midwest Vision Center both shot 137 for the week's low team net score.

Wildlife Service Will Transplant 500 Alligators

An application to capture 500 American alligators in Louisiana and transplant 300 of them to Arkansas and the other 200 to Mississippi has been submitted by the national Audubon society, Lynn A. Greenwalt, director of Interior's fish and wildlife service announced.

The proposal has the support of fish and game authorities in all three states. The alligators will be collected at night in boats by hand and pole snares from two state refuge areas in Iberia and Cameron Prishes of Louisiana. Their snouts will be banded and they will be tagged, marked, and placed in moist burlap sacks for transporting. Fish and game authorities in the receiving states will handle the distribution of the alligators to areas where the species is to be reestablished.

The national Audubon society is proposing to carry out this transplant between July 1 and August 15.

Guns, a radio and a chain saw were among items stolen from the local Holiday station store during the past weekend, according to information from the Thief River Falls police department. Ed Walseth reported Monday that the store had been broken into and that these and other items were missing. However, a complete list of the stolen property and an estimate of the loss was not immediately available.

Two cars were stolen in Thief River Falls Friday night. Richard Hanson of 307½ East First street reported at 3:12 a.m. Saturday that his car had been stolen from the Valley 24 parking lot after 10:30 p.m. Friday. The vehicle was later found in a ditch along Greenwood street east of Highway 59. A car belonging to Pizza Hut was stolen from its parking place behind that establishment between 2:45 a.m. and 3:30 a.m. Saturday. The state highway patrol found the vehicle at 2:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon on a gravel road north of Brooks. An 18 inch square aluminum oven valued at $60 had been taken from the Pizza Hut car.

A driver is being sought after he fled from the scene of an accident early Saturday morning. Roy Jensen of 723 North State reported about 4:15 a.m. that a dark colored pickup with topper had broken a cement planter and damaged his fence. Damage was estimated at $60. The vehicle went west on Highway 1.

Mrs. Earl Johnson of 722 North Duluth was leaving the hospital parking lot about 7:30 a.m. yesterday (Tuesday) when her vehicle collided with a motorcycle traveling east on First street. The cyclist, Rodney Brustad of Route 1, was taken to Northwestern hospital with foot injuries. The Johnson vehicle sustained about $150 in damages with about $25 in damages to the cycle.

A 15 year old bicyclist riding on the sidewalk in the 100 block of East Third street struck a pedestrian Friday. The woman was not injured and the youth was reprimanded.

Wayne Rayppy of 241 North Markley reported Thursday that a tackle box and its contents valued at $100 had been stolen from the river bank near the dam.

Four incidents of vandalism were also reported during the past week. Russell Sherman of 118 south Conley avenue reported Wednesday that someone had caused about nine dollars in damage to his motorcycle. Ralph Dowers of 623 North Main reported Saturday that the spark plug wire, vacuum hose and coil wire were removed frm his car and the distributor cap was broken while the vehicle was parked at his home. Mrs. Betty Conners of 110 South Kneale reported Sunday that someone had cut the seat and tires of her son's bike while it was parked at the new arena. Social Security Monthly Benefit Increase Starts

Second part of a two-step increase in monthly social security benefits will be included in checks delivered July 3, according to William Phalen, manager of the Grand Forks, N.D. social security district.

The overall increase ill amount to 11 per cent for most people getting social security payments. A seven per cent increase was included in checks received in April. the increase will affect about 30 million people who get social security benefits. People getting checks don't have to do anything to get the higher payments. The increase will be automatic.

Phalen said that starting in July, average social security retirement payments will go from $161 to $181 a month. Average disability payments will go from $184 to $206. Average survivors payments to a widowed mother with two children in her care will go from $418 to $435.

For 1974 the amount of yearly earnings subject to social security tax has been increased from the first $10,800 to the first $13,200, but there is no increase in the contribution rate. Employees and employers will continue to pay 5.85 per cent each on covered earnings, and the rate for self-employed people drops to 7.9 per cent.

A CASE OF BALANCE

You don't have to be a scientist to realize that these tons of rocks are held in check by perfect balance. You wouldn't want to be sitting nearby if they weren't!

This kind of balance results in inertia. There is another state of being that results in sound initiative and worthwhile action.

You've heard men speak of a balanced background, a balanced education, a balanced life. They're usually referring to the fact that no important element has been ignored or neglected.

Religious sincerity is one necessity for this kind of balance. It cannot take the place of any of the other essentials. Nor can anything else take its place.

The Church is constantly helping us gain—and keep—our balance!

Money Expert Gives Views On Inflation

Inflation is not going to stop until people's expectations change, a money expert from the World Bank told a Minneapolis audience recently.

Irving S. Friedman told a group of about 75 people at a University of Minnesota conference tht traditional methods used to contol inflation are not working this time around because people's expectations are different.

"We raise interst rates and people borrow more," he said. "We have a recession, which we are having ow, and demand remains strong. That's not supposed to happen but it is happening because people are behaving in a way that reflects their expectation that prices will remain high."

Friedman, professor in residence for the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, told the group that the current inflationary trend did not just begin but has been building up since world War II.

"In the fifties and sixties, the U.S. had very low rates of inflation, even one or two years of no inflation and people began to think we had reached economic stability," Friedman said.

This more-or-less constant rate of inflation was accepted as a necessary trade-off for a period of "prosperity," Friedman said. "There was always an attempt to find a temporary cause, a drought, a Vietnam war, the oil crisis. Now there seems to be more of a willingness to realize that it is a persistent problem," he said.

Friedman said the inflationary trend is complicated by what he called "fantasy consumption."

"When incomes fall, do people expect their consumption to bo down? No, they just move over from private to public consumption," he said.

As an example, Friedman said that when a family can no longer afford to send their child to private school, they'll send him to public school. There is no decrease in consumption, but a change in the direction of consumption.

"You're not able to drive cars, so you get buses," he said. "What you're reallly talking about is an increase in consumption here, in better transportation facilities. The very process of inflation increases the kind of consumption you don't want."

And, Friedman said, fantasy consumption is encouraged by "excessive promises." "It's not that governments are making excessive promises," he said. "It's that cultures are making excessive promises. When Johnny and Mary were three years old, they were promised they'd go to college."

These kinds of cultural promises set the stage for what might be unreasonable expectations in the future, he said.

Friedman chided economists for thinking in traditional terms when looking for a solution. "The techniques that failed when inflation was at 5 per cent or 6 per cent are not the techniques that failed when inflation is at 10 per cent," he said.

"When you announce that you're going to have wage and price controls but you say that they're going to be temporary, you may as well not even do it," he said. The knowledge of the temporary nature of controls will simply postpone the eventuality, he added.

When those controls are lifted, "you'll get wage spurts and people pushing for cost-of-living escalators," he said.

"Let's get off the traditional track where the trade-off is between unemployment and prices," he said. "The fact that conventional thinking worked for us in the past is the very thing that's plaguing us now."

Friedman, who is the author of "Inflation: A Worldwide Disaster," explained that for the first time, inflation is of international scope.

"The interactions of countries reinforces their inflationary problems," he said. "With previous centuries, there was always some place outside of the inflated area where inflation didn't exist and you could take advantage of low prices somewhere else. Now that's no longer true."

According to Friedman, the population explosion and a new world ethic are the principal causes of increased consumption.

"Under the modern ethic, anyone born anywhere has some rights," he said. "The concern of society is with everybody. People have always starved in Mali, but now a government is supposed to find the ways and means to import enough grain to keep their people from starving. The international community is supposed to respond."

Whether or not governments attempt non-traditional approaches to solving the inflation phenomena, Friedman said, they will not succeed unless people change their expectations.

"Whatever governments do to succeed in inflation, the people expect them to fail," he said. Even if the rate of inflation decreases "people will still be making all their judgements on the basis that prices are going to go up again.

"To reach success we have to eliminate that inflationary expectation," he said.

Friedman appeared as part of a conference on inflation sponsored by the University's department of conference and World Affairs Center.

Decline In Gas Tax Revenue Cuts Employment

Up to $5.85 million in prospective income has been lost to breadwinners because of the decline in state gasoline tax revenues during the first quarter of 1974, state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard estimated recently. Net highway user fund revenues are down 8 per cent from the same period last year.

The state seven cents a gallon tax on motor fuel makes up about two-thirds of state highway user fund revenues used to pay for improvements on trunk highways, county state-aid highways and municipal state-aid streets.

"While an expansion of public works, like highway improvements, can create 'instant' employment," Lappegaard said, "the reverse is also true. A cutback in public works can create 'instant' and widespread unemployment."

The commissioner based his estimate of 'lost' income on a federal highway administration formula showing that every $1 million worth of highway improvements produces an average $131,100 in on-site and off-site employment, and another $199,500 in 'induced' employment. Induced employment means jobs created or maintained in areas of the economy that serve the construction industry and the consumer needs of those employed in them, he explained.

Under the federal formula, the decline in Minnesota gasoline tax revenues of $2.5 million during the first quarter of 1974 represents an initial loss in prospective wages and salaries here of $837,400. The loss is further compounded, however, because state Highway User revenues are used as matching funds on federal-aid highway works.

"Had the $2.5 million in lost revenue been used on non-Interstate federal-aid projects—as the state's 30 per cent share of matching funds required to qualify for federal payment of 70 per cent of the costs—an additional $5.9 million worth of highway improvements could have been made," Lappegaard explained. "That $5.9 million represents another $1.95 million in prospective income lost to breadwinners here."

Had the $2.5 million in lost revenues been used on remaining Interstate construction, where the federal-state matching funds ratio is 90 per cent—10 per cent, the effective loss in wages and salaries here would have reached $5.85 million.

Lappegaard noted that an additional $9 million in extended unemployment benefits was voted by Congress and the Legislature in March to help an anticipated 20,000 Minnesota unemployed who will have exhausted maximum unemployment benefits by June 30.

Asked what might be done to make up for the loss of state Highway User Fund revenues, Lappegaard said the most hopeful possibility is that the national administration would release federal-aid highway funds without requiring states to match them. Meeting in Washington last month, the national governors' conference asked the White House to suspend temporarily that requirement, in order to avert "a further depressing effect" on states' economies.

Public Invited To Give Service To Commission

U. S. consumer product safety commission has invited the public to notify the commission if they are interested in volunteering to participate in the development of mandatory safety standards.

The invitation is an aid to implementing the broad new procedures finalized recently by the commission fully implementing section 7 of the consumer product safety act.

Section 7 of the act governs commission development of mandatory safety standards for literally thousands of consumer products, including power lawn mowers, extension cords, swimming pool slides, matches and architectural glass.

In making the announcement, the commission said it will maintain a list of all persons and organizations that have expressed an interest in either being offerors—individuals or groups selected by the commission to develop standards—or in participating in the development of standards as an "interested party". Where appropriate, the commission may agree to contribute to the cost of the volunteer's participation.

All persons or organizations on the list will receive copies of federal register notices, news releases and other relevant materials regarding commission standards development activities in areas of their expressed interest.

The commission's action in maintaining the list is designed to broaden and encourage full public participation in standards development activities, whether voluntary or mandatory standards are involved.

According to the commission, making the list available should eliminate claims by some standards organizations that they always have welcomed consumer participation but were never able to locate interested, qualified persons who are willing to join in standards development activities.

Interested persons are invited to write the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207.. An indication of background, experience and interest would be welcomed to better enable standards development groups to select interested parties.

Thought For The Day

It's dangerous to read. What you always thought was true gets challenged.

A dangerous new book goes around shattering some stereotypes about the mentally retarded. "The Economics of Mental Retardation" is the heavy title of an insightful book authored by Ronald Conley.

A few highlights underscore how vital is the work of Thief River Falls' sheltered workshop, day activity center, vocational rehab counselors and the county association for retarded citizens:

—About 87 per cent of mildly retarded adult males are employed. That's only four per cent below adult males in general population.

—A mildly retarded male who entered the work force at age 18 in 1970 could expect lifetime earnings of over $600,000.

—One dollar spent in vocational rehabilitation and job placement of that same 18-year-old pays off in future earnings of $14.

—Putting a retarded person in an institution for life costs $400,000 for custodial care. Home care, group homes, vocational training and job placement help avoid institutionalization.

—An estimated 690,000 retarded adults are idle economically. About 400,000 of these could be gainfully employed if appropriate services in tandem were available.

One of my favorite teachers, one M. Luther by name, taught me that praying for daily bread meant that I had to pray and work for good communities and true friends and neighbors. Who'd have thought that included sheltered workshops, activity centers and voc rehab people?

—Rev. Paul R. Biegner

Change In Morals

So you want your youngster to have the advantages of a college education and to increase his or her social awareness and value to society. Sounds good, but have you taken a look lately at some of the opinions and ideas our colleges and universities are turning out? Increased "education" often results in a greater loss of personal and social values.

Consider the following editorial from the Christian Science Monitor:

A new survey taken by the Yankelovich organization for five major foundation shows a dramatic shift in American youths' attitudes in the brief timespan between 1969 and 1973.

Broadly speaking, the trend showed the adoption by noncollege youths of attitudes on sex, morals, religion, and politics that had surfaced earlier among college youths.

And again broadly speaking, the trend should prompt Americans to take a searching look at the basic principles and goals on which the culture's moral and social precepts are based, and to articulate these precepts afresh and more meaningfully. The survey found the following changes in reactions between 1969 and 1973 on key issues:

+Living a clean moral life is a very important value—a drop from 77 per cent to 57 per cent among noncollege youths holding this view, and from 45 per cent to 34 per cent among college youths.

+Belief that hard work always pays off—a decline from 79 per cent to 56 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 56 per cent to 44 per cent among college youths.

+Casual premarital sexual relations are morally wrong— a decline from 57 per cent to 34 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 34 per cent to 22 per cent among college youths.

+Patriotism is a very important value—a drop from 60 per cent to 40 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 38 per cent to 28 per cent among college youths.

+Religion is a very important value—a decline from 64 per cent to 42 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 38 per cent to 28 per cent among college youths.

An encouraging trend is that many youths want relief from stress on material goals: the percentage that "would welcome less emphasis on money" rose from 54 per cent to 75 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 73 per cent to 80 per cent among college youths. Also, more youths are taking an interest in political parties, and more affirm the basic health of American society.

A constructive way to view the results of the Yankelovich survey is to question whether they reflect changed attitudes on deeper moral and societal values per se, or a turning away from wht youth takes to be a hypocritical expression or only surface observance of moral values. There has been widespread disillusion over the basic moral integrity of institutions—government and campus not alone among them—raised by such divisive issues as the Vietnam war. The trend may in part reflect the trickling down of youth attitudes into the lower school grades during the years of campus unrest. And with college students today showing less alienation from established society, there may be some rebound from the survey's finding of widespread rejection of longheld values.

Nonetheless, the stark shift in attitudes on sex, morals, family, religion in a brief four-year span, now encompassing the noncollege majority as well as the college minority, indicates either a youth adrift or searching for a new expression of values and morality, or both.

The full Yankelovich study will be released in book form this fall. It is the fifth and most comprehensive in a series of Yankelovich youth studies. An earlier one showed a surprising similarity in attitudes held by business executives and college youths.

Of course, one does not determine what values and morals should be by opinion survey. But neither does one close the gap between those who hold for stricter moral terms and those who seek a "freer morality," by condemning the gap itself. The challenge stands for clearer perception and expression of the basic spiritual and ethical truths that should underpin society's standards.

The Great Ripoff?

"If you are under 45, social security is a waste of your money."

That is the statement by Paul Harvey in a recent copyrighted column for General Features corporation. "Before we let the government buy our medical insurance, let's see how much we're paying for this government retirement pension."

He points out that private retirement insurance over the past 20 years has increased in cost about 66 per cent. Taxes paid for social security during that time have increased 800 per cent! Furthermore, the taxes went up three times faster than the benefits.

When reporter Warren Shore fed the figures into his newspaper's computer, he discovered that a person may pay in as much as $14,602 in social security taxes and not be eligible to collect anything. It is not true that a taxpayer's social security deduction is being set aside for his or her retirment.

"Thereis no money in the social security kitty," Harvey writes. "Just a collection of IOUs which our children and their children must make good. If any private insurance company ran its business the way the federal government runs the social security insurance business its accounts would be dissolved by court order and its executives jailed for fraud."

Peter Somers, University of California economist, calls social security "the biggest single roadblock to the security of the Amerian wage earner."

Intended to help the low-income worker who may not be able to provide for his own retirement, social security actually pays maximum benefits to those who can afford not to work and reduces benefits for those who must continue working.

Cost of social security has increased at 10 times the rate of the cost of living. And Prof. Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago computes that on the private market you could buy the same amount of retirement insurance for one-third the price.

We have been paying social security taxes for some 20 years now in incresingly larger amounts as the rates and limits have been raised. And since there is no choice in the matter we cling to the hope that somehow there will be some type of return at the end of the line. Most people who look toward a secure retirment are looking for their own, not somebody else's.

And yet the bureaucrats and politicians go blissfully on robbing from the future to pay current bills with no assurance that the future income will be there.

"Chicago Today" newspaper called social security "the great rip-off" in a banner headline recently. If what the economists project is anywhere close to accurate, the headline may be most appropriate.

Camelot Destroyed

Liberated womanhood possesses a surprising twist which its feminist leaders may not have anticipated—for as their roles expand in society, it is predicted that more women will subsequently go to prison.

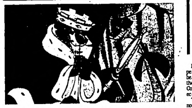
A definite trend toward equal penalties for equal crimes, with more and longer jail sentences for women resulting, is noted by Ms. Carolyn A. Handy, a staff worker in the Women's Rights Program of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Apparently the days of Camelot and damsels in distress are past. Now that the "fairer sex" is also sallying forth in search of their quota of dragons, they must suffer the full consequences, without expecting favoritism, should they run afoul the lord of the manor.

Borrowed Nonsense

Mother to son, "Why don't you go out and play with the ball you found?"

Son, "I'm afraid I might meet the kid I found it from."



Perfect Fit—Almost...With the help of his spread out ears, usurper Prince John, an overly ambitious lion, is able to master the wearing of his brother, King Richard's crown assisted by his slippery snake counselor, Sir Hiss, while Richard is off fighting the Third Crusade, in this scene from Walt Disney Productions' animated cartoon feature, "Robin Hood." Buena Vista releases. Starts Sunday, June 30th at the Satellite Drive in Theatre.

Steve McQueen and Dustin Hoffman are fellow convicts imprisoned at French Guiana in "Papillon," now playing at the Galaxy Twin Theatre.

notes from the governor

For the past several years a personal highlight of Minnesota's beautiful Spring season has been the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry (MACI) economic development tour.

The purpose of the MACI tour, now in its fifth year, is to acquaint Twin Cities businessmen and press with the enormous investment potential of outstate Minnesota.

In the course of two days last week, some 30 executives of leading Minnesota corporations, several reporters, Economic Development Commissioner James Heltzer and I visited 12 communities in the central and northeastern part of the state.

The trip was fascinating. Among other things, we found out that our All-America City, St. Cloud, is the optical lens capital of the nation; we learned that McGregor, a small town that could have died, now has more job prospects than it has inhabitants; we participated in an authentic Voyageur's baptism ceremony at a reconstructed fur trading post near Pine City, and we witnessed first-hand the dramatic impact that a progressive and civic-minded company, Blandin Paper, has had on Grand Rapids.

The tour took us first to Elk River and headquarters of United Power Association, a 14-member electrical distribution cooperative that serves a large section of outstate Minnesota.

Next came St. Cloud and visits to the Vision-East Corporation and the Granite City's new and attractive downtown mall. After St. Cloud we drove to Little Falls and the Charles A. Lindbergh Interpretive Center; to Crosby and the big Scorpion, Inc., snowmobile plant; to McGregor and its ATEC plant, which manufactures hot and room-temperature food dispensing machines; to the year-around facilities of Quadna Mountain Lodge near Hill City, and to Grand Rapids and the Blandin Paper Co. plant.

The following day we traveled along northeastern Minnesota's fabled Iron Range and toured the giant United States Steel Minntac mine and taconite processing plant near Mountain Iron, where a $200 million expansion is scheduled to begin this month. After a visit to Cloquet, the tour ended with a stop at Connor's fur trading post near Pine City and the initiation of MACI's president Charles Nyberg, Commissioner Heltzer and I as modern-day Voyageurs.

One of the highlights of the tour was the emphasis placed on production of timber and timber products, a key and growing industry in northern Minnesota. Five of the communities we visited rely heavily upon paper mills for employment and economic prosperity.

Our hosts in each community were local chambers of commerce or similar groups. They, MACI and MACI's Jim Faber, a one-man gang at arranging the two-day event, are to be highly commended for their efforts to stimulate investment in our many outstanding communities outside the Twin Cities area.

GRYGLA...

Thursday, June 20, was a warm and sunny day when the Senior Citizens met at the Center. I wasn't feeling quite up to par, so I went there late. It was nice just to sit and watch the others at work. The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

One Nation under God—is what we say in our pledge to the flag. Pious people might say, "Isn't that nice?", or "At least we have a Christian Nation." About 2,000 years ago the Roman currency did not say "One Nation under God." It was a pagan Empire, ruling the world with ruthless use of power. Non Romans had no human rights, no trails or justice, no freedom outside of what Rome let them have.

One might say this is as would be expected. After all it was not a Christian country. I wonder what a visitor from outer space would consider good enough to qualify as a Nation under God? The observance and celebration of Easter was a big holiday. This is good, but if we just counted numbers alone, we would agree that majority ignored Easter. The simple weight of numbers makes us realize our dominant culture is not Christian.

Our news headlines for almost any day are not a reflection of a people under God. There seems to be no scramble in seeking after righteousness. The news is a daily recitation of murder, hate, violence, intrigue and fear.

I noted on April 9, 1974 the headlines dealt with war in the Mideast. This is a war that was supposed to have ended. The hate continues. The lack of trust, the fear of invasion, the greed for more land keeps the pot boiling in this "Holy Land."

The headlines mentioned the lack of trust in our President. It seems somebody wants more evidence and the truth is apparently hard to find. The headline about the labor union official who is on trial for killing a rival and his family does nothing for good labor relations. Where in this sordid act is the concern for the ordinary worker? President Kennedy's brother fears assassination and possibly will not run for this reason. What kind of political rivalry is so important that murder has to be a part of it?

If reading the newspaper tells us anything, it should impress us with the wickedness of man. If looking at the ads for the movies tells us anything, it should make us understand that by nature our culture is not one of holiness.

The evidence is overwhelming that human nature is not exactly sunshine and love. In this kind of a world, the story of Holy Week, the Passion of Christ and the joy of Easter become extremely relevant.

The fear of our leaders is reflected in their frantic efforts to reform our society. Plans to improve health care indicate an apparent need for reform. Plans to increase welfare indicate an apparent need to help the poor. Fear of a recession is reflected by plans to lower interest rates and increase the money supply. Frantic efforts in the wage-price war indicate a desire to change or reform our way of life. Reforms are nothing new, but they do not make people better.

A change of attitude is what we need. Man needs regeneration, not reform and this is what Easter is all about. Are we a nation under God? We can be only if we want it that way.

Congress is trying to "cop out" again! For 38 of the last 40 years a Democrat controlled Congress has been spending more money than there is to spend. For many of these same years, President Eisenhower and President Nixon have put their veto on wild spending bills. Each time this same irresponsible Congress has condemned the executive for doing it.

In the last few years this same Congress has voted spending that was not needed for many programs. Many were obsolete and obviously not doing what they were supposed to do. When President Nixon impounded the funds, they put up a howl and went to the liberal courts which started more deficit spending all over again. Now Congress wants to "cop out" on its duty in the matter of impeachment.

The storm clouds have gathered over the White House. The liberal press is continuing to call for resignation. Now even conservative newspapers are doing the same. In our own midwest, such a usually loyal supporter as Mark Andrews is quoted as "wanting his ouster." This is politically expedient, but to me it is a "cop out."

Often a surgeon finds that certain decisions are not easy. Sometimes it would be the easy way out to remove an ailing part. Sometimes the patient demands a quick surgical excision as the solution. To save a diseased organ can be low and wearisome to both the patient and doctor, but it is for the best, and in the long run the patient is grateful.

So it is with our country. We want a quick solution. We have heard enough about Watergate and it seems the easy thing to browbeat public opinion into demanding resignation. This will solve nothing. It will leave questions without answers. To go through the agony of impeachment and the bother of a formal trial might be painful, but it is absolutely necessary. By the time this article is published, Mr. Nixon may have already resigned, but I still do not think he should do so.

Just because he has made decisions we don't like and just because his enemies hate him is not reason enough for him to quit. This is even more true when his friends desert him. The whole matter of government by law is at stake.

If we can raise a hue and cry loud enough and long enough to make a President resign because he is accused of breaking the law, then it can be done to anyone. The President has just as much right to his day in court as we do and it is a matter of personal honor for everyone in Congress to see that he gets a fair trail..

Public opinion has always been important, but in this case it should not make the difference. Congress is the constitutional body that must make this decision and no one else. I have read some of the tapes and it doesn't make me any happier than anyone else, but the issue is not what we might think about the tapes. The issue is whether Mr. Nixon will get a decent trial without making a circus out of it. Government by law should be available to the accused whether he is an ordinary citizen or a President.

Home Improvement
For Older Houses: Foam Insulation

GULL LAKE SIDING CO.
Tenstrike, Minn.

Siding And Insulation Go Hand In Hand

THE seriousness of the current energy crisis makes it imperative that every homeowner do everything possible to conserve fuel and avoid wasting heat—and the most effective weapon in this battle is adequate insulation in all walls and ceilings (under the roof) of the house.

Although much has been written on this page, as well as in other publications, about the various methods for installing adequate insulation in new construction, or adding it to existing homes, few homeowners are aware of a plastic insulating foam that is ideal for insulating existing enclosed walls, floors and other cavity spaces where fiberglass blankets or batts cannot be used.

Until recently, the only means open to the homeowner of an older house that had no insulation in the walls (or that had inadequate insulation) was to call in a contractor who would blow in loose mineral wool or fiberglass through holes cut in the outside sheathing or brick work. Unfortunately, loose fill has a tendency to pack down or settle as time goes on—thus leaving large uninsulated voids in vertical walls through which heat can readily escape in the winter (or enter in the summer). This does not happen with a plastic insulating foam; it does not settle, once in place it stays exactly the same volume and thus retains its original insulating effectiveness.

Actually, foam insulation is not new—various forms have been around for many years and have been widely used in commercial and industrial applications. The most widely known types are the expanding urethane foams (these expand inside open cavities as they are applied). Unfortunately, this expanding quality has also posed problems when used in buildings. As the foam expands after being pumped in it also tends to build up pressure, and in some cases this pressure had caused walls or other structural materials to buckle. In addition, and far more of a drawback to its use in residential construction, urethane foam will burn and some forms give off noxious gases when heated. For this reason many local building codes forbid its use.

However, there is a type of plastic foam available which overcomes these limitations—a urea-formaldehyde formulation which was first developed in Germany, and which is now widely available to homeowners in this country and Canada under the brand name of Rapco Foam.

Distributed in this country by the Rapperswill Corporation, 305 East 40th Street, New York, NY 10016, the foam has a consistency of shaving cream and is injected or pumped into walls or other building cavities with special "guns" by franchised contractor-installers who are equipped to do this work. It is pumped in through small holes bored in the outside (as small as one inch) and, unlike most other foams, will not expand to any appreciable degree once in place.

Unlike blowing in mineral wool or fiberglass, foam flows into all cavities and fills all crevices inside the wall and under, around or over pipes, wires, electrical outlets, braces or other obstructions. This means that it closes up many cold air leaks and small sources of heat loss (called infiltration losses), which in some poorly built homes can account for as much as 30 per cent of the heat lost through the walls.

This type of urea-formaldehyde foam does cost more than blown in mineral wool, but tests indicate that in addition to its previously described advantages of not settling and of filling in crevices to stop infiltration losses, it is also more efficient than mineral wool—for every dollar saved on fuel bills by a wall insulated with blown-in mineral wool, $1.50 will be saved by one filled with Rapco-Foam. Thus the cost of installation (anywhere from $500 to $900 for a moderate size private home) will be more than repaid in fuel savings within a few years—especially if the home is also air-conditioned.

Currently this foam is also being used in many areas for new construction, as well as for filling old walls, and it is particularly popular for insulating mobile homes where its high efficiency and low density (about 0.7 pounds per cubic foot) make it ideal because of the space problems encountered in these units. It can be pumped inside cavities of block walls or brick-faced walls, as well as between open studs, and since it sets in less than one minute work can proceed without interruption.

Because tests indicate that it will not burn in temperatures of up to 1,208 degrees, it passes all non-combustible requirements of building codes in cities such as New York. When temperatures do go higher than this the foam will decompose but even then no noxious gases or fumes will be created—a problem with many other foams. In addition, the foam is not harmed, or its long-term efficiency lowered by dampness or moisture since it absorbs very little water. There is also one other fringe benefit when it is used to insulate the walls of older homes—it creates an environment in which rodents and insects cannot live and often is a big help in driving out these pests and keeping them out.

New VA Program On GI Bills And Checks Started

Veterans Administration in Minnesota has started a new program to ensure prompt delivery of GI Bill education and training checks.

Leo A Bodde, acting director, VA Center, Fort Snelling, announced recently that his office and 57 other VA regional offices in the nation have been directed by Donald E. Johnson, administrator of veterans affairs, to start recruiting and training programs for 1,327 VA "men on campus" representatives who will personally distribute GI student checks and serve as agency liaison personnel in contacts with colleges and veteran-students.

Bodde said that in Minnesota, the VA will hire 14 special representatives for the new program covering 66 college and university campuses in the state.

He said the program, which was announced by the President on May 31, will involve expenditures of about $2 million in the current fiscal year ending June 30, and more than $24 million in the next fiscal year. He said that the program was developed by a crack managment team of VA and Office of Managment and Budget officials in response to a Presidential directive last March 31.

Minnesota VA director said the new "vet-reps" will be available in August to college campuses in advance of the heavy fall enrollment. Most of them are expected to be Vietnam veterans, either drawn from the 22,000 Vietnam-era veterans now employed by the VA nationally or recruited from outside the agency.

The on campus vet-reps will deliver advance payment checks—covering the first two months' payments to veteran-students when they first enroll—and they will assist with the administrative work needed to insure that subsequent checks are delivered to addresses supplied by students.

Formerly, veterans had to make a special request for advance payment. Now, all applications for education benefits will be treated as requests for advance payment. Checks will be sent to the VA man on campus who will get correct addresses for veterans at the time the first checks are delivered.

The vet-rep will serve as an expert on veterans affairs throughout the school year, trouble-shooting the paper processing between the veteran, the school and the VA regional office. His duties will include cooperation with campus veterans organizations and the schools' own offices of veterans affairs. Information on new laws and rules will be funneled through him and he will be available as a consultant to university officials and faculties.

Bodde said that plans developed by the managment team include a number of additonal administrative change in education payments. Among them is a relaxing of computer bars that stopped checks when either the school or the veteran failed to supply stipulated information.

Information requirements have also been reduced. Rather than have enrollment certified frequently, each student will be enrolled for the duration of his program. A beginning student, for example, will be enrolled for a two-or-four-year period. This will eliminate the multiple interruptions and continuous VA award actions required under the old system that had to combine timely information from the veteran, the school and the VA before a check could be processed, he said.

Contributing to check delay problems during the current school year was a heavier than expected veteran enrollment, and the first-time application of new legislation providing payments in advance rather than after the completion of a month's training.

Administrator Johnson said the new program is intended to "completely eliminate" causes for complaint. But recognizing that some complaints are inevitable in the payment of 13 million educational checks a year, he added that the new system "would provide much earlier recognition and resolution of any out-of-line situations."

Some people believed that thunder was caused by horses' hooves.

New Converter To Make Debut On 1975 Cars

To meet the 1975 federal exhaust emission standards, the car manufacturers individually decided that the most practical way was to use the much talked about catalytic converter. About 75 to 80 per cent of the new models are expected to be equipped with the device.

Resembling a car's muffler in appearance, this new piece of hardware is connected to the exhaust system. It's purpose is to further reduce the amount of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide in the car's exhaust.

Inside the converter is a catalyst—a substance that speeds up a chemical reaction without itself being affected. The catalyst used in this case is a combination of platinum and palladium metals which are coated on small beads or a honeycomb structure, depending on the type used. When the exhaust gas passes over the beads or through the honeycomb, a chemical reaction occurs that causes the hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide to combine with air or oxygen and form water and car on dioxide.

The catalyst is coated on the beads or honeycomb to increase the surface area that is exposed to the exhaust gases. The surface area of pellets contained in a six and one-half inch square box is equal to more than 59 football fields.

Government regulations require that the catalyst be designed to function for 50,000 miles or five years before it "wears out." When it does need replacing, the catalyst material can be removed from the converter and new material inserted. It will not be necessary under normal conditions, to replace the entire catalytic converter. The catalyst material can be replaced without removing the converter.

Crucial to the life of the catalyst is the use of unleaded fuel, since lead will destroy its effectiveness. Most 1975 model cars will be equipped with a smaller gas tank filler neck to accommodate smaller-sized service station fuel pump nozzles used to dispense the unleaded fuel. This will help insure use of the correct fuel and contribute toward cleaner air.
